As Far as He's Concerned

LBJ CLAMPS LID ON BAKER CASE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson Saturday put the lid on further White House discussion of the Bobby Baker case and brushed aside Republican criticism of his acceptance of an expensive hi-fi set from the former Senate aide as something he has learned to endure.

"I have said what I'm going to say," he declared at another of his impromptu news conferences. He had been asked to comment on the Senate investigation of the outside business interests of Robert G. Baker, former Senate Democratic secretary.

The President's name cropped up in the Senate Rules Committee hearing when Don Reynolds, a local insurance dealer, testified that he had sent Johnson a $580 stereo set at Baker's behest in 1959.

The President volunteered earlier in the week that he had believed it to be a gift from Baker. Noting that he and his former Senate protege often had exchanged gifts, Johnson had said Baker "was asking for nothing and, so far as I knew, expected nothing."

Republicans, including Sen. Barry Goldwater, have contended that Johnson, who then was Senate majority leader, should have questioned seriously the fact that Baker was giving him such an extravagant gift.

Saturday, Johnson declined to reply to specific criticism, but he remarked:

"I have learned to expect Republican criticism." He observed wryly that he had "endured it for 32 years" and "I get amused by it once in a while."

As a parting shot, the President said such criticism seemed to be "a kind of hallmark" of the Republican Party.

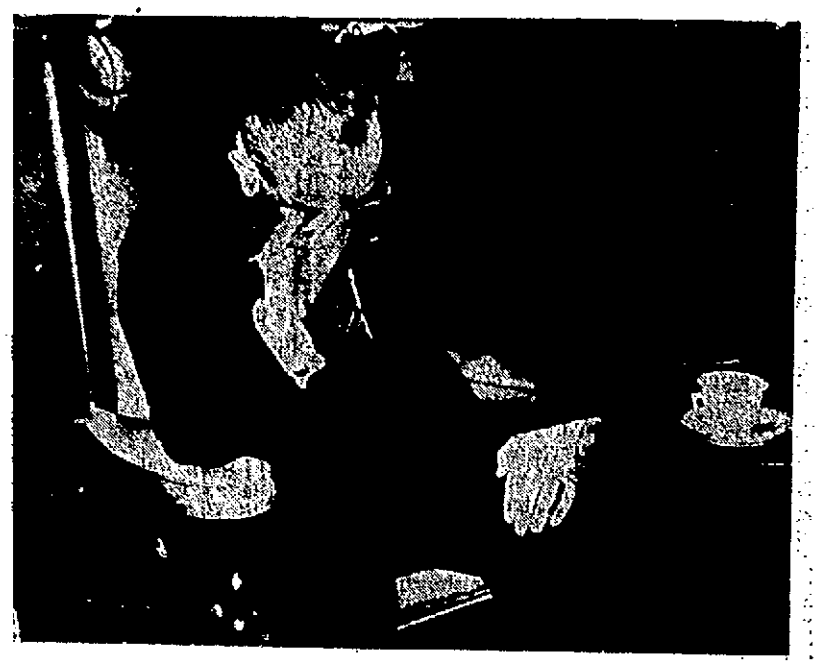

Asked about the overall question of ethics involved in Baker's lucrative private business dealings while serving as a Senate official, the President commented: "That is a matter the Senate is working on."

Without amplification, he said he got "a little amused when they talk about a stereo and a miniature TV — I don't know what that is."

At the hastily summoned meeting with about 20 newsmen, Johnson also:

—Said he thinks there is "a good deal of concern throughout the world"

Negroes Fight Ku Klux Klan in Atlanta Clash

ATLANTA (UPI)—Negro civil rights demonstrators and white segregationists, including some Ku Klux Klansmen, clashed briefly Saturday night in a pushing, shoving and bareknuckle brawl in downtown Atlanta.

About 35 whites and Negroes tangled while milling around outside a downtown motel. A Negro police lieutenant said there was a "terrific amount of pushing and shoving" and other eyewitnesses said some fistfighting occurred.

* * * *

POLICE moved in immediately to break up the mounting scuffle that erupted during a tense evening of racial demonstrations between Klansmen and young Negroes.

One nightclub-restaurant was integrated, but a Klan spokesman warned if the civil rights demonstrators entered the restaurant again, "We'll go down and demonstrate, too."

The demonstration took place before Leb's Restaurant, integrated by five Negroes, and Leb's Downtown Motel. The scuffle erupted in front of the motel, then the demonstrators moved back to Leb's Restaurant, the focal point of the demonstration earlier in the night.

The scuffle that saw the whites and Negroes shove, push and exchange a few blows lasted about one minute before police broke it up.

* * * *

THE EVENING'S demonstration of jeering Negroes and Klansmen, some robed and others in white plastic helmets and red armbands —members of a "security patrol" — took place while city officials hosted a United Nations group in town for the weekend to examine Atlanta's racial situation.

Satellite Sighted Over L.B.

A glittering new manmade star — the balloon-satellite Echo 2—twice transited the Long Beach sky Saturday night while circling the globe.

Passing overhead at 6:09 and 7:58 p.m., the satellite, 135 feet in diameter, appeared here as a slow-moving, star-like object. Echo 2 also crossed at 3:48 and 5:36 this morning.

* * * *

POPPING open in space some 800 miles above South Africa Saturday morning the balloon became the largest artificial moonlet ever launched and was expected to be seen by more people than any other object ever made by man.

It was sent up from California's Vandenberg Air Force Base.

The United States and Russia have agreed to try to bounce radio signals off its reflective aluminum-foil skin in the first joint experiment in communications via space between the two powers. A date for the first tests has not been set.

THE HUGE BALLOON was carried aloft folded in a 30x40-inch pod in the nose of a Thor-Agena B booster at 5:50 a.m.

Parley Set on Phone Walkout

The Federal Mediation Service announced Saturday the scheduling of a Feb. 1 meeting in Washington between the president of General Telephone and Electronics Corp., parent firm of General Telephone Co. of California, and the president of the striking Communications Workers of America in an attempt to break the 100-day-old work stoppage.

William R. Simkin, director of the mediation service, in a wire to officials of the company and union, said, "The public interest demands that the parties exhaust every means available to reach a prompt and equitable settlement of this dispute."

The move by Simkin came on the heels of an announcement Thursday by federal mediator E. Marvin Sconyer that he was suspending all local mediation sessions. Sconyer said he hadn't been able to make any progress.

DONOR REVEALED

Heart From Chimpanzee Transplanted Into Man

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The heart of a large chimpanzee was used in the first known heart transplant into a human being at the University of Mississippi Medical Center last week, it was revealed Saturday.

A team of surgeons at the center here carried out the trail-blazing operation Thursday night but the organ failed within an hour because it was too small for the human recipient.

The center, in disclosing the operation Friday, never revealed where the heart came from. It was disclosed Saturday by a hospital spokesman that a large chimpanzee's heart was used.

* * * *

A HOSPITAL spokesman said the heart was transplanted into a man dying of terminal heart failure.

The spokesman said the plan was to transplant a human heart from a human donor, dead of brain damage, but the clinical course of the two patients did not coincide.

The recipient, who was not identified, went into collapse and the surgical team used the heart of the chimpanzee, kept in reserve for this purpose, the spokesman said.

Chimpanzee kidneys have been transplanted into humans in operations elsewhere.

Dr. James D. Hardy, head of the Department of Surgery, was the chief surgeon on the 11-man team which performed the three-hour operation.

HE WAS in charge of the team which performed the first successful lung transplant at the medical center last June. Hardy has been in charge of surgery since the center opened in 1955.

Others on the team were: Dr. W. A. Neely, associate professor of surgery; Drs. Fred Kurrus, Carlos Chavez and Robert Williams, surgery residents; Dr. Leonard W. Fabian, professor of anesthesiology; Dr. Milton York, assistant professor of anesthesiology; Thaddeus B. Labecki, clinical professor of medicine, cardiology consultant; Dr. M. Don Turner, physiologist; Helen Carr, heart-lung pump technician; Joyce Caracci and Ruby Nell Winters, suture nurses.

Spain May Build Ships for Castro

MADRID (AP)—Spain sent one of its top naval constructors to Havana Saturday and reliable sources said his trip was to close a deal to build freighters and fishing ships for the Castro regime.

The deal would mark a major assist in Prime Minister Castro's efforts to shake off the effects of the U.S. economic boycott. It follows the recent British sale to Cuba of buses, a move strongly opposed by the United States.

Magin Ferrer, head of the technical and commercial division of Spanish Naval Constructors, flew to Havana on a Spanish airliner due to arrive today.

La Gazeta del Norte, the leading newspaper in Bilbao, said the Spanish government has approved construction of ships for Cuba worth $30 million.

State Demo Chiefs Evade Engle Stand

By BOB HOUSER
I-P-T Political Editor

State Democratic officials Saturday opened the party's U.S. Senate nomination to all comers, at the same time declining to "pass judgment" on incumbent Clair Engle's medical status.

State Democratic Chairman Eugene L. Wyman read to newsmen a 158-word statement composed in an hour-long, closed-door meeting of the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee in the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles.

Wyman and other party leaders had given Engle an ultimatum Jan. 10 to disclose fully his medical condition by Saturday's meeting. The senator's physician, Dr. Roy L. Sexton, gave assurances Wednesday that Engle could campaign and serve but it was not the full disclosure that party leaders had requested.

But Saturday's committee action abandoned the demand for further medical evidence of Engle's recovery from his Aug. 24 brain surgery and, referring to Dr. Sexton's assurances, noted:

"It is not the executive committee's function to pass judgment on this in-

WHOLE TOWN GREETS JACK'S GIRL FRIEND--LUCY JOHNSON

MAIDEN ROCK, Wis. (AP)—Maiden Rock turned out nearly all its 188 citizens Saturday to welcome President Johnson's younger daughter to the hometown of her boyfriend, Jack Olson.

Lucy Baines Johnson, 16, accepted a bouquet of roses and merchants' gifts from Village President Henry Lark, shook hands and chatted with the smiling townspeople.

"We're so glad to see you here," Lark told the attractive brunette as she stood on the steps of the First National Bank building with Olson and his mother, Mrs. Howard C. Olson.

"Thank you, thank you, I appreciate it very much," Lucy replied.

A banner hanging across the street and twisted by a chill wind carried the message, "Welcome, Lucy, to Maiden Rock."

Lark, 64, a carpenter, patted Miss Johnson on the shoulder and they posed for pictures with the Olsons.

Townspeople laughed and shouted comments as they crowded around the bank steps.

"She's cute," commented one youngster.

"I'll never wash this hand again," said another who had just shaken hands with the President's daughter.

The President's daughter met a Maiden Rock resident with a similar name—Mrs. Lucy Benita Johnson, a housewife who commented, "She's a real nice little girl."

Lucy and Jack drove here, with their ever-present Secret Service escort, to enjoy a ham dinner with Jack's parents and his six brothers and sisters.

The young couple is spending the weekend at Rochester, Minn., with Dr. and Mrs. James Cain, longtime friends of the Johnson family. Maiden Rock is about 50 miles away, just across the Mississippi River in Wisconsin.

L.A.C. Says:

Wonderful--If We Can Pay For It

Our welfare state program is already costing almost as much as our defense program. Since 1950 it has increased from $13 billion a year to $44 billion and it is going up annually. It is a wonderful program which gives old age pensions—unemployment insurance and numerous other benefits. But it is reaching a point where the spiraling increases are endangering the programs and the nation's economy.

An idea of these increases is shown by the cost of Social Security alone. The S.S. tax on payrolls started at one per cent for each worker and employer on the first $3,000 income—that meant $60 a year total. Today this total tax is 7.25 per cent on the first $4,800. It goes up in 1966 and to 9.25 per cent by 1968. If the medical care for the aged program is added, it will come close to 10 per cent of each payroll up to $5,200 a year. That will mean over $500 a year tax on each $5,200 a year pay check.

But Social Security accounts for only about a third of the welfare bills for the nation. The cost of unemployment insurance—pensions for the military—government and railroad workers runs into billions of dollars a year. Welfare payments to families cost California counties almost half of the taxes they collect from property owners.

An idea of the attitude of some relief administrators was given in New York City where legalized bookmaking is demanded by Mayor Wagner. It would make it easy to bet on the races in city booking offices. The administrator was asked whether it would be all right for welfare recipients to use relief payments to bet on the horses. His reply was—the law does not stipulate what they do with their money—he continued: "I do not believe in the double standard—if the wealthy can wager the same right goes to those who are not wealthy."

The welfare programs got their big impetus in 1933 when the New Deal started them. In the depth of depression in 1935 the cost was about $3 billion—when unemployment was three times the present percentage. Then, year after year, it was extended with added benefits until today we find old age pensions under Social Security endangered. The reserve is far below what is needed for safety. It is apparent future generations must pay much higher taxes if those covered now are to receive what is promised them.

A comparison is shown in that, while we are spending $44 billion on welfare, we are spending half that amount on our total school budgets. It is apparent both of these programs are going to increase year by year. School costs will increase because of our high birth rate and better pay for teachers and more elaborate buildings. The welfare program costs will increase because legislators continually promise greater benefits for the constituents who have come to expect and demand them.

These are programs that bring about socialism. That would be acceptable if it had ever worked—in any country or in history. But, wherever it has been tried—as at present in Russia—it has resulted in stagnation of the productive capacity of the nation. This is now being proven by the failure of Russia's state-owned and directed farm program. It may be said Russia is a dictatorship which is true but where government controls all the activities of a nation, dictatorship is natural.

This is why the United States must restrict its welfare programs to essential things the people cannot provide for themselves. We must encourage people to provide more for their old age, rather than calling for ever greater benefits from government. We need to insist that welfare recipients work for what they get if physically able to do so. These are among our greatest increases in welfare costs. We are reaching a point where our people cannot afford the continued increase in costs of these programs.—L.A.C.

Wilmington Youth Shot

A Wilmington high school student was rushed to Harbor General Hospital in critical condition Saturday when he was accidentally shot in the face at the home of a friend who was showing him a revolver, Harbor Division police reported.

The victim, David Otis, 16, of 117½ E. N St., was struck when a .38-caliber revolver held by Wayman Reynolds, 19, of 917½ Banning Blvd., fired while he was removing it from a drawer, said Det. Sgt. Wayne Butts.

The gun was acquired the day before by Reynold's father, John, as collateral for a loan, Butts said.

Panamanian Talk Rules Said Near

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Panama were reported Saturday night close to agreement on a formula to resume diplomatic relations and begin talks aimed at resolving differences over the Panama Canal.

The formula would call for talks "without any limitations" on U. S.-Panama disputes, beginning 15 days after diplomatic relations are restored.

It was embodied in a draft communique agreed on by U. S. and Panamanian negotiators here and submitted to the two governments for study, informed sources said.

* * * *

NEGOTIATORS met for more than six hours Saturday with the Inter-American Peace Committee appointed by the Organization of American States, then adjourned to consult their governments. They planned to meet again this morning.

Panama broke relations with the United States eight days ago, after an earlier accord collapsed in a dispute over whether the United States had agreed to "negotiate" changes in the Canal Zone treaty or merely to "discuss" differences.

Negotiators apparently took extreme care in writing the communique this time to be sure that both sides interpreted it the same way. At one point, they sent out for an unabridged dictionary.

* * * *

THEY AGREED to include both the words "negotiate" and "discuss" in the new agreement.

President Johnson earlier expressed cautious optimism about the outcome of the talks.

The last stumbling block in Saturday's talks was understood to have been Panama's insistence that the agreement say ambassadors of the two parties would meet to "negotiate in good faith and without delay new conventions relative to the Panama Canal which may substitute for the existing agreements."

Meeting Today Ends Assembly of Witnesses

Jehovah's Witnesses conclude their Southern California Circuit Assembly today in the Municipal Auditorium with a public meeting and address at 3 p.m. by the Western coordinator, Theodore Jaracz.

Jaracz will speak on "The Bible Triumphs in a Scientific World."

There have been 2,000 delegates on hand since Friday, going into all phases of work.

"The primary objective of the assembly was to equip our people better to feed Jehovah's sheep," Irvin Johnson, local chairman, said Saturday.

City Still Seeks Park-Plan Help

Long Beach will make another effort to get outside governmental help in the development of the 470-acre section of El Dorado Park east of the San Gabriel River.

Acting on directions of the City Council, City Manager John R. Mansell broached the subject last week in letters to official agencies of the state, Los Angeles and Orange counties and the city of Lakewood.

Whatever the outcome, the city administration will not accept earlier suggestions from Los Angeles County officials for development of a regional golf course in the area.

* * * *

MANSELL said his staff dropped earlier discussions with the County Park and Recreation Department because of the latter's insistence on a golf course as a condition for county aid.

Councilmen directed that the new attempt be broadened to include Orange County and Lakewood because many residents of those areas will be served by a developed park. State aid is regarded as only a remote possibility.

* * * *

THE COUNCIL has so far refused to place the park development on the agenda for budget discussions next June or July. But some councilmen, among them James A. Hayes and Raymond C. Kealer, are predicting it will come up just the same when the budget-making reaches the subject of public improvements.

Councilman Robert F. Crow estimated that an outlay of $4 million to $6 million will be necessary for development according to the master plan approved by the council in 1957.

Other officials, not yet ready to be quoted for the record, said they will support the submission of a bond-issue proposition if alternate sources of financing fail.

* * * *

CITY HALL attention is being focused on the long-delayed park development because of dozens of letters in recent months from community organizations urging that the improvement plan be activated.

Among the groups sparking the campaign are the Community Welfare Council and Parent-Teacher organizations.

Almost without exception, they have advocated adherence to the woodland type of development envisioned in the 1957 plan. This type of improvement would open the way for camp activities, a nature-study center, picnic areas and similar facilities. It would exclude a golf course or a baseball stadium.

* * * *

A $450,000 allotment for El Dorado Park East was included in the original allocation of the $29,219,000 bond funds approved in 1956. Subsequently the council transferred the $450,000 to expedite development of El Dorado West, including the new golf course there.

The only parklike improvement in the easterly expanse of park land, extending from the so-called butt end of the Shotgun Strip south of Carson Street to the junction of Coyote Creek and the San Gabriel River, is the 30-acre city tree farm.

City Manager Mansell said he hopes an improvement plan will be formulated on a scale and schedule to place the idle land in condition for public use "within the next few years, not by some future generation."

Masseuse Tied, Robbed of $60

A gunman who tied the owner of Jean's Massage Studio, 525 E. Pacific Coast Hwy, with adhesive tape escaped carrying about $60 in cash Saturday afternoon.

The victim, Jean M. Travine, 28, said the robber drew a gun from his belt and ordered her into a room at the rear of the studio, taped her hands behind her back and fastened them to her ankles.

She broke loose and ran to the street for help shortly after the bandit took the money from a cash drawer and left.

Saucer Will Probe Depths Off Coast

By LOU JOBST

Scientists plan to ride a French-built underwater saucer to the bottom of the sea off Southern California.

They'll be diving in a 7,000-pound dish-shaped submersible designed and built by Jacques-Yves Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung and world-renowned undersea adventurer and explorer.

The bright yellow two-man deep-diving machine —leased by Westinghouse Corp. at a cost of $2,000 a day—winged into Los Alamitos Naval Air Station from Marseilles, France, Friday aboard a giant MATS C124 cargo plane and was transferred to a marine research ship, Surf Tide, at Long Beach Harbor.

Making the 6,000-mile flight were three of Cousteau's celebrated oceanauts including stocky, dark-eyed Albert Falco, pilot of the craft. He has taken it down to 1,000-feet.

Falco was one of seven men including the 53-year-old Cousteau who spent a month last year living in an underwater village at the bottom of the Red Sea.

* * * *

THE MUCH PUBLICIZED feat earned the nickname of "homo aquaticus," or "fish men," for Cousteau and his crew.

During the five-week Southern California sojourn of the saucer, the Cousteau men will assist the Americans in surface and subsurface operations of the craft.

Tom Horton of Westinghouse's Underseas division said the 10-foot-diameter dish, named the Denise for the shipbuilder's wife, will make about 60 dives here.

The Denise, equipped with elaborate electronic equipment, cameras, powerful floodlamps and a mechanical arm, will be operated, successively, by the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, Westinghouse and the U.S. Navy.

All of the programmed dives will be made on the Continental Shelf with at least one to 1,000 feet planned. This will be a look at the bottom of the so-called Scripps Submarine Canyon north of Point Loma.

* * * *

THE SAUCER ALSO WILL be on display during Gov. Brown's international Conference on California and the World Ocean Friday and Saturday at the Los Angeles Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park.

Among those who will present papers to the conference are Cousteau; Dr. Edward Wenk, one of President Johnson's science advisors; Dr. H. J. Dunster, official of the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority; Dr. Hiroshi Kasahara, fisheries and oceanography project officer for the United Nations Special Fund; Dr. Francis Christy, officer of Resources For Future, Inc.; and several other eminent authorities on the ocean sciences.

The conference—called the "greatest concentration of oceanographic brains in western U.S. history"—will take up a wide range of subjects including world fishing rights, offshore oil exploration, seaside location of nuclear power plants and seawater conversion.

* * * *

THE COUSTEAU SAUCER, christened and launched in 1959 and a veteran of more than 120 dives, is really two dish-shaped sections of ¾-inch steel fastened together and covered with a cowling.

Demise dives and rises by adding and jettisoning ballast which is composed of 510 pounds of metal weights and 270 pounds of mercury. In a dire emergency about 200 pounds of batteries which are used to power the saucer's hydrojet drive and electronic paraphernalia can also be dropped.

There are two water jets installed on each side of the bug-eyed face of the contraption. These jets can be moved in full 360-degree arcs, providing the saucer with up-and-down and lateral movement. Point the nozzles down and the saucer rises, vice versa and it dives.

There are two close-set portholes in the face for observation. The pilot and observer lie behind these on foam rubber mats. They wear bathing suits in warm water excursions and coveralls in dives to cold depths.

Emergency escape gear carried inside the saucer include aqualungs, lifejackets and an inflatable life raft.

The divers figure they can leave the saucer via a topside hatch, if trapped on the bottom, by raising the air pressure inside the craft to a point equalling the water pressure outside. Such a technique is pure theory, however.

Denise has had a number of close calls and Falco once had to jettision the craft's 400-pound emergency weight to pull free of the bottom and pass up through a layer of dense cold water in a dive in the Mediterranean.

Unmanned tests have shown the Cousteau saucer, capable of 1½ knots submerged, can operate "safely" at depths up to 3,300 feet.

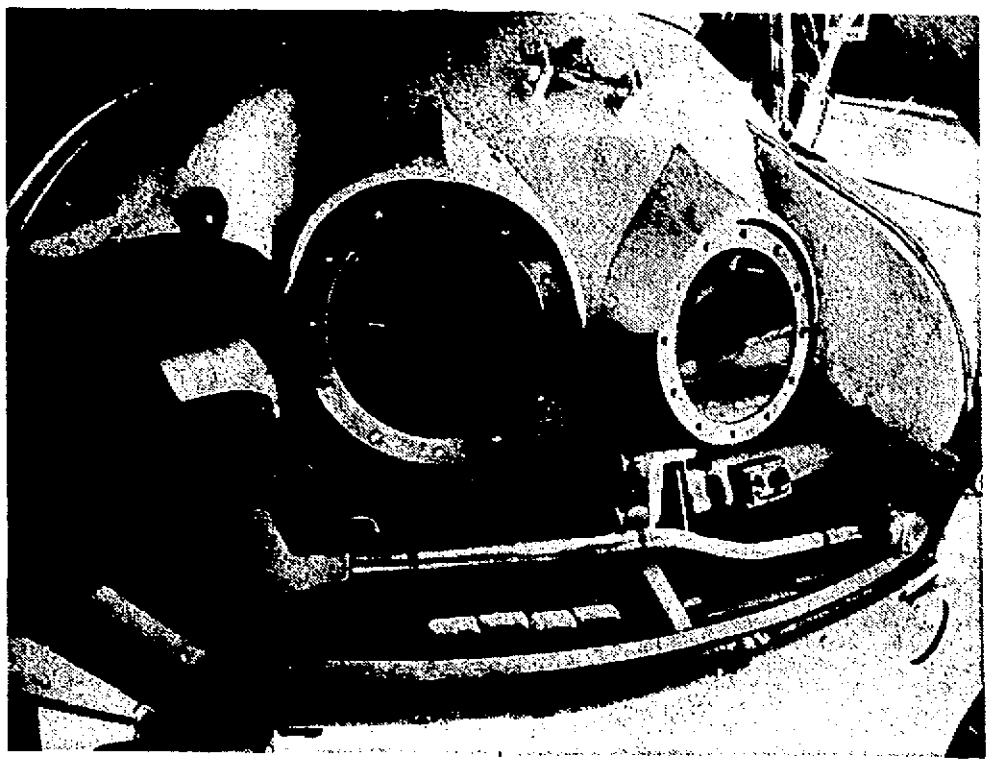

The French submersible is the prototype for a larger research submarine being built by Westinghouse Corp. Known as the Deepstar, the $500,000 Westinghouse craft will be 17 feet in diameter and capable of carrying three men to depths of 12,000 feet.

It is due to be completed this fall.

Glenn Minard of 5430 Walton St., Long Beach, a retired Navy diver who worked on the super-secret Polaris missile program, is expected to become a pilot of the Deepstar. Minard is in charge of surface operations and logistics aboard the Surf Tide.

"This is really a new concept in scientific research," said one project scientist.

"This proves that we have an invaluable ocean research and exploration tool which can be transported and put into operation anywhere in the world in a matter of a few hours."

Kennedy Continues Talks With British

LONDON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy visited the grave of his sister in northern England Saturday, then prepared to resume talks with British officials on his Malaysia peace mission.

In talks set for today, the brother of the late President was expected to try to convince British leaders of his belief that President Sukarno of Indonesia will live up to a cease-fire in the jungle isle of Borneo.

* * * *

KENNEDY will be a luncheon guest at Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's official country residence at Chequers. Also there will be Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler, Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

The 38-year-old attorney general arrived in London Friday after reaching the cease-fire agreement with Sukarno during a whirlwind week of negotiation in Asia.

The cease-fire becomes effective in nine days. By then the foreign ministers of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines will be ready to get together for a conference to end the Malaysian-Indonesian dispute.

* * * *

THE BRITISH, whose troops are defending the Malaysian border, still are skeptical of Sukarno's promises.

Kennedy has no intention of raising the possibility of the withdrawal of British troops.

2 in Cabin Succumb to Smoke

BIG BEAR CITY (AP) — A high school honor student and her grandmother died, apparently from asphyxiation, early Saturday in their mountain cabin.

Sheriff's deputies said Lorraine Gaertner, 17, and Mrs. Zella Mae Leacock, 81, apparently succumbed from smoke which filled the cabin from smoldering clothing.

The clothing was ignited by an electric heater, said deputies. Windows of the cabin were closed tightly against the cold mountain night.

* * * *

A NEIGHBOR discovered the bodies in the smoke-filled cabin.

Sheriff's Deputy Jack H. Cox said the victims were mother and daughter of Mrs. Helen Gaertner, who telephoned from Indiana a short time after the bodies were discovered.

Mrs. Gaertner phoned to tell the woman that a relative she had been nursing in Indiana had just died, said Cox. He informed her of the women's deaths.

PARENTS PRAISE NEW PIANO PLAN

Prompted by the enthusiastic response of parents to the new "Lessons only" piano plan the studios of "the MUSI-CAL" announced today that the plan will be extended until their supply of spinet pianos runs out.

Simply stated, the plan is this: you pay for the lessons; the piano is free. This plan and the high quality of instruction at "the MUSI-CAL" has added many young pianists to the Long Beach scene in recent months. Interested parties should call "the MUSI-CAL" as soon as possible. The remaining pianos will be sent out on a first-come-first-served basis.

SIGHTED IN AREA

Subs May Freight Arms to Viet Reds

CA MAU, South Viet Nam (AP)—Officials are studying reports here that Communist submarines have been sighted six or seven times in the past few weeks off the southern tip of Viet Nam.

The reports have come from peasants in the area, and officials are not discounting the possibility that the sightings may only have been whales or large fish. But according to some reports, lights were seen on the objects just before they submerged.

Communist - made arms, ammunition and supplies have been reaching Viet Cong guerrillas in this area in large quantities in recent months, and it is speculated some of these supplies must be coming by sea.

The southern tip of Viet Nam is mostly ringed by dense mangrove swamps and forests, and is almost impossible to patrol effectively. Almost all the area is controlled by the Viet Cong, making government patrols more difficult and dangerous.

South Viet Nam's coasts are guarded by modern patrol and landing craft, and a fleet of several thousand armed junks. Government patrol boats check all suspect vessels near the coasts.

L.B. PATHOLOGISTS' SPACE-AGE WONDERLAND

New Clinical Lab Fantastic

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Something new has been added at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach: a spacious wonderland of glass, plastics, electronic gear and automated instruments, all designed to explore medical science's "inner world."

Hard by the nation's first space-age hospital at 2801 Atlantic Ave., this fascinating complex of scientific equipment is housed in a new four-level annex that cost $600,000 to build and equip. It's Memorial's new clinical laboratory, and it's the largest facility of its kind west of the Rocky Mountains.

It is dedicated to modern pathology's concept that pathology's main concern today is the cure of disease and the prolongation of life rather than the old approach of merely determining the reason for a life's ending.

The pathologist's challenge today is to keep abreast of the dynamic changes produced by disease in the living body. His main task is to report and interpret his findings to the patient's physician. Thus the pathologist is known as the doctor's doctor.

* * * *

IN DESIGNING and equipping this new lab, the doctors' doctors at Memorial have pulled out all the stops.

Memorial's new department of pathology features a myriad of precision instruments. A sea of glass instruments immediately meets the eye. You see also arrays of microscopes (28 in all), incubators, shaking devices, cameras, refrigerated tissue-cutters, centrifuges, analyzers, electronic balances capable of weighing to one ten-thousandth of a gram and the ever-present test tube (Memorial uses 5,000 a day).

Although automation is very much in evidence, the lab still swarms with skilled white-uniformed medical technologists and white-coated physicians.

There are eight medical doctors — four pathologists and four pathology residents —as well as two scientists with Ph. D. degrees. Other personnel include 35 medical technologists, three laboratory technicians, five laboratory aides, 10 student medical technologists, two blood-bank - certification students, four medical stenographers, one medical secretary and six clerks.

* * * *

IT IS THE realm of medicine's elite science, the place of the "final diagnosis."

Right now 1,000 medical tests are being performed here daily, but, on demand, that number could be doubled, according to Dr. Elmer R. Jennings, director of laboratories for Memorial.

Here, chemistry is not just a room behind a sign, "Chemistry." In Memorial you'll find signs such as "General Chemistry," "Developmental Chemistry," "Special Chemistry."

In Developmental Chemistry, scientists are hard at work developing improved methods of laboratory medicine. Here, too, medical residents and medical technology students receive special training. Typical device in Developmental Chemistry is an automatic recording instrument called the spectrophotometer. One of its uses is to determine the blood level of barbiturates in cases of barbituate poisoning.

In Special Chemistry, there is a device to analyze hormones, those powerful internal secretions in the body that regulate various organs. An instrument called the fluorometer measures fluorescent materials in blood or urine to give the physician special information.

* * * *

GENERAL CHEMISTRY seems anything but general. There's special equipment here, too — space-age gear.

TECHNOLOGISTS in blood laboratory study specimens on three of Memorial's 28 microscopes.

Example: the dual auto analyzer, which can handle 40 blood samples an hour to determine concentrations of sugar and urea, the latter a substance that tells how efficiently the kidneys are functioning. The technologist puts in the samples, starts the instrument, returns one hour later to read the results.

There's also the fibrometer, which measures prothrombin, a factor involved in the blood's clotting mechanism; the total protein meter, which measures proteins in the blood; the flame auto analyzer, which shows the content of important chemical elements in body fluids.

It's a pushbutton world here. Distilled water isn't hand-poured from plastic bottles. Rather it comes steaming through 10 tin-lined pipes from a master tank.

On another level in the 20,000-square-foot building is the Blood Department. Here a superdeepfree unit (minus 121° F.) preserves plasma and other blood components. Cold? Well, the standard household freezer drops only to minus 4° F.

A large walk-in refrigerator houses the hospital's blood supplies. Even the centrifuge used here is refrigerated.

* * * *

THE REVOLUTIONARY new process known as plasmapheresis now is commonplace in Memorial's lab. Blood is extracted from donors, certain components are removed, and then the donor's red cells are returned to him within the hour. Significance: a donor can give blood more often than hitherto possible.

A blood-donor room, with specially designed reclining contour chairs, is a new feature of the lab. It will be open evenings to accommodate donors who work days.

Automated devices count red cells and white cells with amazing accuracy.

A special lab has been set up to perform studies dealing with bloodclotting, a factor of utmost importance in coronary disease, stroke and blood disorders such as hemophilia.

From 175 to 200 blood specimens are drawn daily for tests at Memorial.

* * * *

ONE OF THE most outstanding features of the new lab is the new Microbiology Department, with special divisions for the study of bacteria, fungi, parasites and viruses.

The virus section, to be known as the James K. Wood Virology Laboratory, is the only one of its kind in Long Beach. Technologists here will attempt to identify viruses, a herculean task since more and more viruses are being linked with diseases.

In the virus lab is a special freezer for specimens. Its temperature drops as low as minus 94° F.

Work desks in the bacteriology section have special out-draft vents to draw micro-organisms away from the worker in an effort to prevent contamination and possible infection.

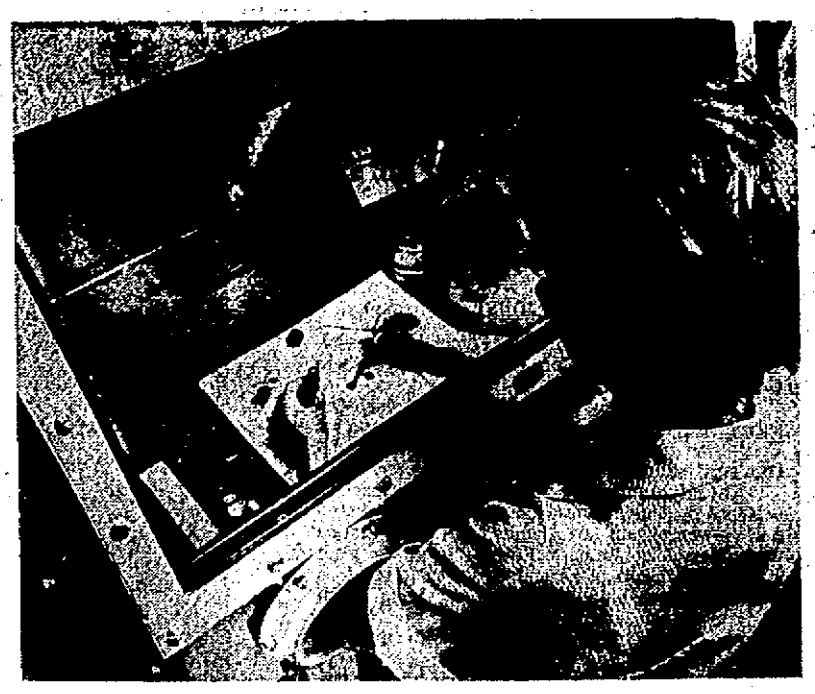

In the tissue-study areas are two cryostats, refrigerated devices in which tissue specimens are thinly sliced for microscopic study. Microscopes line the room. Nine dictating instruments are scattered throughout the area to record the reports of examiners.

* * * *

THERE ARE the other usual departments found in a pathology lab: histology, involving the staining of thin tissue slices for microscopic study; cystology, for the examination of smears of body fluids for abnormal cells, helpful in the diagnosis of certain cancers; urinalysis, the chemical and microscopic examination of urine; immunology, involving the detection of antibodies in blood plasma to identify certain diseases, and the admitting laboratory, which accommodates new patients as they check into the hospital.

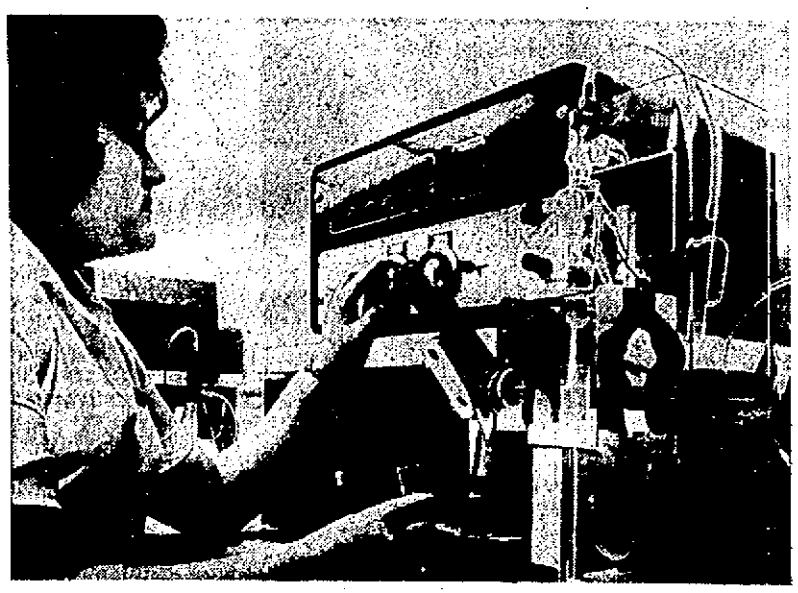

The science of pathology stems from the studies of Rudolph Virchow, a German physician, in the middle of the 19th century, and Louis Pasteur, at the end of that century. The first pathology lab in the United States was established in New York City less than 100 years ago—in 1878 at Bellevue Hospital Medical College by William Henry Welch, who studied under Virchow's pupil, Julius Cohnheim of Breslau.

Virchow, Pasteur, Cohnheim, Welch — if they saw Memorial's new lab today, they wouldn't recognize the place.

Rusk Holds Talks With Japanese

Rusk arrived here Saturday at the head of an 18-member U.S. delegation that included Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers.

The purpose of the trip was the Third Annual Japanese-American Trade and Economic Conference, but today's session between Rusk and Ohira emphasized the importance to both countries of President Charles de Gaulle's announced intention to establish diplomatic ties with the Peking regime.

* * * *

DISCUSSION of the French action was not on the publicly announced agenda.

The economic-trade conference was not scheduled to start until Monday.

Rusk had been en route to Tokyo for the conference last November when news of the assassination of President Kennedy reached his plane over the Pacific Ocean. The jet turned back to Washington.

The secretary of state and his delegation arrived here Saturday and he hailed Japan as "a strong and virgorous member of the free world."

* * * *

OHIRO greeted the Americans at Tokyo Airport and told Rusk, "The world now seems to be coming to a turning point, both politically and economically.

"Standing as our two countries do in the moving tide of world developments, we, both Japan and the United States, need to make renewed efforts for the peace of the world and the welfare of mankind.

"We confidently expect that the present meeting will, as did the two previous ones, mark another step forward in the strengthening of the already close relationships between Japan and the United States."

* * * *

RUSK TOLD Ohira that President Johnson had taken over leadership of the United States "with a steady hand and a clear mind." He thanked the Japanese people for their expressions of sympathy over Kennedy's death, calling them "a great comfort and strength to all of us Americans."

PRESIDENT GREETS NEWLYWEDS

about the decision of the French to grant diplomatic recognition to Red China. He acknowledged that the question was "a matter for the French government" but said the United States has made its concern known to French President Charles de Gaulle. Johnson declined to go into details on the U.S. views.

—Expressed belief that the differences of opinion that brought on the crisis between the United States and Panama can be "reasoned out." He voiced hope the Panamanian government will resume diplomatic relations quickly so discussions can begin.

—Reported he feels that Congress has done "a pretty good job." He is hoping for Senate action on the $11.5-billion tax-cut bill and House passage of the civil-rights bill before Congress takes a break Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12.

—Announced he will meet with Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and other congressional critics of the foreign-aid program to get "constructive opinions on how it can be improved."

—Left it entirely to the Senate preparedness subcommittee to decide whether to hold a full-scale investigation of U.S. missile preparedness, as demanded by Goldwater.

Said his administration is "hoping and praying and working very hard" in its efforts to work out differences with the Soviet Union over disarmament. Johnson had been asked if there could be a compromise with the Kremlin on his propusal to restrict the spread of nuclear weapons.

—Observe that the United States has made "very clear" opposition to the recent $11-million sale of British buses to Communist Premier Fidel Castro's Cuba.

—Announced that he has assigned the rank of ambassador to Teodoro Moscoso while he serves as U. S representative on the Inter-American Economic and Social Council of the Organization of American States.

Johnson closed the door on his further discussing the Baker case as the Senate Rules Committee announced that it would resume hearings Tuesday. Special Counsel L. P. McLendon said that Max H. Karl, president of a midwestern mortgage-insurance firm involved with Baker, would be the witness.

In another development, Sen. Frank Church, whose name was mentioned in the Baker inquiry, declared that he has never been involved "in any way whatsoever" in the business or financial transactions of the former senate official.

LBJ Adds to Nuptial Confusion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson took time off from the White House Saturday to wish a bride well —and add more commotion to a wedding party.

Johnson attended the reception following the wedding of Barbara Boggs, daughter of Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, to Dr. Paul Sigmund Jr., associate professor of political science at Princeton.

The President arrived late at Boggs' Maryland home, but made his way to the receiving line and was applauded as he went through, complimenting pretty girls and kissing newswomen. He murmured something to the bride, but she did not say what the message was.

* * * *

IN INFORMAL remarks to the reception guests later, Johnson said his own marriage has been happy and added, "I hope Barbara and her young man will find it the same way."

The couple was married at a 12:30 p.m. ceremony at the Shrine of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

formation or to determine who should nor should not declare for public office . . . We believe that within the spirit of the democratic process the public should appraise the qualification of any and all candidates who shall seek the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate."

Although the state committee is forbidden by law to take sides in primary contests, a statement of unequivocal satisfation with Engle's recovery might have deterred other aspirants. One Engle campaigner was dissatisfied, complaining that the committee had failed to close ranks behind Engle.

* * * *

BUT MRS. Edna Weisbart, special consultant to Engle, representing him at the committee meeting while he and Mrs. Engle are on a "sun and sand" vacation of undisclosed locale, expressed favorable reaction to the statement and to a committee resolution praying for his swift and full recovery.

Mrs. Weisbart said she did not construe the statement as an invitation for others to enter the race against Engle.

Although Wyman said he would reveal no details of what happened in the closed-door meeting, Mrs. Weisbart said there was no talk in the meeting of withholding support from the senator.

* * * *

SHE ADDED that Engle now is walking without a cane, is getting more feeling in his heretofore paralyzed right hand, has improved notably in the past two weeks, has all his mental faculties and there is every reason to believe he will attend the California Democratic Council state convention Feb. 21-23 in the Long Beach Arena.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, who will announce his decision on entering the Senate race by Feb. 15, said he felt the committee had taken "a sound position. Final judgment on the qualifications, both as to ability and physical resources will be made by the electorate."

* * * *

BEFORE THE committee statement, Rep. James Roosevelt told newsmen he intends to be a candidate but will not decide irrevocably until mid February. He said his own appraisal of Engle's condition would be a factor in the decision but that he will campaign only on qualifications for the office and will not attack any other Democrat.

State Controller Alan Cranston, also considering the run, acknowledged that the decision would be "tough and delicate."

* * * *

OTHER prospective entrants include Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson and Assemblyman William B. Rumford, not present at the Saturday affair. Dewey Anderson, 66, an assemblyman in the mid-30s, has declared his candidacy.

U.S. Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of the late President, gave the main address before 2,000 Democrats divided into two Biltmore dining areas. He said Kennedys intend to stay in public life as long as there is a job to do.

* * * *

PART OF the job, he said, is achievement of the late President's principles and programs "and eradication of the hate and extremism that took him away."

He said California is important not only because of electoral size but to show the nation that the West "is not the stronghold of reaction but of progress; not the home of extremism but of common sense."

NASA spokesmen announced later that the launch was "almost right on the button." Echo 2 achieved an apogee (high point in orbit) of 816 state miles, a perigee (low point) of 642 miles, an orbital period of 109 minutes for each complete lap around the earth.

Hi Mom

With top hat, white tie, and tails, Momma penguin hatches a plot at Marineland designed to egg on the penguin population. Momma sits on the problem for 64 days while Poppa goes out to bring home the smelt. After three score and four days a new flapper comes forth to add to the population. In the past six years, 42 of these Humboldt penguins have been hatched at Marineland.

2 Marines Shot; 3 Sailors Booked

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Two Camp Pendleton Marines, defending a comrade-in-arms, were shot in the chest in a brawl Saturday in front of a nightclub, police said.

Listed in satisfactory condition at Balboa Naval Hospital after surgery were Cpl. Arthur C. Manzano, 24, attached to the 1st Tank Battalion, and Pvt. Clyde J. Martinelli, 31, of the 1st Marine Division.

Three sailors were arrested after the 12:45 a.m. shooting in the 1200 block of Fourth Avenue and booked on suspicion of assault with intent to cause great bodily harm.

POLICE LT. William Schenck identified the suspects as Rosito Mota Mojica, 24; Jose Gonzales Magpayo Jr., 26, and Restituto Legaspy Domingo, 25.

"We still don't know who shot Manzano and Martinelli," Schenck said. "The three suspects are believed to have been involved in the fight."

Police were investigating to determine if more persons were involved.

Witnesses said the brawl started over an unidentified woman.

Lance Cpl. John Winch of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot had stepped into an argument on the side of a woman when one of the three suspects told him to stay out of it, Schenck said. Winch was hit in the face, knocked down and pummeled.

* * * *

MANZANO and Martinelli drove by in a car, stopped and went to his aid, he said.

Witnesses told police after the shots the suspects fled in different directions.

A private patrolman at the Blue Note Night Club, Charles Ogier, pursued and brought back Magpayo to the scene where he was arrested. The other two were caught by police.

Mojica is a third class steward stationed aboard the guided missile destroyer Buchanan. Magpayo and Domingo are seamen assigned to squadrons at Miramar Naval Air Station.

New Savings Bond Shows JFK Portrait

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The treasury will issue a new U.S. Savings Bond beginning May 1 bearing a portrait of the late President John F. Kennedy, the White House announced Saturday.

The "Series E" bond will be sold for $56.25 and will have a maturity value of $75.

Under Kennedy's picture will be this inscription from his inaugural address: "Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

The new bond will bring to eight the number of series E bond denominations, ranging from $25 to $10,000.

Red Buttons to Wed Buyer

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Red Buttons and Alicia Pratt Pagan, a buyer, took out a marriage license Saturday and said they plan to be married here onday.

The 44-year-old Buttons, who won an Academy Award in 1957 for his supporting role in "Sayonara," and his wife of 12 years, Helayne, were divorced last January. They had no children.

Miss Pagan's previous marriage ended in divorce in 1953. She is 36.

Giant Solid-Fuel Rocket Motor Successful in Test on Ground

COYOTE, Calif. (AP) — A rocket with one million pounds of thrust — world's largest solid propellant motor — was test fired in place for nearly two minutes Saturday.

Anchored nose down at United Technology Center's test site in the Diablo Mountains, the five-segment rocket stood 75 feet tall and weighed 250 tons.

* * * *

THE FIRING was a complete success, company and air force officials said.

From above, the exhaust of the rocket "looked like the mouth of Hades," said Ernest K. Bennett, Associated Press cameraman who viewed the test from a helicopter.

"The sky was overcast and the area quite dark," Bennett said, "but the plume of flame from the rocket brilliantly lighted the surrounding green hills.

"The flame, a bright yellowish orange, stood probably 100 feet high in an apparently solid mass. Above it rose a tower of white smoke.

"From the helicopter we could see many deer fleeing the area, apparently frightened by the roaring of the rocket.

"It was a truly magnificent spectacle."

* * * *

THE FIRST static firing of the huge motor—heavier than three diesel locomotives — was conducted last July 20. Another is scheduled at Coyote within two months. After that, static firings will be made at Edwards Air Force Base, United Technology spokesmen said.

When two of the rockets provide lift-off thrust of more than 2 million pounds for the Air Force Titan III-C standard space launch vehicle, it will help hurl a payload of up to 25,000 pounds into orbit. Flight tests of the Titan III-C are scheduled for 1965 at Cape Kennedy.

Saturday's test demonstrated the way the rocket's steering control system will work in flight by deflecting the exhaust stream as a reactive fluid if fed into the exhaust nozzle.

Belgian Doctors Set Nationwide Strike

BRUSSELS (AP)—Thousands of Belgian doctors Saturday threatened to strike if the government refuses to withdraw its new health-insurance program.

STATE TESTS AND INSPECTION ADVOCATED

Diving Expert Urges Safety Law

By JACK BALDWIN

"A diver experiencing narcosis—the rapture of the deep—in the company of other divers can be as dangerous to other people as a drunk driver on the freeway."

Such is the claim of underwater expert Lt. Commander Garland Suggs, ex-Navy "hard hat" master diver — three times decorated and commended 27 times, for his work below the surface.

Suggs, a "mustang" who rose from "boot" to top his 30-year Navy career as the captain of a diving and salvage vessel, wants the state to pass laws to protect the SCUBA diver as well as the commercial "hard hats."

* * * *

THE FORMER master diver says he knows of what he speaks because on several occasions he had heard the rap of death's knuckles against his own steel helmet.

The former commanding officer of the USS Mender, now living in retirement at 3841 Clark Ave., says the state should step in to enforce safety regulations concerning divers and their equipment.

"The state could enforce safety regulations for diving operations just as it does for dry-cleaning establishments, elevators, or automobile traffic," the ex-deep sea-diving authority claims.

* * * *

"FOR INSTANCE, I believe every skin diver should take a pressure-test dive at a simulated depth of 100 to 150 feet before he is permitted to make an ocean dive," says Suggs, for five years chief instructor at the Navy's diving school in Washington, D.C.

"Such a test dive would expose the diver to the danger of narcosis. A diver suffering narcosis acts just like he was drunk. On the ocean floor, 100 or more feet down, is no place for a diver to get 'drunk'," says the diving expert.

Supporting his contention is the victim of a first and near-fatal dive to 50 feet off Catalina last January by a 36-year-old Norwalk man, Mike Rodriquez of 14815 Domart Avenue.

From his bed at the Little Company of Mary Hospital, Rodriquez told reporters he should not have been allowed to descend so deep on his first dive. Rodriquez, in company with two other SCUBA divers, ran out of air 50 feet down. Due to insufficient training in emergency procedures Rodriquez panicked during a "buddy breathing" rescue attempt and nearly cost the lives of himself and his two companions.

* * * *

IN URGING the state to take a hand in preventing diving accidents, Cmdr. Suggs basis his opinion on more than 2,500 hours spent beneath the surface. On seven occasions Suggs has been summoned to testify in court as an expert witness.

When the USS Squalus sank in 1939 in 242 feet of water the Navy divers made 650 dives with only one minor accident," Cmdr. Suggs claims. "This remarkable record was achieved only because the men were expertly trained and the equipment was in excellent condition."

* * * *

SUGGS SAYS that, while he does not expect civilian divers to receive training as extensive as the Navy's program nor be able to work with as modern equipment as does the Navy, he does feel the state has a "right" to step in to regulate divers and their equipment because an ill-equipped or improperly trained diver can endanger the lives of other divers.

"There are laws against drunk driving. There should be and can be laws against 'drunk diving'," claims Suggs.

Inspection by qualified state officials of equipment, diving schools, the divers themselves, instructors, and diving-gear tenders would reduce the number of deaths due to needless underwater mishaps, Cmdr. Suggs asserts.

* * * *

"MANY neophyte divers think that if they just don't go very deep they won't get in trouble. I had a boy die in my arms from air embolism coming up from only 14 feet down," the commander related.

Suggs, now 60, and with his white hair clipped as flat as a shoulder board, was one of the first 11 men in 1929 designated as master divers by the Navy. He is one of few divers to descend to 500 feet in the experimental testing of a helium-oxygen mixture used by divers working at great depths.

Los Alamitos Drive for Recall Begins

A Los Alamitos citizens' group announced Saturday it will begin circulating a petition for recall of three city councilmen this week.

At the same time, the group—known as Citizens for Fair Zoning Committee—disclosed the names of council candidates they will support against the trio should they gain enough signatures on the petitions.

Candidates are August B. LaBourdette, a planning commissioner; William S. Brown, former city councilman, and M. R. Rasmussen, volunteer fireman who works in Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Joe Hyde, committee chairman, said the group is entitled by law to begin circulating the petitions Thursday.

* * * *

"BUT OUR main drive for signatures will come next Saturday and Sunday," he said, "when we hope to have from 20 to 30 persons going from house to house."

The citizens' group must gain signatures of 25 percent of the 1,419 registered voters in Los Alamitos to put the recall issue on the ballot in April.

The group has served the three incumbents with notices of intent to circulate the petition, received their answers to the charges and Thursday published a legal notice of the proposed recall of Los Alamitos Councilmen Tim G. Pool, Clyde Byous and Eme R. Otte.

The recall battle stems from approval by the three of a proposed apartment development adjacent to Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Their three votes overrode the dissenting votes of Mayor James V. Bell and Councilman Charles Long.

Council approval of the project, however, was reversed in a special referendum election Dec. 17, forced by petitions of the Citizens for Fair Zoning Committee.

In the recall notice, the committee charges that the trio illegally used city funds in a publication to residents during the referendum election.

* * * *

THE COUNCILMEN retorted that the publication cost only $17 and was used to correct an alleged untruth in an argument published by the committee.

The committee also charged that the trio showed "contempt for the wishes of the voters" after defeat in the referendum by replacing Donald Dodd with Herbert Grant on the city planning commission.

Shouting Ovation Given Van Cliburn

By RACHEL MORTON

Van Cliburn, in a piano recital at Philharmonic Auditorium Friday night, lived up to his fabulous reputation and by the time he had finished the program the vast audience was shouting and standing in tribute.

This boyish-looking, tall young man became a musical sensation overnight after winning the Tschaikovsky Competition in Moscow in 1958. He has won many awards and competitions, the most important of which in America was the coveted Levintritt Award.

There is no denying that his is a great talent. His great hands and long fingers easily control the whole keyboard in astonishing feats and with prodigious power. The years will doubtless develop a deeper probing into the heart of the music.

* * * *

AN UNUSUAL opening of the program caused some bewilderment. Cliburn began the the first bars of our National Anthem and everyone stood. But instead of including the audience in the customary singing, he proceeded to make a piano solo of the number, with some novel effects. It is to be questioned if this was in good taste.

Intermezzo No. 1 by Brahms was interpreted with too much dramatic fervor and No. 2 lacked the soul of Brahms. But with the flashy, brilliant "Ballade in G Minor" by the same composer, Cliburn came into his own. His particular forte is in big showy music.

In place of the programmed Sonata in C Minor by Beethoven he played that composer's Appassionata Sonata in F Minor, and it was a thrilling performance. The trills were clipped and clean while the left hand made the music glow with excitement. In the second movement, there was a rhythmic insistence admirably kept that was almost funereal in mood. The third movement sounded orchestral, so overwhelming was his big tone.

It was unfortunate that the Beethoven preceded the Sonata Opus 26 by Samuel Barber, for the cruel contrast made Barber definitely the loser. Upon a oft-repeated theme of not much consequence, much ornamentation and filigree was given in the first movement. A light, fanciful wandering over the keys made up the Allegro Vivace and the Adagio promised more than it fulfilled. I liked best the Fugue and final Allegro with its delightful interplay and flashy finish.

* * * *

CLIBURN'S best programmed playing was the Sonata in B Minor by Chopin. Here, Chopin and the pianist were in perfect accord. the inner contents of the music were brought out and the mechanics were flawless. It was apparent that Van Cliburn liked directness and clarity better than sentiment. The Largo spoke gently, slowly and sadly under the pianist's fingers. The Presto mounted steadily, with the right hand cascading runs that dazzled.

The audience was so stirred by his tremendous performance that four encores were thrillingly performed.

Auto Show at Arena Ends Today

When the Pacific International Auto Show closes its 10-day run in the Arena today the sponsors of the show will start worrying about how to get 117 automobiles out of the oceanfront structure.

Because of city fire laws, none of the cars from seven nations of the world have any gasoline in their tanks nor are they allowed to have the ignition switches activated while on city property.

The only thing that has moved in the Arena since the opening of the highly successful display is the record crowd of 45,000 visitors.

M.L. McLaughlin, executive secretary of the sponsoring Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association, calls the 1964 exhibit "the most successful show in our history."

Doors open today at 1 p.m. The final day of the exhibit features Dennis Day and the Osmond Brothers in stage shows at 3:45 p.m. and 9 p.m.

TOYS, CLOTHES AND FOOD

Students Send Gifts to Korean Orphans

Superior Court Judge Vincent S. Dalsimer congratulates students of Ernie Pyle Elementary School in Bellflower, as they sent off cartons of toys, clothes and food to orphans in South Korea.

Judge Dalsimer praised students, P-TA members and Principal Eunice Gaines for sending the materials.

The Korean orphans will receive between 1,700 and 2,000 pounds of clothes, toys and food.

The project was inspired by a letter from Pfc. Edison E. Caldwell, stationed in Korea, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edison Caldwell of Bellflower.

Young Caldwell wrote them about the orphanage, and his mother, who teaches at Ernie Pyle Elementary School, set the project in motion.

Besides Miss Gaines and the Caldwells, others involved in the project were Army Capt. Jack Winkler and Mrs. George Kohrer, P-TA president.

Capt. Winkler arranged for the cartons to be transported by the Air Force on a regularly scheduled flight, so that no additional expense was incurred for transport. The flight left Friday from Van Nuys Airport.

SENDING OFF GIFTS they collected for Korean orphans are students in Bellflower's Ernie Pyle Elementary School. With them is Superior Court Judge Vincent S. Dalsimer, who congratulated youngsters for their efforts, and Army Capt. Jack Winkler. The gifts were taken by Army truck to Van Nuys for air shipment from there.

Douglas Rocket Booster Receives New 'Muscles'

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

The most fantastically successful space booster yet designed, the Douglas-built Delta rocket, is about to receive some new strap-on muscles.

The latest in second-generation rocketry is the TAD, for Thrust-Augmented Delta, which, as recently announced by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will have a 20 to 30 per cent increase in capability over the standard Delta.

However, the workhorse Delta, built at Douglas Aircraft Company's Missile and Space Systems Division at Santa Monica, will not be retired.

* * * *

MOST RECENT success of America's most reliable booster came Tuesday when it carried the second Relay communications satellite into orbit. It was the 22nd straight successful mission for the Delta against a single failure.

Delta was an outgrowth of the Thor, first of the Douglas-built family of booster rockets. When the United States began its extensive space program in 1958, the Thor, having proved itself as a weapon system, was enlisted as a first stage for boosters using a variety of upper stages.

Of these combinations, the Delta was developed.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH modified from its original version, the Delta's first-stage Thor still is basically the Douglas-developed Air Force Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, first built in 1956.

The liquid-propellant-powered Thor now develops 170,000 pounds of thrust, with a burning time of about 180 seconds. Second and third stages provide a total of another 10,500 pounds thrust and another 200 seconds of burning time.

With its new power-pack of three solid-propellant rockets strapped on, however, the first-stage Thor will have a lift-off capacity of 330,000 pounds, enough to place a 1,000-pound payload into orbit compared with 800 pounds for the standard Delta.

* * * *

WHEN THE Delta was first used by NASA in space experiments in 1960, it was regarded only as a temporary or interim booster. Only 12 Deltas were ordered and no more were contemplated.

After the fifth success, NASA increased its order to 27, and then to 40. Now it appears likely that the Douglas space age workhorse will be in business—with its extra oomph—until well past the middle of the decade.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Cambodia OKs Conciliation Plan

MANILA (UPI)—Cambodia and the Philippines Saturday jointly announced Cambodian acceptance of a Philippine formula to restore "normal friendly relations" between the United States and Cambodia.

The joint communique, issued by Philippine President Diosdado Magapagal and Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk, did not spell out details of the Philippine formula, already accepted in principle by the United States.

Sihanouk ended a state visit Saturday in which talks centered on the Filipino conciliation effort.

The Cambodian rift rose when Sihanouk denounced alleged American intervention in his nation's internal affairs late last year, ordered a suspension of U.S. aid and the ouster of American aid and military missions. He later recanted and said he would accept American aid provided no strings were attached.

GOP Blast Hit by State Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican Congressional Committee chairman accused the Johnson administration Saturday of abandoning the U.S. embargo policy against Cuba. The State Department called his charge "a total distortion of the facts."

WILSON

The GOP leader, Rep. Bob Wilson of California, said that, since Johnson became president, 40 ships have been taken off the U.S. blacklist of free world vessels trading with Cuba.

State Department Press Officer Richard I. Phillips replied that only 15 ships have been removed from the blacklist, and these under conditions which, in effect, would reduce free world shipping with Cuba even more.

"The accusations of Rep. Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, are a total distortion of the facts concerning U.S. policy toward free world shipping to Cuba," the State Department spokesman said.

British Marines Halt 3 Mutinies

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI) — British Royal Marine commandos put down mutinies by native troops in three former East African British colonies Saturday, Tanganyika, Kenya and Uganda. Tanganyika Saturday night began disarming its own army.

NYERERE

The bizarre chain reaction of mutiny against low pay and white British officers flared Monday in Tanganyika soon after the Zanzibar revolt and spread to neighboring Kenya and Uganda. None of the mutinies appeared to be directed against the governments.

But in Dar-es-Salaam Saturday night, President Julius Nyere said he had decided to disarm all troops and to punish the ringleaders severely even though, he said, it is not easy to disarm an army "intoxicated with the poison of disloyalty and disobedience."

De Gaulle Tells Plan to Recognize Mao

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle of France has informed all of his allies that he will recognize Communist China at the beginning of next week, French government sources said Saturday.

Barring last-minute changes, the sources said, the official announcement will be made Monday. The United States, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy and other leading members of the Western Alliance already have been notified.

Liz and Burton Linger in Southland

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Lovers Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton Saturday decided to remain in the warmth of Southern California a while longer before making another international scene change in their romantic Odyssey.

Miss Taylor and Burton, apparently finding the climate much warmer since the departure of her estranged husband, singer Eddie Fisher, canceled a reservation on the Santa Fe Superchief scheduled to depart Los Angeles for Chicago Saturday evening.

They left the seclusion of their hotel Saturday afternoon for lunch, but refused to answer questions about their plans.

Dubliners Riot at Beauty's Wedding

DUBLIN (UPI)—Hundreds of Dubliners staged a wild, stampeding riot Saturday and battled police to get a look at Miss Ireland when she married the son of novelist Daphne Du Maurier.

A woman was trampled by the mob and taken to a hospital with a possible fractured leg. Several other persons were shaken up, cut and bruised in the melee. Cars were dented when spectators scrambled atop them for vantage points outside the church to see the couple and their celebrated guests.

The bride was Olive White, 21-year-old blonde model and television personality who was last year's Miss Ireland. The groom was Christian Browning, son of Miss Du Maurier and her retired British army officer husband, Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Browning. Miss White represented Ireland last year in the "Miss International" contest in Long Beach.

LBJ at Alfalfa Club Dinner

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson put in an appearance at the annual dinner of the Alfalfa Club here Saturday night after it got done with its annual ribbing of the Washington political scene through nomination of its own mock candidate for the White House.

The President made brief remarks to the all-male assemblage, which was composed of many Washington luminaries including—just down the head table—Republican presidential contender Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona. Johnson's words were off the record.

Darkness Halts Hunt for Boy, 3

GOLETA (AP)—More than 150 men searching for 3-year-old Todd Collett, missing since Thursday, called off the hunt at dusk Saturday. They planned to resume again today.

Wind-Driven Rain Rakes New England

BOSTON (UPI) — A wind-driven storm lashed New England Saturday, dumping more than an inch of rain in most sections and accounting for at least four highway deaths.

Two greater Boston teenagers were killed when their car crashed off fog-shrouded West Roxbury Parkway in Boston.

Police said John J. Higgins, 17, and Kennan W. Ryan, 18, were dead on arrival at Faulkner Hospital.

Henry N. Kirk Jr., 19, of Burriville, R.I., was injured fatally when his car collided with a bus in North Smithfield, R.I.

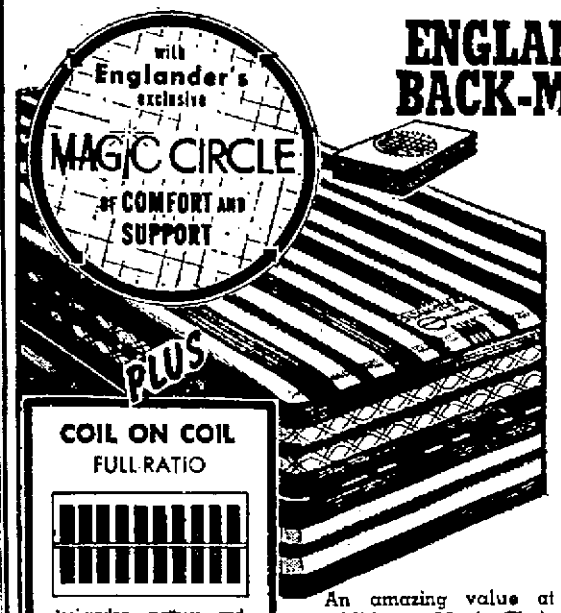

Also in Rhode Island, Paul F. Malenosky, of Westerly, R. I., was killed when his car slammed into a utility pole in Westerly.

The four other New England states maintained fatality records on the highways.

The U.S. Weather Bureau here said the storm, which was over eastern Maine at 10:30 p.m. (EST) Saturday, would be followed today by clearing in southern regions and snow flurries in northern states.

Temperatures were expected to return to seasonal normals with readings in the low to mid 30s in the South to the mid 20s near the Canadian border the Weather Bureau said.

You Push a Phone Button, Start Cooking Roast 20 Miles Away

By LOU PRATO

GREENSBURG, Pa., (AP) — A dutiful housewife climaxing a hectic day shopping steps into a public telephone booth, pushes a few buttons and in her suburban home 20 miles down the expressway an oven instantly starts cooking a roast for the evening meal.

A harrassed steel salesman unable to return to his office in time to turn on a data processing computer picks up the restaurant phone, touches a couple buttons and the office machine suddenly zips into action.

That's what enthusiastic telephone company officials envision in the not too distant future for their newest innovation — the push button telephone, now in its initial stage of use by the general public.

Two communities near Pittsburgh in western Pennsylvania, Greensburg and Carnegie, are the first in the nation to be offered push button telephones as a regular service. By the end of 1964, the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania plans to install the push button system in 37 of its 577 offices.

* * * *

WHAT IS A touch-tone phone? Well, it looks no different than the rotary dial except that there are push buttons where the dial is normally located. The buttons with a tenth button — for the operator — centered underneath. Each button is numbered and lettered similar to the conventional dial.

Telephone company officials figure it will be 10 years or so before touch-tone is available everywhere in the nation.

"We have to offer touch-tone on a gradual basis, because of the extensive equipment changes that must be made," said Alexander Kyle, the Greensburg district manager.

I WENT home early Friday, and thereby got a first hand experience with a neat bit of subterfuge that dramatically points up those warnings against willy-nilly giving to solicitors for offbeat "causes."

The fellow came to the door and asked for the lady of the house.

He appeared slightly taken back when I showed instead, but he went on with his pitch.

It was a request for money for something he identified as a missionary organization.

He assured me he had full accreditation for soliciting. He mentioned the Chamber of Commerce, and at the same time exhibited a board on which were clipped several pieces of paper. A folded paper at the top for plain viewing was clearly a photostat of a letterhead of the manager's office, City of Long Beach. It was folded to show just the name of the city, and the obvious purpose was to convey the idea that he had a city permit.

So the stage was set.

HAVING read and heard a lot about phony solicitations, I told him so and that I was reluctant to give to outfits I didn't know much about.

He cautioned me not to judge everybody by things I might have read in newspapers.

"O.K.," I said, "then let me have a look at that permit or whatever it is from the City of Long Beach."

He was obviously reluctant. "It just shows," he said, "that we are a religious organization." But I said I wanted to see it, and he took it off the board. I unfolded it and read a letter to the missionary group from the city manager informing them that the city was not acceding to their demands for a solicitation permit.

Now, I said, I would like to see what he had from the Chamber of Commerce.

He flipped up a couple of papers and revealed a form or document of some kind bearing the name of the Wilshire Chamber of Commerce. Wilshire Chamber of Commerce!

"This is Long Beach," I said, and he made some remark to the effect that any chamber endorsement is a chamber endorsement, no matter what chamber.

WELL, I told the fellow I guessed I'd seen enough and I had no intention of contributing. There were, I said, plenty of responsible, local organizations, all worthy and well known to me, to which I could and do contribute.

My visitor was ready to go.

"Pray for us, anyhow," he said as he left.

I will. Clearly, prayers are in order.

THIS incident I've recounted in detail because I think it bears a strong lesson for all householders. And I'm wondering how well the visitor did in our College Park area.

My encounter with him was at about 4:45 p.m. After 7 p.m. I had occasion to drive out of the area. As I reached the corner of Seventh and Silvera, I observed a pedestrian approaching the intersection. A second look and I recognized my friend.

He had been working the district for the better part of three hours.

D'yu suppose he'll report the results to the Wilshire Chamber of Commerce?

TERRIER MISSILES AS WELL AS SHELLS

2-Course Meal of Ammo at Navy Base

By WILLIAM JONES

The sailor said: "If the ammunition goes, don't forget the first rule of safety—hold your fingers to your ears."

The sailors with him exploded in laughter.

"All right, you guys," the sailor added, "but don't forget that when the explosion comes, you don't want your ears to pop."

The sailors with him let go of the missile for a second to stifle their laughter. Ahead was the ship. And before that, an officer.

The joking appeared to be almost a necessary part of the day as the United States Naval Weapons Station at Seal Beach served up a two-course meal of ammunition in a display of America's might.

* * * *

THE SAILORS were loading eight "birds" — the terrifying, supersonic Terrier guided missiles—aboard the destroyer USS Worden.

Next to them, other sailors were carting shells for the five-inch guns of the destroyer USS Chevalier.

In this one morning in Seal Beach, more than a half-million dollars worth of ammunition was on dockside.

The destroyer Worden represents the nation's deterrent to future war with the Soviet Union's fleet of submarines and aircraft.

The destroyer Chevalier can pound beaches with shells in "brush warfare."

In this display of contrast, both ships entered the mouth of the small harbor just south of Long Beach and were replenished with ammunition in an overnight stay.

* * * *

THE NEXT morning the Chevalier steamed north to have more modern ship equipment added in Washington and the sleek Worden raced south to test her missiles.

During their stay here, Capt. Warren Hall, commanding officer of the weapons station, directed civilian and military crews in trucking the missiles and conventional shells from the station's tomb-like magazines to dockside to replenish the warships.

"It's an odd situation—shells for one, missiles for the other," he said. "But a future war and 'brush warfare' remain as our nation's problems."

He added: "I wonder how many people noticed the two destroyers steaming out of here by Pacific Coast Highway? And I wonder how many noticed the difference between the two vessels?"

The Chevalier, with a heroic past in Pacific waters during World War II, raced out of Seal Beach with her awesome display of six 5-inch guns and torpedoes that can dive into the ocean to destroy an enemy submarine.

"Our bread and butter," said her skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Albert B. Hallman, "is to kill enemy subs and to lay off shore and destroy land targets."

It is still an annoying subject to the genial Texan to talk about "killing subs," because as he admits, "my first years were spent as assistant engineer, engineer officer, electronics officer and supply officer in the Navy —on a submarine."

* * * *

THE SECOND ship, the destroyer Worden, looks Innocent beside the Chevalier.

Instead of heavy guns protruding from her topside, she displays only a modern, back-swept catapult in front.

But from this block of metal can sprout instantly the Terrier missiles — worth about $55,000 each —that can knock down planes and submarines beyond the horizon.

In this $70 million ship, Capt. Scott Lothrop commands 350 men — compared to 850 men on the same size of vessel in World War II—and a battery of computers.

The computers take the data from the cobweb of radar blanketing the ship, and fire the Terriers into aircraft or submarines.

"It's almost impossible to miss the target," said Lt. Cmdr. M. A. Arnheiter.

* * * *

CAPT. LOTHROP, a survivor of the Okinawa kamikaze attacks, has been resurrected as a "modern-day Navy man."

He was retrained as an engineer-scientist after the war, shown the fantastic possibilities of computers and then given command of the Worden before she was commissioned on the East Coast.

As the third of a new class of guided missile-frigates, the Worden was the first to come to the Pacific Coast with its primary mission as a defender of aircraft carrier task forces last November.

Actually, its description as a destroyer is deceiving. It is as large as the light cruisers of World War II—can fire into the air a more destructive punch than any of the battleships of the same era.

And, with its nuclear warheads — well, that's classified information.

Guidance Group for Boys Set

A branch of the Big Brothers movement, a group of men who volunteer to give fatherless boys guidance, help and companionship, is being organized here, according to Sterling E. Gilmore.

The group will offer professional casework counseling combined with volunteer service in which a one-man-one-boy relationship is set up between an adult volunteer and a boy who has no father or adult male in the family.

Any man of good character, over 21, interested in giving some of his leisure time to a boy is eligible for membership in the local group, a chapter of the national organization.

* * * *

THE GROUP points out that its success in the 60 years of its existence has been based on the individual attention and inspiration a boy receives from his big brother.

Present plans call for a permanent office to be set up here and contributions to help support the program now are being sought by Gilmore, an insurance and securities broker with offices at 4130 Atlantic Ave.

Bonanza Star to Speak in L.B.

Lorne Greene, "Ben Cartwright" of the Bonanza TV series, will be the featured speaker at the annual testimonial dinner of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Long Beach Chapter, in the Lafayette Hotel, Feb. 20.

The formal dinner will mark the area's celebration of National Brotherhood Week, Feb. 16-23. President Lyndon B. Johnson stated in his brotherhood message, "Democracy cannot live in hate and fear. Prejudice and bigotry are the advance guard of failure.

"I urge all my fellow Americans to join with me and the NCCJ in this national community celebration of tolerance, truth and charity toward our neighbors, wherever they live, whoever they are."

Highlighting the Long Beach chapter celebration will be the presentation of Brotherhood Awards for outstanding service in human relations to Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, president of Long Beach State College; Herman H. Ridder, publisher of The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram and Maurice Harris, publisher of the Enterprise Newspapers.

Harry Buffum is general chairman of the observance in Long Beach, Norbert Dean is Brotherhood Week chairman; George McLean, chairman of the Long Beach Chapter, NCCJ; Dr. Jacob Cunningham, executive director; Dr. Robert Walker, program chairman; Lewis Sandler, director of finance. Judge Max Wisot headed the awards committee.

Callahan Plays Role in State Safety Confab

Michael R. Callahan, of Long Beach, member of the California State Council of Culinary Workers (AFL-CIO), has been named co-chairman of the Trades and Services Section of the Governor's Industrial Safety Conference to be held Feb. 6-7 in San Francisco.

Callahan also serves on the Conference Coordinating Committee, governing body of the Conference expected to attract approximately 1500 management and labor representatives.

USS LONG BEACH

Arena Display for Ship Model

An 18-foot-long model of the USS Long Beach has arrived here from Washington by van and will be placed on display beginning Tuesday in the lobby of the Long Beach Arena.

The 3,500-pound model is being stored temporarily in a local van line warehouse pending the arrival of a Navy-assigned expert who will supervise the uncrating and removal to its new home.

Valued at $200,000, the model has been loaned to the city by the Navy for display in the arena for one year, with an option for renewal of the agreement for a second year. It was built to scale—¼-inch to 1-foot—at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Yard.

City Manager John R. Mansell said a city work crew of eight men will assist the Navy expert in erecting the display.

Underground Mischief Club Keeps College Prank Alive

By BOB WILCOX

A Long Beach State College football yell suddenly turns into words nobody's mother ever taught. It's the "R.F. Club" at work.

Two hundred coeds are barricaded in a dorm with the telephone wires cut. It's the "RFers" again.

What in the world is the R.F. Club?

It's a mysterious underground campus mischief organization dedicated to keeping alive the vanishing college prank in an increasingly academic era.

RFers have coated bathroom facilities with honey, set off fire alarms, painted signs. Once they padlocked all the doors on the college library from the outside. A monkey named "R.F." was disqualified from last year's 49er Day contest to pick "Black Bart."

* * * *

R.F. CLUB sweatshirts and windshield decals have blossomed on campus.

"The club seems to stress the creative, the different," concedes Dr. Karl A. Russell, LBSC dean of students. But many of its activities, he says, are "out of taste, out of bounds."

The organization gives "RFs" (points) for mischief. If the perpetrator is caught, he or she loses RFs. Club "literature" intercepted last October indicates a conscience.

"The RF must not cause or be conducive to damage to anyone or their possessions," it says. "The RF must not cost anyone valuable loss of time, such as study, sleep." The instructions stress "originality, wit, humor."

College officials estimate that the four-year-old group has 50 members. They cross campus social "class" lines. Nabbed have been dormitory residents, fraternity and sorority members and students with no affiliation. Membership requirements are "cloudy."

Through the years, the college has identified about 20, including a coed "with a 140 IQ who just wanted to let off a little steam."

The initials "R.F." are obscure, but club members often use the euphemism "rat fink."

Wrong Address

The address of rape suspect Alan L. Roebuck, 25, now held by Long Beach police, was printed incorrectly in earlier stories. Roebuck, officers say, lives at 934 Euclid Ave. Other stories gave his address as 924 Euclid Ave.

EDITORIAL

Hurting Their Own Cause

PANICKED BY THE FEAR that their facility may be closed by Defense Department economies, the San Francisco Shipyard Employes' Association has composed an argument which pretends to "prove" that Long Beach Naval Shipyard and others are poorer than the San Francisco facility. This hysterical effort can harm rather than help the San Francisco yard's chances of remaining open.

The worst possible thing cities with Naval shipyards can do is attack one another. If each of them starts belittling all the others, the net effect will be to fortify the arguments of people who want to close down shipyards. Besides, such bickering only directs attention away from the good reasons that are being offered for keeping the shipyards open.

Aside from this, moreover, the San Francisco statements are false and misleading. The charge that subsidence in the Long Beach Naval Shipyard has not been halted is based on stale satistics and is simply untrue. City Manager John R. Mansell puts it in stronger words than that: The charge is "totally false." He states: "The Navy reports quarterly on fluctuations of the benchmarks, and the last readings, taken Dec. 4-10, showed that all are rising—not sinking." The San Francisco statement that the Long Beach yard can't handle vessels of the Forrestal class—the nation's biggest ships, of which there are but a handful—is beside the point. Such ships have never been handled here, and their repair and maintenance is not the function of this yard. The purpose of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard is to repair, alter, and convert ships the size of heavy cruisers and smaller which make up the bulk of the Pacific Fleet.

THE HYSTERICAL UTTERANCES of the San Francisco shipyard people are particularly ill-timed in view of the critical situation in Panama. If Panama develops into a problem requiring greater use of U.S. warships, which is a very definite possibility, the need for shipyards to keep the fleet operative would be greater than ever. Sen. Thomas Kuchel, in fact, has just stated that the country in the face of this crisis not only must keep its shipyards open, but also should re-open the recently-closed facility at San Diego.

However, the long-range reason for keeping the shipyards open goes beyond the Panama crisis. The United States has long since accepted the necessity of maintaining a capability to wage limited war. This means that men and ships in fairly large numbers are constantly on the seas, at great distances from home. These Navy men need well-anchored stable home bases for their families. This is an overriding consideration in keeping good men in the Naval service.

When a man refuses to re-enlist because of unstable conditions, the Navy must spend a huge sum of money to induct and train another man to take his place. The "economies" effected by closing shipyards and upsetting the naval complexes to which they belong are very dubious savings, indeed.

These are things San Francisco shipyard people should think about if they again get the urge to disparage other shipyards. Long Beach has restricted its activities to outlining the positive reasons for keeping the shipyard open. San Francisco should do likewise. If anything, that city owes this city and its congressional representative, Craig Hosmer, a debt of gratitude for representing the basic interests of all shipyards and naval communities.

DYNAMITE

DAVID LAWRENCE

An Inflated Prosperity

WASHINGTON—For the past week, the American people, and particularly the news correspondents in Washington, have been deluged with an avalanche of figures. This has been designed to prove that the United States from 1961 to 1963 has gone through a period of unexampled prosperity and that even better times are ahead for 1964. But the figures given are not complete and in many respects are meaningless, if not misleading.

LAWRENCE

Thus, the "gross national product"—the phrase supposed to describe the output of the whole economic system—is given in the President's economic report as reaching $623 billion in the year 1964. This is $259.9 billion above what it was in 1954, just a decade earlier.

But more than 40 per cent of this rise is due to higher prices. If compared with the prices of goods and services in 1954 and the value of the dollar at that time, the "gross national product" this year would not be $623 billion. It would be $517.4 billion, which is $154.3 billion above what it was 10 years ago.

The President also points to corporate profits as having made a 44 per cent rise in the last three years. This, however, is from a low point in 1961 and is not based on any annual figures. He says that a further rise will come with the tax cut. But a study of the fine print in the same volume of statistics handed to the press this week discloses that corporate profits are projected at 4.9 per cent of the "gross national product" for 1964. This is less than what it has been in 11 of the 17 years since World War II. Corporate profits went up as high as 8 per cent in those years. They were 6.2 per cent in the 1949 recession year and stood at 4.6 per cent in 1963 after two full years of "expansion."

The sad truth is that corporate profits as a total figure are meaningless. The entire private-enterprise system, even by the President's figures, will retain in 1964 only $30.5 billion after taxes. Profit margins are rarely examined in government reports, and the fact remains that the narrowness of many of these margins prevents the investment of capital and discourages the expansion projects through which jobs can be created for the people who need them.

Much of the difficulty in creating jobs is due to psychological barriers. There can, for example, be little confidence in the economic future as long as the dollar itself is unsound. Budgets have remained unbalanced almost continuously for many years now and the cost of living has risen as the purchasing power of the dollar has gone down.

The assertion is made by the President that a tax cut now is necessary to stimulate the economy. But the economic report in some sections gives the impression that the economy is really riding high and doesn't need a tax cut as a stimulus. These viewpoints are contradictory.

BOB HOUSER

Nixon '62 Loss and Farewell Could Haunt Another Race

I, P-T Political Editor

THE BLOOM on Richard Nixon suffered two wilting blasts in 1962—a 300,000-vote loss to Pat Brown for the governorship followed by a bitter lashout at the press.

With memories like these, plus a 1960 loss which many party pros ascribe to an aloof, go-it-alone Nixon, California Republicans seem privately reluctant to endure another Nixon November. Some not so privately.

HOUSER

In Long Beach and elsewhere in the state, Republicans personally fond of Nixon are saying, "I hope he doesn't run." They acknowledge Nixon's strong run in current polls but feel the strength can't be sustained should Nixon be weighed next July in San Francisco against the bad-loser image of two years ago when he left the state.

Nixon, looking and talking better than he has in years on last Thursday's TV "availability" statement, alluded to the realism of current reaction against his candidacy. He said the party might prefer new faces. His availability even extended to the vice presidency, he admittted.

A PATTERN of primary victories for another candidate could relieve the Nixon pressure, which he understandably responds to now. But with the building and moving organizations aligning behind others, Republicans in those organizations are hoping the pressure won't become a GOP bottleneck.

Unlike Nixon, neither Barry Goldwater nor Nelson Rockefeller are without staff. Goldwater has a Knowland heading his effort and fiercely loyal partisans—mysteriously unnumbered at present—across the country. Rockefeller has reportedly given financial carte blanche to the California firm handling his campaign in this state. Eastern rumors have it that Nixon will declare for Rockefeller before the June primary here. If the governor does well in other primaries.

The state has begun to seethe with these and other political maelstroms. Rocky and Happy come to Long Beach next Wednesday and will be greeted by Republicans who, in general, were once strong for Nixon.

CONGRESSMAN James Roosevelt intends to run but leaves himself a mid-February out if the "full story" on Engle's health favors the incumbent. Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk will announce his decision about the same time. Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson is a possible entry. Controller Alan Cranston also would defer to a healthy Engle but, lacking satisfaction on that score, looms as one of the stronger contenders. Another Anderson, Dewey, has announced his candidacy; he was an assemblyman from Santa Clara County 1935-37.

The Republican challenge to Engle and company now includes former actor George Murphy and industrialist Lee Kaiser. Former pole vaulter Bob Richards is strongly inclined. Joe C. Shell, 1962 primary loser to Nixon for the governorship, may announce his decision soon. There is talk of another candidacy by former Gov. Goodwin Knight. And, perhaps the strongest of all based on a good 1962 run for lieutenant governor, is George Christopher, ex-mayor of San Francisco.

THE SWIRL is boiling around the blockbuster names in national politics today. And it suddenly occurs — who will the Republicans run against Long Beach Assemblyman Joe Kennick? What Democrat will oppose Deukmejian? Will there be a challenger Deukmejian? Will there be a challenger to Long Beach Congressman Craig Hosmer?

'Winning' Our Way to Communism

EDITOR:

At the time of the construction of the Berlin wall, the "deep-thinkers" in our State Department, headed by the master of double-think and double-talk, Secretary Dean Rusk, told us that the wall was really a "victory" for the free world. I must assume therefore that the opening of the wall over the holidays must be a "defeat." I wonder how many more "victories" we can absorb before we are all slaves of communism?

Thanks Police in Child Search

EDITOR:

Would you please publish a "thank you" to the Dominguez and Long Beach Police Departments for their efforts in searching for my two children. The children were missing from 11:30 a. m. to 8 p.m. They had set out on a trip to the Pike in Long Beach and were on their way home when located.

During their absence I became highly distraught but the police of both cities cooperated in a most excellent way in searching for the youngsters. Our family thanks them from our hearts and will never forget their helpfulness.

First Rumford Argument Wrong

EDITOR:

The proponents of the Rumford Act, which forces property owners to sell, rent, or lease their property to individuals other than those of their own choosing, reveal the falsity of their position in their primary argument—to wit, "Human rights are above property rights".

What they are saying is that it is a human right for an individual to force another to rent to him, or sell to him, and that it is not a human right for a property owner to choose his tenants and his customers.

Many of us, including the writer, wish that all would be judged on their own individual merit, and not as part of a minority. We wish that better housing was available to those families who presently find difficulty in locating in better communities. But this feeling for our fellow man must not lead us to be unfeeling about the rights of property owners. There are many who have worked all their lives to own an apartment house. An undesirable tenant can empty an apartment house in a hurry—causing not only turmoil, but financial ruin in some cases.

The right to own property, as outlined in the Constitution, includes within it the right to manage that property. Leaving the property owner simply a custodian of the property, while the State decides who shall occupy or purchase that property, is not a right at all—but a form of socialism similar to that found in Russia.

Let us with "friendly persuasion" do what we can to aid those who are presently in need of better housing—but let us not employ tyranny to force others to comply with our wishes.

Foreign Policy 'Topic B' With LBJ

WASHINGTON — Lyndon Johnson's mind is not exactly a clean slate as far as foreign policy is concerned. On the other hand, it is not a definite treatise on the subject to which we can turn for any reference he needs, subject only to the need to keep it up to date. It therefore becomes a matter of some interest and importance to consider who is contributing ideas and views to him.

• • • •

AS NEARLY as can be determined, foreign policy is Topic B with Johnson. That doesn't mean it is neglected. Topic A is domestic policy. It commands his first instinctive interest. It has interested him all his life. He has built up a large body of information and thought on it. So equipped, he is better able to evaluate and employ, by himself, the information which comes to him through all the channels leading to the presidency, including personal, individual, conversations. He couldn't neglect foreign policy if he wanted to, because it is there, part of his job, demanding attention.

In the Senate, Johnson of course had to deal with matters of foreign policy. As Vice President, he fortunately traveled abroad a good deal. But it is natural for him, until he has deeper experience, to view what happens abroad as an appropriations problem, or a military problem.

Given this situation, Johnson depends a good deal on the established operators in the field, carrying on from the Kennedy administration. Chief among them are Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and McGeorge Bundy, Special Assistant on National Security Affairs.

In looking into this matter, evidence is found that Johnson has a special predilection, which is of substantial importance. He likes Germans.

This goes back to his earliest days. His part of Texas was the destination of a substantial organized German immigration in the last century. As visitors to his ranch have noticed, one of the most conspicuous features of the nearby landscape is a Lutheran church. One of his principal mentors as he was entering public life was a man named Alvin J. Wirtz, a Texas lawyer (briefly Undersecretary of the Interior in 1940-41), who is credited with embedding German liberalism firmly in Johnson's political thought.

Consider this as background for the recent visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard to the LBJ ranch during the Christmas holidays. Johnson obviously got much more than a formal, official pleasure out of that visit.

• • • •

ANOTHER of the informal advisers to Johnson in this field is Abe Fortas, Washington lawyer, also a former Undersecretary of the Interior. The brilliant Fortas mind can operate almost wherever the compass can point. Those around Johnson, however, see him as having two special areas of interest: Israel and Puerto Rico. The implications of such interests for United States attitudes toward the Arab world and toward Latin-America are vast and complex, and worth keeping in mind in watching the Johnson performance.

JACK ANDERSON

LBJ Uses Phone Line as a Lasso

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Drew Pearson's column today is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—Not even most of the Senate knows why the Senate Finance Committee suddenly snapped out of its lethargy on the tax bill and also started reversing some of the tax giveaways which the House proposed for the wealthy.

Backstage reason is a telephone barrage from President Johnson.

LBJ had been phoning senators on the Finance Committee as early as 8 a. m., as late as 11:30 p. m.

"Are you still in bed?" he would demand in the morning, or at night, "have you already gone to bed?"

Then he would ask about the tax bill, pretending—though he knew better—that the sleepy senator was working on it at all hours.

WHEN SEN. GEORGE SMATHERS, D., Fla., called off an afternoon session of the Finance Committee, the President was soon fuming into the phone. Smathers explained it was necessary to grant one afternoon off before the senators would agree to meet in the afternoons in the future. This didn't satisfy Johnson at all.

Again, Smathers held up voting on an amendment for an extra day until Sen. Albert Gore, D., Tenn., could get back from a speaking trip. This was arranged behind closed doors, but both President Johnson and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon learned of it. Within 15 minutes they phoned Smathers demanding to know why he had agreed to the delay.

IT WAS THE PERSONAL lobbying of Johnson and Dillon that also swung a majority of committee members against a House provision to cut capital gains taxes on assets held more than two years. The Treasury considers this is a flagrant tax giveaway to the wealthy. In fact, the Treasury even considers the present 25 per cent capital gains tax a loophole for investors. Despite this the House trimmed the 25 per cent tax down to 21.

Believe it or not, the Senate Finance Committee, which has always favored the big-money interests, did not go along.

Inside reason was that the President got on the phone to key senators, warning that the cut would benefit only the wealthy, would open Congress to charges that it had passed a "rich man's" tax bill.

Johnson and Dillon persuaded 12 of the 17 senators to vote against the capital gains reduction. Even Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, usually a friend of big business, announced behind closed doors that he would vote "with qualifications" against any more tax relief for people with capital gains.

Elbie Jay Meets the Paper Folks

HOWDY THERE, FOLKS. How's things with you'all tonight? Welcome to "Heaps o'Horse Sense," the rib-tickling tee-vee adventures of that rootin'-tootin' Jay family—starring ol' Elbie Jay, the friendliest wrangler ever to wrangle his way out of Texas.

As we join Elbie; his pretty wife, Birdie Bird, and their two cute tads, L'il Bird and Bye-bye Bird, they've struck it rich and they're a-moved into this big white house back East. That's Elbie there now, a-pokin' through the East Room with his faithful sidekick, Sancho Pierre.

• • • •

ELBIE: RIGHT FINE PLACE. Soon's I get my initials branded on these fixing's it's going to seem just like home.

Sancho Pierre (worriedly): Chief, the newspapermen are demanding a press conference and you've got to build your public image. Only you know them. They'll try to skin you alive.

Elbie: Well now, Pierre, any friends of yours are friends of mine. The varmints. You tell 'em we'll have one of them there ol' press conferences right now.

Sancho Pierre: Okay, Chief. I'll set up the State Department Auditorium. Let's see, Klieg lights, coaxial cables, Nielsen surveys. . . .

Elbie: No sense a-goin' to all that fuss. Just open that there door and herd 'em in.

Sancho Pierre (horrified): In here! But, Chief, that's unheard of. You can't build a public image in here.

Elbie: As my grandaddy used to say, "A mule down a gopher hole is worth six crows in the schoolmarm's toolshed." Just you leave it to me.

(Sancho Pierre hesitantly opens the door. One hundred and sixty-two slick Eastern newsmen rush in, eager for blood.)

Elbie (cool as a mushmelon): Howdy there, boys. Glad you-all could come chat a spell. Have a souvenir ballpoint pen and a souvenir ashtray. Had a little trouble getting my picture on them pens. Lucky I'm tall and lean.

Ace Newsman: Sir, what are your plans for increased monosodium glutinate exports to the Common Markets in view of EFTA's opposition to the GATT agreements on . . .

Elbie: That's a right fine question you asked there, son. (Pierre, unscrew a souvenir doorknob for the lad). And I want you-all to know we're a working on that problem mighty hard. Now, boys, have you-all seen around this place? This here's my office and that there's the Blue Room. Skee-daddle along now. And this here's Birdie Bird's bedroom. . . .

Birdie Bird: Elbie! You've just got to learn to knock.

Elbie: Now don't get your feathers ruffled, Birdie Bird. Our dear friends here have seen ladies in pin curlers before. And this here's our L'il Bird's bath. Oops, excuse us, L'il Bird. And this here's the back yard and that there's my horse on which I'm about to ride off into the sunset while you boys go write your mighty fine stories about my warm, lovable family and how I'm working hard on any problems you got on your minds. And, Pierre, cut down a nice souvenir chandelier for each of the boys on their way out.

• • • •

IS THIS ANY WAY TO BUILD a Public Image? Do You Think for a Moment These Smart Eastern Newsmen Will Be Influenced by Folksy Charm and Personal Attention? As Usual.

So come and visit with us again, friends. And meanwhile, as you mosey on down life's long trail, remember: All it takes to build a public image is a heap o'horse sense.

NORMAL FOR JANUARY

Cigarette Sales Up in Long Beach

Despite the health-hazard report released by the United States surgeon general, the sale of cigarettes—at least those sold in vending machines—has not fallen off locally.

A survey of Long Beach-area vending companies indicates that the sale of cigarettes is following the usual pattern for this time of year a slight increase in sales attributed to the aftermath of the Christmas holidays.

George Seedman, president of Long Beach Cigarette Service Sales, Inc., said that although everyone seems to be convinced that large numbers of people are quitting smoking, "You couldn't tell it from our business. We are operating at our normal rate for this time of year."

Officials of other vending companies emphasize that cigarette sales are "up" but are quick to add that they are normally up at this time of year.

One official offered a solution when he said, "It may just be that people who are quitting bought their cigarettes by the carton and our individual-package sales are benefitting from their backsliding on their resolves and buying one pack at a time."

Red Cross Drive Aid Named

Mrs. George P. Taubman, Jr., has been appointed chairman of the executive committee of the residential division of the March fund campaign of Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Francis J. Heusel, Mrs. Malcolm C. Todd, Mrs. Max E. Nichols, Mrs. Ike Sukman, Mrs. Betty Benwell, and Mrs. Rufus A. Davis.

Mrs. Taubman, who was honored as one of Long Beach's celebrities in the recent Diamond Jubilee, was first listed in "Who's Who of American Women" in its initial issue in 1957, is also listed in "Who's Who in the West" for her multiple distinguished services, national, state, and local.

Her service on the international executive board of United Nations Children's Fund, to which she was appointed in '58-'61 by President Eisenhower, took her to Geneva, Switzerland, and to Poland as official United States representative in 1959.

In 1933, she served as one of two women on the Rehabilitation Committee of Red Cross in Long Beach after the March 10 earthquake.

With her committee, Mrs. Taubman has started on the organization of the residential campaign. This will comprise 15 area chairmen, 80 colonels, 600 captains, and 3,000 block workers.

Check Firm Promises to Pay Off All

The owners of a California money-order firm undergoing reorganization said Saturday none of their customers will lose any money despite more than 70,000 money orders which have "bounced."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wierman said they have lost more than $500,000 in the collapse of their firm, Security Currency Services, Ltd., of East Los Angeles.

"But everyone else will get their money back," Wierman promised.

Wierman said his firm was in trouble because money orders were presented for payment before hundreds of small firms, grocery stores, neighborhood shops, etc., had submitted funds from the sale of money orders.

Wierman said he is sure the matter "will be cleared up" when the small agencies send in their remittances.

AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE COMMUNITY

RETAIL CLERKS UNION LOCAL 324, SERVING LONG BEACH AND ORANGE COUNTY

Millions Poured Into Economy of Area by Members of Clerks 324

On Sunday, January 19, 1964, Retail Clerks Union Local 324 opened the doors of its beautiful building, located at the corner of Stanton and Crescent Avenues in Buena Park, in an "Open House" dedication of a newly-completed annex.

Well known as one of the showplaces of Orange County, the Local 324 office and auditorium house a multiplicity of services, both to the union members and to the community. The annex to the building, not visible in the picture above, has enabled Local 324 to expand and improve its membership services, some of which are reviewed on these pages.

The economic impact of Retail Clerks Union Local 324 on the communities where the union's members live and work was graphically demonstrated in a special report issued to all members in mid-1963.

Patterned after the stockholders' reports distributed by major corporations, Local 324's "1962 Annual Report" revealed that during that one year some $45,000,000 was poured into the economy of communities served by the union's membership—all of Orange County, plus the southeast area of Los Angeles County, including Long Beach.

A breakdown of the factors involved included actual wages paid to Local 324's 10,000 members in accordance with contracts negotiated by the union with employers in the area; wage increases under these contracts during 1962, totaling well over $1,000,000; and monies paid out in union benefits for members and their families for medical and hospital expenses, dental and psychiatric care, and supplemental unemployment and disability payments — over $2,082,000.

The "1962 Annual Report" pointed out that for an annual dues investment of $72, Local 324 members received a direct return averaging more than $300 per member during the year.

Other contractual benefits won by the union for its members over and above the established wage scale include job security, excellent working conditions, pensions, vacations, premium and holiday pay — practical advantages guaranteed by the union's contracts with employers.

Local 324 proudly points to other intangible values accruing from membership, too: the prestige of being part of a group recognized for their contributions to community betterment, the opportunity to join in social activities with friends who enjoy a similar way of life, the knowledge of being backed by a strong organization standing ready to help the individual at all times.

Although a "1963 Annual Report" has not yet been compiled by Local 324, these pages reveal some insight into the record for the past year — a record that Retail Clerks Union Local 324 presents with pride.

Unquestionably, the $45,000,000 cited in the "1962 Annual Report" has grown to even larger proportions in 1963.

And Local 324 welcomes 1964 with confidence that it will continue to record fruitful progress in behalf of its membership and the community—the achievement of its goal of a better way of life.

James Suffridge National Head of Retail Clerks

James A. Suffridge

Heading an organization of more than 400,000 members working in retail stores throughout the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico is James A. Suffridge—a distinguished Californian—President of the Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO. Local 324 is one of the largest of the several hundred local unions which make up the RCIA.

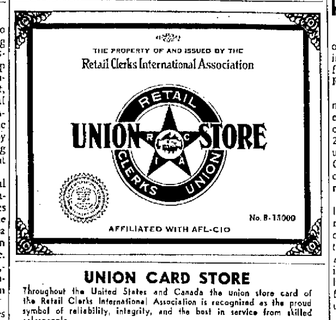

During his 20 years as RCIA President, Suffridge has guided the Clerks Union in its steady advance from 25th in size in 1944 in the old AFL to sixth in size, currently, in the combined AFL-CIO.

The outstanding leadership of James A. Suffridge is perhaps best attested by not only the organization's growth but also its present stature and prestige. Without question, the Retail Clerks International Association is one of the best known and most highly respected labor organizations in the world.

In addition to being International President of the RCIA, Suffridge is also a Vice President of the AFL-CIO, and is an officer in numerous other groups affiliated with the trade union movement.

In 1961, he accompanied Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson as labor advisor on a high level diplomatic mission to six Asian nations. The RCIA President is serving as American labor's representative on the three-man national American Red Cross Committee during 1964.

Under the accomplished leadership of James A. Suffridge, the Retail Clerks face the future with confidence, knowing that a capable and dedicated officer stands at the helm of their organization.

UNION CARD STORE

Throughout the United States and Canada the union store card of the Retail Clerks International Association is recognized as the proud symbol of reliability, integrity, and the best in service from skilled salespeople.

The familiar red, white and blue card—displayed at supermarkets, drug stores, discount and shoe stores throughout the Orange County-Long Beach area—is the shopper's guide to buying where employers respect the rights of their employes, where good working conditions and good pay make for better citizens and a higher standard of living for all.

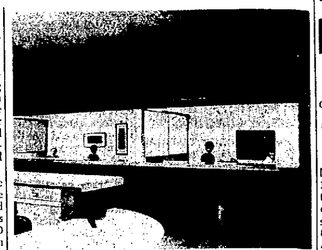

Thousands Use Job Referral, Insurance Claims Departments

Local 324's Job Referral Department, like every other department in the union, is constantly busy with special services to the members.

As an example of this department's services in obtaining employment not only for union members but also for anyone else seeking employment, over 2,000 job listings were received during the year from employers throughout the area served by the union.

The true value of this service is revealed by the fact that more than 8,000 persons were referred to employers for job interviews during 1963, while almost 5,000 were interviewed at the union office concerning possible employment.

With the opening of many new stores in the area and with normal turnover of personnel, Local 324's Job Referral Department has become one of the most important services offered by the union.

At left, the Insurance Department handles health claims. Employment Department, at right, refers members and applicants to jobs.

Service With a Personal Touch

The sincere personal interest of the entire organization in each individual member is a major factor in the success story of Retail Clerks Union Local 324.

At each monthly membership meeting, service certificates and emblems are awarded, symbolic of completion of five, 10, 15, 20 and even 25 years of continuous good standing membership. Close to 1,000 members have completed at least five years of membership.

Also awarded are "paid-up life memberships," granted to retired members with 25 years of continuous membership in the Retail Clerks International Association, of which Local 324 is a part. Since 1957, Local 324 has honored 59 such members for their loyal service to the union.

One of the more unusual membership services in Local 324 is the "Aid and Assistance Fund," set up to provide help for members in financial difficulty.

During 1963, members received almost $5,000 in direct "Aid and Assistance," and in addition, there were well-filled baskets of food along with toys for the children at Christmas.

On their birthdays, members receive a card bringing them greetings "from thousands of friends"—their fellow union members.

And those who are ill receive a get-well card with similar best wishes for speedy recovery. Hospitalized members receive flowers from the union, and their sincere appreciation is self evident from the "thank you letters" published in Local 324's monthly newspaper.

The union maintains a death benefit fund which provides the beneficiary with $1,000 upon death of a good-standing member. The beneficiary also receives a white Bible of appropriate faith, direct from a union business representative.

Local Members Have Health, Dental Care

One of the most important achievements of Local 324 in creating valuable services for its members is the complete health care provided under the union's contracts with employers.

Not only do the members enjoy complete medical and hospital care, but they also receive dental and psychiatric care under their union-won plans. These benefits are paid for by employer contributions to trust funds jointly administered by union and employer trustees.

Although health is more precious than all the money in the world, the full value of these health plans is apparent when actual figures for 1963 are considered:

Medical & Hospital
13,013 claims paid	$1,227,000
Dental
6,742 claims paid	480,734
Psychiatric
337 claims paid	41,945
Total	$1,749,739

During 1963, an increasingly large number of Local 324 members became eligible for dental care, resulting from contracts signed in 1962 with major discount stores.

Members of Local 324 obtain necessary claim forms from the Insurance Department of the union, while the Trust Fund Office, located in the newly added wing of the building, maintains records concerning eligibility, employer contributions, and other data for Local 324 and other local unions as well.

Another fringe benefit negotiated into many contracts calls for pensions to supplement social security payments for persons reaching retirement age.

At the end of 1963, there were 131 retired Local 324 members enjoying retirement benefits totaling $6,901 each month — 106 Food Division members and 25 Drug Division members.

And this vital personal protection is being negotiated into more and more Local 324 contracts, to enable members to approach retirement age with hope and optimism instead of fear.

Trust Fund Office serves Local 324, other locals in administering health and welfare, other benefits.

New, Efficient Equipment Saves Union Dues Dollars

To maintain necessary records on membership status and other essential data, Local 324 has installed a completely modern Data Processing Department.

In addition to dues billing, this department maintains a constant flow of vital statistical information required to keep the union's records up-to-the-minute.

The constant growth of Local 324 from issuance of its original charter to eight members in July 1936 to its present membership of over 10,000 created the need for the most modern equipment available.

This modernization of office functions is in keeping with Local 324's policy of maintaining maximum efficiency in operation of the union's business affairs, without losing the personal touch which is evident throughout every Local 324 department.

Over Million In Wage Hikes For Members

Year after year, wage increases previously negotiated in long-term contracts bring Local 324 members the benefits of a larger paycheck.

In fact, a conservative estimate of the economic impact of 1963 wage increases alone for Local 324 members would place the amount involved at well over $1,000,000.

In 1963, for example, food clerks received pay increases, including cost-of-living adjustments, totaling 9½ cents per hour.

Drug clerks also received 9½ cents hourly pay increases and cost-of-living adjustments during the year, while increases for pharmacists totaled 35 cents per hour.

For discount store clerks, wage increases during the year ranged from 2½ cents to as much as 44 cents per hour, with an over-all average pay raise of about 10 cents per hour.

10,000 Members Work Together to Improve Living Standards, Promote Community Betterment

Arthur Z. Berland

Occupying a prominent place in the community as well as in the circles of organized labor is Local 324 of the Retail Clerks International Association (AFL-CIO), 8530 Stanton Avenue, Buena Park.

Having grown from a membership of less than 2,500 in 1950 to more than 10,000 today, Local 324 represents employes working in retail stores in Long Beach and throughout Southeast Los Angeles County, as well as all of Orange County. The Buena Park headquarters is centrally located to best serve the union's members.

Key to the success of Local 324 is its basic philosophy of providing, through collective bargaining, a better standard of living for union members. This in turn, the union members feel, brings a sounder economy to the entire community, for by achieving better wages and working conditions for its members, the union not only attracts new members, but it also creates more purchasing power which in turn promotes community growth and well-being.

California Governor Edmund G. Brown, having reviewed Local 324's "1962 Annual Report," commented in a letter that "when the earning power of an organized group releases $45,000,000 per year into the economic flow of its environment, the nourishing effects extend far beyond group channels to a community-wide enrichment."

In 1963, because of additional members, wage increases and broadened benefits, the economic impact of Local 324 was without question appreciably greater than the $45,000,000 cited by Governor Brown.

"We don't seek anything which would adversely affect the community or the economy of the community," says Local 324 Secretary-Treasurer Arthur Z. Berland. "We recognize our responsibilities not only to our own members, but also to the various communities we serve. On the other hand, we're totally dedicated to the principles of trade unionism, without which our country would not have achieved its present-day standard of living."

More Precious Than Money

Proof that the union has achieved its aims of an improved way of life for its members is contained in the contracts under which the members work. Two major contracts which have stabilized wages, conditions of employment, and benefits are in the Food and Drug industries, where agreements have been negotiated on an industry-wide basis. These contracts not only set an excellent wage standard, but also provide union members and their families with a complete medical and hospital plan, including surgery, X-ray, laboratory work, home and office doctor calls, and maternity care. In addition, many contracts include dental and psychiatric care for not only the union member but family members as well. As the members themselves so often say, these health benefits are "more precious than all the money in the world."

Benefit Payments

Also included in many Local 324 contracts is provision for benefit payments to supplement state unemployment and disability payments, so that if union members are unemployed or disabled, they can still maintain a decent living standard.

Pensions for retiring union members are another proof of the effectiveness of the union in negotiating beneficial contracts. In addition to Social Security, retirees at age 65 with 30 years' employment in the industry covered receive over $100 per month as well as continuing medical care and a cost-of-living adjustment to their pensions. Those members reaching retirement age with fewer years of service to the industry receive lesser amounts, depending on length of service.

Governor Brown had this to say about Local 324's benefit programs: "It is particularly gratifying to note the part that your developed and negotiated benefit programs have played in providing not only economic stability but health preservation and cultural growth as well for your membership."

Credit Union

An additional service to Local 324's members is its Federal Credit Union, which offers them an opportunity to borrow at very low interest rates and to save with high dividend returns.

In 1963, the Credit Union disbursed more than $800,000 in loans, and at year's end, the share deposits representing members' savings were also over $800,000. For the fifth consecutive year, the Credit Union paid a dividend of five per cent.

Social-Fraternal Events, Personalized Approach Spark Union Achievement

FEATURED AT Local 324's annual Labor Day Picnic, fun and food for all the family.

Local 324's success story goes much deeper than the basic elements of better wages and conditions for those working under union contracts.

The union personalizes much of its activities. The 10,000 members are not just so many names on a roster; Local 324 looks on them as members of one big family, with mutual goals and mutual problems. And as a result, an unusual number of social and fraternal events are scheduled to bring members and their families together.

On Labor Day each of the last three years, more than 5,000 union members and their families have gathered for a gigantic picnic featuring food, fun, and frolic, and—on the serious side—major addresses from Governor Brown and other dignitaries. This event has become an annual tradition, a time when Local 324 families join hands in celebration of their union's achievements.

Another tradition is the Memorial Day Dinner-Dance, with dinner served under the stars and dancing in the union auditorium. This popular festivity attracts overflow crowds every year. It's obvious that the union members enjoy getting together for an evening of friendly camaraderie.

At Christmas, a special party is held for children of Local 324 members, with Santa Claus, special entertainment (this year it was a marionette show), and candy and a toy for each youngster. Here again, the members respond in large numbers for "their own" holiday event.

And still another innovation has been "Family Night"—a union meeting at which husbands and wives, and sons and daughters of members can see how a democratic union functions. The union feels that by bringing the family into the picture in this manner, everyone will have a better understanding of just what Local 324 accomplishes in behalf of the member and the family.

"A business corporation may be an impersonal thing to its thousands of stockholders," says Secretary Berland, "but a union can never be an impersonal organization to its members. The members of a union are the union and the union is a living, vital force in their lives."

Carrying the personal theme even further, the union sends birthday greetings to all members, and flowers and get-well cards to those who are hospitalized or ill. And when a member needs direct financial assistance, he may turn to the union's "Aid and Assistance Fund," set up specifically to help members when unexpected financial difficulties are encountered.

"We're here to help our members," says Secretary Berland. "In helping them, we help the community. That's what unions are for."

Arthur Z. Berland Heads Local 324 as Secretary-Treasurer

Guiding its destinies as administrative head of the 10,000-member union is Arthur Z. Berland, secretary-treasurer of Retail Clerks Union Local 324.

As executive head of one of the largest Retail Clerks' unions in the country, he is dedicated to rendering the maximum service to its membership and establishing a standard of living which benefits not only the members but the community as a whole.

The high degree of community respect for Berland and the union he heads has been graphically demonstrated during the past year as a direct result of Local 324's major contributions to community service. On behalf of Local 324 and its members, Berland has received honors from the American Red Cross, City of Hope, American Cancer Society, United Cerebral Palsy, Multiple Sclerosis Society, and United Way. All these organizations were given space for their own fund campaigns on 53 billboards posted throughout Southeast Los Angeles County and Orange County to call attention to the important role the Retail Clerks Union occupies in the community.

Berland's dedication to trade unionism, the guiding force in his personality, led to service as an elected Business Representative, Head of the Textile Division, and ultimately to his present position as Secretary-Treasurer. He was re-elected to office for a three-year term in November, 1962 by an overwhelming majority.

Berland's background embraces management as well as union administration, leading to an atmosphere of mutual respect and understanding between this union and employers in matters of labor-management relations.

"We are proud of our business-like approach in the conduct of our union affairs," Berland says.

"After all, meeting the needs of more than 10,000 union members is big business in itself, and it has to be approached this way."

Members Enjoy Many Services from 324

Inside Local 324's beautiful headquarters building, you'll find efficiency at work—a modern, departmentalized business utilizing the latest IBM equipment and methods to maintain up-to-the-minute records on more than 10,000 union members, without sacrificing warm human relationships.

In addition to necessary membership records and data on eligibility for various negotiated benefits (health care, pensions, etc.), the union maintains many services to its members — a credit union, job placement, grievance processing, insurance claims, and other departments.

The union publishes its own monthly newspaper, the Local 324 Reporter, which keeps the members up-to-date on all phases of union activity. The Reporter has been praised by labor leaders and government officials as an outstanding example of labor journalism.

One of the most significant special services to the union members and their families was inauguration of a college scholarship program, with $5,000 set aside annually to provide 14 scholarships during the academic years of 1962-63 and 1963-64.

Eligible to compete for the scholarship awards were Local 324 members, children of members, and wives or husbands of members. Selection of winners each year has been made by a Scholarship Committee composed of representatives of Long Beach State College, Orange County State College, Orange Coast College, and University of Southern California.

During each of these two years, one award of $750 has gone to a graduate student; a similar award ($750) has gone to an undergraduate student; two awards of $500 each have gone to undergraduates, and 10 awards of $250 each have been presented to undergraduates.

"We'd like to see the day when every high school graduate can look forward to attending college if he wishes," Secretary Berland says. "By assisting a number of students in continuing their education, we feel the union is making an important investment in the future of our country."

Thanks for Union Help

Democracy Is 324 Practice

Operating under democratic bylaws which call for membership election of all officers and representatives and members of the executive board as well, Local 324 projects its total democracy into every phase of union activity.

All actions of officers are subject to approval of the 18-member executive board and the membership.

"We feel that Local 324 is a classic example of democracy in action," Secretary Berland says. "We're proud of our membership participation and we want to keep it that way."

Step through the front door. You're greeted by modern decor, functional design, friendly personnel.

Friendliness, Efficiency Highlight All Departments in Local 324

Anyone entering the Local 324 office cannot help being impressed by the friendly, yet efficient way in which every transaction is conducted.

In addition to members stopping at the union office for business purposes, there is a constant stream of interested persons inquiring about job opportunities, seeking information regarding various stores in the area, and hoping for the chance to become a member of the organization.

The entire Local 324 office has been designed specifically with service to the members in mind. Procedures such as furnishing information, taking applications, issuance of withdrawal cards, and other matters pertaining to membership in the organization are handled in the "general office."

These and other functions have been completely departmentalized, to achieve the highest degree of efficiency, yet retain a warm cordiality that marks Local 324's sincere interest in everyone served by the union in any way.

No matter which department a person may be referred to, the same courteous, helpful manner is always apparent throughout the Local 324 headquarters.

Funds Aid 324 Members

As a vital part of its contracts, Local 324 has negotiated extra protection for its members against the misfortunes of unemployment, illness, and injury.

To go along with unemployment insurance provided under state law, the union adds extra dollars in Supplemental Unemployment Benefits from an employer-contributed trust fund.

In 1963, there were 3,637 such checks issued to Local 324 members, providing $78,948 to help them carry on until they returned to work and a regular paycheck.

And much extra worry about the family income was eliminated through the union's Supplementary Disability Benefit program, which paid out a total of $182,140, covering 4,426 claims.

Local 324's Claims Department, which processes the supplemental benefit programs, also assists the members in many other ways.

This department collected for union members during 1963 more than $8,000 in disputed state unemployment benefits, and processed 221 Workmen's Compensation cases, collecting over $26,000 for the members involved.

As another service, Local 324 collected almost $1,000 in members' wages through the State Labor Commission.

There were 82 cases of disputed sick pay provisions under union agreements, in which the Claims Department collected almost $6,500 for members concerned.

The value of the Claims Department is best illustrated by more than $300,000 being paid to Local 324 members during 1963, which re-emphasizes a union slogan:

"It doesn't cost—it pays to belong to Retail Clerks Union Local 324!"

Elected Business Representatives

Serving the membership of Local 324 in the field are the Business Representatives, who are constantly on the job of checking stores under contract with the union, to see that provisions of the agreements are followed without exception.

During 1963, there were almost 500 wage claims processed through Local 324's Grievance Department, with the Business Representatives collecting over $29,000 for members filing reports of contract violations.

There were also 36 members put back to work after being discharged — another typical example of contract enforcement by the Local 324 Representatives.

Local 324 Cited for Service to MS Fund Drive

TV's PERRY MASON—Raymond Burr—acting in behalf of National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Southern California Chapter, presented Local 324 with handsome plaque expressing gratitude for union's assistance in 1963 fund campaign, through use of 53 billboards posted by Local 324. Receiving award, at right, Secretary Berland.

Community, Union Share Auditorium

A source of great community pride is Local 324's beautiful auditorium, the largest and most modern in Orange County. In almost constant use, it serves not only for the monthly meetings of the union's members and for their social events, but also for important public and charity functions. In addition, it is available, at nominal rental, for use by conventions, trade shows, large or small meetings, and other group activities.

Seating 1200, and complete with catering kitchen, full stage facilities, and an expansive parking area, the auditorium is looked upon by Local 324 members as one more way in which they can prove their value to the community. They take great pride in their auditorium, just as they take great pride in their union and everything it stands for.

The sign permanently painted over the inside entrance doors of the auditorium is symbolic of what Local 324 members think of their organization, and what they believe others think of them: "THROUGH THESE PORTALS PASS THE MOST WONDERFUL UNION MEMBERS IN THE WORLD."

Of special interest during the past year has been development of a weekly teen-age dance each Friday night, supervised by the Buena Park Police Protective Association in cooperation with Local 324. The dances have been aptly described as "a positive plan designed to revive the concept of juvenile decency, to juvenile delinquency throughout the Buena Park area."

SYMBOL OF SERVICE TO ITS MEMBERS and THE COMMUNITY

RETAIL CLERKS UNION LOCAL 324 AFL-CIO

Retail Clerks Union Local 324 proudly displays its symbol, worn as a union button by retail store personnel throughout the area served by the union. The symbol has been featured in an extensive public relations program, using newspapers and a year-long campaign with 53 billboards.

Better understanding of the union and its accomplishments as well as public acceptance of the "Union Store" has been the goal of Local 324's continuous advertising campaign. In addition, the union has projected its public service contributions by use of slogans incorporated into its billboards, calling attention to major community charities and the need for their support.

The billboard program, largest and first of its kind by a local union, covers illuminated signs in Long Beach and Orange County with a daily circulation of 650,000 motorists. That's 237,250,000 viewer impressions a year! The signs advertise union stores, promote charities, and instill pride of membership in Local 324.

1,200 to Attend Luncheon Here for Rockefeller

BY BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

A capacity audience of 1,200 will lunch here Thursday with New York Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the Lafayette Hotel International Ball Room. The host committee said it will return money to an estimated 1,000 others who sought tickets but could not be accommodated.

Richard Sukman, committee chairman, urged all ticketholders to be prompt because of the Rockefellers' schedule, which allows them to visit here only between 11:30 a.m. and 12:55 p.m.

The Long Beach appearance will be the last of a three-day California visit by the Rockefellers in his campaign for votes in the state's June 2 presidential primary. The Republican governor will open his Northern California campaign headquarters in San Francisco Tuesday, his southern HQ in Los Angeles Wednesday.

Rockefeller will speak before a Wednesday-night dinner audience in the Hollywood Palladium over national closed-circuit television, a hookup which also will feature other possible GOP presidential candidates as well as declared candidate Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The Rockefellers' schedule includes a number of private meetings with party leaders and a public reception at Peacock Gap Country Club in Marin County, hosted by State Sen. Jack McCarthy and Assemblyman William Bagley.

Working with Sukman on local arrangements is a luncheon committee headed by George P. Taubman Jr.

WOMEN VOTERS

The 19 chapter constituting the League of Women Voters of Los Angeles County will meet from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday in the Furniture Mart, 1933 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, for a "Focus on Los Angeles County" program.

Participants in a county-government discussion will include members of the Board of Supervisors, the district attorney, assessor and sheriff.

Program features include a demonstration of voting machines and a panel discussion on rapid transit.

RESIGNS FOR ROCKY

A second member of the Republic State Central Committee, Vice President Mrs. Lee Sherry of Fairfax, has announced resignation from the committee in order to serve with the Rockefeller for President Committee.

Mrs. Sherry said she agreed with State Committee Treasurer Robert Rowan, first to resign, that party officials who support specific candidates in a contested primary should leave their committee posts.

Mrs. Sherry said she has endorsed and will work actively for Rockefeller "because he has a positive program —not just a list of things he is against. This is what women voters want, and they want a winner." She said the vast majority of Republican women "are not ultraconservative, as too many pundits would have it, but with enlightened stability. . . . The silent rank and file needs to find a home. It is here. Governor Rockefeller can win."

Bad Material Blamed in Navy Air Crashes

POMONA (UPI)—The commander of the Naval Air Force, U.S. Pacific Fleet, Vice Adm. Paul D. Stroop, Saturday stated faulty material plays a part in almost half of the Navy's aircraft accidents.

"During the last five years, 721 pilots were killed and 1,762 aircraft were totally destroyed," Stroop reported. The only cause of accidents more common than material failure was "pilot error," Stroop said. Pointing to the 112 Navy and Marines Corps pilots killed in fiscal 1963, Stroop commented that "this is approximately 10 percent of the yearly output of the Training Command."

Speaking before the 77th annual Inland Empire Quality Control Conference, Stroop said 23.3 percent of aircraft accidents last year were traced to faulty material. An additional 19.7 percent of accidents were partly caused by such failures making "a total involvement for material failure of 43 percent for fiscal 1963," Stroop said.

Stroop pointed to "a consistent downward trend in the accident rate." But he added quickly, the cost per accident increased from $286,000 in 1959 to a staggering $546,000 in 1963.

He said the 275 aircraft destroyed in 1963, 115 of them "high-performance, high-cost jets," were the equivalent of 10 new jet squadrons. This is "approximately 10 percent of the naval aviation combat potential," Stroop said.

POSTHUMOUSLY

Navy Man's Work Cited

Mrs. Lois Brissey, of 722 American Gold Star Homes, accepted a posthumous letter of commendation aboard the destroyer USS Cowell, citing her late husband, Edgar, for "outstanding achievement and superior performance of duty" while serving aboard that ship in 1962.

The award, signed by Adm. U. S. G. Sharp, commander-in-chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet, cited the first-class boilerman for his work in repairing the power mechanism of the ship under hazardous conditions. Brissey was killed in a shipboard accident aboard the Cowell in 1962.

562-TON SATURN TO BE LAUNCHED MONDAY

Moonshot Tests Slated This Week

CAPE KENNEDY, (UPI) — America plans two key steps this week in its climb to the moon with an orbital firing Monday of the rocket billed as the world's largest by the late President Kennedy, and a Ranger moonshot four days later.

The 562-ton Saturn-5, to be launched at 7 a.m. PST Monday is the forerunner of boosters that will hurl men to the moon before 1970. It will be the first in the successful Saturn series to carry a satellite.

The Ranger, sixth in its ill-fated program, is designed to provide the first close-up lunar pictures needed for manned landings. It is set to be rocketed into space Thursday.

It will be one of the nation's most ambitious weeks in its drive to conquer space. Russia's space program apparently also has been active. Last Thursday, the Soviet Union announced it had launched "new improved" space rockets expected to carry cosmonauts into orbit later this year.

RANGER-6, to be boosted on its 2½-day voyage to the moon by an Atlas Agena, has been revamped to get the nation's failure-plagued lunar exploration program moving. Five previous Rangers and nine other moon probes have failed, although a lifeless Ranger hit the moon in 1963.

President Kennedy proudly examined the towering Saturn and its $65 million launch complex at this sprawling spaceport six days before his death. In the last address before his assassination, he predicted the mighty Saturn would give the United States the lead in rocket power.

The 16-story rocket, first of the new breed of "superboosters," will carry a live second stage for the first time and will loft into orbit the world's largest man-made satellite — 18 tons of useless burned out rocket casing and sand.

Portugal Imposes Tax on Night Life, Casinos

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—A broad range of excise and entertainment taxes is building up Portugal's state welfare fund this year. The cost of night life is going up.

The government has imposed a 2 percent levy on the receipts of legitimate theaters and 10 percent on the take of casinos, dance halls and luxury class cafes.

Movie houses must turn over 5 percent of their receipts to this fund for the benefit of the underprivileged. Sports events, circuses and bullfights are assessed 3 percent.

A 10 percent tax is imposed on all wines and liquor consumed in hotels and restaurants and a further 10 percent is added to already expensive foreign liquors and tobacco.

The sale of every box of matches will contribute 10 centavos—about one-third of one U.S. cent.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Favorable Senate Vote Foreseen on Tax Measure

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

An $11.5 billion, two-year federal tax cut which President Johnson hopes will pump new life into the nation's economic stream became assured last week.

Americans in all walks of life will benefit. So will business.

The tax-writing Senate Finance Committee approved most sections of a bill already passed by the House and hoped to get it to the Senate floor this week for a certain favorable vote.

* * * *

THE PRESIDENT earlier had handed Congress a $97.9 billion "economy and progress" budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, along with a rosy economic forecast. But he had tied both to the urgency of tax reduction.

Without an immediate cut, he said, the present business boom could backslide into a recesson and higher red ink spending would be inevitable.

Senate investigators digging into the tangled financial affairs of former Democratic Senate Secretary Secretary Robert G. (Bobby) Baker disclosed that President Johnson, when he was Senate Democratic leader in 1959, was given a $580 stereo hi-fi set by Don B. Reynolds, local insurance dealer, at Baker's request.

The President called a press conference and volunteered the information that he had supposed the hi-fi was a present from Baker and that it was not unusual for him Baker to exchange gifts. He said Baker "expected nothing in return."

* * * *

JOHNSON said he had had no communication with Reynolds since 1957 when his wife and daughters took out $200,000 of insurance on his life after his 1955 heart attack. He said the insurance was taken out in the name of the family-owned LBJ Co., Texas radio-television station, to protect their interests.

Reynolds figured in the inquiry as an associate of Baker's. He admitted he had not communicated with the president either before or after the hi-fi was sent to the Johnson home.

French President Charles de Gaulle continued rocking the Allied boat with his announced intention to recognize the Red Chinese government, probably this week. The United States sent him a firm protest and in return got a short, dry rejection. American officials fear many of France's former colonies in Africa as well as other countries will follow De Gaulle's lead. Belgium and Mexico gave such hints.

STILL undisclosed were the terms Peking would attach to recognition but French sources said De Gaulle would not break relations with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist China which is based on Formosa.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said after talking with Johnson that De Gaulle was weakening the Allied position in turbulent east Asia. A bipartisan group of senators was gathering signatures to petition De Gaulle to abandon his plan. Japan was reported preparing to expand trade with Red China because of impending French recognition.

De Gaulle also was making overtures to Russia and Latin America. U.S. officials said his independent course seemed to be a reaffirmation of his goal of making France a world power at the helm of a Europe independent of the United States.

In Moscow, Khrushchev announced a new long-term trade pact with Communist Cuban Premier Fidel Castro whose allegiance to the Soviet Union and Peking has been divided. This was seen as a down-payment for Castro's support in Russia's ideological split with Red China. Castro flew to Moscow with hand out as the U.S. economic boycott made existence of his regime less tenable.

The U.S. State Department said Castro seemed to have "lined up" with Moscow against Red China as the price for needed Soviet aid. It also asserted that Cuban-trained rebels took part in the recent Zanzibar revolt.

In politics the field actively running for the Republican presidential nomination expanded to three when 56-year-old Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, announced his candidacy. The other two, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, were intensifying their campaigns.

Pollster Louis Harris reported, meantime, that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has announced he would accept a draft, "holds a decisive lead" among GOP voters and would run the strongest race against Johnson.

Stassen tried to get the 1956 GOP convention to dump Nixon as its vice presidential nominee. He said he was entering the race at the suggestion of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower who favors a free-for-all to stimulate interest in the party.

President Johnson's political aides circulated results of a Democratic-sponsored Pennsylvania poll purporting to show he would carry the Keystone state over any of the present or potential GOP candidates. At Newark, N.J., a campaign was started to persuade Johnson to tap U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson as his running-mate.

Rep. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late FDR, announced he intends to become a candidate for the California Democratic senatorial nomination. The seat is now held by Sen. Clair Engle, a fellow Democrat, who is running for re-election despite recent brain surgery.

The poll tax as a voting requirement in federal elections was outlawed automatically when South Dakota became the 38th state to ratify a constitutional amendment — the 24th — making it illegal. Poll taxes, now in force only in Virginia, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi and Texas, have been levied almost since the birth of the republic.

On other news fronts, the House Rules Committee deadlock on civil rights legislation—one of Johnson's priority programs — was broken and House floor debate on passage will begin Jan. 31, with approval expected by Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12.

Edward R. Murrow, noted radio-television reporter and commentator, resigned as director of the U.S. Information Agency and the Voice of America because of poor health. He had a cancerous lung removed last October.

The President named Carl T. Rowan, present ambassador to Finland, as his successor. Rowan, a Negro, was a reporter for the Tribune before joining the government in 1961. He will become the first Negro in history to sit in regularly on meetings of the cabinet and the National Security Council.

Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson visited Johnson and the two agreed to try and head off U.S.-Canadian friction through a new economic golden rule covering complex relations between the two countries.

Lamb Chop Breaks Ankle, Destroyed; Gun Bow by 12

By ERNIE MASON

Gun Bow won the $132,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes Saturday by 12 lengths but the Santa Anita feature brought tragedy — and death—to Lamb Chop, America's premier filly in 1963.

Lamb Chop stumbled in the backstretch, fell and broke an ankle and was destroyed soon after.

* * * *

JOCKEY Manuel Ycaza, who rode Lamb Chop to many of her nine stakes triumphs last year, was unhurt. But emotionally upset, he withdrew from the day's final race.

The speedy 4-year-old filly was running well in the rear of the field when she snapped her left front ankle. Taken to the stable area, Lamb Chop could not be saved in the opinion of veterinarians and she was put away by Dr. John Peters.

Gun Bow, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, was the betting favorite with the crowd of 52,925. Lamb Chop, the lone filly in the race, was the second choice.

Gun Bow, a stakes winner here last week, equalled the track record of 1:59 4/5 set by the great Round Table in the 1¼ mile race in 1958. Shoemaker was Round Table's rider that day.

Rocky Link was second in a photo-finish decision over Win-em-All, with Big Raff fourth.

The winner paid $6, $4.60 and $3.60. Rocky Link, with Don Pierce up, returned $25.60 and $13. Win-em-All, an entry with Sy Gem, paid $5.

The victory was worth $87,000 to Gun Bow's Gedney Farms.

William Haggin Perry, owner of Lamb Chop, was told that because the leg was broken completely loose, it was impossible to save the filly for breeding.

"She seemed to bobble the first time as she went by the stands," Ycaza said afterwards. "Then she bobbled again entering the backstretch and I thought she was going wrong. Before I could ease her up she snapped her leg.

"I feel very, very bad about this. Lamb Chop was really a great filly and this injury saddens me."

Jockey Longden hustled Nevada Battler into a quick lead, with Sky Gem and Win-em-All in close pursuit as the pack went past the grandstand the first time.

Lamp Chop was third from last at this stage. Gun Bow was rated around fourth, and moving in the second spot as they rounded the clubhouse turn.

Shoemaker kept Gun Bow within range of the front pace and then took over with a rush at about the half-mile point.

* * * *

A MASSIVE groan arose when the crowd saw the filly go down.

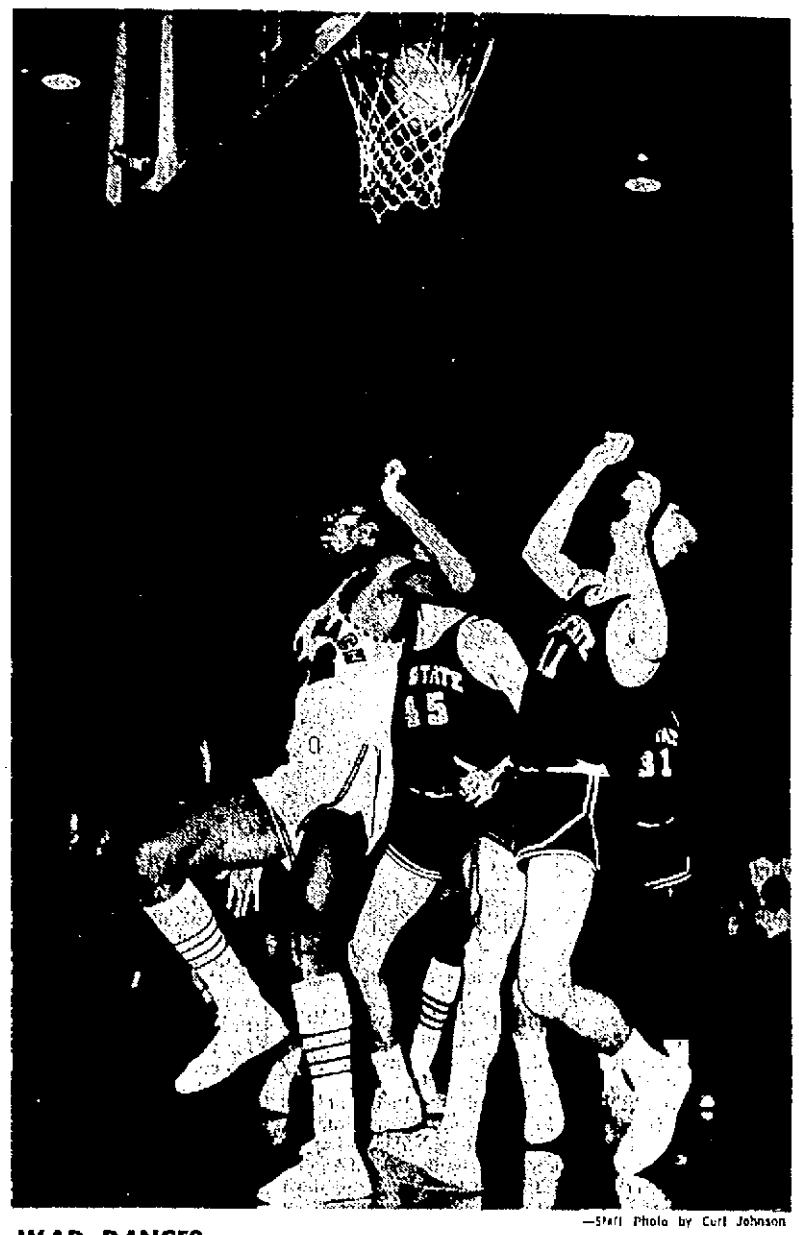

As Ycaza leaped off, she limped towards the outer rail but did not bolt. Ycaza walked over to her and held the reins as the race continued. She finally was taken off the track in the horse ambulance.

This was only the second race at Santa Anita for Lamb Chop since the meeting began Dec. 26. She finished a strong second to Gun Bow in an overnight race Jan. 15.

In the secondary feature, the $10,000 El Peco Ranch Purse, South African Colorado King scored a head victory in his U.S. debut.

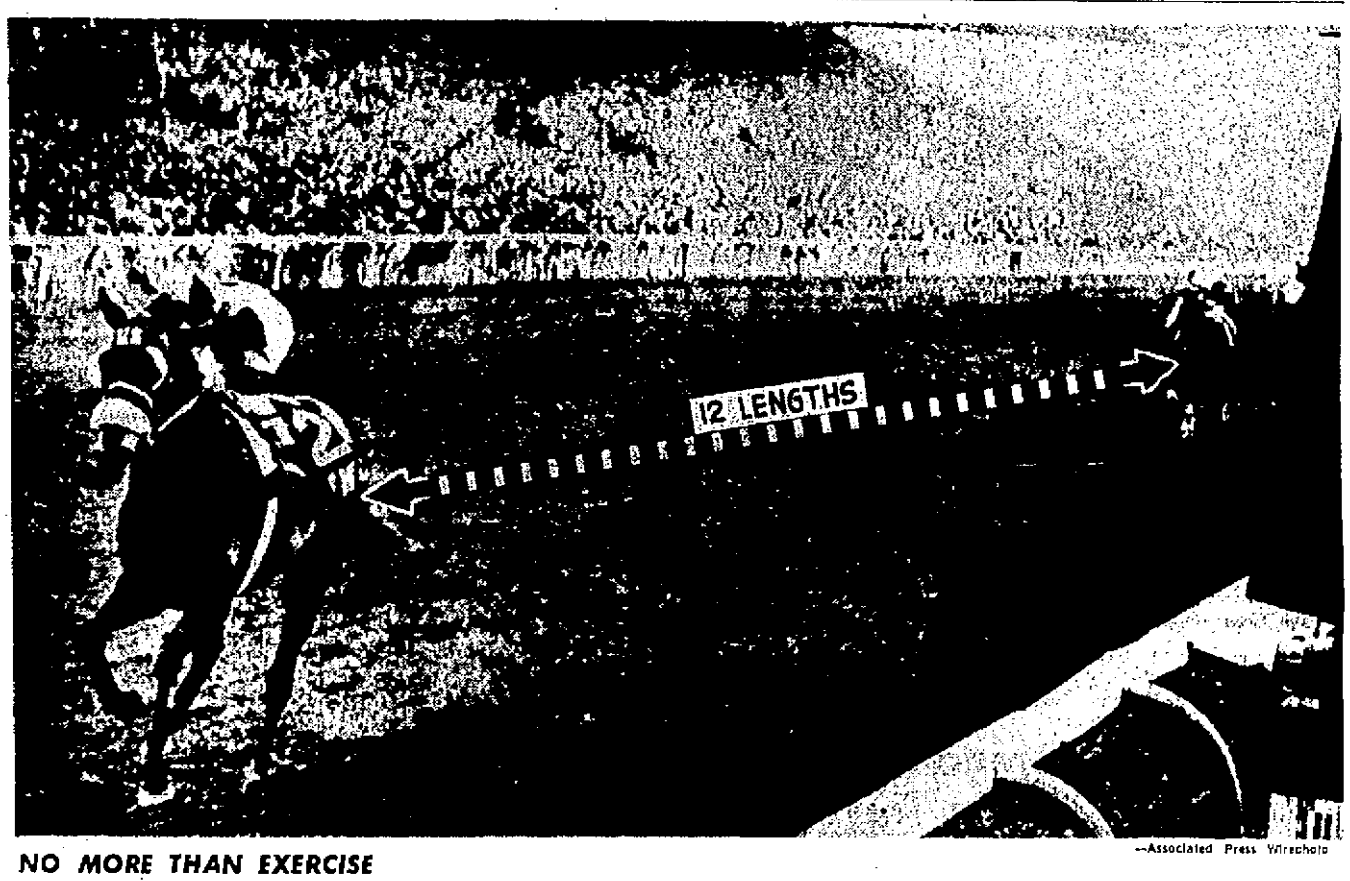

With Longden riding, Colorado King overtook Ronnie's Ace and Vetirok in the stretch of the 6½-furlong turf race. Colorado King was sent off as the second betting choice and returned $8.60, $6.20 and $5.20.

NO MORE THAN EXERCISE

RAMBO SCORES 37, BUT—

Diablos Dash 49er Title Hopes, 90-85, in Overtime

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State suffered a bitter 90-85 setback to Los Angeles State in overtime Saturday night to see its CCAA title hopes dashed before an incensed crowd of 1,500 in the 49er gym.

Trailing by 13 points in the first half, coach Dick Perry's beach city five shifted to a zone defense at intermission and when Lyn Hodge slipped in a basket as the final buzzer sounded gained new life, 72-72, forcing a five-minute overtime session.

Thanks to the herculean efforts of John Rambo, who scored 37 points, the 49ers jumped ahead, 77-75, but the Diablos then regained their poise and started a game-clinching rally.

* * * *

CLARENCE Wilson and Dick Barton scored baskets and with 1:04 to go, Wilson put L.A. ahead for good, 82-81. Jack Golphenee pumped in a two-pointer and Ken Renaud flipped in a pair of free throws to give Bill Sharman's freeway five an 86-81 advantage with 50 seconds to go. Rambo contributed with two free throws, but Caldwell Black wrapped up matters with two charity tosses with only 16 seconds remaining.

This was old hat for Black, for he made good on 16 attempts from the foul line. He led LASC scorers with 20 points.

* * * *

LOS ANGELES (4-1) now is only one game behind Fresno (5-0) as the first round of conference play drew to a close.

Rambo's sensational scoring output fell one point shy of Bill Florentine's school mark of 38. Rambo hit 15 of 27 field goal attempts along with seven free throws and was one of only two Long Beach starters not to foul out.

The game was only one or two elbows short of turning into a riot on several occassions. A total of 58 personal fouls were whistled—35 assessed against the 49ers.

Long Beach outscored Los Angeles by six field goals, 33-27, but the Diablos' ultimate margin was determined at the charity line. They converted 36 of 50 attempts. Long Beach was 19 for 29.

* * * *

JOHN BARNICOAT finished with 19 points for Long Beach before fouling out with 9:57 to go in regulation play. Ken Knapp, Al Windfeldt and Hodge followed him to the bench with five personals. L.A. lost three players—Wilson, Barton and Vern Jordan—on infractions.

L.A. shot 39 percent from the field (27 for 69) while Long Beach had another hot night, connecting on 33 of 74 shots for a 45 percent mark. The Diablos now have won eight of their last nine games while the loss snapped a three-game 49er victory string.

Blades Rap Canucks to Regain 2nd Place

By RICH ROBERTS

The Blades are back in second place in the Western Hockey League, but their sights are set higher than that.

Saturday night's 6-4 win over Vancouver pleased coach Alf Pike as well as 8,667 fans at the L.A. Sports Arena and put the Blades in a winning frame of mind for the next seven days.

"This is going to be the biggest week of the season," Pike said.

The "biggest week" starts tonight with a game at Portland, picks up tempo against league-leading Denver in Colorado Tuesday and Thursday, then sweep into a crescendo with two more against the pacesetters at home Friday and Saturday.

"Even three out of four against Denver wouldn't help us much with the lead they have," Pike said. "But four straight sure would."

* * * *

IDLE SAN Francisco fell back to third place from whence it had arisen in Thursday's win over the Blades, who never trailed in a free-scoring affair featured by Jimmy Baird's two goals against his former teammates.

Early in the first period the Blades had a 2-0 lead and early in the second they led, 5-2. But each time the Canucks, acting quite unlike the league's last-place team, charged back to apply the pressure.

The Blades' prettiest play of the game produced Baird's first goal and a temporary 2-0 edge. Marc Boileau brought the puck down the right side and centered it perfectly to Baird, who was waiting at the mouth of the goal.

* * * *

THE SAME combo improved on a one-goal win by ganging up on Vancouver defenseman Ron Matthews and an empty net with 19 seconds remaining.

But the Blades' "speed line" made the winning margin. Willie O'Ree got the fourth goal from a scramble at 4:38 of the second period and Stan Maxwell broke away from the right side 48 seconds later to make it 5-2.

All of the Blade lines were pumping the puck at Canuck goalie Marcel Paille, who stopped 42 shots to 27 for the Blades' Jim McLeod.

McLeod was embarrassed for Vancouver's third and fourth goals. Bob McCusker's shot appeared to be stopped, then crawled over McLeod's shoulder into the goal. Then Jim tossed a save right at the skates of Dave Duke, who took his time to fake the goalie for an easy score.

* * * *

BAIRD WAS named "star of the game," followed by Blade defenseman Harley Hodgson, who was instrumental in the work of the penalty-killing crew, and McCusker.

The Southern California Hockey Writers and the Blades Booster Club played to a scoreless tie in their broom ball classic that featured the best fight of the night.

Most of the players piled up in the writers' goal and the referee finished the game in the penalty box.

January Grabs Lucky Lead as Arnie Falters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Texas Don January finished his round with three consecutive threes Saturday to grab the third round lead from a faltering Arnold Palmer and a charging Ray Floyd in the Lucky International Golf Tournament with a 54-hole score of 204.

He fired a 36-34—70 for a one-under-par effort to take a one-shot lead over Palmer who had a 72 Saturday and Floyd, who had a 69.

Floyd, engaged in a head-and-head battle with second-round leader Palmer, had a chance to tie for the lead but bogied the final hole.

* * * *

THERE WAS A traffic jam at 206 involving Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico, Gene Littler, Jack Rule, Dave Ragan and Mason Rudolph. Rodriguez had the finest round of the day, a six-under-par 65.

January parred all holes on the front nine and appeared to be dropping out of contention when he bogied the 12th and 14th as he three-putted both greens. He had a bird on the 13th with a four-footer.

Then he started cracking his approach irons stiff to the pin. He hit to within 18 inches of the cup on the 16th for a birdie, parred the par—three 17th and then knocked a four-and one-half footer on the 18th for the bird that gave him the lead.

Meanwhile, Palmer, the second-round leader, ran into three straight bogies early in the going as he engaged in a head-and-head battle with 21-year-old Floyd, golf's 1963 "rookie of the year."

Floyd could have taken the lead with a birdie on the 18th, or could have tied for it with a par. But his approach shot missed the green and he chipped to within four feet of the hole. But he missed the putt for his only bogy of the day.

He hit 17 greens and had three birdies with putts of 18, 10 and eight feet.

January said that he played

Wounded Brito Fights Back

More than two years ago, the same dread disease that took the life of the immortal Lou Gehrig struck down the Ram's Gene Brito.

Doctors shook their heads and agreed on one thing: Gene Brito had no more than a few weeks to live.

Today, Brito is alive, not entirely healthy, but alive and with his wife and children. Frank X. O'Neil has forwarded an article from Columbia, the Knights of Columbus publication, that expresses the former all-pro's attitude today (an attitude we all might do well to consider).

GENE BRITO
Finds Silver Lining

"We're put on earth not to become rich or successful," says Brito, "but to become saints. If what has happened to me helps save my soul, I'll be a happy man."

A 10-year veteran of pro football, five times an all-pro end and once named the NFL's outstanding performer, Brito was being compared to the likes of Carlisle's Jim Thorpe, Notre Dame's George Gipp and Stanford's Ernie Nevers.

Then, without warning, in 1961 at the Ram camp in Redlands, it happened.

At first it was just a feeling of tiredness which Brito attributed to the hot weather and the fact he was a little out of shape. Later, when his tiredness gave way to complete exhaustion, he became alarmed.

When he tried to run his legs felt like lead, his cleats caught in the turf, his arms lost their muscle coordination.

When scrimmages began, Gene found himself hoping he'd be allowed to sit on the bench. The thought of having others notice his condition sickened him. Finally, almost too weak to move, he went to general manager Elroy Hirsch.

"Something's wrong with me," said Brito. "I don't know what it is, but I can't go on."

Stunned, Hirsch promptly arranged for Gene to enter a hospital and undergo a series of tests. When they were over, Gene returned to camp to await the verdict.

HIS WIFE, JUNE, broke the crushing news to him. "The doctors say you have peripheral neuritis of the lower part of your body," she told him. "They want to run more tests, but they said one thing was certain: You can't play football any more."

Crushed in soul as well as body, Brito left the training camp at once and returned home. Soon, he couldn't even feed himself or tie his shoes.

"I was all thumbs," sighs Brito even today. "When I tried to eat, I couldn't make the fork hit my mouth."

The hospital was the next step for Gene and his condition got so bad that in February, 1962, he was given the last rites of the Catholic Church.

For weeks, Brito lived in an iron lung, hovering between life and death.

Then, something—and even the doctors don't know what—happened. Brito was able to breathe for a minute or two on his own, then he graduated from the iron lung to a wheelchair.

IN AUGUST, 1962, a year to the day from the time he first became ill, Brito made his first public appearance on a football field. You may remember the occasion—when the Rams played the Redskins and Gene received a five-minute standing ovation . . . and, later, the game ball.

Though still in a wheelchair at his West Covina home, Gene has some comments that I think it is appropriate for all of us to study on this Sunday.

"Lots of people get bad breaks," says Brito. "It's what you do with them that counts. You can panic or you can get a new set of values. You can despair or you can put yourself in God's Hands.

"When I got out of service, I never expected to be anything more than a day laborer. I certainly never expected to go to college, much less play big time football—yet I did both and because of that I've made thousands of friends I could never have known otherwise."

"BEING SICK HAS ITS advantages," continues Brito. "It gives you a chance to explore the whole meaning and purpose of life. Before I became ill I had a normal, healthy interest in getting out and doing things—having a good time, in fact.

"Now I realize my outlook was a little hazy. I read or heard somewhere that our big job on earth is not to achieve happiness—but holiness. If being weak and helpless enables me to understand that fully, then I'm a very lucky man."

Whether he ever walks again, whether he is able to live normally as other men, is beyond human conjecture.

One thing, however, is certain: Gene Brito is not fighting his battle alone.

Without raising a finger—smiles Gene, "I couldn't if I wanted to"—his courage continues to get in motion a sort of nationwide emotional telepathy among people of all colors and creeds.

The cloud in Gene Brito's life does have a silver lining.

Wilt & Mates Overwhelm Lakers

LANCERS KNOCK OFF MILLIKAN, 57-53

By DOUG IVES

Underdog Lakewood High took over undisputed second place in the Moore League Saturday night as junior guard Tom Meeks provided the tie-breaking and insurance points that gave the Lancers a thrilling 57-53 win over arch-rival Millikan.

A crowd of 1,500 at City College watched the lead change hands 12 times before Meeks rammed in a long jumper with 2:28 left to snap a 51-51 tie, then sink two foul shots at 0:30 to put the game on ice.

Held to 12 points in his last two games, Meeks came through with 15 Saturday and with center Dick Nelson and forward Lee Waters combined for 44 of the Lancers' points.

Millikan, meanwhile, was virtually a two-man show with reliable Bill Johnston hitting 23 points and surprising Marlin Kidder 18. Snarlin' Marlin also pulled down 20 rebounds, one less than Nelson.

* * * *

THE LAKEWOOD trio turned out to be too much for the Millikan duo when it counted most as they scored every one of Lakewood's 16 fourth-quarter points. Nelson finished with 18 and Waters 11.

Millikan, which led by seven after the first period but went 5½ minutes without a point to open the second stanza to trail 25-23 at half, enjoyed its last lead (48-47) on Kidder's 12-foot jumper with 4:21 to go.

Meeks countered with a lay-in at 4:04, Kidder tied it with a foul shot at 3:48, then Nelson, on a pass from Rod Gaspar, scored on a cripple with 3:01 left. The Rams got even again, 51-51, however, as soph Bob Davis scored at 2:42.

After Meeks' tie-breaker, Waters tipped in Gaspar's missed free throw following a Lakewood stall and after both clubs failed on field shots, Meeks put it away with his free throws.

Millikan outshot Lakewood from the floor, but the taller Lancers pulled down 43 rebounds to the Rams' 29.

The victory gave Lakewood a 2-1 record and left the co-champion Rams at 1-2. The Lancers move up in class Wednesday when they host pacesetting Poly.

HEADED FOR KNOCKED NOGGINS?
The problem for Millikan High forward Joe Blake (left) is that if he charges after ball that bounced away from Lakewood's Tom Meeks, Blake is liable to smack heads as both bend over for it. But neither got konked and Lakewood went on to win 57-53 league decision.

Clash at LA Arena Tonight

By DON HARDIN

The Lakers and San Francisco Warriors war again tonight at the L. A. Sports Arena.

But the time, as usual for these Sunday affairs, will be 7:05 instead of the customary week-night 8:30 tipoffs.

Saturday night, in the second of the three-night series between the NBA giants, Wilt Chamberlain and Co. had much the best of it with a 120-95 victory before a sellout throng of 5,389 at the University of San Francisco gym.

* * * *

CHAMBERLAIN scored 40 points, 12 of them coming midway in the final period to put the game out of reach and the win was just as easy for the Warriors as the win obtained by the Lakers at the Arena Friday night.

Jerry West was held far below his normal average with 19 points. Dick Barnett led the local crew with 23 points and Elgin Baylor, still being held in check somewhat, had 22.

Now, if the 18-point win margin by the Lakers Friday, and the Warriors' bulge of 25 Saturday could be equalized tonight, we might have a ball game. The Lakers still are trying to shake off the pesky Warriors and St. Louis Hawks and are having little luck doing so.

Tonight's contest is a makeup for one originally scheduled when former President Kennedy was assassinated. Tickets for that Nov. 23 game will be honored tonight but others are available at the Arena box office and at Mutuel Ticket Agencies. Another crowd in excess of 10,000 is anticipated.

* * * *

ONE OF THE most interesting preliminary games of the season will be played starting at 5:30, so eat early or plan to do so late, because this one really is a treat. A hand-picked group of L. A. County All-Stars, including eight from the Long Beach Boys Club Assn., will face the nationally-famous trick ball-handling squad of boys from Tacoma, Wash.—the Cheney Studs.

The Studs, ranging in age from 11 through 13 as do the All-Stars, have appeared on TV many times.

2-Mile Triumph for Baillie

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—New Zealand's Bill Baillie sped to a meet record of 8:31.9 in the two-mile run Saturday night at the Oregon Invitational indoor track meet.

Baillie set the pace all by himself after European distance champion Gaston Roelants of Belgium dropped out with a pulled achilles tendon with 13 laps of the 22-lap race remaining.

The 29-year-old New Zealander, already the world record holder at 20,000 meters, was making his first indoor race and the only one on a short trip to the United States.

His effort was the highlight of a night which saw five meet records broken and the upsets of pole vaulter C. K. Yang, last year's most valuable performer here, and NCAA sprint champion Larry Questad.

Yang was beaten by unknown Nels Siverson from Washington State, who went 15-8. Yang's best was 15-4.

Wayne Herman from San Jose State scored an upset victory in the 60-yard dash in 6.3. Last year's NCAA 100-yard dash champion, Larry Questad of Stanford, finished third.

Olympic long jump champion Ralph Boston won the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.3 seconds with Steve Cortwright of Stanford right behind.

500—Larabee (Striders) 58.2, Payne (Oregon) 58.2, Knowles (San Jose St.) 58.5.

Pole vault—Siverson (Washington St.) 15-8, Yang (Pasadena AA) 15-4, tie between Watson (Oregon), Morrow (Oregon), Morris (Striders) and Hein (USC) 15-0.

Record Indoor 300; O'Brien Wins Shotput

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — Tom Robinson, a native of the Bahamas now running for the Toronto Track Club, established an indoor record for the 300 meters with a timing of 35 seconds flat in the Tournament of Champions Saturday night.

The distance is rarely run in competition. The mark is two seconds off the American outdoor record.

The old indoor record was 36.4 seconds, held jointly by George Short of the University of Alberta and Larry Dunn of Arizona.

Shot-putter Parry O'Brien of Pasadena, Calif. and Toronto's Bill Crothers also established Canadian records. Crothers hustled to a 1:09.7 clocking in the 600-yard run while O'Brien had a toss of 52 feet 2¾ inches.

Ramblers 'Shocked;' 'Cats Win

Compiled from Wire Reports

First it was the University of Cincinnati that started losing this college basketball season after a long rule on top. Now it looks like defending NCAA champion Loyola of Chicago is falling even faster.

Wichita, ranked eighth by UPI and in a tie for 10th on the AP poll, got a 29-point effort by Dave Stallworth to defeat the No. 2 ranked Ramblers, 80-76 Saturday night in Chicago.

The Shockers, racking up their eighth win in a row and their 14th against only three defeats, handed Loyola its third loss in 14 games and its second consecutive setback.

Free throws made the difference. Wichita sank 22 of 28, including its last 13 in a row, Les Hunter led Loyola with 36.

* * * *

AT GREENSBORO, N.C., Jeff Mullins scored three of his 33 points in the last minute of the second overtime as Duke, ranked eighth by AP and ninth by UPI, edged Tennessee, 67-65.

Kentucky enhanced its position of moving back up by exacting revenge against its jinx rival, Georgia Tech. The Wildcats pinned a 79-62 defeat on the Engineers after trailing 39-37 at half.

Snazzy Cazzie Russell had 34 points as Michigan defeated Michigan State, 91-77 before a crowd of 12,239 in East Lansing. However, the Big Ten star of the day was Ohio State's Gary Bradds, who had 47 points in a 98-87 win over Purdue.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Floridians Nancy Roth of Hollywood and Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach advanced to the finals of the Doherty golf tournament Saturday.

Hayes Ties 60 Yd. Record; 49ers 3rd in 2-Mile Relay

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — World record holder Bob Hayes of Florida A&M eased to a yard and a half victory in the 60 yard dash and tied the indoor record of 6.0 seconds in the Albuquerque Indoor Invitational track meet here Saturday night.

Hayes, holder of the indoor 60 and outdoor 100 world marks, was slow off the blocks but overcame an early half-step advantage by University of New Mexico freshman Bernie Rivers and tied the record.

Rivers was second in 6.1 seconds with Willie Williams of the Southern Cal Striders third in the same time.

Long Beach State finished third in the two mile open relay behind Oklahoma State and the University of Oklahoma.

THE 49ERS closed fast, but were hampered by Steve Tilney's slow 2:00 in the first half mile. Tom Jennings, 1:57.8; Ralph Lee, 1:55.5, and Darryl Taylor, 1:55.1 followed for a time of 7:48.4. Oklahoma State won in 7:42.8 while Oklahoma's time was 7:47.4.

Texas Southern was fourth in 7:48.5 and New Mexico fifth in 7:50.0.

Taylor, after running LBSC's best leg on the two-mile relay, came back to finish third in the 1,000 yard run. Jim Dupree of the Striders won in 2:18.4, ahead of Ron Singleton of New Mexico (2:20.5) and Taylor (2:21.0).

Colorado's Jim Miller upset Pan American Games' high hurdle champ Blaine Lindghen in the 60-yard hurdles.

1,000—Dupree (Striders) 2:18.4; Singleton (New Mexico) 2:20.5; Taylor (Long Beach State) 2:21.0.

COLLEGES TO ADOPT PROS' SPEED RULE?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alex Hannum, who has coached the San Francisco Warriors into a solid National Basketball Assn. contender this season, thinks the day is coming when colleges will adopt some form of the 24-second rule.

That is the deadline which a pro team must meet before it either gets off a shot or gives up the ball.

"The colleges are going through the same problems that the pros did before a 24-second rule was adopted," says Hannum. "They are trying to find some way to outlaw both stalling and deliberate fouls which a team commits when it is behind and wants to get possession."

Hannum said that the 24-second rule, which the pros launched in 1955, was designed to curb these abuses and not beef up the scoring.

"Before then, a pro team could nurse a five-point lead throughout an entire second half by stalling and the game would become a farce," Hannum said.

WYNN

Man to Man

SELVY

By JERRY WYNN

Chick Hearn calls him Pops.

Elgin Baylor calls him Rivers (for Old Man River).

Fred Schaus calls him his coach on the floor.

Call him what you will, Franklin Delano Selvy is the young "old pro" of the Lakers.

At the spritely age of 31, Frank has played for more clubs than any other man in the National Basketball Assn.—Baltimore, Milwaukee, St. Louis, New York, Syracuse, the old Minneapolis Lakers and for the last four years, our Lakers.

Selvy once was one of the game's most prolific scorers and he still holds the all-time NCAA records for average points scored in one season (41.8) and most points scored in one game (100). Today the former Furman flash rates as the Lakers' top playmaker and defensive specialist.

Who is really the "old man" of the Lakers, Frank, you or Elgin Baylor?

"Well, I really don't know. I know I just turned 31. Elgin claims to be 28 so I guess I'm the oldest. But I think all the talk about me being old is rediculous. Boston has eight players older than I am."

With all its accent on height, speed and ruggedness, do you think basketball is a better game today than it was 10 years ago?

"Yes. The players are better individually, and as a team game there's been a big improvement in the last few years. Five or six years ago, the offense had complete charge. Now the good teams are stressing defense and they are making it much tougher on the offense."

In a one-on-one situation, who is the toughest player for you to guard?

"I'll have to say Oscar Robertson. He has all the moves, can dribble and shoot with the best and he is such a big man for a guard. It's almost impossible to play him one-on-one."

As a well-traveled player, which city in the league has the best fans? Which city has the worst?

"We have the best. The people are much nicer here and don't boo as they do most places. Fans here also give a hand to opposing players. The fans are pretty good in Boston, but in most cities they're strictly for the home team. I've had rocks thrown at me in some places. The worst fans are in St. Louis."

What do you think of the officiating in the NBA?

"What they need is more good young officials like Earl Strom and Joe Gushue. Most of them are 5-foot-2, and where do they get them from? It's funny that there aren't former players officiating as in football and baseball. Officiating is a tough job and I have respect for all our men."

If you were a coach and starting a team, who would you rather have—Wilt Chamberlain or Bill Russell? John Havlicek or Jerry Lucas? Elgin Baylor or Bob Pettit? Oscar Robertson or Jerry West?

"Russell. He's such a great defensive man and rebounder. Lucas. A good big man like him is hard to come by. Baylor. In his prime he was the greatest, but it's very close between them. Robertson. He's the best player in our league today but don't take anything away from Jerry. They're mighty close."

What was the one shot you remember most vividly?

"I put one in from midcourt with two seconds left when I scored the 100 points for Furman."

What was the greatest thrill of your career?

"The greatest has been just playing for the Lakers the past few years and playing in the championship games. It's been a lot of fun and pride and great boys to play with."

Are you looking forward to playing the Celtics for the title again this year?

"I'm looking forward to playing somebody. I think we have the personnel to play in the finals again, and I sure would like to be on a championship team. We've come so close before."

Frankly, Selvy and the Lakers are overdue.

HONOR BILLIE AND WILLIE

Four Rams Join Sports Fete

Jockey Pete Moreno and four Ram players have joined the cast of celebrities for Tuesday's big Century Club Sports Night banquet in the Lafayette Hotel.

The Ram players, who will be headed by their coach, Harland Svare, are all-pro linebacker Jack Pardee, offensive lineman Frank Varrichione, linebacker Cliff Livingston and defensive back Lindon Crow.

Additionally, five more baseball players have accepted invitations to the affair which will honor Billie Jean Moffitt and Willie Brown as this city's co-athletes of the year: Bob Bailey and Tom Sisk of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Dave Adlesh of the Houston Colts, Joe Amalfitano (who'll report to the Angels this spring) and Tom Morgan, Angel relief pitching ace who will serve as special assignment coach this season.

Tickets for the big program may be purchased through Monday at any of the following locations:

Apple Valley Steak House, Rig Restaurant, Hoefly's Belmont Shore, Nu-Pike office, Kemy's sporting Goods and the Century Club office, 956 Locust Ave.

A partial list of guests who have accepted invitations to the 7 p.m. affair include:

DEAR BOSS:

Please Paraphrase Pact; Pennant Pay Preferred

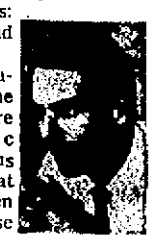

DEAR BOSS:

Thank you for joining in the spirit of baseball's annual pen and ink derby. I received my 1964 contract, but I am returning it unsigned.

Please understand that I appreciate your initial offer of a raise, or as you so aptly put it, "go take a hike." I must insist, however, that you be more specific.

The league's publicity men are kind enough always to pin-point increases. And this is relatively simple because there are only two types: the "substantial" raise and the "token" raise.

This immediately separates the men from the boys or, again to be more specific, the Cadillac drivers from the bus riders. I mean, what would you do with a token raise if you didn't use tokens?

LEDERER

* * * *

BEFORE I CAN pen my pact or affix my autograph to the document, as they say in the trade, I must remind you that I did not share in the Dodgers' record World Series split. The only thing I've ever split is an infinitive.

I'll admit you are being most generous in extending fringe benefits, such as increasing my hot dog allowance in the press box and letting me take along a doggie bag. This I appreciate.

But you don't seem to appreciate the fabulous season I had. Koufax can't come close to my records. (If he does, I'll have Frank Howard slap him.)

I led the league in earned run average. I was near the top in stolen phrases.

Strikeouts? My copy was full of 'em. Wasn't it you who told me never to use an eraser on a typewriter?

* * * *

ALL RIGHT, so I also led in typographical errors for the sixth successive year. But I can't take all the credit. The printers deserve their share.

I also had the fewest walks. You know what they say in baseball: Those walks will kill you every time. Anyway, why walk when you can get a cab?

Obviously, you don't realize I was away in front in double and triple-spacing. No singles for me, I'm a power hitter.

I'm also a switch-Ridder. Or have you forgotten that they use my stuff in Garden Grove?

I'll concede one point. I was far behind Vada Pinson and Earl Lawson in slugging percentage.

But I had my share of roundtrippers. Eighty-one of 'em, from the office to Dodger Stadium.

* * * *

I'M NOT ASKING for the Hickok belt. I've had one for 10 years. I've made it stretch around the loop.

You realize, of course, that the janitors at Santa Anita were given a raise recently and this set a trend. Jim Gilliam signed his contract for the "substantial" raise the next day.

You don't get the connection?

Ah, come on! He's the Dodger keystone custodian.

One more thing, boss. I know of two gardeners who make more than 100 G's. Sometimes they're called outer gardeners. Names are Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle.

Therefore, I think you should consider some sort of adjustment. And I know just what you'll say:

"Go see your chiropractor."

Sincerely,

GEORGE LEDERER

K.C. OFFERS FINLEY NEW 4-YEAR PLAN

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A smiling, affable Charles O. Finley took under advisement Saturday alternate four-year stadium lease proposals for his Kansas City Athletics, after telling the city he couldn't afford more than two years because of "bad publicity."

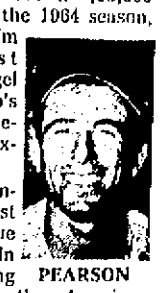

"I sincerely regret I can't accept a four-year proposal at this moment," Finley told city officials. "Bad publicity has given me, the ball club and the city a bad image.

"Four bad years would bankrupt me, but in two years I could bail myself out. However, we'd be happy to take your offers under advisement."

$10,500 Raise for Pearson

The grin Albie Pearson will be wearing at Tuesday night's Century Club banquet at the Lafayette will be in direct proportion to the $10,500 raise tendered him by Angels' general manager Fred Haney Saturday.

It took Pearson only seconds to approve a $33,000 contract for the 1964 season, making him the highest salaried Angel in the club's three and one-half year existence.

PEARSON

Pearson enjoyed his finest major league campaign in 1963, batting .304 to win the American League's centerfield berth in the All-Star game at Cleveland.

The Riverside rabbit took a $20,000 contract into the 1963 season and, as reported exclusively by the I, P-T, received a $2,500 raise early in July.

The Angels also signed a pair of rookies, outfielder Vic Antonetty and catcher George Pena. While Haney expects to have the complete roster signed by Feb. 17 when the Angels open spring training, he has run into a roadblock in the form of Dean Chance, who is demanding $24,000. Haney is offering $20,000.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron, the second-best home run hitting duo in National League history, came to terms with Milwaukee Saturday.

Mathews signed for $50,000 and Aaron agreed to a $65,000 contract.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds received Jim Dickson, a 25-year-old right-handed pitcher, from the Houston Colts to complete a deal which earlier this week sent end infielder Eddie Kasko to the Colts for pitcher Wally Wolf and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Other signings:
Yankees: Pitcher Al Downing (13-5).
Senators: Outfielder Chuck Hinton (.268).
Piratas: Pitcher Vern Law (4-5).
Orioles: Shortstop Luis Aparicio, pitcher Dick Hall, catcher Dick Brown.
Indians: Pitcher Pedro Ramos (9-8) and outfielder Tommy Agee (.274).

Homebreds to Share in L.B. Games' Prizes

The fleetest trackmen in the West have been invited to the first Long Beach Games Feb. 18, yet chances are good that the homebreds will win a few gold medals.

Long Beach has been a hotbed for track and field for more than 50 years, and 1964 looks like one of the best years of all.

Early entries in the Long Beach Arena meet comprise three individuals and eight relay teams.

* * * *

LONG BEACH State will participate in six events, its largest indoor representation in school history.

The 49ers will compete in college division mile and two-mile relays, Ralph Lee is entered in the 1,000, John Rambo will jump, and Dee Andrews will start in the high hurdles and long jump.

Jack Rose's 49ers set mark records in both relays in the recent L.A. Invitational. Lee was a college all-America last season in the 880, while Rambo America's newest seven-foot jumper. Andrews has scored 25-3½ in the long jump, and finished a strong second to No. 1 world ranked Hayes Jones in the Invitational hurdles.

Long Beach City College, winner of the state JC championship last season, will compete in the mile relay against teams from Compton, Santa Ana and Mt. San Antonio.

Wilson, Jordan and Millikan will have teams in the high school 12-lap relay, while Poly and Lakewood are entered in the four-lap sprint relay.

Tickets are now on sale at all Mutual and Liberty agencies and at Music City. Prices are $4 trackside, $3.50 loge and $2.50 general admission.

PRACTICE TIME?

To those who follow Shimer College's basketball team closely, it's no surprise it has a record losing streak going. Such obstacles as classroom chairs in the parttime gym during practice (final exams are on, you know) and barefoot players don't help.

SHIMER'S STREAK AT 51

Losses Pile Up... Nobody's Mad

MOUNT CARROLL, Ill. (AP) —Basketball at little Shimer College is taken with a grain of salt rather than an aspirin.

They have a 51-game losing streak, longest on record. And nobody's mad.

"I don't think we have the worst college basketball team in the world," said Hans Bühlmann, 28-year-old Shimer athletic director from the University of Cologne, Germany.

* * * *

"WE CAN'T beat anybody around here. But there must be a team in Mexico or Alaska that we could beat. Let's just say we are among the worst teams.

This relaxed approach symbolizes the over-all feeling of the academically-minded college with its faculty of 33 men and women, and a student enrollment of 325. It has been in business 111 years.

Academic Dean Robert Blackburn said that when Les Sheppard left as athletic director and basketball coach a year ago to go to a junior college in Alaska, there were 40 applicants for his job.

* * * *

"WE CHOSE Buhlmann," says Blackburn. "It was sort of a package deal. His wife, Karin, teaches French and life saving. Buhlmann, who teaches math parttime, coached soccer in Cologne, Iceland and Montreal. This fall our soccer team was unbeaten in eight games.

"I also think we'll have a good golf team this spring. I have named my wife, Mary Jane, as coach. She has a 14 handicap.

"We play teams like Roosevelt University (Chicago), Rockford (Ill.) College, Milton (Wis.), and such Iowa junior colleges as Muscatine and Clinton," says new basketball coach Bob Hartman.

"Our worst licking this season was 110-30."

"Our gym floor is only about half regular size so we play our home games in the Mount Carroll High School gym. We get 200 or so Shimer students at the games. They root all the time for us. I never yet have heard them boo. I have heard them laugh, though.

"There's not much we can do to improve the situation. However, we did cut our schedule from 23 games last season to 14 this time. "I am a left-handed shooter, and when I try to teach them shots maybe that confuses them."

Still Get Him in Five, Says Cassius

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Cassius Clay sparred nine rounds for charity Saturday night, then reiterated his prediction that he'll knock heavyweight champion Sonny Liston cold in five rounds.

"I can get him in five," Cassius told the crowd of 1,000 which bought $1.50 tickets to aid the United Cerebral Palsy Fund.

90-Hole Classic Begins at Palm Springs Wednesday

By JERRY WYNN

The golfing nomads invade the desert this week for the fifth renewal of the $100,000 Palm Springs Classic.

Instead of Lawrence of Arabia as a leader, they have Arnold of Indio . . . or Casper of Cathedral City . . . or Tony of Twentynine Palms . . . or Boros of Blythe . . . or Jack of Joshua Trees.

Instead of camels, they ride convertibles.

Instead of sabres, they brandish brassies.

There will be four exquisite watering-holes—Eldorado, La Quinta, Indian Wells and Bermuda Dunes—the lush likes of which would make any sultan sigh and swami swoon.

The area once was known as Palmer Springs to salute the three victories of Arnold Palmer. But last year, big Jack Nicklaus became known as Desert Fats with a playoff victory over Gary Player.

Action begins Wednesday and continues through Sunday in the only 90-hole tournament on the tour. Amateurs play with the pros for the first four rounds, and they include such noted sand-baggers as Bob Hope, George Gobel and Jim Garner.

The spa-tacular will feature a $10,000 hole-in-one jackpot. It will be sponsored by Kemper Insurance. Lloyds of London found too many aces among the pros.

BAVASI DENIES WILLS ASKS $65,000

Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi Saturday night denied reports that shortstop Maury Wills had indicated to him that he expected a $20,000 raise.

"I haven't talked to Maury about a contract yet," Bavasi said. "He and I haven't discussed the 1964 season at all."

A published report in Los Angeles said Wills told Bavasi he wanted $65,000 for the 1964 season.

Wills was paid $45,000 last year, which was a $20,000 raise over the year before.

'Big Jack' Began Trotters' Magic

When the Harlem Globetrotters made their annual visit to Long Beach last winter, they found our brand new Arena waiting for them. And like they have everywhere they have performed around the world, they promptly established an attendance record.

The Trotters drew 12,221 fans for their game, largest crowd ever to jam Long Beach's beautiful new arena for a single performance.

Another huge crowd is assured for this season's visit to the Arena Saturday night. The advance sale is even better than last year.

ABE SAPERSTEIN
Set Arena Record

And when the Globetrotters take the floor, it will be just like old times with them. For on the bench will be the legendary "Big Jack" — real name, Inman Jackson, one of the all-time great centers and the man credited with starting the team's fancy ball handling and comedy routines.

"Big Jack" is back on the road with the Trotters to assist Abe Saperstein with the coaching chores. Whenever Abe takes off on one of his numerous business jaunts that take him all over the globe—he's flown 4½ million miles, more than any other person in history — Jackson takes command of the club.

"Big Jack" has been with the Globetrotters almost since their inception, but in recent seasons has occupied a post in the organization's Chicago headquarters.

Jackson, whom Saperstein rates with Wilt Chamberlain as the two greatest centers ever to appear with the team, was one of the famous "iron men" of the early Globetrotters when they toured with just five players and Abe himself served as business manager, booking agent, bus driver and sometimes even as a substitute player in the event someone was injured or ill.

JACKSON STARTED THE ball-handling magic that has become the trademark of the Trotters, never realizing what effect it would have on the team, the game and the public.

The way the team traveled for one-night stands, the gruelling schedule that seldom called for an off-night, and irregular sleeping and eating left the players quite weary during their tours.

Thus, in order to give his mates a "breather" every once in a while during the games, he would balance the ball on his fingertips and roll it up his arm, around his neck and down the other arm. The fans went wild whenever he would go into his act.

That's what really started the Globetrotters on the road to riches and international fame which no other sports aggregation could begin to approach.

JACKSON'S ANTICS CONVINCED Saperstein that laughter was worth priority over basketball, although there had to be a balance.

Players were offered bonuses for any new stunts that might be used and Abe says "they wanted to get rich quick by the look of ideas they threw at me. They really came up with some crackpot stuff."

But they also came up with many of the basic stunts—such as the baseball and football routines—which still form the basis of their performance.

Jackson's main duty with the Globetrotters now is to teach newcomers to the organization, which sends out as many as three units a year, the ball-handling artestry that so delights fans.

THE GLOBETROTTERS HAVE swung into their 37th consecutive season of play on the heels of an outstanding '63 campaign that saw many more notable achievements written into their colorful saga.

Featuring their 14th overseas tour beginning last May, the Trotters made their first visit to Red-satellite Czechoslovakia where years of negotiations by Saperstein finally were culminated in the team playing six games before a total of 90,000 wildly-enthusiastic fans in Prague.

This brought to 81 the number of countries in which the fabulous magicians of basketball have performed. A few weeks later, they visited little San Marino to up the count to 82.

The tours of European and Asian countries have advanced the sport of basketball around the globe.

And the Trotters have become the "greatest group of goodwill ambassadors the United States has ever had!"

YOUNGSTERS IN LAKER PRELIMINARY

REVISE FORMAT FOR NATIONAL AMATEUR

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. Golf Association Saturday teed off on the format of the National Amateur championship by revising the method of play during the first two days of competition and cancelling the sectional exemptions previously granted to all former U.S. and British amateur champions.

Beginning with this year's championship Sept. 14-19 at the Canterbury Golf Club, Cleveland, the first two days will be devoted to 36 holes of qualifying medal play in contrast to the previous pattern of two rounds of match play.

Under the new rules, the only player exempt from the 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds is the defending champion.

After the first two days of the Amateur, the championship will continue as before, with four rounds of 18-hole match play, then two rounds of 36-hole play, within four days.

Under the all-match-play system, 72 of the 200 player field were eliminated the first day. The new set-up will provide all players with at least two days of play in the championship.

ARNIE'S ARMY received special marching instructions Saturday as its chief, Palmer, teed off in the lead at the start of the round.

Palmer commanded the day's huge gallery and it heard rules on spectator decorum before Arnie teed off.

He left in the final group to start touring the 6,772-yard Harding Park Municipal Course.

PALMER'S gallery was the only one receiving the special instructions.

On Friday, the army following Palmer called out "Charge" frequently and he responded. After the warning Saturday, the throng seemed almost intimidated and only clapped softly as golf's record money winner was announced at the tee.

KERR JOINS INDOOR MEET

One of track's most honored athletes, George Kerr, has accepted an invitation to compete in the fifth Los Angeles Indoor Games Feb. 8.

Kerr was a semifinalist at 400 meters in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne, a bronze medalist at 800 meters in the 1960 Olympiad at Rome. Kerr holds the indoor 600-yard run record of 1:09.2.

The feather-strider, now attending Oregon State, will oppose Roger Kerr of Iowa, Jim Heath of Camp Pendleton and Jay Luck, former Yale star, in the 600 at the L. A. Sports Arena.

LONG BEACH TO HOST WORLD KARATE MEET

The International Karate Championships will be held in the Long Beach Auditorium on Sunday, August 2, it was announced Saturday.

More than 200 of the world's greatest karate fighters are expected to compete, according to producer Ed Parker and tournament director Joe Fletcher.

Parker, author of two books on karate, and Nick Adams, star of the "Rebel" television series, will be present during a karate demonstration Tuesday night at the Century Club banquet at the Lafayette Hotel.

Karate (pronounced kah-rah-tay) is one of the oldest and most effective means of hand-to-hand fighting. Many karate experts can smash 10 clay roof tiles with a bare fist or break a heavy board with bare feet.

'Do-Nothing' WBA Policy Hit by Ortiz

Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz unloaded a verbal barrage at the World Boxing Association Saturday, charging it with harassing him and having a do-nothing policy for boxing in general.

The 26-year-old Puerto Rican, who now lives in New York, is training here for a few days before hopping off for Manila to defend his crown in a 15-round fight Feb. 15 with Flash Elorde of the Philippines.

The articulate and fiery Ortiz based his blast on the fact the WBA will not sanction as a world title bout his encounter with the world junior lightweight champion.

"It will be recognized in three-fourths of the world—by the British Board of Boxing Control, the Asian Boxing Federation, which belongs to the WBA, but not by the WBA. Why?" demanded Ortiz.

"They are trying to take away the livelihood of the most active fighter in the ring today. These people have done nothing for boxing in the past 13 years and boxing is going down and down because of them," declared Ortiz.

A $130 Jacobs custom surfboard will be given away as door prize. Tickets will sell for $1.50.

Results Close in 'Y' Judo Tourney

Results were close in all four divisions Saturday in a judo tournament held at the Downtown Branch of the Long Beach YMCA in connection with national "Y" week. Results:

Yonen (12): Three-way tie for first among T. Fuertsch (Lakewood), D. Matsuoka (Seinan Dojo) and Tatmarsch (Jundokan); Shonen (14): First—C. Nakawatase (Seinan Dojo), tie for second between E. Yoshimoto (Seinan Dojo) and D. Williams (Lakewood); Novice (over 16): First—S. Sullivan (Long Beach); Seinan (Brown belts): First—F. Kyle (Lakewood).

NFL Could Vote Ties in Standings

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The National Football League will consider altering its rules to make ties count in the team standings at the annual meeting opening Tuesday.

The system of ignoring tie games and figuring standings strictly on a won and lost basis almost produced a big controversy in the final stages of the 1963 season.

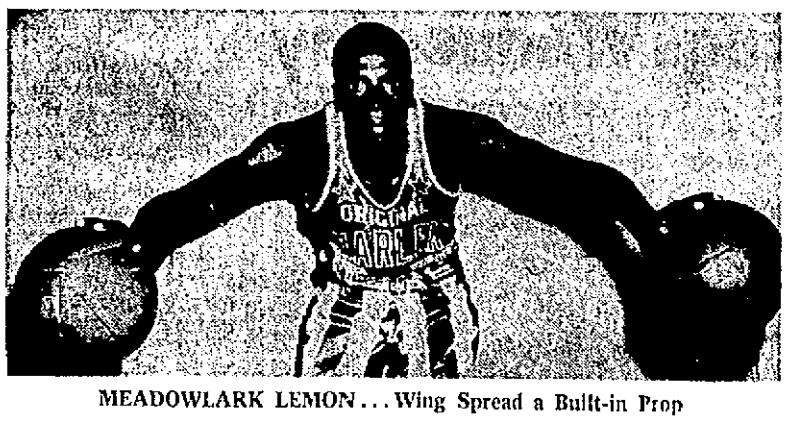

With one game to go — Pittsburgh at New York—the Giants had a 10-3 record for .769 and the Steelers 7-3-3 which, ignoring the three ties, is 7-3 or .700. If the Steelers had won the last game they would have had an 8-3-3 mark or .727 and the Giants 10-4 or .714. As it was the Giants won the game and the Eastern Conference championship and the Steelers wound up fourth.

* * * *

A PROPOSED amendment to the constitution would have tie games count one-half game won and one-half game lost. On that basis, a Pittsburgh victory in the final game still would have left the Steelers short of the title, for they would have a 9½-4½ record for .679.

Several college conferences, including the Big Ten, use this formula in figuring out their standings.

The league will consider this amendment but the guessing is that it will fail.

MEADOWLARK LEMON... Wing Spread a Built-in Prop

Meadowlark Has New Trick Bag for L.B. Date

Meadowlark Lemon, the clown prince of basketball, will open a new bag of tricks when the fabulous Harlem Globetrotters make their annual one-night appearance at the Long Beach Arena next Saturday.

Each year the Trotters add something to their world famous show, but it's Lemon, the No. 1 funnyman, who keeps the crowd in stitches.

He is in his ninth season as a combination of the world's greatest sports comic and star player.

Meadowlark (he insists that's his right name) first saw the Trotters play when he was 13 and that sparked the inspiration to become a member of this illustrious quintet.

After an outstanding high school career in Wilmington, N.C. that saw him gain all-state honors in football and basketball, Lemon showed up at the gym wanting a tryout with the Trotters. They liked what they saw and people the world over have likewise enjoyed watching his antics ever since.

Meadowlark is 6-2, long-armed and has an infectious grin, all fine props for his artistry.

As an added attraction, the NFL champion Chicago Bears will play a preliminary against a team of Long Beach newspaper and sports personalities beginning at 7:30.

The Long Beach Century Club will be represented by Ron Maury and Dean O'Hare. Also playing under the banner of the Century Club will be footballer Johnny Olszewski and Bob Wuesthoff, Fred Miller and Dick Perry, all coaches at Long Beach State.

Tickets are available at all Liberty Agencies including Wallichs Music City Stores, also Humphreys Music Co., Kenny's Sporting Goods and the Arena box office.

EARLY DERBY FAVORITE SIDELINED

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A blacksmith said Saturday that Hurry to Market, the 1963 champion 2-year-old, was suffering from an untreatable ailment and confirmed he would be out of action at least five months.

It was learned Monday that the big colt had a quarter crack in his right hind hoof.

The injury puts the horse, last year's winner of the Garden State Stakes, out of the Kentucky Derby. He was the early favorite.

Bill Banes, noted blacksmith from La Canada, Calif., said the injury was of such a nature as to be untreatable. The entire hoof will have to be cut away and a new one grown, Bane said.

Trainer Dave Erb said he would point the horse for stakes and handicap races at Chicago in the late summer and fall.

INTRODUCE $10,000 DRAGSTER

Jack Wayre of Garden Grove (left) and co-owner Glen Ward, Santa Ana, driver of big (150 in. wheel base) fuel dragster, which they've been seven months building (at $10,000 cost) and will speed test in today's race program at Lions Drag Strip.

McEwen-Ivo Duel on Fuel Today at Lions

Fuel dragster racers from many parts of the nation will move into Lions Drag Strip today, for final action before "the big interlude," when drivers themselves take over next weekend.

Operators of the big 223rd St. raceway have turned next Saturday and Sunday action over to the United Drag Racers Association for an all-out dragster meeting, with $10,000 prizes at stake.

Jack Ewell, president of UDRA, says the greatest array of fuelers ever assembled at Lions will compete.

The Tom McEwen vs. Tom Ivo duel features today's program which also marks appearance of veteran star Glen Ward, in a new $10,000 fueler, co-owned with Jack Wayre. It's claimed to be revolutionary.

Gates today open at 9:30 a.m. with eliminations from 1 p.m.

Saturday night's stock results:

AFX top eliminator, Gas Ronda, Downtown L.A. Ford, 12.04 seconds ET, 119.20 mph. Runnersup (setting course records)—Ray Hayden Pontiac, Yesker Bros. Plymouth, Downey. Record ET, 11.42; record top speed, 122.11. 1337 special — Bill Strunk, Tustin, Chev. 409, 13.14 seconds ET.

2nd Death in 'Worst' Olympics

INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — Death came to an Australian skier on the fastest downhill slope in the world Saturday and two other Olympic contestants were injured in a continuing series of mishaps unprecedented in the history of the Winter Games.

Ross Milne, a 19-year old tobacco farmer from Myrtleford, Victoria, was killed when he lost control at over 60 miles an hour and "catapulted like a bullet" into a tree on the Patscherkofel, one of the mountains towering over this ancient town.

It was the second fatality of the training sessions in the past week. On Wednesday, Polish - born British toboggan rider Kazimierz (Kay) Skrzykecki, 58, died of a heart attack induced by shock and injuries suffered in a floodlight workout.

Milne, who had been skiing for only three years, was dead when a helicopter brought him to hospital a few minutes after the crash.

Two Liechtenstein skiers crashed close to the spot where Milne was killed within minutes of the fatality. Edmund Schneider, 22, fractured his left arm, injured his left shoulder and suffered severe concussion. Wolfang Ender, 17, broke his leg moments later.

Also in a hospital, in a condition described as "very dangerous", was German toboggan competitor Josef Fleischmann, 21, who crashed at high speed last week.

K. S. (Sandy) Duncan, secretary of the British Olympic Assn., said, "In all the years I have been concerned with Olympic Games I cannot recall such a series of calamities." Another official called it "a disastrous beginning to what should have been a sporting frolic."

* * * *

FATALITIES are not unknown in winter sports, but never before has there been such a tragic start to a Winter Olympics.

Officials hastened to defend the "perfect condition" downhill and toboggan trails. But today's training has been canceled and the course will be carefully inspected.

"The trouble is that even unskilled racers want to take the same track as the top boys," an expert said. "They shouldn't do it. They build up too much speed and lose control."

* * * *

THERE WAS still another important accident. Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., is on crutches and may be lost to the U.S. ski jumping team. He fell in practice. "He was one of our biggest hopes for a medal," said a U.S. team official.

Saturday's competition highlights:
The 1948 hill record for four-man bobsleds was broken 19 times in practice runs. The best was 1 minute 2.99 seconds for the mile route by eighth-time world champion Eugenio Monti of Italy. "This was one of the greatest days in the history of bobsledding," said a U.S. official.
Russia's hockey team slammed in five goals in the final period to defeat a Canada-dominated U.S.A. Innsbruck team 7-2.

Longshot Nabs Main at Hialeah

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) — Ogden Phipps' temperamental Royal Ascot found Hialeah to his liking Saturday for a one-length victory in the $33,400 Royal Palm Handicap.

Rated expertly by jockey Wayne Chambers, Royal Ascot circled most of the 12-horse field in the stretch and came with a final rush to beat Merry Ruler for a payoff of nearly 15-1.

Belgage, a 60-1 chance, finished third another length back.

Royal Ascot, whose record shows that he either wins or is completely out of the money by a long margin, paid a handsome $31.80, $14.60 and $7 for a $2 bet across the board. Merry Ruler was worth $6.60 and $4.40 while Belgage paid $17 for show. Time was 1:23 1/5.

PARIS (AP) — A field of 19 trotters was named Saturday for today's $100,000 Prix D' Amerique over the Vincennes course.

Three of America's aces—Porterhouse, Duke Rodney and Elaine Rodney — are in the 1 5/8 mile event.

Duke Rodney, a 6-year-old owned by Patrick Di Gennaro of Rochester, N.Y., and driven by Bill Haughton, has been installed as the favorite at 5-1.

DICK NEN
At Blair Field Today

Dodgers Face L.B. in Playoff

The best pitching against the best hitters. That's the baseball bill of fare at Blair Field this afternoon in the semi-pro Winter League playoff opener.

The Long Beach Rockets, league champions, meet the Huntington Park Dodgers, the runnerup club. The Rockets have the strongest pitching. Huntington Park has the strongest hitters. The first in the best-of-three series begins at 1:30.

Butch Hughes and Terry Richards will share the pitching for the Rockets, as they have most of the season. Their job will be to stop such power hitters as Dick Nen and Jim Campanis.

Nen, former Long Beach State College first baseman, made his major league debut a memorable one by hitting a home run for the Dodgers in the pennant-deciding series at St. Louis.

* * * *

CAMPANIS, son of Dodger scouting director Al Campanis, hit .300 in his second season of pro ball at Salem, Oreg.

Ex-Long Beach City College stars Jim Jenkins and Downey Thomas also play for Huntington Park.

The Rockets have had to scratch for runs, winning mostly by one or two-run margins. Their power hitter of late has been Nick Hopkins with home runs in three of the last five games.

BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Lass Holds U.S. Gold Medal Hope

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Winter sports athletes from 35 countries, trained to the highest peak, were poised for the opening of the ninth Winter Olympics in this Alpine capital Wednesday.

All but a few stragglers among the expected 1,270 athletes are on hand, including a pert Oregon State coed who carries the best hope for a U.S. gold medal.

The Olympic flame has arrived by plane from Greece, and is ready to light up the torch in the opening ceremonies Wednesday morning.

Only the snow is missing.

* * * *

IT HASN'T snowed much in Innsbruck since mid-November, and the ski slopes for the games have been carefully packed by hand with snow trucked in from surrounding valleys.

Some 3,000 Austrian soldiers, dressed in spotted brown camouflage uniforms that blend into the snow-bare hills, did the packing job.

Officials still hope for snow, but they say the Games are going on as scheduled whether they get any or not.

The men's giant slalom has been shifted downhill about 100 yards, and the women's downhill race has been shortened, because of the snow shortage.

Otherwise, all is ready, even though man-made.

* * * *

THE WEATHER is predicted to be clear and cold most of the Games.

The Russians, who are competing in their third Winter Olympics, are expected to dominate the unofficial team standings, but many of the nations entered have a specialty where they expect to win medals.

The host Austrians have trained harder than ever before. So have the French.

The Russians have pointed vigorously for the Games. The Americans began sending teams to Europe well before Christmas, and have the best-honed team in history.

* * * *

AMERICAN hopes for gold medals are concentrated in Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., and Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., in the Alpine skiing events.

Miss Saubert, a 21-year-old student at Oregon State University who hopes to join the Peace Corps someday, has recovered from an attack of the flu and probably is the best American bet for a victory.

Pretty, husky Soukje Dijkstra of Holland, the world figure skating champion, is rated a strong favorite for the women's gold medal. Americans should place well up in figure skating but are not expected to win, in a sport that follows form closely.

After the opening ceremony, only hockey and figure skating are on the program Wednesday.

Utah St. Aide

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — George Porter, offensive backfield coach during the past season at Washington State University, Saturday was named assistant football coach at Utah State University.

LBYC Has a New Commodore

Richard N. (Dick) Brookins, a man with a contagious smile and a quiet driving force that takes him places, became the commodore of the Long Beach Yacht Club the other night, replacing Frank L. Mansuy, who has done a lot for that club in 1963.

Dick Brookins is a native son, having been born in Santa Ana and having spent his entire life (residence, that is) in California, with a great part of it in Long Beach at 5500 The Toledo. That is where he lives now with his wife, Vera. Their one daughter, now Mrs. Veralie Nicgols, long ago sailed from the family nest and now has three sons of her own.

RICHARD BROOKINS
LBYC Commodore

Dick has been in the LBYC 12 years, has a 40-foot Chris-Craft, Molowa, and strangely enough, is a skin-diving devotee. He has spent many hours in that sport at Catalina.

Last summer when 30 couples from the LBYC took a Pacific tour, Dick was one in the party and friends insist that he found more interesting creatures under the ocean than they did while touring Tahiti and its neighboring islands, Moorea and Bora Bora.

Dick was once the commodore of the Corsair Yacht Club. Also, he was once the commander of the Long Beach Power Squadron, in which he takes a most active part. At the moment he is publisher of Current Action, the LBPS's monthly publication.

BROOKINS IS EXECUTIVE vice president of the Essick Manufacturing Company, Los Angeles, which makes and sells construction and road-building equipment and evaporative air coolers and appliances.

He will have a powerful lot of help from his officers. First of all, his vice commodore is Robert (Bob) Pierce, the original No. 1 Hammond Organ hustler and often referred to as Mr. Piano. Pierce is the man who edited and published the "Long Beach Yacht Club Pictorial Log," a book of real beauty and a rare tribute to the club.

Other officers are William Dalessi, rear commodore; Donald Horton, fleet captain; Harold Drake, port captain; Konstantine P. (Costa) George, judge advocate; Jack Kirschke, secretary, and Frank Mansuy, treasurer.

Those and the following comprise the board of directors:

Clive Graham, Robert Clark Sweet, Donald E. Leedom, Norman Masterson, Fred S. Singer, Ray Fosholdt, Richard J. Barry Jr. and Cliff McElroy.

It is interesting to note that the LBYC was organized in 1929, but for years had no place to call home. It finally established a small structure that was inadequate, but at that time Hitler was snorting in Europe and along came World War II. Nobody paid much attention to yachting in those days.

WORLD WAR II ENDED and several years later a drive was launched for a new clubhouse after the Long Beach Marina was designed and construction was started. The YC had its "keel-laying ceremony" on Jan. 1, 1960, and its "launching" on Dec. 16 of the same year.

The club has 800 members and more than 450 boats are involved in that membership.

It also is interesting to note that back in the early days of the LBYC power-boat races from here to San Francisco were considered the greatest events on the Pacific Coast. Nobody seems to know just why those races were discontinued.

Richard (Dick) Loynes, now deceased, was the club's first commodore. He had the reputation of being "a young man in a hurry," no matter what he did. He won speedboat racing cups by the dozen and then climaxed all his feats in 1939 by winning the Transpacific Yacht Race to Honolulu in his 106-foot yawl, Contender.

LBYC always sponsors classes of sailing races in the annual Midwinter Regatta, along with the Los Angeles YC, Cabrillo Beach YC and Alamitos Bay YC. Some of the sailing races are run in Alamitos Bay, others in the outer harbor and still others in the open sea.

This year, the club wil handle the following classes of sailing craft:

H-28, Schock 25, Cal-24, L-24 Luders-16, Rhodes-19, Electra, Trinton, Cal-28, Columbia-29, Columbia-24, Challenger, Tunderbird and MORF.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of several columns concerning yacht clubs and yachting events in this area. Others will appear at intervals and will concern not only the LBYC, but Alamitos Bay, Cabrillo Beach, King Harbor, Corsair, Los Angeles and Newport Harbor YCs.)

L.B. Soccer Club Takes Day Off

The Long Beach Soccer Club is idle today and won't resume Pacific League competition until next Sunday when it will oppose Hermosa at Pan American Park. Long Beach has a 7-5-2 record and is in fourth place.

State cup playoffs have caused many teams to be idle today. The Pacific Soccer League has now been split into two eight-team leagues with Long Beach in the Northern Division.

Pro Soccer Games Set for Coliseum

The International Soccer League, sponsor of international pro soccer in the East during the past four years, will play six regular season games in the Coliseum this summer, it was announced Saturday.

Participating in regular pro league games will be leading clubs from six countries, including Scotland, West Germany, Yugoslavia, Brazil and Austria.

Roebuck; Bailey Join All-Star Benefit

Washington pitchers Ed Roebuck and Don Rudolph, Red Sox outfielder Roman Mejias and Pittsburgh infielder Bob Bailey have joined an all-star squad of major-minor leaguers for the Southern California Baseball Assn. annual Medical Benefit game.

The Major-Minors, managed by the Phillies' Gene Mauch, will meet the Dodger All-Stars, managed by Lefty Phillips, Sunday, Feb. 9 at La Palma Park in Anaheim.

The charity contest will mark the professional debuts for Dodgers Kenny Washington Jr. and Gary Holman. Both starred on USC's 1963 national collegiate championship team, Washington is an outfielder, Holman plays outfield and first base.

Phillips also will have the services of two first-year Dodger bonus players, outfielder Bill Parlier and first baseman Wes Parker. Parlier slugged 24 home runs and drove in 96 runs at Santa Barbara, while Parker batted .315 with Santa Barbara and Albuquerque.

The Dodger squad includes Ron Fairly, Wally Moon, Bob Miller, Doug Camilli, Dick Tracewski and Lee Walls.

WE WANT YOU TO KNOW

WHY GENERAL TELEPHONE WON'T SETTLE THE 100 DAY OLD STRIKE

Sunday, January 26, marks the 100th day of the strike of nearly 9,000 members of the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, at General Telephone of California.

In those 100 days we have taken every honorable step possible to settle this strike. We have offered to submit the dispute to binding arbitration. The company refused. It will accept only complete capitulation.

The conclusion is inescapable: General Telephone of California does not want to settle this strike. It is interested only in breaking the strike and our union.

We want you to know the company will neither break our strike nor our union.

As the President of our union, Joseph A. Beirne, said in Long Beach: "We have spent $2,000,000 from the union's defense fund to meet the needs of our members on strike. We have five times as much more available and when that is gone our credit is good."

But we are not engaged in a mere test of strength with the billion dollar General Telephone Co. We repeat. The single issue in this strike is simple justice. That means equality of treatment for all the telephone people who work on the same street on the same job and live in the same wage area. We have the same problems to face and the same prices to pay as the employees of other telephone companies.

General Telephone has denied us this simple justice of equal treatment, and the subscriber pays — in constantly deteriorating service.

The company in a desperate campaign of terror, is saying that strikers are being permanently replaced. As president Beirne said at Long Beach "The CWA has never abandoned a member and never will."

The strike has lasted 100 days. It will continue to last until General Telephone of California recognizes its obligation of service to its subscribers and justice to its employees.

Tell Oil, Gas Stake in Tax Law Program

By Harry Wilson Sharpe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The oil and natural gas industry could jump for joy this week or seethe, depending on how it looked at tax law changes going through congress.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are at stake.

There was bad news for big American companies operating overseas and for domestic producers who now lump their good and poor holdings together to take full advantage of the 27.5 percent depletion income tax allowance. But there were compensating factors for both such as the 1962 investment tax credit, fast depreciation write-offs, and consolidated income tax returns.

* * * *

THE CHANGES are all part of the $11.5 billion House-passed tax cut bill which the Senate Finance Committee has approved and will send to the Senate floor for an early vote.

* * * *

BUT THIS will not be easy. Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., heads a small but vociferous bloc determined to cut the depletion allowance and to sidetrack other proposals tending to favor the industry.

Waiting on the sidelines to see what Congress finally does is Federal Power Commission Chairman Joseph C. Swidler and his four colleagues. It seems certain they will have to recast scores of pending rate cases to conform with the new law and also rewrite some of their ground rules.

* * * *

HERE IS what the Senate Finance Committee did on oil and gas provisos as it completed action on the tax bill:

U.S.-Owned Companies Operating Overseas — Allows such companies to continue using any excess foreign tax credits arising from the depletion allowance in actual production operations to offset the American tax on earnings from production-related operations such as refining, marketing and pipelines. If accepted by the House, it will cost the companies $10 million a year. It would have cost $40 as originally drafted.

Artificial Groupings — Adopted a House provision that would outlaw the lumping together of widely scattered holdings — both losers and profitable ones—to take the depletion allowance on the whole works. This would cost the industry $40 million a year and make it much simpler for the FPC to arrive at a fair rate base.

Investment Tax Credit — Adopted a House provision to prevent the FPC from forcing companies to pass along to consumers in lower rates a 3 to 7 percent tax credit for each year's investment in new plant and equipment. The 1962 law was enacted at the late President John F. Kennedy's request to pump new life into the economic stream.

Consolidated Tax Returns — Adopted House provision to outlaw 2 percent penalty tax on companies filing consolidated tax returns. Such returns would cover returns of subsidiaries which no longer would file separate returns.

Depreciation — Adopted a House proviso allowing the depreciation write-off in an investment tax credit to be based on the full price of a plant or machine. In the 1962 law the Senate forced adoption of an amendment that required businessmen using the tax credit to make a corresponding cut in any annual depreciation write-off that was deducted from taxable income. The change can cost the treasury $185 million a year now and still more in the years ahead.

Poets Get $1 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — The Poetry Society of America has received a $1 million bequest. It's believed to be the largest ever given an organization of poets.

Countess Alice Fay De Castagnola of New York, who died last September, made the bequest, it was announced at the society's 54th annual dinner.

A spokesman said income from the trust fund will be used for scholarships, grants, publishing and book-buying.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson painted a glowing picture of business last week—if the income tax cut is quickly enacted.

His qualified prediction that 1964 will be a year of soaring prosperity came in his annual economic message to Congress.

Meanwhile, the tax reduction bill was approved by the Senate Finance Committee and indications were that the House-approved measure would reach the Senate floor next week.

The stock market apparently liked what it heard from the President. It spurted to another historic high.

Here's what Johnson had to say about the economy:

Gross national product (total of all goods and services)—it topped the $600 billion annual rate for the first time during the final quarter of 1963 and is expected to hit $623 billion in 1964.

Personal income—attained an average per capita of $2,500 in 1963 for an after-tax total of $500 billion; expected to increase by $8.8 billion.

Corporate profits—totaled $51.3 billion and, after taxes, $25 billion; an increase is expected.

Employment—exceeded 70 million with an unemployment rate of 5.5 per cent of the labor force; the unemployment rate is expected to drop to 5 per cent.

Despite the bullishly optimistic predictions, Johnson made it plain he was not satisfied. He said:

"New high ground is not the summit. That still lies ahead. Our 1961-63 advance — though impressive, sustained and noninflationary—has not gone far enough and fast enough."

* * * *

HE INCLUDED in his message a price-cut proposal by his Council of Economic Advisers. They singled out the automobile industry as a possible area.

Coupled was a suggestion that in certain industries the overtime pay rate be boosted as a means of spurring an increase in jobs.

The automobile industry was silent on the price-cut suggestion, and some labor leaders said they couldn't see how higher overtime pay would result in more jobs.

Johnson followed up his economic message with his budget message, calling for an $97.9 billion expenditure in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and halving the deficit of the current year.

* * * *

DEMOCRATS HAILED the proposed budget as a realistic effort at cutting down expenditures. Republicans contended it was full of gimmicks.

The automobile and steel industries continued to forge ahead.

Automakers turned out an estimated 178,500 passenger cars, up 12 percent from the 158,805 assembled last week and up 18 percent from the 151,416 of a year ago.

Twelve of General Motors' 23 plants and 4 of Ford's 16 worked six days.

Steel production climbed by 5 per cent last week, reaching 2,130,000 tons against 2,120,000 tons the previous year. For the first three weeks of this year output was ahead of a year ago by 10.2 per cent.

* * * *

THE NATION'S stockholders in 1963 reaped a record harvest of $16.2 billion in dividends, the Commerce Department reported. This was 7.5 percent higher than the $15.1 billion paid in 1962 by corporations issuing public reports. Big boosts were made by automobile, oil and machinery companies.

Economic statistics continued to come in for December. Personal income rose to a record annual rate of $475.2 billion from $472.6 billion in November. However, new orders for durable goods declined for the second consecutive month, dropping to $17.8 billion from $18.2 billion in November.

An attempt to raise the price of aluminum ingots failed when Aluminum Co. of America refused to go along with a one-cent-a-pound boost by Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., Reynolds Metals Co. and Aluminum Ltd.

Rocky to Get Kuchel Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., was reported Saturday preparing to announce his support of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination.

The San Francisco News Call Bulletin said Kuchel was expected to make his indorsing statement coincide with the opening of Rockefeller's California campaign in San Francisco Tuesday.

Coffee Country Short of Coffee

SAN JOSE, Jan. 25 (AP) — Costa Rica, one of the world's major suppliers of coffee, has run short of coffee for itself.

The government has asked congress to permit adulteration with corn so that available supplies may be used to meet export commitments.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

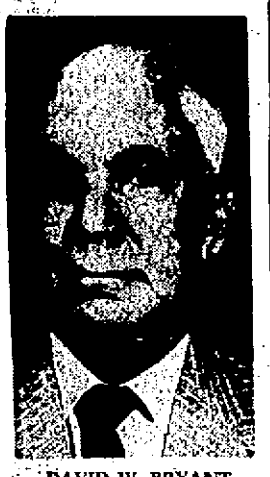

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He told us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

DAVID W. BRYANT
Re-elected

D. W. Bryant Nurse Unit Head Again

David W. Bryant has been re-elected president of the Visiting Nurse Service, United Way agency member which provides part-time bedside care for patients in the home in Long Beach, Lakewood, Dominguez and Signal Hill.

Other officers are Olin Peterson, vice president; Mrs. John Harris, second vice president; Martin Katte, treasurer and Mrs. Ether Thompson, secretary.

Newly elected to the board are: Dr. Everett J. Carmody, Edward Gray, Mrs. Mabel Hoffman, Mrs. Josiah S. Mertz and Katte.

In addition to home nursing, the service said nurses spent more than 400 hours at the Long Beach Day Nursery.

Recent addition to the staff, through a grant from the Rheumatism and Arthritis Foundation, is a part-time physical therapist.

Omarr Reads the Stars

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Break out of rut." Life will take on added glow. You can now see your way clear to greater achievement. Family inspiration important. Attend church of your choice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Ideas flow quickly—be selective. Don't juggle facts, figures. See picture clearly. Avoid scattering your forces. Fine time for romance, creative endeavors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Cycle remains high. But you should do something to correct budget leak." Good time to make basic changes. Be inspired by words of spiritual adviser. Be willing to listen.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Cycle at peak. You can gain admirers by stressing originality, independence. Take a chance on your own abilities. Lead rather than follow. Stick to principles.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Think matters over; be thorough. Get sane advice from one who has experience. Important that you have time to yourself. Be gracious, but refuse to let others take advantage of you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Fine for special contacts—making new friends. Welcome suggestions. Be adventurous. Others will be attracted to you. Exude confidence. Turn on Virgo personal magnetism!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The more initiative you display—the better! Many who previously were indifferent are now willing to listen. Be specific. Emphasize ability to handle responsibility.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be aware of need to communicate, make appointments and verify "promises." Key is ability to follow through. Attend to details personally. Evening fine for extending knowledge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Fewer drive, ambition beyond. Examine your motives. Be positive you are not acting merely to impress others. Key is sincerity, self-understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): Could be minor where communications are concerned. Don't judge others until facts are at hand. Be lenient. Give associates benefit of doubt. Above all, be patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): More strength on your side than you might imagine. Those who work with or for you will prove loyalty. Stress appreciation. Your past determination can now pay off.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): Knowledge will clear away emotional debris. Means avoid needless worrying, brooding. Good Moon aspect coincides with affection, love, pleasure. Day promises relaxation, enjoyment.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you are capable of handling huge projects but often "trip" over minor matters.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Practical issues demand attention. Those who talk in rhymes and riddles are ridiculed.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don't swerve too far from regular routine. Resist temptation to throw caution out of window. Be patient. Don't trade the tried-and-true for an unknown value.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your sparkling wit, vitality come to fore. Be expansive, generous. Being "friendly" is of paramount importance. One who previously was critical will come over to your side.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Money matters highlighted. Check budget, figure ways of saving. But don't try to substitute for quality. Be sure to voice your convictions.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Cycle remains high—ideas are plentiful. But you must be selective. Family member can provide aid. Accept hand of friendship. New contacts will pave way for future profit.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Fine for remembering past favors. Visit those confined to home or hospital. Take time to acknowledge one who makes friendly gesture. Financial deal approaching climax.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Friends due to ask advice. Don't take back seat—assert yourself. Present ideas. Help associates with important project. Be diplomatic but firm. Have your say now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Now is time to get started. Impress higher-ups with ideas, display of energy. Put ideas to work. In personal life, appreciate loved ones—show you understand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good Moon aspect coincides with added knowledge gained through written word. Fine for writing, publishing, communications. Display originality. Be independent.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Idea received concerning avocation could add to money in the bank. Pay heed to minor matters. Piece together bits of information. Complete story will prove valuable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): Inner confidence necessary. Don't permit outside influences to discourage you. Realize adverse conditions are temporary. Make pressures work for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Key is service. Help others and you will be aided. Practice Golden Rule. Be available for "extra duty." Strive toward majority. Avoid petty actions. Don't cast first stone.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): Favorable lunar aspect indicates evening fine for romantic endeavors. Enjoy yourself. Pursue creative activities. Help younger person to understand.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you often have "psychic" impressions which prove accurate. Trust your intuition.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Leo, Virgo, Libra. Special word to Aquarius: Practice moderation. Means self-control makes you stand out as "winner."

Dog Walks 250 Miles to Get Home

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI) — Argo, a 5-year-old Dauchshund, came home after apparently having walked 250 miles.

The dog's owner gave him to a friend on the Italian mainland five months ago. For the return trip, Argo apparently hitched a ride on a ferry to cross the Straits of Messina, since it was unlikely the small dog could have survived the swift currents in the straits if he had attempted to swim.

Plantation Fires

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — Police Saturday investigated a series of fires on eight cane plantations which burned over 1,400 tons of sugar. Arson was suspected.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITIES

It has been exceedingly rare that the Los Angeles County Hospital System, largest in the nation, has been able to offer high level positions to experienced nursing administrators outside the system. However, with the recent opening of our eighth hospital, we need people for the following positions.

Asst. Director of Nursing I $575-$715

First-level nurse admin. Work in such areas as insuring high level patient care, charting procedures & liaison with medical services.

Requires a combination of training and experience equivalent graduation from a diploma school of nursing and 3 years's experience as an RN in a hospital, one year of which must have been in supervis'n, of a professional nursing staff or a ward unit of a nursing service.

Asst. Director of Nursing III $641-$797

Upper level administrative work, e.g. budgets, staffing, training, policy interpretation.

Requires a combination of training and experience equivalent to graduation from an accredited college and 4 years' experience, 2 years of which with a Master's degree must have been in an administrative capacity or in the supervision of a group of wards or a specialized service.

There are vacancies at both levels at El Cerrito Hospital, 1401 Chestnut, Long Beach.

16'x38' Pool

A custom styled contemporary home with the utmost in living comfort is just waiting for you. This splendidly built 3-bedroom castle is ideal for entertaining with its 26' covered patio overlooking the custom built 16'x38' swimming pool, complete with diving board, marine lights & all extras, plus a handy cleaning room, separate kiddies' yard and many types of tropical shrubs and plants. Other features to be found outside are a separate hobby shop, trickling falls, peppergate alcove walks, tall pine trees, etc. Inside this charmer you'll find a spacious kitchen that includes range and oven, refrigerator, clothes washer and a large built in breakfast nook, 3 spacious bedrooms, hardwood floors, covered with soft wall to wall carpeting, picture windows and more. This home is located on a tree lined street and has an estate sized 125' lot, 2-car garage, many trees and is vacant, immediate possession. Hurry on this one.

Only $18,950

The Thriller

Is the best way to describe this huge custom built home that offers 4 king sized bedrooms, a 25' den with its own floor to ceiling fireplace, (also a 2nd fireplace in the giant piano sized living room.) A formal dining room for entertaining in a big way. Handy snack counter, that also seats a crowd, tiled off the beautifully designed kitchen. Hardwood floors, wall to wall carpeting, forced air heating & loads of highly polished panelling. This home is in excellent condition and offers approximately 2400 very livable square feet, plus an oversized 2-car garage, wood shingle roof and more. Situated on a quiet street on a huge 115' lot, this palace is within walking distance to a major shopping center & schools & churches. Must be seen to be appreciated.

Only $30,950. Submit terms.

"LET ME SELL YOU MY '64 DEMO"
say the salesmen at LOS ALTOS FORD

This has been the year of the test drive and in such a short time we have already taken customers on over 3,100 test drives demonstrating '64 Total Performance Fords.

Now we are giving up the keys to 28 demonstrator and executive cars that have been used for demonstration purposes. All 28 have no more than been properly broken in, pampered and cared for daily by our service department. Naturally we cannot sell these as brand new cars so the profit has been written off for demonstration purposes and now we are offering them to you with TREMENDOUS SAVINGS.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER
TOO MUCH . . . OR . . . TOO LITTLE

★ There is hardly anything in the world that some man cannot make a little worse, and sell a little cheaper; and the people who consider price ONLY are this man's lawful prey.

★ It is unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money—that is all. ★ When you pay too little you sometimes lose everything, because the item you bought is incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do. ★ The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little, and getting a lot.

New Film Studio—In Spain

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The most modern movie studio yet held a grand breaking ceremony last week.

But not in Hollywood. It's being built in Spain, near Madrid, by Samuel Bronston. The producer, in town recently with models of the new layout, has come up with one idea that the stars all love.

Bronston's new studio will have more than luxurious dressing rooms. It will have its own hotel with apartment living quarters for stars of Bronston movies.

Bronston doesn't think of himself as a runaway producer.

"My organization is global. Our offices are in London, Paris, Rome, Beverly Hills, Buenos Aires and Tokyo. Moviemaking nowadays is an international business. Even the stars come from all corners of the earth.

"I'm an American employing hundreds of Americans in Spain—and hundreds of other nationalities, too. The movies derive their revenues around the world. Why shouldn't they spread the work?"

He makes no secret of the attractive Spanish cost factor involved. His "Fall of the Roman Empire" is more lavish than "Cleopatra," which cost $40 million.

Bronston, in Spain, brought it in under the $16 million budget.

TV Lines Improve With Age

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Those delayed television films sometimes give double meaning to innocent lines.

In a Feb. 8 Joey Bishop show, Leo Durocher, currently headlined in an alienation of affections suit, speaks this line:

"I'm a baseball man, not a ladies' man."

Show Times

Here are starting times of features in Long Beach theaters as listed by theater managers:

YVETTE MIMIEUX . . . Choosey About Roles

ACTING SINCE 16

Yvette Escapes Teen Cast Trap

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Blonde actress Yvette Mimieux has escaped the trap of teen-age casting that engulfs many of Hollywood's young performers.

Miss Mimieux, now 21, has been acting since she was 16. She has managed to evade those Hollywood producers who would have cast her as a young ingenue with flopping eyelashes. Many actresses who started their careers as teen-agers never got out of high school in the dramatic sense.

As a pretty 16-year-old it was only natural, by movie production standards, that Yvette should have been cast in a series of high school-type pictures. She wasn't.

"I played leading roles, even in my first pictures," she said. "I was opposite Rod Taylor. I didn't do teen-ager things."

* * * *

MISS MIMIEUX has been under contract to Metro Goldwyn Mayer studio for four years. The pact runs out in a couple of years and Yvette will be free to work for other studios.

Her acting has been confined to motion pictures. But recently she appeared in a two-part "Dr. Kildare" show.

The young actress is a beautiful blonde but she has brains to go with her beauty. She has definite ideas about her career and is willing to fight for them.

Under terms of her contract, she is obligated to make pictures for MGM. But on one occasion, she fought the studio brass, refusing to appear in a film. The studio suspended Yvette for six weeks.

* * * *

"IT WASN'T so much the quantity," she said. "It's finding quality pictures. I wouldn't mind making three pictures a year but they're hard to find.

When Yvette is no longer under contract to Metro she plans to make her own pictures.

Ex-Straight Man Martin Funny Just Being Natural

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Dean Martin strode into 1964 recognized as one of the natural funnymen of our time . . a one-time straight man singer for Jerry Lewis who can make people laugh effortlessly . . . yet one whom Hollywood movies and TV still haven't yet let be as funny as he can be.

"Dino" likes to say to his pal Frank Sinatra "Be yourself, Frank, hit somebody in the mouth."

MARTIN

When Dean, Frank and their buddy Sammy Davis Jr. appeared at the Las Vegas Sands' 11th anniversary, Dean bowed to Frank and said, "It's your world, Frank; I just live in it." Picking up Sammy Davis in his arms, he said, "I would like to thank the NAACP for this handsome trophy." He then remarked to Sammy, "If it hadn't been for Lincoln, we could have got a good price for you on the open market."

The public has come to believe the fake picture Dean has painted of himself as a drunk. He was stopped on a California highway while completely sober, and a couple of cops said, "Now let's see you walk this white line."

Staring down at it, Dean exclaimed, "Without a net?"

* * * *

GOV. ROCKEFELLER was trying to raise liquor and auto license taxes. "He's going to lose all the drunken driver votes," warned Bernie Kamber . . . Dick Gregory welcomed news of a tax cut: "I can use the tax refund to pay my taxes" . . . After a visit to Paris, George Jessel said, "The trouble with DeGaulle is, he thinks he's Jack Paar" . . . Toots Shor remarked about Sonny Liston: "Whatever he tells you to do, I would" . . . Johnny Carson, summoned to appear before the Harris Committee investigating TV ratings: "On my old show, I had a minus 2. Nobody was watching the show, and two who weren't, were knocking it."

The cannibal mama said to the cannibal baby: "Don't talk when you have people in your mouth" . . . The woman driver said, "What I don't like about parking is that noisy crash at the end."

Jack Benny was roasted by the Friars." Jack doesn't have a enemy in the world—he's outlived them all," said Marty (Hello Dere) Allen. Woody Woodbury, who arrived with clean jokes, an oversight, said: "I went over like an expectant mother in a bikini."

* * * *

TIME MAGAZINE'S party for its cover subjects brought hundreds of celebrities, including Gina Lollobrigida in low-cut bodice with a rose in it. A newspaperman commented: "Never saw so many guys interested in floriculture in my life" . . . Bright new comic Woody Allen guessed that his marriage failed because his wife was immature: "Every time I was in the bathtub she'd come in and sink my boats."

Alan King, one of the most quoted comics, successful picking on the big institutions, went after the doctors. "I got a brother who's a doctor—went to school from the time he was 5 till he was 38," King said. "He's not really a doctor yet. He's a recommender. He looks at you and recommends you go and see a doctor." King also said: "A sense of humor is not laughing at a man who slips on a banana peel. When a man who slips on a banana peel laughs, that's a sense of humor."

The Boom in Buena Park

Famed for years as location of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Knott's Berry Farm, and before that an area where coyotes roamed, Buena Park now is in an era of industrial growth. Photos shown here were taken in Buena Park plants. For story of business development as told by H. A. Chamberlain, city's building superintendent, turn to Page R-2.

Delicate touch of machine operator Clifford Jones at Georgia Pacific Corp., Buena Park, tests thickness of cardboard strip in production (upper photo). Other pictures, taken at Alloy Die Casting Co. plant, also at Buena Park, show workman ladling hot metal into die and diemaker Charles Hawksford intent on some closeup work. Georgia Pacific plant is located at 6300 Regio Ave.; Alloy at 6550 Caballero Blvd. Area's central location in Southland and access to rail and freeway facilities provide attractive inducements to industry.

Buffums' Will Expand Store to Pacific Ave.

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Buffums' downtown Long Beach store will add an additional 13,000 square feet, giving the store several new or enlarged departments, Vaile G. Young, president, announced Saturday.

Signing of a long-term lease with the Jotham Bixby Co., for the building on Broadway extending from Pacific Avenue east to the present Buffums' building, was disclosed by Young as he told of the expansion plans. This lease will provide Buffums' with a full block on Broadway. The master lease is subject to an existing lease with the Magic Mirror Beauty Salon, which occupies a portion of the structure.

* * * *

THE MAIN structure under the new lease, fronting on both Pacific Avenue and Broadway, will be occupied by Buffums' Interior Design Center, which will be able to execute a complete job of designing any given interior from conception to completion in the most tasteful and fashionable manner, Young said that Buffums' Sportsman's Shop also will be located in the Broadway building.

Edward Killingsworth of Killingsworth, Brady & Associates, architects, is preparing plans for extensive remodeling of the leased structure at a cost estimated at $200,000. Work is scheduled to start March 1.

* * * *

WITH THE Interior Design Center, Buffums' will have a complete home furnishings operation. In the center will be carpets, rugs, decorator furniture, lamps, wall accessories including pictures and a complete line of decorator wallpapers.

The decorating staff will be headed by John Nicholson, A.I.D.

To round out, more completely, the home departments there will be a new Sleep Shop in the main store which will carry a complete line of mattresses, box springs, headboards, studio couches and sleep accessories.

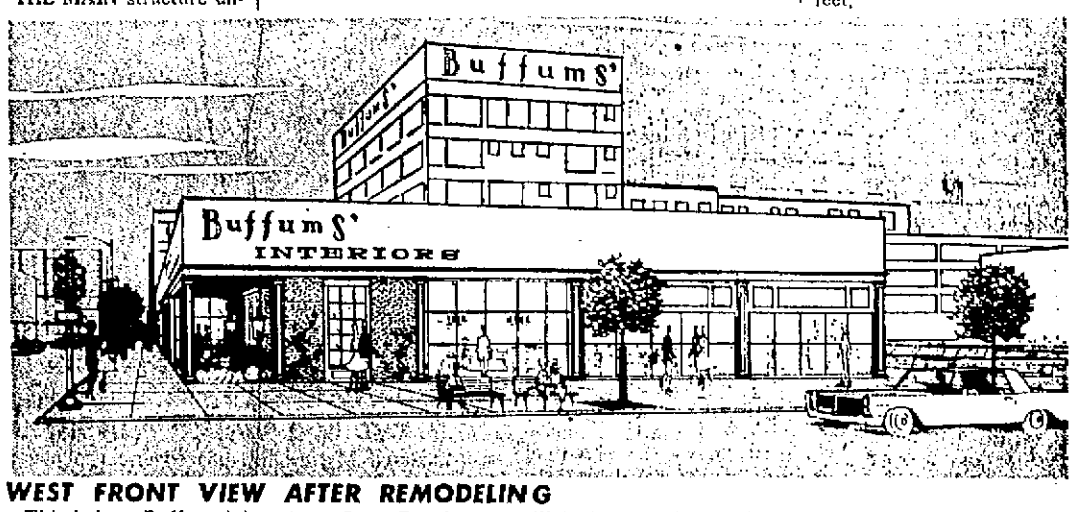

* * * *

Buffums' reenters the sporting goods business with the Sportsman's Shop and will carry accessories and apparel for the sports minded men and women.

The shop will put emphasis on fishing, hunting, golfing, tennis and skiing, and will have an enlarged camera and luggage department with accessories and fine gifts. One of the features of this shop will be shoes appropriate for all occasions.

With the additional space for the new shops, Buffums' will extend the downtown store to approximately 180,000 square feet.

WEST FRONT VIEW AFTER REMODELING
This is how Buffums' downtown Long Beach store will look from the Pacific Avenue (or west) side following remodeling for major expansion. Store will occupy full block along south side of Broadway between Pine and Pacific Avenues. Remodeling, estimated to cost $200,000, is due to start in March.

Set Cargo Terminal Ceremony

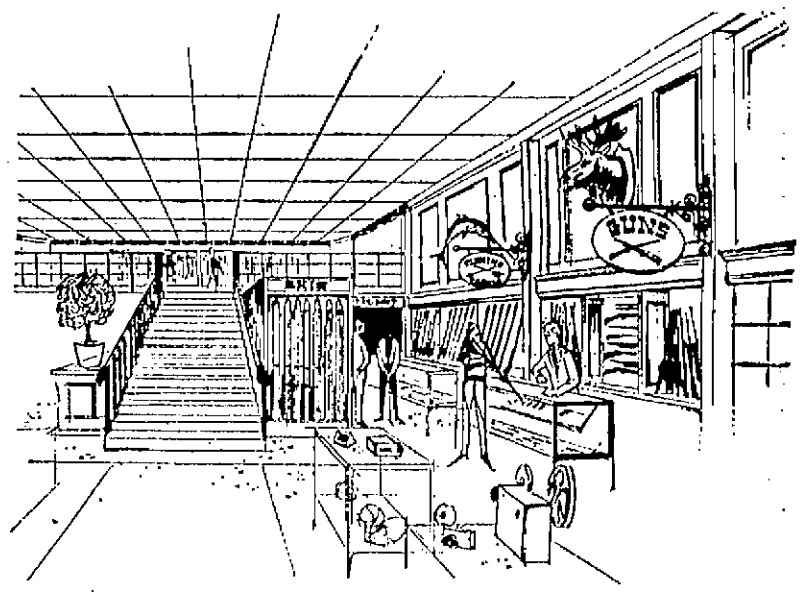

Dedication of a $4,000,000 cargo terminal, newest addition to Los Angeles Harbor facilities, is scheduled for Feb. 24, according to Albert Perrish, president of the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners.

The new facility in the port's West Basin, innermost area of the harbor, includes a $1,500,000 clear-span cargo shed, measuring 1008x200 feet, a 2,100-foot-long concrete wharf, and backland improvements. The wharf was finished just prior to construction of the shed, and accommodates three freighters simultaneously.

* * * *

OCCUPANT of the new facility is Furness, Withy & Co., 39-year resident of the Port of Los Angeles. Steamship companies represented by this agency are the Furness (British), Holland - America (Dutch), Royal Mail (British) and Crusader (Norwegian) lines.

The project is a part of the Port's overall expansion and improvement program, begun in 1960, in which $40,000,000 is being invested in a five-year period.

Signal Adds Garrett Executives to Board

Five executive assignments and election of two officers of The Garrett Corporation to Signal's board of directors have been announced by Samuel B. Mosher, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Signal Oil & Gas Co.

Elected to the board were Harry H. Wetzel, president, and Walter R. Ramsaur, executive vice president, of The Garrett Corp., which merged with Signal effective last Monday.

Albion E. Stebbings, a Signal vice president since 1961 and for the past two years general manager of the company's Houston Division, has been named general counsel. He will return to the Los Angeles headquarters Feb. 1.

* * * *

H. J. STROUD, manager of employe relations, has been elected vice president. He also will continue in his present capacity.

Raymond F. Granlund, manager of supply and distribution for the Houston Division for three years, also has been elected vice president and, in addition to his present duties, will serve as coordinator for the division.

Ivan D. Stewart, assistant treasurer since 1957, has been elected treasurer, assuming the post from E. Paul Ludman, who continues as financial vice president.

John R. Spencer, who has been in charge of governmental relations three years, has been named assistant to the president with special assignment responsibilities in addition to his work in governmental affairs.

Tire Firm to Build in Buena Park

Permit for a $480,480 Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plant boosted construction in Buena Park to $579,978 during the past week.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Los Angeles will construct a 150,000 - square-foot warehouse and office facility at 6450 Caballero St.

D. Shaw, Los Angeles, is contractor for the project.

The City Building Department issued 20 other permits for construction totaling $99,498, according to figures in the office of H. A. Chamberlain, building superintendent.

* * * *

H. LEE, 8750 Hillcrest Road in the Bellehurst development, was granted permit to construct a $40,157 residence, garage and playhouse.

R. A. Thompson, 6582 Rostrata St., was issued permit to erect a $10,912 liquor sales facility at 6265 Manchester Blvd.

Knott's Berry Farm, 8281 Grand Ave., was issued permit to remodel woodcraft shops, costing $12,400.

$262,000 Deal

OCEANSIDE (UPI) — Retired Marine Corps Lt. Col. Clyde L. Johnson of Salt Lake City has purchased the Buccaneer Motel and apartments here for an estimated price in excess of $262,000 from Ed Crum, former Oceanside Chamber of Commerce president.

Orange Countian Heads Appraisers

Stanley E. Goode, Jr., MAI, was installed as president of The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, Southern California Chapter, at the annual membership banquet in the Huntington Sheraton Hotel at Pasadena Friday evening.

Goode, a partner with his father in the pioneer Orange County real estate appraisal firm of Goode & Goode, succeeded James C. Hill, MAI, division manager, Equitable Life Assurance Society, Los Angeles. The valuation experts achieve their MAI designation only after comprehensive examinations that supplement qualifying background experience, and there are only 147 qualified MAI's in Southern California.

* * * *

STEPHEN WHITTLESEY, MAI, a partner of Hults and Whittlesey, Pasadena, became vice president, and Albert L. Johnson, MAI, of San Bernardino, secretary-treasurer. Robert H. Johnson, MAI, chief appraiser, Bank of America, Los Angeles is new elected assistant secretary.

George Hamilton Jones, MAI, of Newport Beach, and Donald M. Burnett, MAI, chief appraiser, Union Bank, Los Angeles, are new directors.

BUILT IN LYNWOOD
This Lynwood-built press made for the Japanese printing industry by Western Gear Corporation's Graphic Arts Division is appropriately "tagged" by Kiyohary Imanishi (left), director of the Japan Trade Center, for R. E. McNamara, manager of the division. The Speedflex business forms press was purchased by Dai-Nippon Printing Co. of Tokyo. It is a high-speed unit with four offset towers and can print a total of six colors simultaneously, including facilities for numbering and imprinting. The press prints snap-out forms at speeds in excess of 25,000 impressions per hour.

Freeman New Head of Harbor N.E.C.A. Unit

The National Electrical Contractors Association, Harbor Section, held its annual election meeting recently at the Manhattan Restaurant in Long Beach.

Elected to office as chairman for the year was Louis I. Freeman of Freeman Electric Construction Co., Long Beach. He replaces James O. Ashcraft previously elected to the Los Angeles Chapter Board of Directors. Fred Dunn of Hoffman & Son, Inc., was elected vice chairman.

Darrell L. Evans, deputy registrar of contractors, California State License Board, cited a number of instances in which contractors can involve themselves and run afoul of the law in construction work. Earl Chapman, staff assistant to Evans, also was in attendance to help answer some of the many questions on the subject.

FROM COYOTES TO COMMERCE

Buena Park Industrial Growth Detailed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Details on the industrial growth of Buena Park are told here by the city's building superintendent, H. A. Chamberlain, in this special article.)

By H. A. CHAMBERLAIN

BUENA PARK — Coyote Creek and Coyote Hills got their names from the animals that roamed here, as did the Rancho Los Coyotes.

They still roamed here in the Rancho in 1885 when James A. Whitaker bought 590 acres not far from the old ranch house and beginning at Orangethorpe and extending north to where the Santa Fe Railroad was to come through.

At the same time he influenced two people to establish here—one, the owner of the Pacific Creamery Co. and the other Andrew McNally, both of whom established industry in this area.

* * * *

McNALLY BOUGHT in what is now La Mirada, planted olive orchards and built an olive factory.

In 1890, his area remained in Los Angeles County, but the acreage of Whitaker was close to the northwest line of the newly formed Orange county; acreage that in June, 1887 he had filed as a subdivision he called Buena Park.

Because of anger at the Santa Fe for moving north of its original plan, the actual development of the town of Buena Park began in 1887 at the crossing of the Southern Pacific an Grand Ave. (Beach Blvd.) which on the new plat as now was 108 feet wide.

* * * *

AT THE southeast corner of this crossing, in 1889 was built the creamery which not only had a great influence on the development of the area but, unless a winery can be classed as industry, began the industrial development of Orange County.

The Guinn History of 1902 states that this creamery, mainly a condensed milk plant, distributed labor and milk checks amounting to about $15,000 monthly. This was a great deal of money in that era.

* * * *

THE SECOND industrial development began in 1920 in an operation not normally looked on as industrial.

This is Knott's Berry Farm.

Mrs. Walter Knott began the preserving of berries, selling the jars through their roadside stand. Today, their preserving kitchens are very large buildings and the products are sold nationally. Many concessions on the Farm are also national suppliers of their products made here such as candles, knives, etc.

This same 1920 period also brought the beginning of the population expansion of Buena Park.

* * * *

THE MOVING of the movie industry to Hollywood focused attention on the desirability of the area and Buena Park and other areas of Orange County received some reflection.

The census of 1900 gave Buena Park 995 persons while that of 1950 showed 4,583. Nearly all of this came after 1920. This created a labor supply.

In 1946, Nutrilite Products, which began in Los Angeles in 1935, required expansion and in 1946 located in Buena Park at the Santa Fe Railroad.

The creamery that had been converted and expanded into vegetable canning, Knott's canning, and the Nutrilite food supplement production constituted the manufacturing in the Buena Park area when the city was incorporated in January 1953.

* * * *

THE POPULATION explosion of Buena Park and contiguous areas began in 1954.

The first of the large food companies came in 1956 when Kraft Foods bought 100 acres and became a part of Buena Park. It was stated by their engineers that their study of their distribution trend showed Buena Park to be in its center which was the reason for their purchase here.

It was obvious that this would be a general status for much food and other distribution, and as Buena Park had much undeveloped potential industrial acreage that could be either conserved or destroyed for stabilized investment, the decision was made to protect and conserve it by high minimum building requirements.

IT HAS BEEN freely admitted that developments occasioned by "political growing pains" of the city had a retarding effect.

Fortunately, while it retarded decisions of major industries to locate here, the desirability of Buena Park also retarded their decisions to locate elsewhere, so their final decisions were made in balance.

Southern Pacific bought a large area of potential industrial acreage on their trackage in Buena Park and inaugurated their experience in industrial development.

THE SANTA FE more recently purchased acreage in Buena Park offsetting their loss to schools in Los Angeles of contiguous acreage, as an extention of their already established "Central Manufacturing Area."

Smaller industrial zones under their protected building conservation also began to expand, and the results in just three years have been rather phenomenal.

The Kraft area is expanding by the addition of presently building HunKo Oil Refinery that will refine the vegetable oil going into the myriad of products made by Kraft.

* * * *

LUCKY STORES has constructed their Southern Regional Distribution Warehouses south of Kraft and it is virtually a city in itself in size and commodities.

Next to them is the Cal-Ray plant of Burry Biscuit, a subsidiary of Quaker Oaks, and while tremendous in its present size, it can be doubled as needed.

About to be begin is the plant of National Biscuit Company in Buena Park just across the Freeway from Kraft.

It is said that when this plant is operating, Buena Park will have the largest cheese and cracker corner in the country.

The Kraft plant contains 431,000 square feet of floor space, Nabisco will have 340,000 at the start.

* * * *

NOLAND PAPER is building a 270,000 square foot warehouse for their wholesale paper distribution. Their additional acreage reserve will allow for a 1,500,000 square feet of space for the Mead Container Corporation production of which Noland is a subsidiary.

California Packing Corporation is building also in the Southern Pacific tract. This is part of Del Monte Packing and is their advent into canned drinks. We already have the large and beautiful Seven-up plant in the industrial area on Orangethorpe Ave.

As another indication of centralization, The Herald Examiner is building a satellite auxiliary plant that is designed to contain 52 presses.

* * * *

ONE OF THE present big mysteries in this commercial expansion is that of the "Western Distributors," which has submitted preliminary plans that have been approved for a warehouse covering 20 acres (842,000 square feet) and an additional 150,000 square feet of office area.

They have purchased 110 acres at Orangethorpe and Valley View in Buena Park.

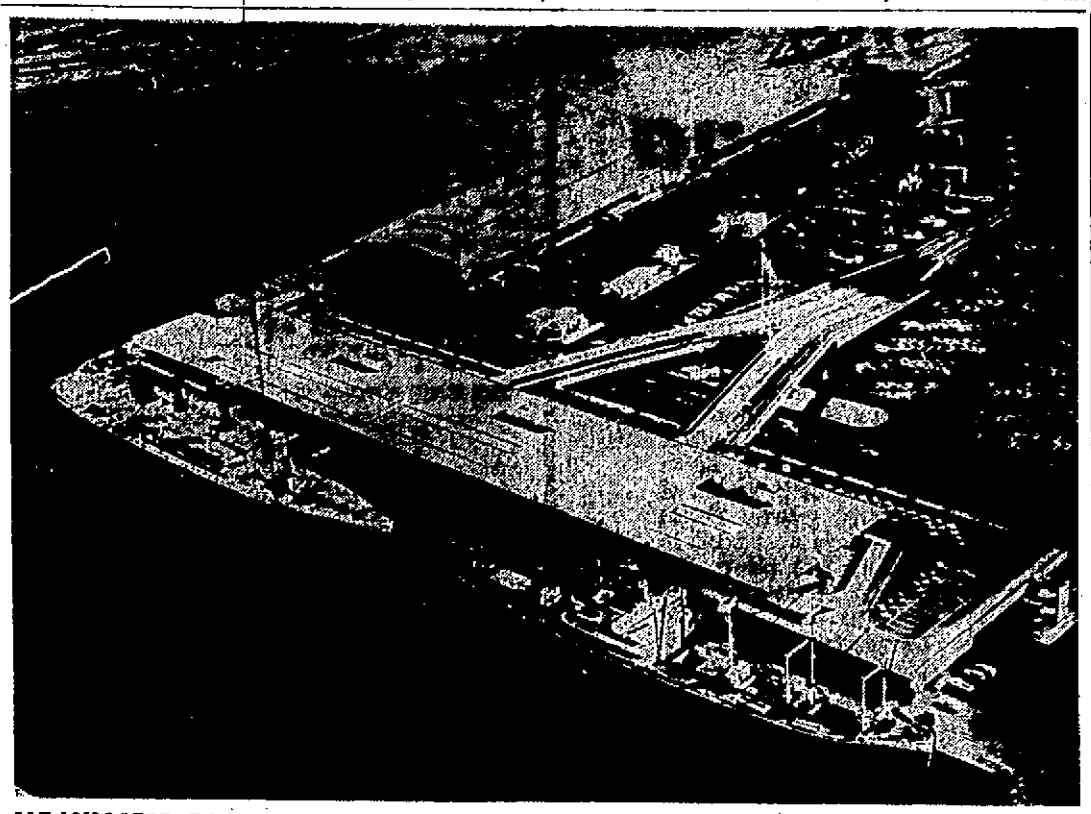

* * * *

IT IS ALSO known that there are at least four rather large firms that have already made final decisions on locating here.

These are in addition to the ones mentioned and the already established firms such as three casting companies, a container plant, a chemical plant, an office and restaurant furniture plant, a filing cabinet plant, a Goodyear Rubber plant, a baby formula plant, serving all Southland hospitals, liquor and beer wholesale warehouses.

There are other small to large plants in three other industrial tracts that serve the missile and aircraft industries and other phases of residential and industrial production in the Southland.

Buena Park in its established and potential industrial development is truly proving itself "The Center of the Southland" in number and size of companies it is attracting. And what is already here is but a good beginning in its industrial development from coyotes to commerce.

NOMINATED FOR ENGINEERING AWARD

Consolidated Marine Inc. passenger-cargo pier at San Pedro near west end of high bridge link to Terminal Island has been nominated for Outstanding Civil Engineering Achievement of Year award. This is given by 50,000-member American Society of Civil Engineers to a project which demonstrates top engineering skills and represents major contribution to engineering progress. Editors of seven national engineering magazines will select winner from nine nominations. Picture shows view from high bridge.

Program Features 'Silver Dollar Quiz'

Norm Woest, community relations director, and Tom Stoner, customer relations representative for Title Insurance & Trust Co., Los Angeles, will present the "Silver Dollar Quiz" program at the Thursday meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 a.m. at the Midnight Sun Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave.

Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer correctly his questions based on practical problems or real estate procedure, as well as questions of a general nature.

Shopping Center Parley Set for Friday at L.A.

How far should a shopping center developer go in subsidizing a tenant for his center will be a key topic of discussion at a one-day regional meeting of the International Council of Shopping Centers to be held in Los Angeles Friday at the Statler Hilton Hotel.

Other questions to be discussed in a panel-audience workshop on leasing problems will be catalogue sales and their relation to overage rent, the pro's and con's of franchised tenants and way of reducing chain store demands for restrictive clauses.

Moderating the discussion will be Harry Newman, Jr., Newman Associates of Long Beach.

* * * *

PANEL MEMBERS will be Thomas F. Hinds, real estate director, Ralphs Grocery Co.; E. Phillip Lyon, Phillip Lyon Co.; E. Benjamin Mitchell, Mitchell Real Estate; and Sidney Sher, shopping center developer, all of Los Angeles.

A second panel discussion will cover strikes, vandalism and minority groups, with emphasis on the impact of picketing on a shopping center and means of coping with vandalism and juvenile delinquency. Case studies illustrating these problems and practical solutions will be provided.

PANEL MODERATOR will be Harry E. Pierson, ICSC trustee and president of Pacific Coast Properties, Inc., of Beverly Hills. Panelists will be Peter F. Pitchess, sheriff of Los Angeles County; Joseph DeSilva, general secretary, Retail Clerk's Union 770; Ken Doyle, personnel manager, Von's Grocery Co., and Milton S. Tyre, labor relations attorney, Tyre & Kamins.

Luncheon speaker will be Dr. Lester M. Morrison, a noted physician, researchist, author and hospital developer.

NOMA Club Meeting Set

The first meeting of the National Office Management Association for 1964 will be held Tuesday in the Lafayette Hotel, President Norman Greengrove of the Independent-Press-Telegram, will preside.

Speaker will be Roland R. Bach, manager of the Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross. His subject will be "Elimination of After Dinner Speakers".

A special report will be made on the 15th Area Conference held in Phoenix recently.

The Social Hour starts at 6:15 and dinner at 7:00.

Title Insurance Officer to Speak

Long Beach Realtors will hear guest speaker John J. Lyman of Security Title Insurance Co. at their breakfast meeting Tuesday, according to Barbara Moss, program chairman.

JOHN LYMAN

Brierclif Village
a new concept in retirement

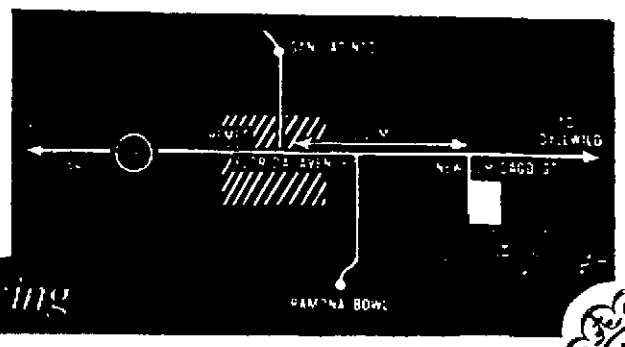

Brierclif offers an excitedly new and different concept of life for those in their retirement years ... a more abundant life with a fresh new lease on living. An offer limited to couples where one spouse is 50 or over and there are no children under 18.

Rather than building a city of hundreds of homes, with the resultant congestion and cold impersonalness that is so much a part of city life, Brierclif has chosen to erect a small community of homes, where residents can enjoy the intimacy and neighborliness of a small town; the old-fashioned first-name type of neighborliness that seems to have all but vanished from the American scene.

Come! Look thru the model homes! Brierclif has so much to offer in carefree-easy living. Throw away troubles and cares to the gentle breezes of the Valley of Contentment in a Brierclif retirement home.

Brierclif Village

When the whirl of activity beckons, you'll find Brierclif Village just a short drive into glamorous Palm Springs . . . where lights are bright and hearts are gay.

W-BAR-B RANCHES'
LAND
NEARLY HALF SOLD
(Parcels 10 Acres and Up)

Southern California Mountain-Ringed Recreational Retreat . . . for Discriminating Buyers

Close-to Location—Two hours, twenty minutes from Los Angeles over freeways and excellent roads to "Old West" seclusion and charm. Historic gold-rush area in beautiful natural basin is protected by surrounding mountains. Accessible by three roads—and an airstrip on the ranch.

Lush, Growing Land—In Walker Basin, an area of working ranches with lots of trees and green vegetation. The property is rich in history. On it the famous old Joe Walker gold mine was cleared, after water came in faster than it could be pumped out.

Fabulous Climate—At the 3564-foot level it is definitely cooler in Summer, enjoyable all year. Four seasons, blue skies, good rainfall, some snow, and clean, clear mountain air make this a wonderful vacationland all year.

Water and Wildlife—Fed by runoff from surrounding mountains, the water table is respectably good. A 60-foot well sunk in 1952 tested 240 gallons per hour. Electricity is available, and telephones are now in.

A Great Playland—Surrounded on three sides by Sequoia National Forest and overlooked by towering peaks to 8,000 feet, this is fantastic country. Ideal for horses, it provides practically endless miles of adventure on horseback. Just 16 miles north you can fish, swim, boat and water-ski on Lake Isabella. Another 16 miles is Shirley Meadows, with good snow, ski-runs and rope tows.

Wildlife Paradise—Excellent hunting, easy limits on a variety of game birds, and one of the largest deer herds in the state. Acreages—These are nice spacious spreads—10 acres and larger. Once a working cattle ranch, but presently raising quarter horses, this is scenic land with oaks, rock formations, stream beds, flatlands and rolling hills. Each parcel has a choice of several sites for building that hideaway home. Plenty of land is available for you to divide and retain a view site for yourself.

But a Cheap Speculation—No $10-down-and-$10-when-you-catch-me promotion—and not desert sand. This is good land at a fair price in an unspoiled high mountain valley setting, for those who hope to invest in recreational living. We insist you stand on the land and know what you are buying. But first, mail the coupon today for additional information.

SPECIAL! Parcel #37 10 ACRES $4643 TERMS!

Apartment Project Set for Auction

An opportunity for purchase of all or part of the 231-unit Fireside Manor apartment development and two large R-3 lots in Monterey Park, will be offered at public auction Feb. 14, at 11 a.m.

The public auction, to be conducted under the supervision of the Milton J. Wershow Co., auctioneers and real estate brokers, will be based on an approximate evaluation of $4,300,000 on the premises. The property is located at 834-890 W. El Repetto Drive, in Monterey Park.

Fireside Manor, recently completed in March of 1963, has been ordered sold by present owner, Merton H. Baker, on the basis of his need to remain in Palm Springs for supervision of his current mammoth project, "Sky Mountain," which encompasses 640 acres and will be a $100,000,000 development. This, plus other holdings in Palm Springs, demand that he concentrate on this area and eliminate or curtail his Los Angeles area holdings.

* * * *

ALL BIDS submitted for Fireside Manor will be subject to Baker's confirmation.

The property to be auctioned is divided into three parcels: Parcels 1 and 1A contain the 231 luxury apartment units which are housed in eight buildings. Parcel II, which comprises 35,835 square feet and includes a set of plans furnished by the owner for a 30-unit apartment building; and Parcel III, which involves 148,104 square feet now zoned R-3 and suitable for hotel or restaurant development.

In addition to the units, the development contains two Olympic size pools plus a $50,000 penthouse and recreation building. Each of the two pools serves a distinct area of the development.

New Plant to Be Built

Ground was broken recently for the new general offices and Los Angeles Basin division office and maintenance yard of California Production Service of Long Beach.

The new plant will be located at 19431 South Santa Fe Ave. in Compton on three acres of land. In addition to land improvements, there will be approximately 10,000 square feet of shop and office area included in this plant.

* * * *

OWNER of the new development is Dominguez Land Co. Building construction is being handled by Donald F. Shaw, general contractor. All leasing arrangements were negotiated by W. H. Daum & Staff, industrial real estate concern.

California Producton Service, Inc., began operations as a partnership in 1937 with 20 employes and three oil well servicing hoists.

Today, C.P.S. operates 35 oil well servicing, remedial and drilling rigs of various sizes throughout California and in New Mexico.

The 275 men now employed by C.P.S. operate out of five major divisions, the Los Angeles Basin, Bakersfield, Castaic-Newhall, and Ventura in California, and Farmington, in the Four Corners area of New Mexico.

Coast Federal Adds Directors

Coast Federal Savings' president, Joe Crail, announced election of two new members to the firm's Board of Directors and the reelection of a third at the association's recent annual meeting.

Arthur G. Pollock, vice president of the Curt Advertising Agency and formerly business manager of the Los Angeles Daily News for 27 years before its demise, and attorney Harry Pflaumer, manager of Crail and Crail Management Service, are the new directors.

Willard M. Huyck, president of Aseptic-Thermo Indicator Company — a former California Assemblyman and a member of Coast Federal's board for 23 years — was reelected to a three-year term.

Coast Federal's Long Beach area office is located at 200 E. Third Street, corner of Locust. Bill Panzich is the manager.

L. B. PLANT MANAGER CONFERS

Plans for a major Northern California Johns-Manville floor tile plant get a thorough study by three floor coverings executives as J. F. Van Dissen (center), western regional sales manager of the J-M flooring division with offices in Long Beach, points out features of the new plant site on Whipple Road at Hayward, Calif. Pat Kerr (left) and Ira Lazarus, co-owners of Lake Sales, Berkeley, follow plans for the 150,000-square-foot facility. Lake Sales is the J-M floor coverings distributor in Northern California. Construction will begin soon on the 20-acre site. Van Dissen's offices are at 2420 E. 223rd St., Long Beach. The company has California plants in Pittsburg, Stockton, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Lompoc and Corona, with mines at Coalinga and Lompoc.

Firm Moves From Hollywood to Downtown L.B. Edison Bldg.

Marquart-Wolfe Lumber Co. has occupied its new suite of offices in the 10-story, all-electric Long Beach Edison Building at 100 Long Beach Blvd.

The company operates as a wholesale lumber distributor for more than 300 lumber dealers, wholesalers and retailers throughout the United States.

The corporation formerly maintained headquarters in Hollywood.

MEMBERS OF the firm are Horace E. Wolfe, president, Sterling H. Wolfe, vice president, and Ralph Norum, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wolfe have moved their residence to 600 East Ocean Blvd. in Long Beach.

"We are moving to get out of the traffic complex and also the smog," Wolfe commented.

The new suite 825 offices are in the heart of downtown Long Beach and near the ocean.

Forum Speaker to Discuss Forgery

"What Crooks Are Doing With Checks Today" will be discussed by Joe Mead at the Long Beach Community Forum Wednesday.

Mead, western states distributor of Forgery and Alteration Prevention Service, will describe current check forging and alteration practices which net $1½ billion annually for this segment of crime.

Sponsored weekly by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Forum is conducted in the Crown Cafeteria, First Street and Alamitos Avenue, beginning at 7:15 a.m. Clive Graham is program chairman.

Queen Contest Set for L.B. Home Show

A queen contest will be conducted as one of the highlights of the 1964 Long Beach Home-O-Rama to be held Feb. 26 through March 1 in the Long Beach Arena, according to Tom Norcross, general chairman.

Norcross said finalists in the contest will be selected at a screening in the near future.

George Colouris, producer of the annual home show, said selection of the queen will be a feature of the opening night. A queen and two princesses will be chosen by a panel of judges, he added.

* * * *

THE PRODUCER said the winners will receive a variety of gifts and will preside at various functions during the five day show which is staged annually under sponsorship of the Long Beach Building Exchange.

Planning of the Home-O-Rama is picking up tempo as show time draws nearer, Norcross said. Various committees are at work on phases of the event which is the building group's largest public function.

* * * *

THE HOME-O-RAMA will feature hundreds of booths containing the latest products ranging from building materials to fine home furnishings. Those attending the show may tour exhibits at their leisure, Norcross said, and not only see the products on display, but get valuable hints on home projects such as remodeling.

Dividend Declared

The board of directors of Belmont Savings & Loan Association has declared a cash dividend of 20c per share to stockholders of record Feb. 4. According to William J. Crawford, president, the dividend is payable Feb. 18.

At a luncheon with investment bankers, Crawford disclosed substantial gains in assets of the Long Beach headquartered savings association. Assets increased 68 per cent during 1963, from $44,604,978 to $75,049,751 as of Dec. 31, 1963.

Loans also showed an increase of over 68 per cent bringing them to a high of $60,603,776 at year end.

* * * *

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS similarly showed a gain of 60 per cent for the year. As of Dec. 31, savings accounts totaled $53,874,207.

Preliminary 1963 earnings after provision for income taxes were reported at $1,339,329 or $2.24 per share. This compares to $945,450 or $1.52 per share for the preceding year based on 623,920 shares outstanding for both periods.

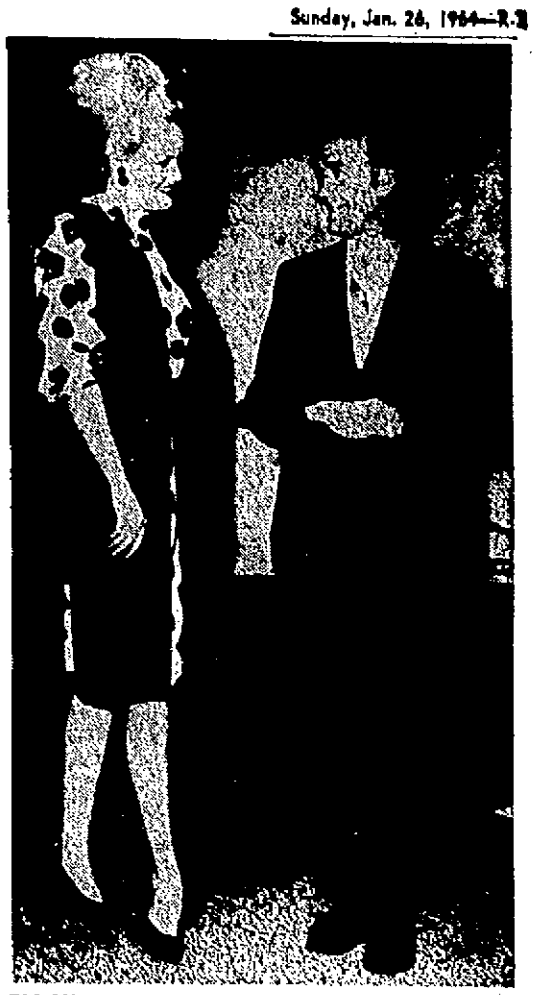

Crawford stated the directors would consider another dividend payment in the second half of 1964.

Tax Prober Gets Award

Admiral Names Solomon as 'Friend of the Navy'

Irving Solomon, president of the Independent Business Men's Association of Greater Long Beach and newly named chairman of the Armed Services Commission of the City of Long Beach, has been named as a "Friend of the Navy" by Rear Admiral Kenneth L. Veth, USN, commander U.S. Naval Base Los Angeles and commander Mine Force U.S. Pacific Fleet.

The "Friends of the Navy" program honors civilians who are outstanding Navy boosters.

* * * *

THE PROGRAM was initiated to better acquaint Naval personnel stationed in the Long Beach/Los Angeles area with some of their civilian friends always ready to lend a helping hand to the Navy.

In speaking of this program, Admiral Veth has pointed out that, "Although the 'Friends of the Navy' are well known to the top echelon of command, many other Navy personnel are not fully aware of our supporters' firm friendship for the Navy. The excellent spirit of cooperation between the city and the Navy is a tribute to the efforts of these Navy friends."

Long Beach is the home port for well over 100 ships of the Pacific Fleet, making it the third largest U.S. Navy port in existence. It holds the reputation among Navy personnel of being the most hospitable port in the country.

* * * *

SOLOMON, a prominent Long Beach and Orange County businessman, has been a strong Navy booster for more than three decades. He recently stated: "I became vitally conscious of the great value of the Navy to Long Beach in 1933 when the city was stricken by a disastrous earthquake. I was able to observe first hand the fine spirit of cooperation displayed by the Navy through its assistance to the community at a time of great need."

Solomon is owner of Hoefly's Restaurant in Belmont Shore.

In 1953, he formed a partnership with his son Albert and established the Alco-Pacific Construction Co. in Orange County which has built more than 2,500 homes.

L.B. Man Named to National Committee

Steve Spindell, Long Beach farm and land broker, has been appointed a member of the Multiple Listing Committee of the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers, California Chapter, it was announced last week by president Allan A. Stramler Jr. of Bakersfield.

Heads Wells Fargo

Robert D. Beals has been elected president and chief executive officer of Wells Fargo & Co., according to an announcement by Howard L. Clark, president of American Express Co., of which Wells Fargo & Co. is a subsidiary.

Area Firms Get Contracts

The Defense Electronics Supply Center, Dayton, Ohio, a field activity of the Defense Supply Agency, has awarded nine government contracts totaling $143,813.95 for electrical and electronic supplies to companies in the greater Los Angeles area.

Vernitron Corp., a small-business concern, 1742 S. Crenshaw Blvd., Torrance, received a $20,875 contract to supply 167 control transformer synchros and a $15,885 contract for 132 resolver synchros.

Autonetics Division of North American Aviation, 3370 E. Anaheim Rd., Anaheim, was granted an $11,128 contract for 107 step-down, step-up, power transformers.

Childs Leaves Home Savings for New Post

Kenneth D. Childs has assumed presidency of the Southern California Savings and Loan Association following his resignation last Wednesday as president and a director of Home Savings and Loan Association.

Commenting on the change, Childs said he left Home Savings "with the deepest personal regrets, after 15 wonderful years of the finest of business and personal relationships.

"However," he added, "I think it is proper that I spend my remaining business life with an association in which I have a personal ownership. I will be joined in the management of the Southern California Savings and Loan Association by my two sons, Kenneth Jr., 36, and Timothy Alan, 22."

* * * *

BOTH ASSOCIATIONS are located in Los Angeles, Home Savings being America's largest, and Southern California being the oldest association in Los Angeles County.

Childs, 62, joined Home Savings as executive vice president in 1957. During the time he was managing officer with Home Savings, the institution grew in assets from $15,000,000 to $1,500,000,000.

Childs succeeds as Southern California's president Edward Morgan, who will become chairman of the association's board of directors.

Travelling Exhibits Will Be Home Savings Anniversary Feature

Home Savings & Loan Association, largest of its kind, and now celebrating its 75th anniversary, has scheduled a one-year showing of six unusual travelling exhibits which will tour each of its 24 offices in Southern California.

Meanwhile, it was announced Home had become the first and only savings institution to reach $1½ billion in assets. It was predicted assets would reach the $2 billion mark in 1965.

* * * *

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS at the end of '63 had reached $1,367,994,730, a gain of $265,269,706 that year.

A preview of the travelling displays was held recently at an anniversary party in the Hollywood Palladium, where President Howard Ahmanson greeted hundreds of guests.

Each exhibit will be shown at different branch offices for two-week intervals, beginning Thursday.

* * * *

THE SIX DISPLAYS will include:

Old and new kitchen appliances; antique vending machines; 1889 fashions on special mannequins; precious stones; money; and art.

First exhibit in the Long Beach area will be at the Lakewood office, where the kitchen display will open Jan. 30.

Home Savings, as an association, dates back to Aug. 21, 1889, when it was started by W. A. Bonynge, Sr., under Home Investment Builders & Loan Association.

* * * *

ITS FIRST location was in downtown Los Angeles, in a private home near the intersection of Fourth and Hill streets. Then, in 1925, Home Savings moved to 112 West Ninth St., still a one-man organization.

Irving P. Leigh joined Home Savings as executive vice president in 1928, at which time the association moved to 115 West Ninth. Leigh and a secretary weathered the depression of the '30's, never refusing a withdrawal, for a perfect record.

* * * *

HOWARD AHMANSON purchased the association April 10, 1947. Assets totaled $1,100,000, with capital, surplus and reserve funds of $96,000—and four employes. The office still was on Ninth Street. The move to Eighth and Spring came about in 1949.

Home moved to its present and permanent downtown location in Los Angeles at the corner of Eighth Street and Broadway on November 18, 1957.

On Dec. 31, 1950, Home acquired Long Beach Savings and Loan, with offices in Long Beach and Huntington Park.

A year later, North American Savings and Loan was brought into the Home fold, adding offices in Beverly Hills and Highland Park.

In 1952 Occidental Savings and Loan was acquired with an office in Studio City.

In 1953 Arcadia Savings and Loan gave Home its seventh office.

* * * *

HOME SAVINGS became America's largest savings and loan association on March 1, 1954, when United Savings and Loan merged with Home, raising Home Savings' assets to over $190,000,000, with 70,000 savers, 20,000 borrowers, and new offices in Burbank and Glendale.

In 1954, Home opened a new office in Lakewood.

In March 1956 Pasadena Savings and Loan joined Home with assets of $82,000,000.

Four months later, Home expanded to Orange County, acquiring Anaheim Savings and Loan and giving the association offices in Anaheim, Buena Park and Garden Grove.

* * * *

SIX NEW offices were added in 1957. A merger with Hollywood Savings and Loan expanded Home Savings' boundaries north to Barstow and Victorville, as well as a large office in Hollywood.

The association opened offices in Encino on June 24, Santa Ana on June 27, and in Compton on July 1.

On Feb. 3, 1958, Home opened its 21st office, in La Mirada.

December 1, 1959, found Home with its 22nd office, in Whittier, and its Victorville office moved to a new location.

Shortly thereafter, offices were opened in Torrance and Pomona, bringing the total number of branch offices to 24.

Huntington Village Center Under Way

Construction is under way on the $2,250,000 Huntington Village Shopping Center which will feature a 30,000 sq. ft. Von's supermarket as its largest structure.

Developers of the 105,000 sq. ft. project are A. Vickter and Jack Barenfelt of Beverly Hills. The center is located on a 12½ acre site at the corner of Edinger and Springdale in Huntington Beach, one-half mile from Douglas Aircraft's new $40,000,000 space systems facility.

Completion of the project by Ernest W. Hahn, Inc., general contractors of Hawthorne, is expected within four months.

* * * *

THE CENTER will be built of pre-cast concrete with exposed aggregate exterior finishes. The design features a concrete colonnade on two sides providing an unusual exterior accent.

Von's supermarket will contain a complete produce, meat and grocery service. It will be air-conditioned with automatic doors, acoustical ceilings, flush-mounted lighting fixtures and high-speed checkout facilities.

In addition to the market, the center will include a T. G. & Y. variety store of 11,600 sq. ft., an office of Security-First National Bank, a drug store and additional service shops and facilities.

* * * *

PARKING FOR 650 CARS will be provided for the center with entrances and exits from both Edinger and Springdale.

Developers Vickter and Barenfelt said the site was chosen because of "the rapid growth of the Huntington Beach area and the strategic location of the center near to the Douglas plant, across from the new Marina High School and adjacent to more than 1,000 homes."

Lester Boxer is leasing agent for the center.

Dividend Declared

A regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association capital stock was declared by the bank's board of directors meeting in San Francisco last week.

The dividend, at an annual rate of $2 per share, is payable Feb. 28 to shareholders of record Feb. 7.

CREDIT UNION MAKES AWARD

L. F. Strader (left), general manager of manufacturing, Richfield Oil Corp., accepts for his company certificate representing 25 years of credit union service at Watson Refinery. Award was presented at recent dinner-dance held in Edgewater Inn Marina Hotel by Richfield Employes No. 4 Federal Credit Union. In making award, George W. Wilson (right), Credit Union president, lauded management's cooperation.

U.S. Personal Income Outlook 'Good' for '64

The American breadwinner has ample reason to expect a fatter pocketbook this year, according to Business Week magazine.

Not only is there more than enough steam in the economy to carry through most of the year, but the added push of a reduction now seems assured, it says.

Given this, and assuming there is no major labor strife or international crisis, the experts believe it is safe to count on a personal income gain at least matching — and possibly bettering — last year's preliminary reading of 5½%.

There will be trouble spots, however. In its year-end Measure of Personal Income report, Business Week suggests that Indiana is certain to be hit hard by the loss of 8,000 jobs at Studebaker's South Bend operation. Seattle suffered a blow when Boeing's Dyna-Soar space contract, involving 5,000 employes, was cancelled. Defense industries everywhere are nervous about mounting pressures on federal spending.

* * * *

BUT THE BRIGHT SPOTS far outweigh the dim. For one thing, the auto industry is banking on a 7.4-million car sales year in 1964 — nearly as good as 1963.

This means fatter pay envelopes in Michigan, Missouri, Wisconsin, California, New Jersey, Delaware, and other areas where auto assemblies weigh heavily on the economic scale.

Urban Renewal Official to Talk at Bellflower

BELLFLOWER — Rex Vance, field representative, Urban Renewal Administration, will be guest speaker at the breakfast meeting of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors at the Cerritos College Student Center Thursday, according to F. W. Humphries, program chairman.

The meeting will be called to order at 7:30 a.m. with President Paul M. Williams presiding.

Vance will discuss ways of combatting blighting conditions in cities, explaining the role of the Urban Renewal Administration in programs as developed in many areas.

In addition to the principal speaker, reports will be made on the recent directors' meeting, San Diego, of the California Real Estate Association with Past President Bob Prigmore, a member of the state association education committee, reporting on the work of that committee and Jerry McConnell, CREA director, reporting on the work of the Ethics and Professional Standards Committee.

Ceramic Tile Contractors Will Convene

More than 100 ceramic tile contractors from the Long Beach and Orange County areas will be in attendance at the Ninth Annual Educational Conference and Seminar of the Ceramic Tile Institute, Jan. 30 to Feb. 1, at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

WM. PULLAN

William Pullan, Phoenix, Ariz., tile contractor, chairman of the Ceramic Tile Institute of America, will be a featured speaker.

Opening the Seminar on Thursday from 3 to 6 p.m. will be a construction industries social event.

On Thursday evening, the annual meeting of the western States Ceramic Tile Contractors Association will be held.

Key business sessions are scheduled on Friday and Saturday.

Prestige Homes Offering Wide Variety

"The best homes in the best location can only mean Perstige Homes in Huntington Beach," according to Dan Mytinger, sales director for the new homes built by Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc.

"And our sales record bears out the above remark," Mytinger continued, "with more than 220 Prestige Homes having been purchased since they were opened for sale last July."

A PRESTIGE HOME
Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach, one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes, with 24 different exterior elevations and six floor plans, are priced from $23,900. Here is an interior view in one model.

"The reasons are rather obvious," the sales executive went on, "Prestige Homes offer 24 striking elevations, one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes in six different floor plans. Walk-in pantries, built-in dressers, extra "boat doors," wardrobes to 14 feet long, massive floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, Westinghouse all-electric kitchens, plus a host of other small and large features have all contributed to the outstanding success of Prestige Homes.

* * * *

THE HOMES, priced from $23,900, are available on FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet financing. Buyers receive Grant Deed to their home and lot and there are no due dates or balloon payments.

Mytinger pointed out that Prestige Homes location has been extremely instrumental in the sales picture: a mile from the new Douglas Space Center, within 10 minutes of the Southland's finest beaches, Meadowlark Golf Club, shopping, schools, churches and fast freeways and boulevards all within 5 to 15 minutes driving time.

The six model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. From the Long Beach area: drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., right to Edinger Ave., then right to Springdale St., left a short distance to Prestige Homes.

Moore Heads Realty Management Group

E. Tennyson Moore, president of Moore Realty in Long Beach, was installed last week as president of the Greater Los Angeles Chapter of The Institute of Real Estate Management.

Also installed in executive posts of the chapter were: Walt Eichenhofer, director of properties for CalProp Investments, Inc., first vice president; Bob Crane, vice president of Ben Hecht Co. of Hollywood, second vice president; and Clark Loomis, president of Town and Country Realty in Santa Ana, secretary-treasurer.

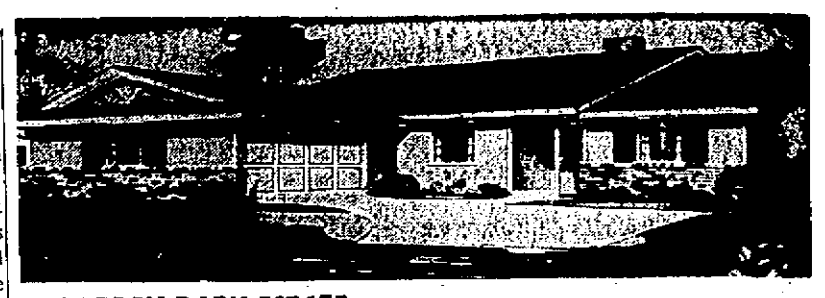

Executive counselors installed were Don Lewis, immediate past president of the Los Angeles Chapter and manager of real estate for the Bank of America Trust Department; Art Mumper, Bohr & Mumper of Riverside; Bill Stagen, Stagen Property Management, Inc., and George Topper, Wagenseller & Durst.

* * * *

INSTALLATION of the new officers and directors at the Cove Restaurant was by Henry Beaumont of Beverly Hills, former national president of the Institute of Real Estate Management.

Moore served as regional vice president of the Institute during 1963 and is a member of the National Governing Council.

Members of the Los Angeles Chapter manage in excess of 8,000 apartment units and 35 major office and medical buildings in the Greater Los Angeles area.

A GARDEN PARK ESTATE
This rendering is of a popular model in Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove. The community is walled-in and features spacious one and two-story family homes.

Future Value Stressed in Garden Park Estates

A steady decentralization from the metropolitan areas to the outlying suburbs has greatly increased the value of urban property. From the predictions made by authorities, this concentrated migration will not diminish for many years, particularly in Southern California.

The builders of Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove feel this established trend can only increase the value of land to a greater degree in years to come.

Garden Park Estates is located in an area that has witnessed a continued value increase during past years.

OFFERING ATTRACTIVE one and two-story homes on large lots, the walled community is close to employment centers, schools, freeways and shopping facilities.

These plans are available with three, four and five bedrooms. In plan 6B this plan includes an entry hall so that you never step directly from the porch into any room. A wall divider with turned spindles screens the entry hall from the family room. Three bedrooms, family room and on and one-half baths are offered in Plan 6B.

Among the quality features found in the dwellings are solid concrete driveways; colored plumbing fixtures in baths; cast-iron tubs, stall showers with glass doors and colored Italian mosaic tile, and handy automatic kitchens.

* * * *

FULL PRICES are from $18,975 to $26,250. Veterans can move in with nothing down, except costs and impounds, with monthly payments from $103.90. This includes principal and interest. Non-veterans are offered lowest FHA down on thirty and thirty-five year loans. Conventional and Cal-Vet terms are also available.

From Long Beach drive east on Seventh St. past Long Beach State College straight to Knott Ave.

Oil Hunt Is Costly

NEW YORK—Looking for new supplies of oil and gas can be a costly venture long before a single well is drilled, Oil Facts reports.

The work of oil industry geologists and geophysicists, for example, costs about $280 million a year.

Before a decision is made to drill in an unproved area, these scientists, using their knowledge of the earth's crust and underground rock formations, try to locate structures which may contain oil or gas.

Despite their best efforts, however, fewer than one exploratory well in nine in the United States finds any oil or gas. Only three in 100 turn out to be commercially profitable discoveries.

Overall, the annual cost of seeking, producing and developing oil and gas in the United States exceeds $6.5 billion.

ONLY $150 CASH NEEDED
Homes like this are selling rapidly in the Buccaneer Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes. Qualified buyers need only $150 cash for one of the homes.

Outstanding Values of Homes Stressed in Buccaneer Series

Despite a heavy volume of 8,000 homes in less than six years, the individual touch is part of every home built by Sunkist Plaza Builders and is the main reason for the equally promising future, notes Sy Bram, executive director of the firm.

A prime example is the current Buccaneer Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes in Huntington Beach, which was opened a few short weeks ago and is now well on its way toward a sellout.

The main reason for this sales pace is attributed by Bram to the fact that these homes include many extras not usually found in this price range. He adds to this that qualified buyers can move in with no down payment—only costs of $150.

* * * *

THE HOMES feature a complete array of Waste King Universal built-in kitchen appliances for the convenience of the housewife. This is included at no extra cost.

"Early indications point to our following closely in the footsteps of our other beach city developments," Bram commented. He based the success of his other developments on the Sunkist Plaza firm's mass buying power, acquired through its years of building experience. "This allows us to build more dollar values into each home for a price comparable to other developments."

Three basic floor plans can be incorporated in a choice of 25 exteriors that cover nearly every motif available. "This is one of the reasons why, all things considered, it is one of the best home values in Huntington Beach," added Bram.

* * * *

THE QUALITY residences which feature as a bonus extra completely fenced rear yards, also include a separate utility room, genuine Formica counters, natural ash cabinets, forced air heating with thermostat control, brick fireplaces, aluminum and glass shower doors, sliding wardrobe closets, shades and aluminum screens.

To reach models, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West turn right to Bolsa then right to Springdale; then left and follow signs.

New Terms Boost Sales of Royal Homes

Record sales were set last week at Royal Homes, states Robert Rodman, spokesman for the developers of the Fountain Valley community.

New financing terms which permit a buyer to purchase with as little as $295 down, plus costs, have proven very attractive. Rodman also stated that the new terms require the buyer to pay no taxes or insurance premiums until January 1965.

Royal Homes, according to Rodman, offer the home buyer a "complete package." Buyers moving in find that the purchase price of their home includes such things as built-in range and oven, fence around rear yard with gate, dishwasher, wall-to-wall carpet, front lawns and shrubs.

* * * *

THE LOCATION of Royal Homes is excellent, Rodman states, being the closest community to the beach (5 minutes) in the new City of Fountain Valley.

The homes are three and four bedrooms with family rooms and two baths. The lots are extra large and will easily accommodate pools. The homes are priced from $20,500 and are available to qualified buyers with very low down payments.

Royal Homes are at Garfield and Cannery. From Long Beach go out Seventh St. to Hwy. 39, south to Garfield and east to Cannery.

LITTLE CASH NEEDED FOR HOME
Royal Homes in Fountain Valley announced that large homes such as this may be purchased for as little as $295 down. The homes are priced from $20,500.

Top Film Role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Al Lewis, the zany comedian with a mouth like a torn pocket, has a top role in "The World of Henry Orient."

Lewis will be remembered by televiewers as the short-tempered officer Schnauser of "Car 54, Where Are You?"

Swim Pools on Rooftops New Trend

NEW YORK (UPI)—Apartment builders are getting up in the air about swimming pools. That is to say they're putting the pools up in the air.

Only three years ago, the nation's first steel rooftop pool was built atop Gracie Tower, a 22-story posh cooperative on Manhattan's fashionable East Side. It started a trend, according to Gustav H. Koven, president of a pool-building firm which bears his name.

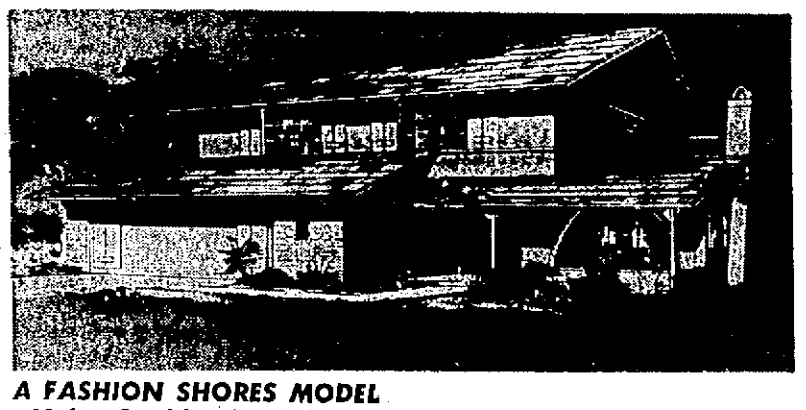

NUMEROUS rooftop pool installations are built or planned in this city as well as Washington, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Palm Beach, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles and elsewhere.

Downtown builders, cramped for ground level space, have followed the example of Alfred L. Kaskel, builder of Gracie Tower, who found a light steel pool was quite feasible as a rooftop installation.

Now, Kaskel said, it is almost necessary for new luxury apartments to include rooftop pools to meet the competition.

Kelly Quits

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Gene Kelly, director of Frank Sinatra's next film, "Robin and the Seven Hoods," has quit the picture because of "artistic differences" he had with the singer's production company.

A FASHION SHORES MODEL
Modern Spanish-style exteriors are one of the many new and exciting elevations being shown at Fashion Shores in Huntington Beach. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $23,900.

Large Fashion Shores Homes in Huntington Beach Attract

An estimated 700 people toured the model homes of the newly opened Fashion Shores development in Huntington Beach during the first Sunday the homes were open, reported Mervin B. Johnson, builder.

Some of the first-comers stayed to be new home owners with a total of 15 sales being made since the homes were opened.

Buyers have been impressed with the overall quality of Fashion Shores: the Dupont "501" nylon carpeting in all bedrooms, living room, halls and stairways; the expensive wallpaper ($500 in each home); the huge overhangs; large wardrobes; walnut paneled family rooms; all the above, and more, immediately struck the fancy of the visitors, Johnson noted.

* * * *

THE THREE, four and five-bedroom, one and two-story homes, with up to 3,157 square feet under roof, are priced from $23,900, with VA, FHA and unusually fine conventional financing available to meet the needs of buyers.

The big modern kitchens feature Hotpoint built-in electric range, oven, dishwasher and disposal unit, ample cabinet space including extra space under the breakfast bar separating the kitchen area from the paneled or wallpapered family rooms. Sunken living rooms in the two-story models are also enhanced, in one of the plans, by a formal dining room. Another two-story home features a sunken Roman tub in the master bathroom.

Model homes are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. From the Long Beach area: drive east on Seventh Street to Beach Boulevard (Hwy. 39), turn south to Atlanta Avenue, left to Cannery Street, right on Cannery to Fashion Shores at the corner of Cannery and Hamilton, in Huntington Beach, one mile from Huntington Beach State Park. Walker & Lee are exclusive sales agents.

BIG HOME ON EASY TERMS

Lark Village offers buyers large homes, such as this, priced from $21,950 to $23,900 for as little as $395 down. Lark Village is a Charles W. Hester development in Fountain Valley.

Lark Village Second Unit Sales are Heavy

Sales in the second unit of Lark Village, a new Fountain Valley community, continue to match the record-breaking pace set in the first unit. This was stated by Charles W. Hester, developer. According to Hester more than $600,000 worth of homes have been sold in the last 30 days.

Lark Village has one and two-story homes of three, four and five bedrooms, family rooms and two full baths.

The homes are priced from $21,950 to $25,900 and can be purchased for as little as $395 down, plus costs.

Among the interesting innovations in Lark Village is a "future" room in the two-story models. This mammoth 19'x26' room can be used as a rumpus room now and as the family grows it can be converted into two bedrooms or two smaller bedrooms and a playroom. This area has a bath plumbed for future use.

* * * *

LARK VILLAGE lists, among its outstanding features, blockwall fencing for the rear and side yards, underground sprinklers in the front, built-in Westinghouse range and oven, wall-to-wall carpeting, sunken living room, massive wood-burning fireplaces, mantel over fireplace and distinctive ash paneling. There is a wide variety of floor plans and exteriors.

Lark Village can be easily reached from Los Angeles by driving out the Santa Ana Freeway to Brookhurst, south on Brookhurst to Edinger, then east to models.

May Stock Listed on Coast Exchange

Common stock of The May Department Stores Co. was listed on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, effective last Friday, it was announced by Thomas P. Phelan, exchange president.

The listing covered 7,196,403 shares of the company's common stock. The May Co. has been listed on the New York Stock Exchange since it was incorporated in 1910 and has paid a cash dividend every quarter since 1911.

One of the nation's largest department store businesses, the May Co. presently operates 54 downtown and branch department stores and seven regional shopping centers in 11 major metropolitan areas, including Los Angeles and San Diego. The May Co. had net sales for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1963; of $709,652,000 and net earnings of $24,790,000 or $3.40 per common share.

* * * *

DAVID MAY II of Los Angeles, executive vice president, pointed out that 3,365 of the 28,848 holders of May Co. common stock, live in California and that they own 645,549 shares, or about 9 per cent of the outstanding stock.

"California, now the largest state in the Union, ranked only eighth in population when the May Company name first appeared on a Los Angeles store 41 years ago," May said. "Today California has passed New York in population and the May Co., Southern California, has become the largest of our company's 10 operating divisions."

Geoffrey Swaebe is president and general manager of the May Co., Southern California, and a vice president of The May Department Stores Co.

Lake Park Appealing

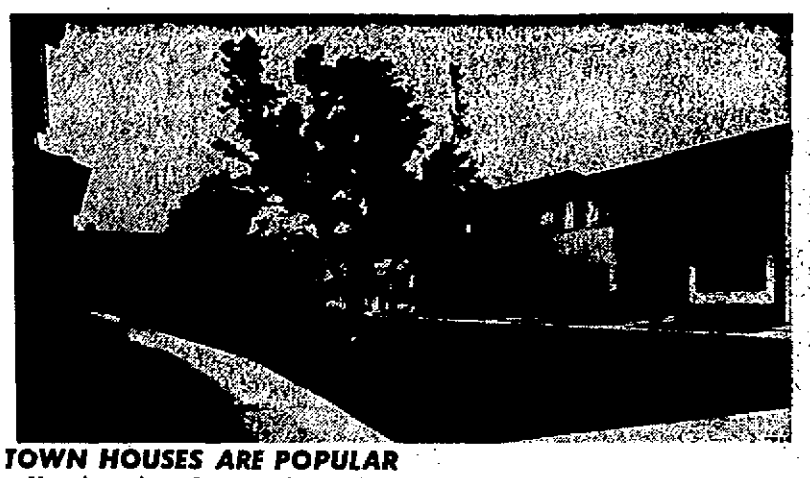

Proximity to commercial, recreational and employment centers is one of the key reasons for the sales success at Lake Park, $40 million, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, sales manager Don Hermanson reports.

Another plus factor at Lake Park, said Hermanson, is the wide selection and price value of two-story homes featured at the residential community.

More than 50 per cent of the homes sold to date at Lake Park have been two-story models, Hermanson said. The five-bedroom, three-bath Huntington home at Lake Park is priced at $21,950.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750. The community is being developed by Larwin Co.

Model homes at Lincoln Blvd. and Moody are open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

TOWN HOUSES ARE POPULAR

Here is a view of one section of the newest Huntington Continental Town Houses which are selling rapidly. They are priced from $10,950 with down payments as low as $350.

New Huntington Continental Town House Unit Sells Fast

Homebuyers are responding with record sales and traffic to the community features being emphasized by Huntington Continental Town Houses in introducing its newest unit of town houses. Following an initial sellout of 760 homes in five weeks, Huntington Continental was unable to fulfill buyer demand until opening its newest unit two weeks ago.

Originator of town house living in Southern California, Huntington Continental Town Houses stress the appeal of a location just minutes distant from the beach, title to both home and land, freedom from maintenance cares and worries and ownership of a new home for monthly payments starting at $79 per month, including principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

* * * *

SELLING PRICES of the homes start at $10,950. Low FHA financing is now available, with down payments as low as $350.

The new unit of town houses offers one, two, three and four bedroom homes, some designed with custom-inspired fireplaces. Luxurious appointments such as underground utilities, complete landscaping, private fenced patio and built-in range, oven, refrigerator, washer, dryer and disposal are included in the selling price.

* * * *

ONE OF THE MOST popular aspects of town house living at Huntington Continental is that all exterior gardening, painting and maintenance are handled for residents. This service costs only $12 per month and includes full maintenance of landscaping, parking areas, walk areas and recreational facilities.

In addition to area recreation facilities available because of Huntington Continental's proximity to the beach, the community also has its own recreation centers, swimming pools and central recreation building.

Huntington Continental Town Houses are a development of Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc., one of the nation's largest and best known builders.

To visit Huntington Continental: Drive south on Santa Ana Freeway to Brookhurst Turnoff. Follow Brookhurst south to furnished models at Brookhurst and Adams.

Annual Awards Made at Walker & Lee Dinner

Winners of Walker & Lee's annual awards for outstanding performances in 1963 were made known at the real estate firm's Awards Dinner held recently at the Newporter Inn.

Climaxing the company's best year to date, awards, based on a point system, were presented in the following divisions:

Income and Investment, Harlan Nichols of Long Beach; Acreage, Robert Romer and Elton Barnett, both of Newport Beach; Subdivision, Ray Gault of Costa Mesa, for the most homes sold; Bud Bennett of Seal Beach, for most money earned; John Foch of Anaheim and Ann Seaman of Santa Ana for outstanding cooperation; Rod Henderson of Balboa Island and Joan Guleserian of Garden Grove, both voted "rookies of the year"; Resale Division, Mrs. Merle Rottman of Newport Beach for lister of the year; and Ron Rosen of Garden Grove for salesman of the year, with both tied for the most outstanding performances.

* * * *

ADDITIONALLY, several manager awards were presented.

In the New House Department, Bob White of Costa Mesa was chosen as manager of the year; Dick Scudamore of Walnut and Johnnie Johnson of Wilmington were recognized as most improved manager and rookie manager, respectively.

Tom Mangan of the Anaheim Euclid-Katella office was recognized as manager of the year in the Resale Division with Lloyd Krummey of Fullerton, William McCabe of the Anaheim Lincoln-Magnolia office, Hal Rodman of Garden Grove, and William O. Thagard of Newport Beach as runners-up.

* * * *

SPECIAL commendation was given to 58 "Pioneer Club" members. The club membership is made up of Walker & Lee personnel who have been with the company more than three years.

Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, one of the original founders of Walker & Lee, made the presentations assisted by DeWitt R. Lee, company president, and Frank R. Hart, executive vice president.

Record Machine Hits Jackpot

Suburbia Homes Appealing

Visitors to Suburbia Heights, Buena Park development, have been pleased by the variety of home exteriors and the variation in lot levels, according to Norm Williams, director of sales for the Harry Tancredi Co.

Williams said Suburbia Heights capitalizes upon the beauty of its surroundings by interspersing level lot houses with split level houses, thereby enhancing the view from each home. Architects for the homes utilized the natural slope of the land when designing Suburbia Heights.

* * * *

PRICED FROM $33,950, each two-story home includes four or five bedrooms, three bathrooms, family and recreation room, formal dining room and separate breakfast area arranged in more than 2,300 square feet of usable floor space.

Located on the site of the old McComber Ranch at McComber Road and Luitwieler Ave., on and off ramps of the Santa Ana Freeway put Suburbia Heights within easy access of downtown Los Angeles or Long Beach.

Suburbia Heights can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to the Beach Blvd. exit. Travel northbound to Luitwieler Avenue, turn north on Luitwieler to models.

Luxury Bonuses in Tiara Estate Home

One good bonus deserves another, to paraphrase a famous saying, and at Tiara Estates Emerald Series homes in Fountain Valley this "new" saying is defined vibrantly through inclusion of such a double bonus, according to Dick Murray, sales director, Farrow Realty Corp.

The double bonus is a 720-square-foot premium room included in every home which in turn is a two-story residence — the second bonus, says Murray.

"The extra-large premium room," he said, noting that it is about 200 square feet larger than the average so-called bonus room, "can be used as a play or hobby room, two extra bedrooms for guests or as a luxurious master bedroom."

The new unit of homes incorporate a variety of styles which include 12 custom two-story exteriors which make the Fountain Valley community highly individualized, Murray noted.

* * * *

HE SAID THAT the development contains three and four-bedroom, two-bath residences. All the homes include fenced yards and front lawns in the purchase price. Exteriors of the homes are embellished with wood and stone siding and screens, plus shutters.

They have laundry and hobby rooms and den or sewing room. Features are central entry halls, large kitchens with built-in range, oven and dishwasher; stone and brick fireplaces with log lighters; hand finished cabinets; sliding glass doors; luminous ceilings forced air heat; marble pullmans; insulated ceilings; tile showers and wallpaper.

Priced from $22,300, the homes may be purchased by veterans for nothing down. Also available are low-down FHA terms and conventional financing. In the heart of growing Fountain Valley, Tiara Estates are close to the new La Quinta High School at Verano and Edinger; and an elementary and junior high school near Ward and Hazard.

Model homes are open daily on the southeast corner of Bushard and Heil. To visit the project drive the Santa Ana Freeway to Brookhurst, then south on Brookhurst to Edinger, east on Edinger to Bushard.

Apartment First Unit Is Occupied

The first residents have moved into Community Plaza, reported W. R. Effinger, builder and developer of the new 14-unit condiminium.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Clark selected a luxurious unit in the "Glendora."

The condominium, just completed, offers maximum comfort and gracious living in beautiful two and three-bedroom and two-bath units. Located at 1535 Termino Ave., Long Beach, Community Plaza is open daily for inspection.

Ranch Land Sales in W-Bar-B Heavy

"A tremendous public response to W-Bar-B ranch sites in the Walker Basin region of Kern County has cut down on the number of choice lots available now," stated Donald Grant Smith, local broker for the properties. "We still have some good ones left, though."

"We're extremely pleased that within a very short while we have sold so many parcels."

Offering the maximum in rugged, beautiful country for the outdoor enthusiast, Smith said "more than 50 per cent of the parcels have been sold."

* * * *

A GOOD PARCEL still offered is a 30-acre piece of beautiful land, dotted with oaks and trees of many varieties. "If the buyer wanted to, he could parcel off this large piece of land himself. In other words, become his own subdivider. We have the road equipment here to help him."

Scenic land such as this is becoming scarce in California —land that is ideal for both year-round living, or quiet vacation retreats. Wildlife is in abundance at W-Bar-B.

"This is not typical speculation land," Smith said. We insist you come and take a long walk on the property and know what you are buying. Water and utilities are available.

* * * *

PRICES START at $200 per acre, with excellent financing available for qualified buyers.

To reach W-Bar-B from the Los Angeles area, take the Lamont-Arvin turnoff on the Bakersfield Freeway (Highway 99), go through Arvin to Junction of Highway 66. Take right turn short distance to Caliente turn-off, then left through Caliente to Sand Canyon. Follow the W-Bar-B signs to Walker Basin.

Transportation and further information can be obtained by contacting Donald Grant Smith at 12135 Victory Blvd., North Hollywood. Telephone number is 761-2214.

Pacifica Series Homes Offer Many Extras With Much Appeal

Built by Sunkist Plaza Builders, Pacific Series Homes contain many luxury extra offerings. Prices start at $18,250 with terms of no down payment, only $100 costs to move in.

Careful planning and the inclusion of a long list of built-in kitchen appliances have been instrumental in the rapid sales pace picked up the first month of the year at the Pacifica Series of Springdale South in Huntington Beach, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders, the developing firm.

Bram based these attributes on informal surveys conducted by sales personnel in which women visitors and prospective buyers lauded the homes' planning which allows for complete flexibility in furniture arrangement and kitchens that include color-coordinated built-in range and oven with hood and fan, waste disposer and sufficient cabinet space of natural ash.

* * * *

BRAM POINTED out that this is part of the extra value found in each of the homes and is due to his firm's mass buying power acquired through volume building. The Sunkist Plaza firm, started in 1958, has constructed more than 8,000 quality residences in various localities of Southern California.

Bram explains that the Pacifica Series is following suit on the Diamond Head Series, which preceeded it and which sold out in record time.

"In both cases," he added, "stepped-up construction schedules have been put into effect to keep abreast of the sales."

Springdale South, whose models are at the corner of Bolsa Avenue and Edwards Street in Huntington Beach, features an array of four three and four-bedroom plans with a variety of exterior designs. Prices start at $18,250 with terms of no down payment and only $100 costs to move in.

All homes have Custom Aire forced-air heating systems, sliding glass doors, vinyl asbestos floor tile, luxury pullmans with Formica counters and deluxe medicine cabinets.

As an extra bonus feature, the large rear yards are fully fenced with approximately 130 lineal feet of Redwood fencing, plus gate. The finest recreation, schools, shopping centers and employment centers are nearby.

To reach the development, go west on Bolsa to Edwards and models.

Mothers March

. . . By Air Land and Sea

Turn your porch light on Tuesday night!

More than 5,000 mothers will be on the march on a one night, house-to-house fund raising drive for the 1964 March of Dimes campaign against birth defects, arthritis and polio and support for the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in La Jolla.

One baby in 35 born in the United States is born with a serious birth defect. Among the major projects supported by the March of Dimes is research for the prevention of these defects, 70 U.S. treatment centers for birth defect children and an information program for expectant mothers.

Long Beach children now are being aided at treatment centers at Orthopaedic Hospital and Children's Hospital in Los Angeles and at an arthritis treatment center at Rancho Los Amigos, Downey.

The local chapter provides necessary orthopedic equipment, special shoes, crutches and wheel chairs. (For polio patients, care in private nursing homes and iron lungs are provided.)

Early treatment and detection are important," said Mrs. Albert Smith, chairman of the Mothers' March.

"The key to open the door in '64 is research," she continued. "A vaccine to prevent German measles, for example, is on the threshold of discovery."

THE SALK INSTITUTE for Biological Studies, now under construction in La Jolla, will be aided by March of Dimes contributions. Although the institute will not be completed until summer, Dr. Jonas Salk is already working there in temporary quarters on the site.

The institute will be a center for basic research in the life sciences. Mathematicians, physicists and philosophers, as well as biologists, chemists, virologists and other scientists will exchange views on basic biological questions.

Volunteers still are needed for the Tuesday night march. Any person — man, woman or young adult—wishing to contribute their time may call the March of Dimes Office, 3230 E. Broadway for further information.

The Long Beach office has one paid employee, an executive secretary. All other staffers are volunteers.

Social, welfare and service clubs of the local high schools have volunteered for the march and will be concentrated in the apartment areas, supervised by adults.

EVERY MODE of transportation will be included in the Mothers March armada, from ocean-going yachts to motor scooters. The motor vessel Shearwater will cruise the coastal area and marina with volunteer mothers aboard; the Goodyear blimp will carry illuminated messages; private planes will pick up Avalon receipts and yachts will deliver Catalina campaign supplies.

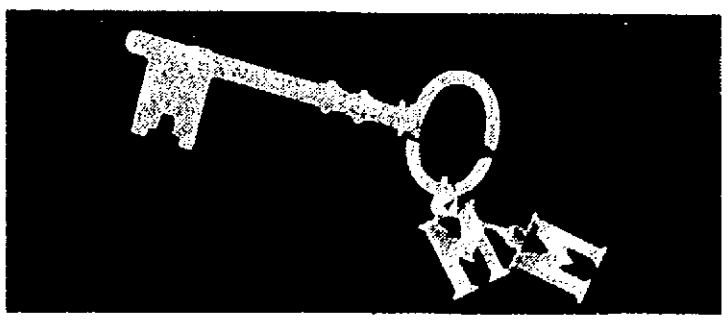

On the night of the drive, cars will be dispatched via short wave radio, courtesy of local ham radio operators, to pick up receipts from the Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill area and deliver them to the Security First National Bank.

For the families of a quarter of million babies born each year, the question, "Is my baby all right?" must be answered "No."

The March of Dimes offers hope and help through research and treatment of birth defects.

Don't forget that porchlight Tuesday night.

"KEY TO OPEN THE DOOR in '64 is research," according to Mrs. Albert Smith, chairman of Mother's March. AIR . . . Doris Eddy, March of Dimes volunteer, hands money bag to R. J. Moore, treasurer of the Long Beach chapter of the National Foundation, with early returns from Avalon. Avalon gave the highest per capita contributions in the U.S. to March of Dimes last year. LAND . . . Using a Honda for deliveries of campaign materials to volunteer marchers are Mmes. Frank Cornell and Charles Weidlein, area lieutenants. SEA . . . Decorating the 45-foot cruiser, Ranger, owned by Donald Horton, are (from left) Mrs. Bert Bond, area captain; Harvey Freeman, March of Dimes campaign chairman; and Mrs. Albert Smith.

People on the Go—at Home and Away

By Iola Masterson
I. P-T Women's Editor

DO A good turn by having a good time and taking a whirl on the Operation Amigos. An excursion flight benefit to Mexico in April, it is being co-sponsored by the Children's Dental Foundation and Junior League of Long Beach.

Explains "art" of Mexico charity flight.

A portion of the profit from each ticket will go to the local dental foundation. Getting in the mood (above) to fire up localites to join the tour (open to to the public—y'all go) are, from left, Audrey (Mrs. Arnold) Romeyn, clinic chairman; Loralee (Mrs. Thomas) Turner, foundation president; Marge (Mrs. Lauren) Conley, endowment chairman; and "Sil" French of Western Airlines cooperating with the groups to make the trek memorable and rewarding.

You must admit, it is a new twist on the philanthropic route. Funds realized, the women tell me, will be used for dental care of under-privileged children of town. Incidentally, the picture is posed in front of the six ton colossal male head of the Olmec Period, 800 BC-100 AD from the exhibit of Master Works of Mexican Art at the L.A. County Museum, representing a collection covering a period of 3½ thousand years of Mexican art, and currently being shown up there.

For ticket information now for the trip contact Mrs. Turner at 3919 Lewis Ave. or Al Beach at his travel agency, also cooperating with the idea.

A few of the early reservation holders are Betty and Gordon Wilkinson, Gertie and Lee Boswell, Emily and Roger Coleman, Jean and Don Holm, Emilie and Don Gilroy, Sue and Art Buell, Irma and Bob Leebrick and, of course, members of the committee.

NO MATTER what anyone insists (and a lot do) installation dinner parties can be very entertaining, zip-along affairs. The "hah!" contingent who disagree have been on the wrong circuit.

I'm referring to Long Beach Yacht Club's hardly-a-word-wasted, such official party of last weekend when Dick Brookins became commodore and wife, Vera, commodoress, taking over from Frank Mansuy and Margaret.

Wild Waves Say...

Big crowd—and a grand intermingling of long and short gowns worn by the women was noted. Which should give a lift, style-wise, to the gal who hasn't bought a long dress yet!

Among those spotted among the 200 or more present were Mary and Mayor Ed Wade, Margie and Bob Pierce, Margo and Bill Dalessi, Helen and Jonah Jones, the Fred Woodwards, Dorothy and Jim Foasberg, Udell and Dr. Gareld Green, Dee and Don Horton (did you know they are infanticipating—in April?), Jennett and Bob Driscoll and Phyllis and Hal Drake.

Also on ye olde note pad noted were the Fred Woodwards, Norma and John McIntire, Don Caffrey and date and the Wiedricks, Blanche and Phil-Hazel and Stan. About there ran right out of paper surface—and just in time.

PARTY-SWITCH that provided hilarious activity (and some surprisingly good results) was used as a gimmick by Nancy and Grant Vogel at their new home in Lakewood Country Estates Wednesday when they entertained at a housewarming. "No gifts," was order of the night. However, the hosts provided their guests with everything needed to "do" an oil painting—from easels to oils to whatever—plus several abstracts (legitimate, by real artists) to provide inspiration, or at least a hint of what was expected.

Guests, let me hasten to add, are not the real artist variety but they painted and laughed and did right well. The finished results (Nancy swears she will follow through) will be framed and will be their friends "gifts" (I feel compelled to quote) to the house.

Nancy, by the way, is TV editor of Writers' Digest and she and Grant have just recently moved to Lakewood from Bellflower. In addition to great blending of oils and smearing of same, friends invited were paid for their efforts with a delightful cocktail buffet party. Instead of paid off the exact wording should be urged on.

IN THE GOOD to hear division of the news, was told that Dr. Harold (Hal) Miller is home and doing very well recuping from pneumonia.

WHAT SOUNDS like a brass band with flourish kind of ramble down to La Paz is in the planning stages for four couples—Maxine and Bill Clemo, Marge and Jack Merrick, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty and Doris and Jerry Young.

When all things blend—weather and timing—they'll fly to the Mexican resort and there charter the big, pleasure cruiser, Malibu, and take to the sea. Bill likes to snorkel and body surf, Jack likes to fish—the rest of them enjoy cards, sun and visiting whatever little towns they'll come to as they seafare. Sound great?

ISN'T ANYBODY excited? Nobody is excited in the home of Nancy and Joe Bogdanovich. Not much! Gleeful sparkles keep rolling out of Rolling Hills where they reside and await the arrival of first grandchild, expected by daughter-in-law and son, Korleen and Martin Bogdanovich.

Nancy had a stork party and luncheon for Korleen Saturday at her home, 31 Saddleback Road. In lieu of the real thing, she had a befeathered stork (a wondrous creature) as centerpiece with arrangement of white and yellow roses and hyacinths. Color-wise in decor, Nancy played it absolutely non-partisan. Boy, girl or twins will be great with her.

Among those present at the little but very gala affair were Dottie (Mrs. Ralph) Clock, Jackie (Mrs. Jerry Kehle), Debbie (Mrs. Roland) Weber, Charlene (Mrs. Ronald) Laraneta, Jean (Mrs. Roy) Scharer, Roberta Griffin and Mrs. Roland Swaffield.

On very special "Snowball Special"

ANOTHER perfect time for hardy, energetic ski-type fans was Long Beach Ski Club's trip by bus to Mammoth last weekend. Real blizzard of a storm Saturday dumped masses of perfect snow white for Sunday. Saturday the wind blew so hard many were ski-lifted without benefit of ski lift, right off their feet on the slopes. But, ah, that Sunday.

Among the ski-daddlers to snow heights were Ruben Mancillas, Fran Graziola, George McLaughlin, Pat Durkee, Charles Birkman, John Tansley, Sharon Kothe, "Red" Collins, Mike Baker, Helen Carey and Pat Whalgren. Club president, Bill Coffman, and wife, Shirley, didn't make the trip and, considering how things turned out, are ski-sick at heart-ski.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give 'Em Room, Girls

DEAR ABBY: If girls don't want trouble with boys, why do they ask for it? I think it's disgraceful the way young girls sit so close to boys who are driving automobiles that you can't get a toothpick between them. There ought to be a law against having a girl's arms flung around the neck of a boy who is trying to drive. Where do they think they are? Paris? It isn't safe on the streets any more with all those one-armed drivers. I am not an old fogy, either. I am 31 years old. Someone should tell those brozen girls how to behave.—DISGUSTED CITIZEN.

ABBY

DEAR DISGUSTED: Yes. And it should be the nut behind the wheel.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a minister and my wife thinks I have a problem. I don't care to drink anything hot. Especially coffee. (I cannot even stand the SMELL of coffee.) My wife thinks I embarrass a hostess when I refuse coffee, and ask instead for anything cold. She says a hostess goes out of her way to have a perfect meal for the preacher and when I say I don't like something it makes her feel ill at ease. Is my wife right? Must I force hot coffee down me? If not, how can I graciously refuse without embarrassing my hostess?—COLD DRINK PREACHER

DEAR PREACHER: Your wife is mistaken. A minister is just as entitled to his preferences as any other man. If you don't care for hot coffee—say so. And don't be fearful of embarrassing your hostess OR your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the U. S. Navy and have been writing to this girl for over two years. We started out being just pen pals, but we have become very close through our letters. I mean it has become serious in a romantic kind of way. (Mention of marriage, etc.) We have never met face to face, but we've exchanged pictures. I just found out that she was only 13 when she started writing to me (she said she was 18) and now she is only 15 years old. Do you think I should keep writing to her? I am almost 21.—FEELS FOOLISH

DEAR FEELS: Yes. But in your next letter, tell her frankly that you know her age, and also that you never would have begun the pen pal relationship with her had you known she was only 13 at the time. Then taper off.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: As a citizen who is in the public eye I feel it is your duty and responsibility to back up the government in its efforts to make mail delivery easier. I have been watching your column daily in hopes of seeing something added to your message, "IF YOU WANT A PERSONAL REPLY TO YOUR LETTER, PLEASE WRITE TO DEAR ABBY, P. O. BOX NO. 3365, BEVERLY HILLS, CALIFORNIA." Where is your ZIP CODE number, Abby? And what do you intend to do about it?—CIVIC-MINDED

DEAR CIVIC MINDED: I intend to say, "My zip code number is 90212. And thank you!

* * * *

Get it off your cheest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Children to See 'Heidi' at City College Saturday

"Heidi," the classic children's story, will be presented by Junior Programs of Long Beach Saturday.

The Downey Children's Theater version of the play will be staged at Long Beach City College Theater with the curtain going up at 10 a. m. and 12 p. m.

Written by Johanna Spyri, the story has been adapted for the theater by Lucille Miller.

TICKETS may be obtained from Mrs. John Tylicki, 3807 Gaviota Ave. and Mrs. Burl McColm Jr., 3902 Brayton Ave.

Downey Children's Theater was founded eight years ago. Many of the roles in plays it produced are double cast—adults and children rehearse and perform alternately.

Rummage...

In the market for an antique, rare plant, a designer dress, an almost new bus seat, a fur, a crib, a pillow slip or a book, record, or night shirt, bird cage or coffee pot?

You'll find it amid hundreds of other items at the mammoth rummage sale Feb. 1 (9 a.m. to 5 p.m.) in Municipal Auditorium.

It's the big Junior League of Long Beach benefit, the 12th sale for Community Trust Fund, and for browsing and buying it can't be equaled. . . . Prices are low. The selection is overwhelming.

IN FACT, since its inception back in 1953, the league's rummage sale has just about proven that you CAN get something for nothing—at least, close to it.

Though first year sales totaled a mere $4,345 (negligible compared to last year's net of a whopping $14,533), even then the event drew a happy crush of enthusiastic customers. People were buying everything in sight: when a doorknob dropped off mid-sale, it was priced and tagged and toted off before the janitor could whip out his repair kit.

That year the "Bargain Box" event was held in the old Independent Building on East Third. The next year, '54, the sale moved to the former Famous Department Store at Pine Avenue at 6th—and profits went up to $6,938.

IN 1955, the event was moved to Exhibition Hall, Municipal Auditorium, its present address. That was the year the sale was almost washed away. Only fast action of city street employees saved the day. They sandbagged the warehouse building which was being flooded by heavy rains.

It was in '55, too that the Bixbys donated furnishings from Rancho Los Cerritos to the sale . . . items that really stirred shopper interest.

The next year an artificial leg and Chevrolet fender were sale conversation pieces and one lucky shopper hit the jackpot with a ring. She bought it for 10 cents; sold later to an antique dealer for $650.

What has caused the rummage venture to grow each year?

The way the women have handled it has probably been a deciding factor. All items are carefully sorted and marked and everything is separated into departments. Saleswomen, all league members, are on duty throughout the day.

Each member must give $35 worth of rummage at sales prices, plus 24 hours of time—three days of marking plus one sale shift.

This year women in charge of the sale include Mmes. Robert Ware, Donald C. Wallace, Francis Fillipow, assisted by Mmes. John Gauger, Baird Sammons, John Carrol, Charles Chambers, Leo Vander Lans Jr., James Craig and Roy Hubbell.

ALL TOLD, the league raised $110,000 from the yearly event. And, since membership dues cover administrative costs, profits go back into the community fund which helps support the Long Beach Dental Health Center, the league's major philanthropy.

This year, as in the past, trucking is being handled by Capt. Fred Wessel of the Volunteers of America. In exchange the volunteers receive all unsold rummage.

WHY GROW OLD?
Your Age Is Secondary to the Way You Feel

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

"Never trust a woman who tells her real age. A woman who will tell you that will tell you anything." —Oscar Wilde.

This is an amusing thought. The important thing, it seems to me, is to forget age and plan your life and your activities according to your tastes and interests rather than because of the number of years you have lived.

If a woman looks years younger than she is, and many do, I believe that she should have the right to keep her age a secret or to push it back a few years. Many people are so age-conscious that the truth would make them think of you as much older than they would otherwise. Of course a woman cannot push this too far or she will appear foolish.

There is such a great difference in persons of the same age physically, emotionally and mentally. Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "To be 70 years young is sometimes more cheerful than to be 40 years old."

I have known women who were old at the age of 30 and looked much older than they should. A reader recently wrote: "I am sure that you have observed that there is a 'young' and an 'old' in every age group. There is a young and an old 20, 30, 40, 50 and so on. It must have something to do with one's outlook."

I HAVE observed this and feel certain that outlook has a lot to do with it. Of course health and care of the complexion also play an important part. Here are a few more thoughts concerning age.

"Age plants more wrinkles in the mind than in the face."—Montaigne.

Then of course there is Lewis Carrol's famous one:

"You are old, father William,
the young man said,
And your hair has become very white;
And yet you incessantly
stand on your head—
Do you thing, at your age,
it is right?
In my youth, father William
replied to his son,
I feared it might injure the brain;
But, now that I'm perfectly
sure I have none,
Why, I do it again and again."

The mature years should be more fun and more rewarding than younger years. The latter is so often fraught with self-consciousness and indecision. If you feel like standing on your head, I hope you do so.

A CUSTOMER SAID:
"This is the first dress which I have seen and liked since I've been in Long Beach."

Discipline - - One Needs It, One Wants It

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My teen-age grandson has gotten "too big for his britches" and his mom and dad let him get away with it.

He is consistently correcting his dad with a know-it-all attitude, and he seldom addresses his mother if he is not criticizing her for some small something.

Just because the folks wanted to stay at home on New Year's Eve, you should have heard him call them old "stay-at-homes" and say they were ready for a home for the aged.

I hate to speak harshly of an only grandson, but at this rate he'll soon have me hating him. Am I to blame? —GRANNY.

DEAR GRANNY:

It's too bad there isn't a handy woodshed with a sizable paddle and a hardy arm to wield it on this boy's immediate horizon. If only parents realized that when they let their kids grow up to be smart alecks they're simply letting them grow up to be loathsome members of society, and that's for goldarned sure.—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I know this sounds silly but I feel at a loss because my mother doesn't discipline me the way other girls' mothers do. I'm only 14, and my mother lets me do anything I want to. When I complain she says "you can take care of yourself."

Well, I guess I can but I'd like for her to be stricter so I'd have to behave myself. Please tell me what to do.—BARBARA.

DEAR BARBARA:

Well, make a list of the rules and regulations other girls' mothers lay down and give these to your mother. Ask her to please insist you follow them because you'd feel better if she showed this much interest.

I sort of think this will prompt her to do so.—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My aunt lives just four blocks from my husband and me but we never go to see her because she keeps two dogs and a cat. Oh, she is as clean as anyone can be with these dumb brutes in the house, but it just makes you sick at your tum-tum to hear her call herself mommy to them, and call them baby and all that.

They have to have special diets and foam rubber beds, their toenails cut at the vet's, and Auntie has already bought them lots in the pet cemetery. It's just sickening! You'd think they were as good as we are.—RIGHT, I THINK.

DEAR I THINK:

Maybe they are. I mean, maybe they ARE as good (if not better) than you are.

Oh, yes, I admit I am very partial to pets, sometimes preferring same to people. And certainly to people who won't visit an aunt because she finds happiness in lavishing affection on her pets. At least SHE has a warm heart.—M. M.

Installation Ceremony for Alumnae

Long Beach alumnae club of Alpha Chi Omega will be formally installed as the Gamma Pi Gamma alumnae chapter of the sorority at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in French Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Conducting the candlelight ceremony will be Mrs. Thomas L. Lowe of San Gabriel, district alumnae chairman.

Invitations have been issued to all alumnae in the Southern California area and to presidents and representatives of local Panhellenic groups.

* * * *

RED CARNATIONS, the sorority's flower, will be presented to the 59 charter members and also will be featured on the buffet table.

Mrs. R. L. Yoakam, president, and Mrs. Bruce R. Zacher, event chairman, are being assisted with plans by Mmes. Gordon D. Aumack, Edward J. McMahon, Weldon H. Long, Otto Kerstner, John J. Tindall, Joseph J. Risinger and Miss Lucille Wilkey.

Rossmoor Club in Bid for New Members

Rossmoor Woman's Club will offer membership at half price this week.

Mrs. John Dailey, chairman of the membership committee, announced that women joining the club by Feb. 1 will be charged only one-half the annual dues for the fiscal year. They must be willing to attend at least two general meetings and one meeting of a club section of their choice to qualify.

Membership is closed during March, April and May, reopening in June.

Those joining the club now will be able to participate in numerous events scheduled for the spring. Included: one act play presentations Feb. 28 and 29 and March 6 and 7. March fashion show and luncheon; April home additions tour and flower show; May variety show. Duplicate bridge games are played Fridays throughout the year.

* * * *

THE MAIN objectives of the club are promotion of education, literary and philanthropic work among members plus increase of interest in civic, social and economic conditions of the community.

A new member coffee is tentatively planned for Feb. 10 in the home of Mrs. Alfred A. Dixon, 3071 St. Albans, Rossmoor.

Sorority Sets Grand Ball

Theta Sigma Phi of Long Beach wil have its annual grand ball Feb. 1 in Edgewater Inn.

Members from local and area chapters of the non-academic sorority will attend the public event. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Music will be provided by Al Stafford's orchestra, with money from ticket sales to be given for support of the Theta Sigma Phi Scholarship Fund for training teachers of mentally and physically handicapped children.

Wedding Plans Are Being Made

Smith-Copeland

The engagement of Harriet Suzanne Smith to Robert G. Copeland was announced at a tea Saturday at the home of the parents of the bride-elect, Judge and Mrs. Marion A. Smith, in Santa Maria.

Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn H. Copeland of Long Beach.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Occidental College, where she affiliated with Zeta Tau Zeta and is now a teacher in the Los Angeles City School System.

Her finance is a graduate of Wilson High School and Occidental College, where he was president of Alpha Tau Omega and the Inter-Fraternity Council and a member of the Honor Court. He is now a student at the USC School of Law.

The wedding will be an event of June 27.

Croker-Gibson

Long Beach State College graduates, Jo Ann Marie Croker and James Michael Gibson, will wed June 13 according to announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Croker of Long Beach.

The bridegroom-elect's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James C. Gibson of Avalon.

A St. Anthony's High School graduate, Miss Croker is a teacher in Westminster and a former member of Bachelorettes. Her finance graduated from Avalon High School and is president of Phi Epsilon Kappa.

Newman-Schneider

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Harold Newman have revealed the engagement of their daughter, Judy, to Donald Charles Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas Schneider.

The couple graduated from Polytechnic High School. The bride-to-be attended Long Beach State College. Her fiance attended Foothill College in Palo Alto.

Wedding plans are being made for November.

Walston-Wiener

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Walston of Lakewood announce the engagement of their daughter, Cheryl Lynne, to Ronald Kent Wiener, son of Mrs. J. J. McTee of Torrance and J. E. Wiener of Beverly Hills.

The bride-to-be is a Lakewood High School graduate and is now attending Long Beach City College. She was Miss Long Beach in the 1963 Miss California beauty contest.

Her fiance graduated from Torrance High School and attended El Camino Junior College and Brooks Institute of Photography at Santa Barbara. He is now serving in the U. S. Army.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Robinson-Keast

Betty Joan Robinson and Roger Keast Jr. are making wedding plans for the summer of 1965, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Robinson, have revealed.

Parents of the bridegroom-to-be and Mrs. Alfred Medendorp and the late Roger Keast.

The couple attends LBSC. Miss Robinson graduated from Polytechnic High School and is a past honored queen of Jobs Daughters. She is listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," and a member of Pi Omega Pi.

Hughes-Arthur

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold J. Hughes revealed the news of the engagement of their daughter, Susan Joan, to Edward Alan Arthur at a family dinner party at their Long Beach home.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Arthur.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Polytechnic High School. Her fiance was graduated from St. Anthony's High School. The couple attends LBCC.

A summer wedding is planned.

Rose-Smith

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rose announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Harry C. Smith Jr., son of Mrs. Russell Gill of Long Beach and Harry C. Smith of Alabama.

Miss Rose graduated from Polytechnic High School and is a senior at LBSC. Her fiance was graduated from Polytechnic, attends LBCC and has served for six years with the U. S. Air Force.

Aug. 29 has been chosen for the wedding date.

Moll-Price

At an open house at their home, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Moll of Long Beach announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to John Rees Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Price.

Miss Moll is a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School and attended LBCC.

The prospective bridegroom, a graduate of Millikan High School and LBCC, is now attending LBSC after completing a year at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash.

A late August wedding date has been set.

Benefit Party Is Scheduled

Claretian Guild will sponsor a seminary scholarship benefit party Wednesday noon in Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave. Card play will follow luncheon. Games of canasta, contract, 500 and pinochle will be offered.

A Showing of 'Averages' in Fashion

Costly alterations need no longer be a problem for the seven out of 10 women 5-feet-5 or under who complain, "I simply can't find a dress to fit."

So says Bernice Blond, fashion coordinator for Berkshire B-Tween fashions, who will demonstrate her theory during a fashion show Thursday, 2 p.m., at Long Beach's Broadway Store.

Flying here from New York, she will introduce fashions created especially for the "average" woman who needs a dress narrower through the shoulders, a waistline shorter and a bit fuller in cut, added fullness through the hips and a proportioned skirt length. The showing will be in the Broadway's first floor dress department.

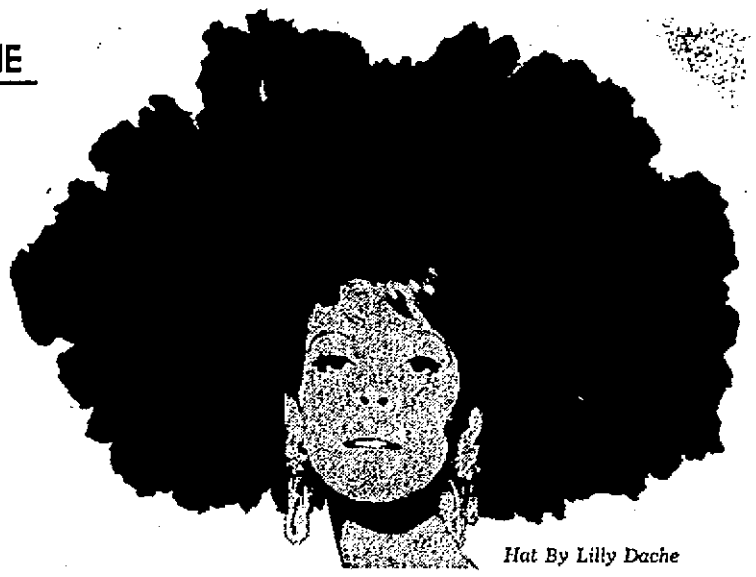

LBCC Patrons to Play Cards

Patrons of Long Beach City College will sponsor a dessert luncheon and card party Wednesday noon at the Garden Room, Third St. and Alamitos Ave.

The event is open to the public and reservations may be made with the chairman, Mrs. Russell Cocks, 2450 Pine Ave. Serving on the committee are Mmes. Reta Carter, Byron Johns, J. W. Tabor, Jeanette Bernstein and W. A. Motkowicz. Mrs. H. A. Zelsdorf is president.

TAKE NOTE, MR. TALL-DARK-AND-HANDSOME

Hats for Spring are... HIGH, W-i-d-e, Feminine

Hat By Lilly Dache

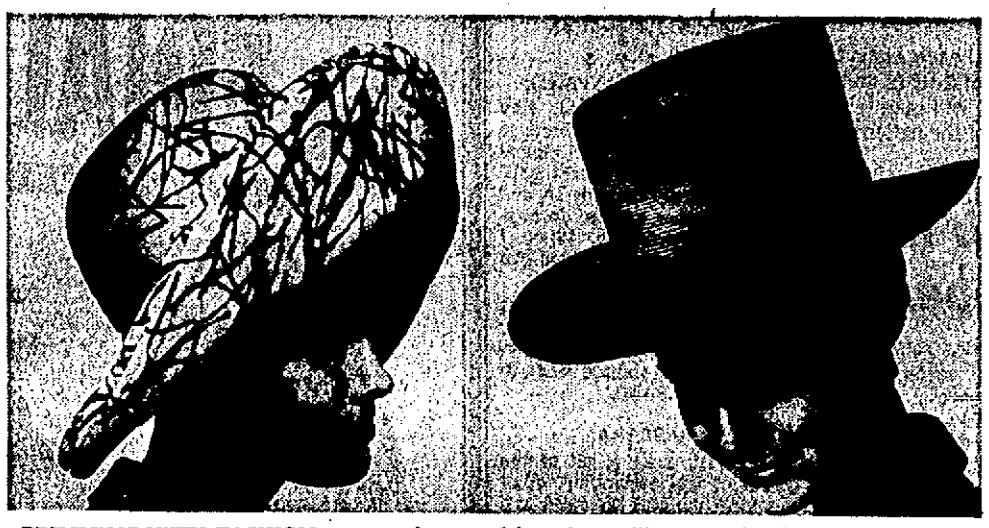

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Just in time for Leap Year, the nation's gladhatters have provided the bachelor girl, the career girl and the spinster with plenty of ammunition for trapping her man.

More date bait than the "let-me-cook-dinner-for-you" routine are new sugar scoop brims, yummy floral bouquets and tantalizing turbans of silk, lace and chiffon.

Romantically feminine, new spring chapeaux are designed to alter the proportions of a lady's wardrobe—and to "altar" the intentions of any unattached male.

NO RED-BLOODED man could ignore the new picture hats with their acre-sized brims—big as all outdoors and equally as inviting.

BRIMMING WITH FASHION . . . two borrowed-from-boys silhouettes that have gone newly feminine and flirty. Left, Chanda's softly upturned buccaneer brim is fashioned of white felt laminated with confetti-like pieces of black straw. Tan Balibuntle boater by Mr. John features higher crown banded in polished black straw. Gentle, up-turned brim is faced and edged in black straw.

During the Millinery Institute of America's spring review in New York recently, we took measurements on some to find brims eight inches wide.

Double that for the two sides of the hat, add the inches the woman's head occupies, and you have milady carting a cartwheel with a 21 to 22-inch diameter.

Many of the large brims roll up and away to offset soft bangs and sparkling eyes. Others turn down as perfect foil for that come-hither look. . . .

And to attract second glances, fore and aft, the new sugar scoop brim dips deep in front, arches high in back.

FOR THE FEMALE who chooses to snare her man on his own ground, there are, like in past seasons, some styles borrowed from the boys—the plain sailor, the padre, the buccaneer and the sideswept cavalier.

But all are feminine and flirty to fit the mood and manner of spring 1964.

There's a variety of smooth and rough-textured straws, shiny and dull finishes, sheer or opaque fabrics. Black is rarely seen—except in eye-catching black and white combinations.

As one might expect, white dominates spring millinery collections. And there are a few orange blossoms thrown in.

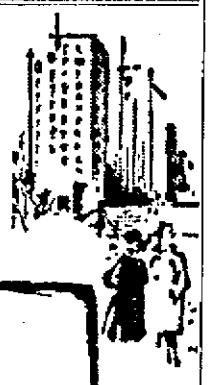

BUT ALSO GOOD as a lure to potential suitors are flamboyant pastels (with yellow a strong favorite), bold greens, peach-toned oranges, sharp pinks and blues ranging from turquoise to the pale and icy tints.

And for the gal who wants to impress Mr. Bachelor with her smart approach to the budget, Mr. John has the answer: a two-for-the-money topper with detachable feminine, floppy brim. The crown (a cloche) goes solo with tailored suits and coats.

But you can bet your boots that the girl won't go solo.

CFWC Confers Monday

Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Womens' Clubs, will have senior and junior conferences Monday.

Juniors will meet at 8 p. m. in Lynwood Service Building, Century Avenue and Bullis Road, Lynwood; seniors at 10 a. m. in Artesia Women's Clubhouse, 18522 S. Pioneer Blvd., Artesia.

The all-day Artesia council meet will include a morning session devoted to citizenship with Keith Howdeyshell, public relations director, Belmont Savings and Loan Association, as speaker. He will talk on "The Art of Everyday Living."

* * * *

FOLLOWING, five panel discussions will be conducted on various aspects of federation service. At the afternoon session Mrs. Hugh Butler, representative of Human Engineering Laboratory, Los Angeles, will talk on "How to Find the Real Abilities of Yourself and Your Children."

Special music and community singing have been arranged by Mrs. Ruel Hird with the Norwalk Women's Chorus and Cerritos College Chorus to sing.

The junior evening confab will include a hi-jinks program with each club of the district performing a five minute skit, songfest or dance.

Co-hostesses will be Lynwood Juniors, headed by Mrs. Robert Dixon and Lakewood Juniors, headed by Mrs. Robert Davis.

Pair Wed in Home Rite

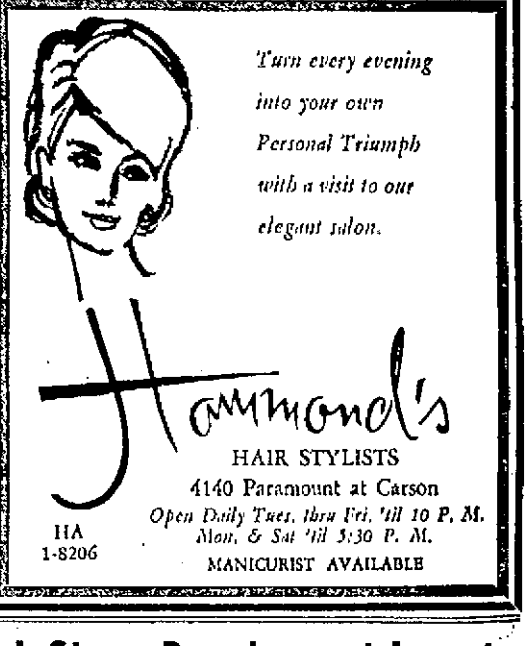

Catherine Mary Taylor, teacher at Sutter Elementary School, became th bride of Lt. (j.g.) Henry L. Houst Jr. in an afternoon ceremony Saturday.

Setting for the marriage, witnessed by 60 guests, was the San Pedro home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lebow.

Attending the newlyweds were Bonnie Lou Rogers, maid of honor; Lt. Robert Kirk, best man; and Lt. (j.g.) Lawrence Hoffman, usher.

DAUGHTER of Mrs. Frank J. Tayler, Appleton, Wis., the bride was graduated from the University of Wisconsin where she affiliated with Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Houst, Akron, Ohio, was graduated from Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. His fraternity affiliation is Psi Upsilon.

Newlyweds on Honeymoons

Bates-McGroarty

A full military wedding and Nuptial Mass united Brenda Marie McGroarty and 2nd Lt. Charles Joseph Bates (USMC) in marriage Saturday at St. Barnabas Catholic Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles William McGroarty of Long Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Charles Bates of Bellingham, Wash.

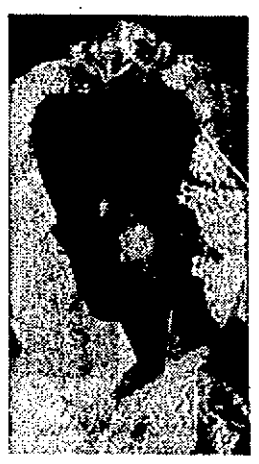

The bride wore a formal gown of silk taffeta with a chapel train, detailed with Venice lace. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell from a crystal and pearl crown. Mrs. James Gavin attended the bride as matron of honor. Charles William McGroarty Jr., brother of the bride, served the bridegroom as best man.

Other members of the wedding party included Mrs. Clark C. Curtis, Marilyn Drake, Nancy English, 2nd Lts. Richard McCormick, Robert Wright, Richard Toettcher and Lt. Richard Lochner.

The new Mrs. Bates was graduated from St. Anthony's High School, where where she was Associated Women Student president, member of Spurs and the

Hold-Up No Crime

When you refer to a hold-up in real life you are talking about a dangerous crime of violence.

There is nothing violent about a hold-up at bridge. To the contrary, it may be a horrible crime to fail to hold up when you should.

South should play the ten of spades from dummy at trick one. It might hold the trick, but it doesn't because East produces the king.

At this point if South wants to be a criminal he will take the trick with his ace. Then he will go after the diamond suit. East will win the first diamond trick and play the eight of spades. At this point nothing will do South any good. He can take his queen right away or he can hold off once. In either instance West will establish his spades while he still holds the king of diamonds. South will have a choice. He can cash out three hearts and three clubs and go down one or he can lead a diamond right away and go down two.

IF SOUTH holds up on the first spade lead there will be no way for East or West to keep him from making ten tricks. Furthermore, there is no danger in this play. South has three stoppers each in clubs and hearts so a shift to either of those suits can't bother him.

If East plays a second spade, South wins the trick and leads a diamond. East takes his ace and hasn't another spade to lead. Then South knocks out West's king of diamonds and still has the spades under full control.

'Unsinkable Molly Brown

By ELISE EMERY

"I knew the real Molly Brown!

"Red-haired, blue-eyed she was, with a temperament to match. A vivacious extrovert, so gracious and charming that everyone who knew her liked her."

Duke Melody dropped in at rehearsal of Long Beach Civic Light Opera's production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" Friday.

He chatted with blue-eyed red-bewigged Jacqueline McFadden, who plays Molly Brown in Meredith Willson's rollicking musical.

"But the real Molly Brown never lived to see the day she was cute and pretty as you are" Melody told Miss McFadden.

Duke Melody—that's his real name—is a pianist now appearing at the Lafayette Hotel. When he heard that "Molly Brown" will open Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium, he said, "Why that's the musical comedy about my country!"

MELODY LIVED for some years in Denver and collected the colorful folklore of early mining days in Colorado. He first saw Molly Brown in 1918 when he was four years old and he knew her until her death in 1932. He began earning money playing piano when he was 9; as a youth he often played in orchestras and combos for Molly Brown's parties.

"Molly earned her title of 'Unsinkable' by her heroic action when the Titanic sank in 1912. She kept a lifeboat full of people alive. That took real bravery—more than just being a nice kid."

Melody noted that the story of Willson's musical follows the flamboyant facts of Molly's life. Born in 1873 during a hurricane in Hannibal, Mo., she vowed as an illiterate girl to become rich and famous. She made her way to Leadville, Colo., and a few weeks later married Leadville Johnny Brown, who became the richest miner in the state.

BUT MOLLY was determined to be recognized by the Denver socialites who scorned her and her epic struggles to be accepted make for a story and musical score of high comedy, romance and poignancy.

Other principals in the CLO production are Kenneth Jones as Johnny, Marvin Cloyd as Prince DeLong, Bette Arntzen as Princess DeLong and Ross Lynn Tepper as Mrs. McGlone. Hal Lowe, Matt Bond, Drew Eshelman, Fred Shaw, Anthony Powers, dancers and singers complete the cast.

Staff for this first Long Beach production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" includes James Brittain, general director; Jack Kroesen, musical director; Betty Kimber, costume director; James Boyd, assistant director; George Jack, choreographer, and Cliff Nelson, lighting director.

The show will play Thursday, Friday, Feb. 1, 2, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

Tickets are on sale at Long Beach Civic Light Opera headquarters, 518 E. Fourth St.

ROYALTY in Europe, led by Princess DeLong as played by Bette Arntzen, and Prince DeLong, enacted by Marvin Cloyd, warmly accept Molly who becomes favorite of international set.

Violinist Welcomed to L.B.

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T. Music Critic

Long Beach has recently added to its list of illustrious personages living here a violinist who has had an enviable background. She is Vera Barstow, with whom I had a stimulating visit the other day.

Although born in Ohio, Miss Barstow grew up in Pittsburgh, Pa., where her father was a maker of violins and her mother an excellent pianist.

Major and Minor Notes

"They both wanted me to become an artist," she related, "so I began lessons on the violin at the age of 9 with the concert master of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra. His name was Von Kunitz and he was my only teacher."

When she was 19 years old, she went with her teacher and 10 other pupils to his native city of Vienna where she lived for two years in the old hunting lodge of Marie Theresa. She remembers that the great chandelier in the drawing room held 300 candles. A frequent visitor to the lodge was the famous writer, Mary Roberts Rinehart, and in one of her books she tells of these visits.

OPPORTUNITIES to hear great music were privileges enjoyed in the beautiful city and Miss Barstow had the honor of appearing as soloist with the Vienna Ton Kunstler Orchestra. She also played in Berlin with the Philharmonic Orchestra under Kunwald.

These and other successful appearances abroad provided Miss Barstow with a manager in New York City when she returned and she toured the whole country concertizing and appearing with all the large orchestras under such conductors as Karl Muck and Stokowski. She remembered with great pleasure a concert program she shared with the famous lieder singer, Elena Gerhardt.

* * * *

AFTER AN appearance at the Hollywood Bowl with conductor Eugene Goosens, Miss Barstow decided to remain in California where she began her teaching career, and where she has had many appearances at the Bowl and at Philharmonic Auditorium with the Los Angeles Philharmonic. She taught at USC for nearly 20 years, a position she held until two years ago when she retired.

Many famous violinists have learned from her. Among them: Stanley Plummer and our own talented Akira Endo who has studied with Vera Barstow ever since he came to America from Japan 10 years ago. Many of her students now hold important places in symphony orchestras and in teaching positions. They are scattered all over the country, she says.

Today she has a studio in Long Beach which once belonged to the well-known piano teacher, Marguerite Nelson, and she revels in her pupils.

Welcome to our midst, Vera Barstow. Your rich musical background will be a great asset in our cultural development.

Contemporary Chilean Paintings on Display

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The visit of "Contemporary Chilean Painting" has been extended until Friday at the Art Gallery, Long Beach State College, 6101 East Seventh St. The gallery will be open today from 2 until 5 p.m. and during the week from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Forty-four works by 24 painters were selected from the collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York City and the Museum of Contemporary Art in Chile. They are representative of the best work being done by artists in Chile today. Of the painters, Matta is best known as he was part of the group in New York in the early '40s, from which came the leading work of the next two decades.

* * * *

MATTA, himself, is a surrealist; his two large paintings have pearly grey, misty backgrounds with brightly-colored events taking place. In one, automated weapons are firing violently at a swarm of brilliant insect-types. The other, "Dawn", has in the foreground a transparent green dome with many other events and forces whirling about.

Other works run the gamut from the primitively-conceived "National Holiday" by Fortuno San Martin to the ultra-sophistication and elegance of "Breakfast" by Thomas Dasham.

RECOGNIZABLE influences indicate a strong orientation to Europe and New York; there is none of the rapturous landscape color of California painting, nor the trend toward drawing forms in black and white, so prevalent here.

All the artists eschew conventions: technique, color, content, and subject matter are but means of experimentation to discover some new way to find meanings in the contemporary world.

This show is a first tangible result of a cultural exchange plan between Chile and California. It stimulates a taste for more.

'Mike Fink' Premiere Feb. 28, 29

Long Beach City College music, drama and dance departments will combine talents to present the world premiere of "Mike Fink," an American folk-opera by Long Beach composer Morris Hutchins Ruger, Feb. 28 and 29 in the LBCC auditorium.

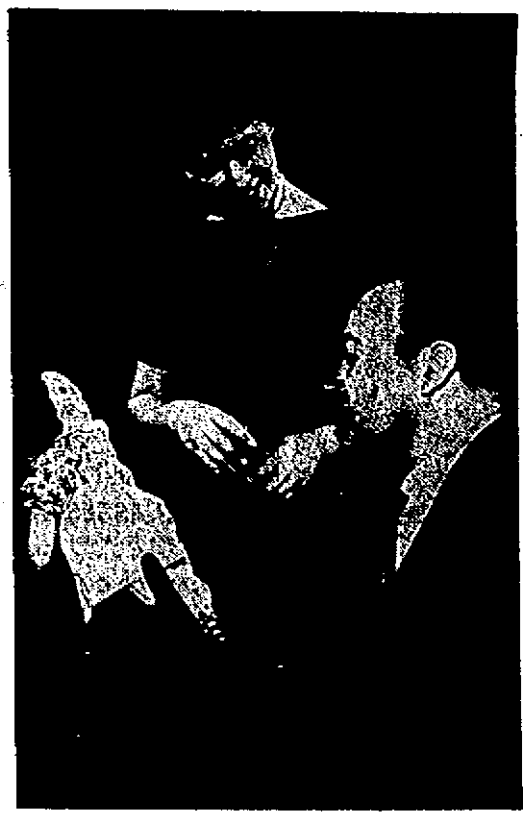

A member of the City College staff for the past two years, Ruger is internationally known for previous operas on American themes such as his "Gettysburg" and "The Scarlet Letter."

The libretto of "Mike Fink" is by Edmund Penney of Los Angeles, based on exploits of a boisterous Mississippi River keelboatman, who was a contemporary of Davy Crockett.

* * * *

PRINCIPAL roles in the pioneer LBCC production will be sung by Cliff Robertson, baritone; Betty Jane Olsson, soprano; Ray Vaughan, tenor; and Olive Chorley, contralto.

The production will be under the general direction of David Emmes, drama instructor. Assisting will be Wayne B. Gard, vocal director; Judith Aston, dance director; J. L. White, staging and set design; and Akira Endo, orchestra conductor.

COMEDY AT COMMUNITY

"What the heck did Ibsen's Nora expect to find outside her doll's house?" demands Ralph Richmond in the role of frustrated movie star addressing Sue Sage as fiancee of a psychoanalyst. Scene is from "Oh Men, Oh Women," comedy playing at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. The play, madcap spoofing of psychological problems of men and women, will run Thursdays, Fridays Saturdays, through Feb. 29.

MMA Exhibits to Be Seen in Area

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Two exhibits from New York's Museum of Modern Art will be shown in the Southland during February.

Prints by Walter Sickert (1860-1952); Felix Vallotton, whose woodcuts depict Parisian life and manners in the 1890s; and Paul Signac (1863-1935) will be on display at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., Feb. 8 through 29.

"U.S. Government Art Projects" may be seen at Pomona College Feb. 7 through 28. Paintings, sculptures, drawings and prints by 28 artists make up the exhibit.

These are works commissioned by the government to give employment to American artists and craftsmen during the 1930s. These projects are credited with encouraging and stimulating interest in the arts which has led to today's emphasis on creative fields.

* * * *

A LONG BEACH and a Seal Beach artist have made early entry applications for the All-California Art Show to be held in conjunction with the National Orange Show in San Bernardino March 12 to 22.

Grace Dimmick, 477 E. Adair St., will enter a modern water color, "Copenhagen Courtyard." Robin Metze, 206 11th St., Seal Beach, will submit an oil painting, "Sun on a Dark Day."

* * * *

BEGINNING Monday and continuing each Monday thereafter, Long Beach artist Ben Messick will conduct life art classes from 7 to 10 p.m. at Saylor's Art Center and Gallery, 414 E. Fourth St.

Messick, winner of many art awards, is widely known as a lecturer, teacher and painter. He is a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts in England.

* * * *

GALLERIES of Otis Art Institute, 2401 Wilshire Blvd., were completely renovated before the opening Thursday of the First Biennial Invitational Drawing Exhibition. The show will hang through March 8. Hours are 12:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, closed Mondays.

* * * *

PAINTINGS by G. Ray Kercliu which stirred a storm of controversy in Mississippi and became a topic of national interest will be exhibited at Comara Gallery, 8475 Melrose Place, Los Angeles, from Monday to Feb. 15.

Kercliu's one-man show in the art gallery of the University of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss., in April, 1963, roused statewide outrage which led to charges of desecration of the Confederate flag and obscenity. At the time, the artist was an assistant professor of art at the university.

He was arrested and it was not until summer of 1963 that charges over "them damn pictures" were dropped and the paintings were exhibited at the Martha Jackson Gallery in New York.

Kercliu is now a professor of art at Orange County State College in Fullerton.

After the Los Angeles exhibit, the paintings will go to New York for a major showing.

Black Is Council President

Frederick Black, director of Long Beach Museum of Art, was installed president of Long Beach Arts Council at a dinner Saturday in Lafayette Hotel. He succeeds Wallace Arntzen, who had served two one-year terms.

Other new officers are Marvin Cloyd, first vice president; Mrs. Herman H. Ridder, second vice president; Blanche Collins, secretary; and Clarence Knox, treasurer.

Members of the nominating committee included James Herley, Laura Killingsworth, Fred Ohlendorf, Sue McDonald and Dr. David Sievers.

On Stage---

CHAPEL THEATER, 4141 Pacific Coast Hwy., Torrance, "Desperate Hours," 8:30 p.m. Friday through Sunday; runs through Feb. 29.

'Ports of Call' Concert Slated

Long Zeach Civic Chorus, sponsored by the Recreation Department, is rehearsing its next concert, "Ports of Call," tentatively scheduled for March 13 in the Concert Hall.

The program will include folk songs and dances from European countries. Colorful costumes and extra numbers by the Youth Talent Showcase will enhance the performance.

Auditions for singers will be held Monday and Feb. 3 at 7 p.m. in the band room at Millikan High School. Frank Ahrold is choral conductor.

Symphony to Play Romantic Program

"Each orchestra has a personality of its own, developed over a long period of time and arrived at by a combination of the personalities of the individual players and their instruments.

"Most musicians give their instruments names. One musician I know calls his cello 'That clumsy beast.' Another has named his clarinet 'Pedro.' Orchestration is the art of combining the sounds of the various instruments."

Dr. Bertram C. McGarrity, professor of music at Long Beach State College Tuesday morning previewed the All-Orchestral Concert which Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will play tonight at 8 o'clock in Long Beach City College Auditorium.

The well-attended preview salon in Pacific Coast Club was sponsored by the Symphony Guild and Junior League.

* * * *

"THE CONCERT program is entirely in the romantic tradition," Dr. McGarrity said.

"Overture to 'Der Freischutz' by Von Weber and 'Unfinished Symphony' by Schubert were written for the smaller, earlier orchestras.

"Von Weber, first of a long line of romantic composers, based his opera on the story of a marksman who always hit his target because he had magic bullets. The overture opening is calm, warm, relaxed; its end is a brilliant outburst by the entire orchestra.

* * * *

"SCHUBERT'S familiar 'Unfinished Symphony' is so called because it has only two movements but from an esthetic standpoint it is complete.

"Strauss, in Death and Transfiguration and Holst in The Planets wrote for the large romantic orchestra in action. Their compositions draw from a larger palette of colors.

"In the Strauss work, a dying man recalls his boyhood and youth; he dies; bells toll and his soul is transfigured.

"Holst was interested in English folk music, the vigor of country life and healthy animal spirits.

* * * *

"SUBTITLES for The Planets' are Mars, Bringer of Wars; Venus, Bringer of Peace; Mercury, Winged Messenger; and Jupiter, Bringer of Jollity."

Dr. McGarrity . . played taped excerpts to illustrate his discussion.

Tickets for tonight's concert will be on sale at the box office before the performance.—ELISE EMERY

Cooks With Bavarian Flair

Chef of the Week

Perry D. Griffith

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I. P-T Food Editor

With deference to former "Chef," Bill Nott, today's Chef of the Week is NOT cooking this fish. Perry D. Griffith (photog) is, instead giving a recipe for Weiner Schnitzel, a favorite of the exchange student living with them, Bernard Kulla of Bavaria.

Kulla is a senior at Wilson High. The Griffiths have three sons of their own, Tom, 17, Bill, 14, and Jim, 8.

From the Hoosier State, Perry was born in North Vernon. He remained there through the sixth grade when the family moved to Croydon, Ind., just across the Mississippi from Louisville, Ky. Graduating from Croydon High School, he immediately crossed the river and joined the Associated Press Wire Photo Service.

* * * *

THAT IT was a real break for Griffith is beside the point, for he was a natural for the job. He not only had the aptitude and talent, but the thorough training, as well. His brother was a portrait painter and photographer, and they had worked closely together through the years.

Griffith was again fortunate in World War II. He was not assigned to KP duty, but as an aerial photographer aboard the USS Yorktown. It is now based at Long Beach.

Later, aboard the USS Randolph, he covered every battle in the Pacific Theater from the Marcus Islands raids, the first on Japan, until the one on Tokyo proper, four years later. His nearest miss came when a Japanese Kamikaze made a direct hit on the Randolph's photo headquarters. Perry had just gone forward a few minutes before.

* * * *

ANOTHER quirk of fate happened aboard the Randolph, too. Griffith was chief photographer with Cmdr. Charles Crommelin. On one particular flight when Perry was not along, Crommelin was hit so badly that he was temporarily blinded. He flew back 100 miles, however, and made a successful instrument landing aboard ship. He was hospitalized for the next six months, but was told he would fly again.

Griffith was eventually returned to the States and sent to San Francisco for reassignment. His commanding officer was none other than Cmdr. Crommelin. Crommelin did fly again but was later killed on Okinawa.

The Griffiths share their talents. She's Alice, but known professionally as "Suzy," fashion illustrator and ad-plans layout gal. In fact, Perry received much of his formal college education on weekends at Miami U, Oxford, Ind., courting "Suzy."

He has been in business in Long Beach as a commercial photographer since 1940.

* * * *

PRESIDENT of the Advertising Club of Long Beach, Perry is a member of the Downtown Lions Club, Long Beach Casting Club and the Gem and Mineral Society. He is past president of the Professional Photographers Association of Long Beach, and a member of the Professional Photographers Association of America. He is actively interested in the Downtown Long Beach Associates, the Chamber of Commerce and in the Convention Bureau.

As a family they camp—search for rocks and turn them into gems, i.e., cuff links, buttons, pins, ear rings, etc. His mosiac work is second to none as are his plaques and wood working ventures.

In fact, it is a unique policy that each member of the family bring some hobby or work of art to the dinner table. It not only enhances the dinner discussion, but is educational as well. As a result of such discussions, Bernard received his first "A" at Wilson High on "My Favorite Hobby."

* * * *

THOUGH an enthusiastic fisherman, Griffith has never been known to win the jackpot. And then, he went on the Lions Club charter trip and caught a yellowtail. But there lies the tale—he became the only casualty on the trip. Having actually won, he snoozed through the entire jackpot ceremony. He just didn't appear to declare his fish.

Our "Chef" never relaxes without a paint brush, some rocks or mosaic work before him. He's a stickler for getting one job done before starting another, also.

Here's the recipe for Weiner Schnitzel.

WIENER SCHNITZEL
By Bernard Kulla

- 4 slices boneless veal or pork cutlet
- 3 tblsp. flour
- 1 egg
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- Shortening
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Lemon slices
- Parsley

Pound cutlets to tenderize them. Salt and pepper to taste. Beat egg, adding small amount of milk if desired. Mix flour thoroughly with egg. Dip cutlets into egg mixture, then into bread crumbs. Brown in minimum amount of melted fat over low heat, 15 minutes on each side. Schnitzel must be served dry and crisp. Garnish with lemon sections and parsley. Bundles of parsley may be fried in fat until crisp to garnish. Serve on hot platter.

Salvation Army Auxiliary Installs

Mrs. Theron Freeze will take office as president of Long Beach Women's Auxiliary of the Salvation Army Friday noon in League House, 394 Roswell Ave.

The installation luncheon will mark the third birthday of the auxiliary and the culmination of two years of leadership under Mrs. Dean Gilmore.

Others taking office will be Mmes. Robert Cox, A. K. Jewett, Frank Salter, Mills S. Hodge, and George H. Seufert.

* * * *

COMMITTEE chairmen for the next year will include Mmes. Robert Greenberg, Russell Johnson, John Dykstra, Ernest Malizia, Gerald Mills and Robert Driscoll.

Mrs. Harold Barry, wife of divisional commander of SA in Southern California, will be installing officer. Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, wife of the local commanding officer, will report on past Christmas projects.

Mrs. Theron Freeze

Mrs. Glenn Gilmore will be soloist and members of the board will be hostesses.

Seminar Planned on Foster Homes

Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, will sponsor a seminar on foster home care from 8:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in Downey Woman's Clubhouse, 9813 Paramount Blvd.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Jan. 27-31:

MONDAY: Hot dog, buttered green beans, spicy applesauce, carrot sticks and milk.

TUESDAY: Pizza, green salad, fruit cup supreme, coconut cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Creole noodles, buttered spinach, peach half, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, buttered peas, fruit gelatin, ½ toasted cheese sandwich and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked fish, whole kernel corn, strawberry sauce, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch, 30 cents. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY: Italian spaghetti, buttered whole kernel corn, creamy coleslaw, hot buttered French bread and milk.

TUESDAY: Barbecued beef on bun, buttered green beans, applesauce, coconut cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Pizza, garden salad, strawberry sauce, oatmeal cookie and milk.

THURSDAY: Diced turkey in gravy on mashed potatoes, buttered spinach, fruit cup supreme, toasted cheese special and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese or chop suey on rice, buttered peas, fruit gelatin, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

DGs Make Plans

Plans for a children's Easter party and a May luncheon-bridge were begun when South Bay Alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma met at the Manhattan Beach home of Mrs. A. R. Hummel. Presiding was Mrs. Murray Helm.

S. F. Mulrys to Reside in Long Beach

A Long Beach home awaits newly married Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Francis Mulry who followed their Saturday nuptials with a Northern California honeymoon trip.

Setting for the vow exchange witnessed by 200 guests was St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The former JoAnn Redford, the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vetra Redford of Lakewood. She wore a full length gown of satin with French lace bordering the train and jeweled lace bodice. Her shoulder length veil was held by satin flowers and she carried a cascade of white carnations and yellow roses surrounding a white orchid.

* * * *

PRECEDING her to the altar were Mrs. Guy Lford, maid of honor, and Diane Page and Nancy Mulry, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Mulry, 1605 E. First St., was served by Robert Montenegro, best man, and Richard Antekeier and Carl Nagengast, ushers.

The new Mrs. Mulry was graduated from Lakewood High School and her husband from St. Anthony's. Both attended Long Beach City College.

OUR COVER

The flash of a skate, the slash of a stick and the puck flies toward the goal at a speed of 90 miles per hour — unless the Los Angeles Blades' Con Madigan can get there in time to foil this scoring attempt by Denver's Bruce Draper (No. 15). This fast, aggressive action shown on Southland's cover today is typical of professional ice hockey, the only minor league sport tolerated by this big league area. Southland explores the possibilities of completing our sports spectrum with a major league hockey franchise as Rich Roberts rounds up "The Case for Big Time Ice Hockey" on Page 7.

NEXT WEEK

Leap Year is with us again, reviving the ages-old debate over whether it is or isn't the decorous thing to do for the young lady to pop the question. Views on both sides, by both the guys and the dolls differ. Southland readers who would like to know what some of the glamour gals have to say on the subject will do well to take a look at Hoyt McAfee's "How to Beguile That Certain Man," an entertaining article in next week's Southland.

MOVIES

5 Years to Stardom

Now an established star in films, Elke Sommer has zoomed to fame and fortune in five years.

LESS THAN five years ago, Elke Sommer was an unknown, working in London as a mother's helper in order to learn English and enter the diplomatic service as an interpreter.

Today, Miss Sommer, at 22, one of Europe's most glamorous film stars, has made her Hollywood debut opposite Paul Newman in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Prize," screen version of the Irving Wallace best-seller.

Elke's father, a clergyman, died when she was 14. An only child, she was forced to leave school to help support herself and her mother. She was catapulted into her first film role during a vacation in Italy when she won a dancing contest which brought her to the attention of an Italian producer.

IN HER SECOND Italian film, Miss Sommer was directed by Vittorio de Sica. Within five months she spoke fluent Italian and today is an accomplished linguist, speaking English, French, Spanish and Italian in addition to her native German.

The actress owns a beautiful estate, complete with park and lake, on the outskirts of Nuremberg, Germany, keeps an apartment in Paris, and leases a rambling modern house in California.

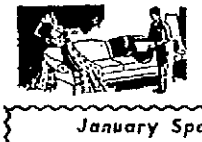

On top of that, Miss Sommer owns some beautiful statistics: 36-22-36.

Married? Not yet.

"There's plenty of time," she explains. "Career first, husband and family next."

He Rides High When He Rolls

By Helen L. Gillum

GONE ARE the faithful horse and buggy, the horse car and the Model T Ford. And all for the common good, no doubt. But should there be anyone who bemoans the passing of the "good old days" and their ancient modes of transportation, let him try getting somewhere in a hurry on a high-wheeled bicycle like that owned by Mark Hanna of 226 Nevada St.!

Hanna, who practically can't resist "collecting" anything with, on or pertaining to "wheels" of olden times, has an enviable assortment of such items, from carriage lamps and license plates, to old cars and bicycles. He is frequently seen "riding high" on his high-wheeler in the streets of Long Beach. But these little jaunts are mainly for pleasure, such as in our Pioneer Days parades or similar events. When he really wants to go where he's going —but fast—he uses one of those modern contraptions of chrome and steel — a sleek automobile of latest make.

BICYCLES date back at least as far as 1790, when crude models were conceived and experimented with in Europe. Most of them were simple wooden frameworks with wooden wheels. Such odd names as "Pedestrian Curricle," "Dandy-Horse," "Pedomotive Carriage," "Boneshaker" and "Dicycle" can only hint at the bewildering construction and appearance of the modern bike's ancestors.

The velocipede — a great improvement over the earlier models — was introduced about 1860. The cycling craze took over with renewed vigor and indoor riding schools, riding clubs and racing became popular. (One school called itself the "Gymnocyclidium.") Special frames and skirt-guards for women enthusiasts were provided. Broken bicycles, broken bones—and probably some broken hearts! — were the results of the "velocipede mania" of the late 1800s, as depicted in Harper's Weekly, Scientific American, and Ladies' Literary Cabinet of New York.

THE HIGH-WHEELER, such as that owned by Hanna, came in about 1865, following the popularity of the velocipede. Hanna's bike is from 1873. It bears no identifying mark, but is thought to be a Columbia, one of the better makes of that time. He obtained it about eight years ago at a movie studio in Hollywood, but there the trail ends. Earlier information is lacking.

Hanna removed the old paint, primed and repainted the metal, and hard-chromed the original nickel. It was also fitted with new metal spokes, and a "Columbia C" automatic kerosene light. In case anyone is wondering, Hanna mounts his high-wheeler by first stepping on a small footrest just above the smaller wheel, and leaping lightly up into the seat.

One major league hasn't come West

The Southland's Case for Big-Time Ice Hockey

In spite of Southern California's sun-tan heritage, ice hockey, with its crashing, smashing, mile-a-minute action, has captured the fans' interest.

By Rich Roberts

SPORTS in Southern California? You name it, we have it, and we have it all big league. Well, almost.

Professional football? The best players in the world performed in the Pro Bowl game two weeks ago . . . and the Rams were showing signs of regaining championship potential.

College football? The USC Trojans were undefeated national champs in 1962 . . . and the Rose Bowl is the classic crockery of the set.

Baseball? Check the World Series pennant flying at Dodger Stadium, the finest ball park anywhere . . . and the only park where every major league team appears regularly.

BASKETBALL? The Lakers dominate the Western Division of the National Basketball Association . . . and the champion Boston Celtics are getting older with every dribble.

Track and field? It's a track nut's Utopia . . . the jumping-off point to the Olympic Games in Tokyo next October, and site of next summer's annual dual meet between the United States and Russia.

Golf? Any pro passing up the Los Angeles Open tournament that teed off the winter tour this month can forget it . . . he'll never catch Arnie and the rest of them now.

Horse racing, auto racing . . . all the great jockeys and thoroughbreds, all the skillful drivers making the list interminable.

SO WHAT'S keeping ice hockey? A fair question, perhaps not so to the Los Angeles Blades, who are putting up a solid fight in the Western Hockey League, but fair enough to the powers that have deprived the Southland of the only big league association it lacks.

The WHL is fast and exciting but, after all, the WHL is a minor league, and it's as anxious to grow up as anybody. Its president, Al Leader of Seattle, dreams that some day his league will be the Western Division of the National Hockey League.

James Piggott, a Saskatchewan construction executive who is co-owner of the Blades, says, "Major league hockey is certain to come here, and it may come so suddenly that some of us will be caught off guard. Of course, the whole league is the ultimate goal, but I think that may take a while. One or two franchises in the West seems more likely at first."

The NHL, however, has moved toward expansion with all the haste of an advancing glacier. As a tight six-team structure—Chicago, New York, Detroit, Boston, Montreal and Toronto—its position is unique.

SOME 98 YEARS after the celebrated discovery at Sutter's Mill, the Rams led the migration of big league sports to the Golden West when their owner, Dan Reeves, found the promise of similar riches too strong to resist. The Dodgers and Lakers followed in due time.

In 1961, Reeves joined with Piggott in bringing the WHL's sagging Victoria, B. C., franchise to L. A., but neither he nor his Canadian partner will be satisfied until they share a big league hockey promotion in the Southland.

But when clubs are selling out their arenas for the season before the season even starts, it's difficult to convince them that they could do better somewhere else.

Besides, they ask, how do they know Southern Californians would support big league hockey?

Because, we reply, Southern Californians are supporting minor league hockey on an impressive scale and have demonstrated ability to back big league sports as no others have.

THE BLADES averaged more than 8,000 people each game last season and set the WHL's one-game record

Sports followers who like the bodily contact competition get their fill of this specialty in ice hockey.

There's a method in the apparent helter-skelter of these players and that little black dot is the center of it all. Above, Los Angeles Blades and Denver in action.

Fred Waring watches rehearsals of a new number for his show.

Fred Waring's Razzle Dazzle Still Scores Mightily After Three Generations

The Traveling Men From Penn

By George Eres

IN THE HEY-HEY day of white flannel trousers and blazered youth a get-up orchestra "stopped the dance" at the University of Michigan.

The youthful orchestra was led by a freshman from Penn State who bid on and got the dance date. Name of the youngster was Fred Waring, a banjo player, who with his brother on piano, another banjo man and drummer had been playing around for pin money. With an augmented outfit he got his first taste of managing and directing a real band.

"I jazzed up and down like crazy in front of the bandstand," recalled Waring. "I was busier than a cheerleader. I guess everyone thought I was leading the band. Actually, the band took its cues from the piano. The baton was just window dressing."

Now, 50 years later, a more subdued Fred Waring who has long since learned to make the baton count, is on his 47th national tour. He'll play about 100 cities in the junket—with an annual layoff at his Palm Springs home where he took it easy until he hit the road again Jan. 3. He'll be in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium Feb. 3.

For three generations, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians have been musical bywords on the national scene—radio, records, television, college hops and concert tours. Back and forth across the country he has romped with his full entertainment package, combining the two ingredients he has found keeps the fans coming in—musicianship and showmanship.

Showmanship got him his break at the University of Michigan dance and a week's booking that stretched into a month's stay at a Detroit Theater. He didn't return to Penn State although the Waring name has never been disassociated from "collegiate"—he still plays campus dates and somehow the name Waring's Pennsylvanians continues to bring to mind raccoon coats, girls waving pompons, and college life.

Waring got his first taste of leading the band as drum major for the Boy Scout Fife and Drum Corps of Tyrone, Pa., in 1913. He cut down one of his mother's brass-knobbed curtain rods for a baton. Brother Tom picked out music on the black keys of the piano. Fred figured out chords on the banjo. Poley McClintock, a neighbor, played drums—the same Poley still featured with the Pennsylvanians—and a fourth friend supplied second banjo. Together they were known as the "Banjazzatra" band.

"All we had were accompaniment instruments. Something had to carry the melody—so we sang," Waring said. That was perhaps the beginnings of another of the Waring trademarks—choral groups.

Peggy Ann Emerson, Miss Ohio of 1964, lends charm to the show.

The Pennsylvanians went in for razzle-dazzle. The college tie-in offered the motif for the band uniforms—crazy sweaters. On stage, audiences could look for a mild form of hazing of performers—like tossing one of the group up in a blanket. The Pennsylvanians continued to score with the college bit. Their first big record was "Collegiate." They had tie-in appearances with movies about college and made films about college life ("Varsity Show"). It was at Pomona College where "Varsity Show" was shot that Waring met the student director of the college glee club, Robert Shaw, and hired him. Shaw has since become famous in his own right as a choral director. The 15-minute, five nights a week radio show, "Pleasure Time," gave him one of his biggest pushes forward. The college motif was intensified. Waring ran an intercollegiate glee club competition, played college songs on the show and as was the case with so many of the coast-to-coast radio show bands was able to win a following that has stayed with him. Unlike many of the bands that won their fame in the national network radio shows, Waring's continued to stay out front—even without the regular national radio airing.

At 63, Waring, a vigorous handsome man, is nearing his golden anniversary as a conductor. His headquarters still is in Pennsylvania where his home is at Shawnee. He runs his business and educational enterprises from there as well as making it the headquarters for his national tours. The Shawnee Inn, set in the middle of a 27-hole golf course, is the preparation grounds for new ideas. His Waring Music Workshop each summer gives college credit courses to music educators and choral directors. His Shawnee Press publishes arrangements of choral works for schools, colleges, churches and community choral groups. The Waring Music Journal, publication for concert artists, is published in New York.

Many of the Pennsylvanians perform at the Shawnee Inn during the summer months where the new numbers are tried out. Virginia (Mrs. Fred) Waring, decorator and designer, decides on the show costumes. Dancer Nadine Gae, wife of the producer-stage manager, Ray Schroeder, works out the choreography and action for the tour shows. Waring develops the patter that goes on with the featured Pennsylvanians—and nearly all 40 of them get a spot in the shows.

Early each October, the Pennsylvanians go on the road. In theaters and concert halls the curtain goes up to a few bars of his trademark number "Sleep" but that's about all that's settled for certain up to two minutes before curtain time. Like a quarterback with a well-rehearsed team, Waring may, even after the program is announced, switch to audible signals that call for changes as the show progresses.

"The idea is to get spontaneity," says Waring. "Every concert should reflect the relationship between audience and performers. You wouldn't play the same thing for a Detroit audience as for a Long Beach audience any more than you would say the same thing to everyone you meet."

Waring says the question most asked of him is "Are the Pennsylvanians really from Pennsylvania?" Well, they spend most of their time there, so technically they are from Pennsylvania. There's one thing, though, it's not quite clear how come one of the Waring's four children, son Fred Jr., is going to Indiana University instead of Penn.

Jacqueline Mayer, 1963 Miss America; Lette Rehnold, Waring and Betty Ann McCall lift their voices in a specialty number in a Pennsylvanians' show.

Harold Lloyd looks back on

The Golden Age of Comedy

Big Five of Hollywood's Golden Age of Comedy: Top, Harold Lloyd in "Hot Water" and Laurel and Hardy in "Dancing Masters"; (bottom, l-r) Harry Langdon, Buster Keaton; and Charlie Chaplin in "The Gold Rush."

By Harold Lloyd

Copyright by The Associated Press

DURING the past year, I have been having the time of my life introducing my comedies to a brand-new generation. From the Cannes Film Festival to Bangkok, the reception has been simply wonderful—far beyond my fondest dreams.

Everywhere I have shown the films, I have been greeted by that sweetest sound—human laughter. It has been amazing to me that these comedies, some of them 40 years old, can still strike a responsive note of laughter with audiences of all ages in all parts of the world.

During my travels I have been asked a lot of questions about comedy in those days of silent films and early talkies, so I've had to do some thinking about that period in Hollywood history. It has been called the Golden Age of Comedy, and I guess it was. How did it come about?

One reason was that there were schools in which comedians could get their training. First of all, there were vaudeville and burlesque, which spawned many great comedians. Then the studios themselves provided excellent schools.

We had the Sennett School, the Roach School, the Christie School and two or three other studios which would take minor comedians and give them experience and seasoning that could make them stars. So the screen was assured of a steady stream of comedy talent.

THE MOVIES were in their infancy then, and we all were experimenting with the infinite opportunities that the film medium offered for comedy. We were able to do things that simply weren't possible on the stage or in circuses or any other medium.

Out of that era came stars who were popular and revered. Many of those silent comedies are now considered classics.

Four single comedians and one team epitomize what was the best of the golden age of comedy. It might be interesting to analyze their styles as an illustration of the variety of comedy in that era. I place them more or less in order of their advent on the Hollywood scene.

Charlie Chaplin, of course, was one of the world's great pantomimists. He had a tremendous background of training in the English music halls. This gave him a natural bent for timing, for spacing, and an innate knowledge of comedy.

Like all great comedians, he had an instinct for what is right and just how far he could go. He worked on the borderline between comedy and tragedy. Some of his themes could easily have been dramas. But he pushed them over to the side of comedy.

THE APPEAL of his little tramp had the feeling of the downtrodden man, the struggling little fellow whom nobody likes. He was the outsider. That fitted into a lot of other people's lives and gained him immense sympathy.

Charlie also developed many mannerisms that helped make the character popular—the little walk, the tricks with the cane and the derby, his way of going around corners, etc. These things were not only clever and comical, but ingenious in their conception.

He had a fine sense of comedy and surrounded himself with good gag men. He and I worked much the same in that regard. The gag men would come to us and throw their ideas at us and we would separate the wheat from the chaff. We would take their ideas intact or else give them a twist of our own.

HAROLD LLOYD wasn't funny himself, some people say; his material was funny. That's erroneous.

My character was not essentially a funny character, because he looked like anyone else on the street. Like Chaplin, I represented a certain group. In my case it was young people who were working at a certain vocation and always struggling against the bigger guy. He was a boy who, in spite of the odds that were against him, had determination and generally fought his way to the top or somehow got out of the predicament he was in.

In some pictures I would play a normal young man who wasn't funny in himself but could be funny by timing and spacing and in the way he did things.

Unlike Charlie, I played a variety of roles—a doctor, a farmer boy, a hypochondriac, etc. It wasn't how I looked, but how I reacted that made me funny.

BUSTER KEATON had great training in vaudeville with his family's act. He used to roll himself into a ball and his father would throw him all over the stage, even into the orchestra pit. That's how he got his name, Buster. It looked as if he would kill himself, but he was a skilled tumbler. He knew how to break his fall, how to relax and be limp. This knowledge helped all of us, because we took a great number of falls.

Buster, like Charlie, had that sense of timing and spacing that is so important to comedians. He developed the character of the stone face. It was a difficult characterization because you limit yourself to a certain degree if you never smile.

He gave himself a comic appearance, as Charlie did. But by limiting himself to the story expression, he could not have the wide range of pantomime that Charlie had. Still, Buster's body movement was marvelously comic.

—Associated Press Photos.

Harold Lloyd is keeping Golden Age of film comedy alive for new generation.

HARRY LANGDON was another product of vaudeville. I saw him doing an act called "Johnny's New Car," and I told Hal Roach that he would make a good comic for films. Hal went down to the Orpheum in Los Angeles and saw Harry, and he agreed. But they had a difference of opinion—about $100 worth—and Harry went with another producer and then landed with Sennett.

After a few pictures, Harry came to me and said, "Harold, I don't seem to be scoring." I had seen his comedies and I thought I knew why.

"They're working you too fast," I told him. "They have a habit of doing that at Sennett; they did the same to Chaplin. Slow down, and make them play to you, the way Charlie does; don't play to them."

Harry slowed down and he was much better. But he slowed down a little too much and finally I told him one day: "Harry, I didn't mean for you to drag it!"

Harry was called the baby-faced comedian. It was an apt description, for his actions were like that of a little boy. He'd start to do something, then he'd change. Indecision was an integral part of his character. Also innocence.

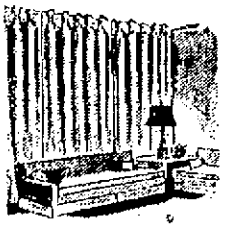

LAUREL AND HARDY started together in silent comedies and reached their greatest success in the talkies.

Laurel came to Roach at a time when I was still associated with Hal. Later he teamed up with Hardy and formed a perfect combination.

Somebody took a starting swipe at the canvas at a recent meeting of the Bellflower Art Association, then two more joined in. At this stage, what does the work need . . .?

All It Needed Was a Hippopotamus!

SOME meetings of the Bellflower Art Association are wilder than others. For a recent shindig, Peter Steyl, the association president, dreamed up an interesting program —members created a joint painting. Each member got as many whacks at the canvas as he wished. Everyone had a grand time—except Steyl. Next time, he plans something a little more decorous.

—BY NANCY VOGEL.

Does he have the answer? While a mystery finger adds a bit, he sneaks a dab for a daub that he thinks it needs.

One gal declared that it needed a minaret; he said, "No, it needs a hippopotamus!" She argued for the minaret, but then decided to concede . . . for a mustache . . . on him!

La Reina Rule

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give genealogy on CALVERT. — E. N., Long Beach.

E. N.: CALVERT was formed from the early English phrase "cealf-hierde" which evolved into "Calf-herd" prior to the present spelling. The Calverts originated in Yorkshire where Johanna Calfhird was a land owner in 1379. George Calvert, born at the family's ancestral home, Kiplin Hall, Yorkshire, in 1580, was created Lord Baltimore in 1625. His sons Cecilius and Leonard founded and settled the state of Maryland. Eleanor Calvert of this family married John Custis in 1744. Part of the Custis estate is now the Arlington National Cemetery at Washington. The Calvert shield is covered with six vertical, alternating gold and black stripes, crossed by a diagonal black and gold band.

DEAR MISS RULE: Mick is our name.—C.M., Long Beach.

C.M.: MICK may be a shortening of the English and Irish surname Micklejohn, meaning "Big John." It can also be an abbreviation of the Slavic-German surname Mickosch, a derivative of Michael. The Mickosch coat-of-arms from Silesia is a shield divided into four sections. The upper left and lower right sections are blue, decorated with three silver fleurs-de-lis. The remaining two sections are red, crossed by three silver horizontal stripes.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze JEFFRIES, JEFFERS, JEFFS.—W.J., G.A., E.J., Long Beach.

JEFFRIES deciphers from old English as "son of Jeffrey." JEFFERS and JEFFS are variations. The source of these names was Geoffroi which in medieval France denoted "divinely peaceful." Ancestors include Roger Jeffray of Yorkshire 1379 and Capt. William Jeffereyes of London who died in 1635. The Jeffries shield has a silver chevron between three silver spearheads on a red backing; that for Jeffs had a gold, "X" —shaped cross on a small red rectangle in the upper left corner of an ermine shield.

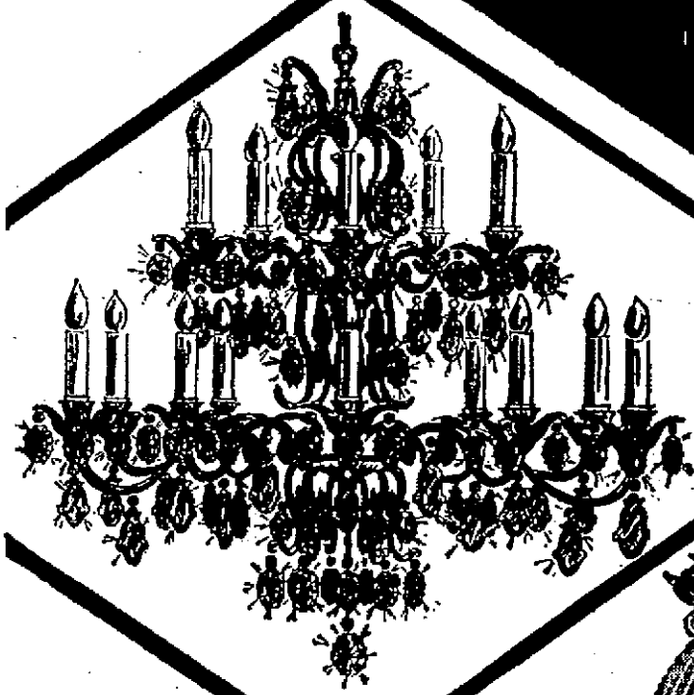

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background of HUMPHREY, HUMPHREYS and UMPHRES.—J.C., Fullerton; R.J., G.C., Long Beach.

HUMPHREY, meaning "peaceful Hun," was an ancient Teutonic warrior name brought to Britain in the 1100s. UMPHRES and HUMPHREYS represent "son of

Happy Living on a High Hill

Rich appointments add luster to living in the Lawrence De Carlo family's hilltop residence. Left, a view of living room area looking toward dining space.

PERCH ON a hilltop at 1602 Ninth St., San Pedro, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence De Carlo and their five sons live an extremely happy life. Interior designer Charlotte Centoz planned the decorating theme to enhance the architectural structure of the house, at the same time maintaining comfortable, easy-to-live-in surroundings.

A distinctive feature of the residence is the fact that nearly all of the walls in the living quarters are Palo Verde stone. Decorating the rooms thus became an interesting challenge since the walls themselves were highly ornamental yet must, of necessity, be softened to lend a homey and warm atmosphere.

PREDOMINANT colors in the living room are copper and cinnamon shades. The rich carpeting is terra-cotta. The long, curved sectional couch is the same shade in velvet, with Siamese silk throw pillows here and there. Twin occasional Louis XVI chairs are white leather. Near a hand-blocked linen occasional chair in one corner is a buffet. The lamp at one end of the buffet is a French antique. On the wall behind the buffet are two Spanish mirrors. Off-white drapes in the room are weather-proof, and sunproof.

The decorating theme blends into a Mediterranean decor. In the dining area the walnut furnishings are Viennese. The table can be extended to seat ten guests.

There is a den off the living room with a built-in bar open to both rooms. Moss green leather upholstery is used on the sofa and chairs. A stone fireplace makes the room inviting.

THE BOYS have their own family room, a luxurious and practical combination den (for studying), TV room, music room, and entertaining area. Filigree shutter doors line one wall while the opposite wall is glass, viewing the garden. Red and white are color accents, and this room, also, has a large stone fireplace.

Out-sized, the master bedroom is in Italian style decor with aqua as the predominating color. For the boys, two large bedrooms are provided. Other areas include a maid's quarters and a streamlined kitchen.

Set to one side for family enjoyment, especially for the four older De Carlo boys for study, play and entertaining, is this comfortable and functional den-TV room.

The hilltop site commands a vast view of the surrounding countryside. An outside barbecue adjacent to the kitchen and den is a popular entertaining area, especially attractive since it flows out to the top of the hill itself.

There are innumerable outstanding features in this fine home. In the decorating scheme, minute attention to details and accessories such as lamps, bric-a-brac, plants, pictures, and paintings harmonizes the over-all setting. A bouquet on the coffee table consists of yellow silk flowers from Spain. A plant which reaches high on the wall across from the curved couch is in a Louis XVI cane container. The ferns behind the couch are in a Louis XV wrought iron planter. Wall decorations on the Palo Verde rock at one end of the living room were carefully chosen—a collection of John Lincoln original drawings and sketches.

Exterior of the De Carlo home which capitalizes upon an air of freedom and a panoramic view of countryside.

Bedding Plants

Bedding plants can be bought and planted this time of year, when the weather is right — but not while the soil is wet. Among the things you can set out this month are snapdragons, winter stock, calendulas, cinerarias, pansies, violas, godetias. Sometimes your C.A.N. nurseryman will have Schizanthus or Butterfly Flower plants, too.

If they're available, he'll have them and they're worth checking on. When you set out the new new bedding plants, also put out some snail and slug bait so those hungry monsters won't have a feast.

Ice Hockey

when 13,459 jammed the L.A. Sports Arena to see them play San Francisco a year ago today.

And, although attached to a minor league, the Blades often outdraw the Lakers, members of a major league and tenants of the same arena, on successive dates.

Many Southlanders were born in the Midwest, New England or even Canada, where they played hockey as youngsters, or warmed their hands by a fire beside a frozen pond while the boys slapped away at a tomato can.

The most heavily immigrated state in the Union must hold a hard core of hockey lovers.

REEVES speaks for the rest of the hockey-ignorant populace when he replies to a question, "The fans? Why, they're good fans here, better than I am. I don't know anything about the game. I just know I love it. It's a great game."

What sort of inducement, then, is necessary to jar the fat cats of the NHL off their well-feathered nests?

"Television," Piggott answers. "With TV they won't worry about travel costs; and when the right salesman approaches them with the right sort of proposition they'll see the light."

Piggott's point is that there will be no national market for NHL telecasts until the NHL becomes a true national league of network proportions. From there it can follow the electronic leads of football and baseball to unlimited prosperity.

In its present form, the NHL is limited, if only by the capacity of its arenas. On the other hand, its habitual sellouts around the league makes unlikely a simple franchise shift such as brought out the Rams, Dodgers and Lakers. That leaves only expansion, which brings up the NHL's fear of diluting its caliber of play by allowing new teams to draft off players.

THE BLADES' general manager, Jack Geyer, admits that "there aren't as many hockey players as football, baseball or basketball players, but it's all relative. There are only four professional hockey leagues and only six major league clubs."

Nor would Alf Pike, the Blade coach and a former NHL player himself, expect more than the usual cuts and abrasions in competition with the NHL's established teams.

"The big difference is the super-stars," he says. "Take away two or three certain guys from each of their clubs and we're playing in their league. I don't think there's that much difference between the rest of the players."

"It's certain to come," Piggott repeats with a distant twinkle in his eye, "and when it does it will be of the first tremendous.

There's a wealth of good eating in this eye-pleasing repast with a South Seas interest—and it is easy to prepare. Condensed green pea consomme, hot and with a touch of white wine is prelude to Chicken Polynesian.

Polynesian Party

By Mildred K. Flanary

HAPPY WAY TO entertain is by having a Polynesian party. The food can be enchanting to the eye, pleasing to the palate, imaginative and with a touch of adventure. It can be easily prepared, also.

The entree for a colorful South Seas dinner can be chicken, sauced with pineapple and cherries and served with rice, textured with almonds. Hot, condensed green pea consomme with a touch of white wine and a sprinkle of coconut harmonizes in a duo-complementary blending of color and flavor.

Archipelago Bisque

1 can (11¼ ounces) condensed green pea soup
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed consomme
1½ soup cans water
2 tablespoons white wine
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Flaked coconut

Blend soups in saucepan. Add water, wine and nutmeg. Heat, stirring now and then. Garnish each serving with coconut. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Recipe of the Week

RHUBARB'S refreshing flavor gets a play in this week's $5 prize recipe submitted by Mrs. D. L. Solomon, 12612 Loraleen St., Garden Grove. The recipe:

Rhubarb Butter Crunch

3 cups diced fresh rhubarb
1 cup white sugar
3 tblesp. flour
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup raw oats
1½ cups flour
½ cup butter
½ cup shortening

Combine rhubarb, white sugar and 3 tablespoons flour and place in baking dish. Combine brown sugar, oats and 1½ cups flour and into this mixture, cut the butter and shortening. Sprinkle over the rhubarb mixture. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Polynesian Party

Society Islands' Frosty Soup Cup

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 soup can water
1 soup can milk
Chopped chives

Chill soups in refrigerator 3 to 4 hours. Just before serving, mix soups, water and milk in a saucepan or shaker. Pour into large juice or old fashioned glasses; top with chives. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Tahitian Rice With Almonds

4 cups cooked rice
¼ cup melted butter
½ cup toasted slivered almonds

Gently toss hot fluffy rice with melted butter and almonds. Makes 6 servings.

Chicken Polynesian

2 pounds chicken parts
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon marjoram
Dash pepper
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pineapple chunks
¼ cup maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In skillet, brown chicken in butter; add seasonings. Cover; cook over low heat for 30 minutes or until tender. Add pineapple and cherries; cook uncovered 10 minutes longer. Stir cornstarch, water, and lemon juice until smooth. Push chicken and fruit to one side; gradually stir cornstarch mixture into skillet. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Hint on Studying

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: Which is a better investment of time —to read a chapter over and over again, or to write a summary or an outline of it?

ANSWER: Experiments have shown that students who invest the time in making an outline or writing a summary achieve better results than those who re-read.

The summary or outline helps the student to grasp the chapter as a whole, to place the main ideas and the details in proper perspective.

QUESTION: Are students good judges of teaching talent?

ANSWER: It would appear that they are.

A study of answers given by high school students on questionnaires about their teachers revealed that the students valued such traits as: sincere interest in the welfare of students, deep interest in subject matter, high academic standards, personal neatness, dignity, humor, ability to inspire.

These happen to be among the desirable characteristics listed by professional educators.

QUESTION: Do good students and poor students have noticeably different patterns of habit?

ANSWER: Yes.

For example, one research project indicated that poor students are more apt to do the following than are good students:

1. Study in a different place each day.
2. Neglect looking up words in the dictionary.
3. Fail to keep notes.
4. Neglect daily work and hope to catch up at the last minute by cramming.

QUESTION: Should a parent insist that his reluctant child continue lessons on a musical instrument?

ANSWER: No. After the child has given the instrument a fair trial, don't force him to continue against his wishes. To do so will merely create a stronger resentment in him toward music. A child either likes or doesn't like a musical instrument. If he doesn't like it, your insistence can only make him and the world of music miserable.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Fluoride Values Long-Lasting

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

BENEFITS of water fluoridation persist throughout adulthood, three dental scientists report.

The finding stems from a study contrasting the amount and frequency of tooth decay among residents of two Illinois cities—Aurora and Rockford.

In a report in the Journal of the American Dental Association, the researchers disclose that 734 Aurora residents, 20 to 59 years old, experienced far less decay than 815 similarly aged residents of Rockford.

All the Aurora subjects drank naturally fluoridated water continuously from birth till 18 years old. None of the Rockford natives had consumed fluoridated water except during brief visits to fluoridated communities.

Only those persons with at least 10 natural teeth were examined during the survey. About 14 per cent of those over 20 in Rockford were toothless compared with only 2 per cent in Aurora.

THE AGING patient in hospitals and nursing homes should be given a regular daily ration of alcohol, contends Dr. William Dock, professor of medicine at State University of New York.

For the ailing oldster, alcohol makes one's troubles seem much less alarming, Dr. Dock says in a new book, "Alcohol and Civilization."

While development of a carefree attitude in this manner is dangerous for the automobile driver, it "is most helpful for the aging parents of normally ungrateful children, as well as for the man or woman with failing sense organs or failing vital organs, with dying contemporaries and a narrowing circle of friends," Dr. Dock says.

A CONTROVERSIAL method of screening for breast cancer is to get a large-scale trial in New York under a $350,000 grant from the Public Health Service.

About 20,000 women will undergo periodic X-ray examinations of the breasts—a method known as mammography. Thirty thousand women will serve as controls—comparative patients who will not receive the X-ray studies. Participating will be 20 medical groups of the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York. Tested will be women 40 to 64 years old.

The X-ray technique was developed by Dr. Robert L. Egan of Methodist Hospital, Indianapolis.

A LONG-TIME study of patients on a diet low in animal fat supplemented by corn oil shows that, in most, blood cholesterol levels can be held down in persons who have survived a heart attack.

The report is that of Dr. W. C. Watson of Glasgow Royal Infirmary in British Medical Journal.

The regimen is safe, feasible and acceptable to the great majority of patients, Dr. Watson says.

REMOVAL of a normal appendix does not always imply unnecessary surgery, two Australian doctors contend.

Drs. M. O'Rourke and G. W. Milton of Sydney tell of a follow-up study of 127 patients who had undergone appendectomy for what had been diagnosed as appendicitis. After removal, however, tissue studies showed the excised appendices to be normal.

Yet after two to six years, 51 per cent of those who had emergency appendectomies and 59 per cent of those who had elective operations reported no subsequent pain or discomfort. Before surgery, patients had complained of acute or recurrent abdominal pain.

The report is in Australian and New Zealand Journal of Surgery.

Most of the woodworking is straight cuts and the simplest of wood joining in making this gracious wine chest.

By Bill Meyerriecks

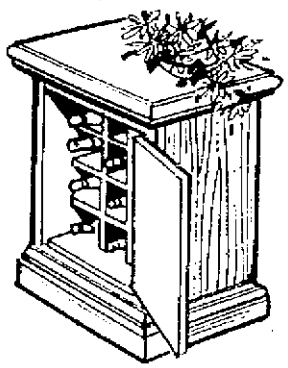

IN KEEPING with the furniture style currently enjoying great popularity—Spanish or Mediterranean look—a wine chest in keeping with this style is Sketchbook's design idea this week. And, if not for a wine chest, it can be used in many other ways.

The wine chest is actually an end table. Its ample top, 15x22 inches, can hold a good-sized lamp and still leaves room for holding various serving items. Beneath the top are 16 pigeon holes caches for holding wine bottles, at room temperature should you be a connoisseur. Or you could just as easily build half that amount of racks and leave the other space for storage of other things. You might not want to build in the pigeon holes at all. Then all you do is disregard the step for this in the Sketchbook plan and figure the space for your own use. You could add shelves, or plan it as a hi-fi cabinet, or special book storage or anything to fit your needs.

DIRECTLY beneath the top is a pull-out shelf that will come in handy regardless of what you use the chest for. It can be a chairside snack bar, a regular jiffy bar to serve refreshments (especially for those looking for compact units in smaller rooms).

The Sketchbook plan shows you all the steps in construction, parts and materials to build it as well as general notes on how to do it. Choose the wood you wish to make it in carefully. This could be the determining factor in how fine a piece of furniture you make. We especially like to see this in walnut. Of course you will be guided by matching your present wood pieces in dining or living room.

TO ORDER, specify Sketchbook Plan S-144 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Sketch shows wine chest with door open. Pigeon holes for bottles shown here might be dispensed with in favor of shelves.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is Fiberglas FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglas FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

CITY OF LONG BEACH

Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc. is a licensed City of Long Beach Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach area.

Cal-Tex has been selected as the exclusive franchised contractor of FLEXON in Southern California. You can obtain free information or have a free home demonstration without obligation. The low cost will surprise you and terms can be arranged to suit your pocket book.

BOOK REVIEWS

Ben-Gurion's Israel

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

DAVID Ben-Gurion led his people's astonishing reclamation of their Biblical homeland by courageous statesmanship and military skill and then, practicing the democracy he preached, retired at the height of his prime minister's power to the Negev Desert to meditate and pen his memoirs.

Certainly nobody can write with more authority of "Israel; Years of Challenge" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $5). Ben-Gurion retraces his role in the struggle for freedom from Britain and recognition by the United Nations, the War of Independence against the invading armies of Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Jordan and Lebanon, and the many other crises, decisions and achievements.

But he foresees "years of challenge" ahead, too, not only in the imperative need to develop the Negev to accommodate Israel's continuing immigration, and in the growing friendship of Israel with Afro-Asian nations, but in the role of his little country in the cold war.

"In the long run, it is the spiritual power that decides; in the kingdom of the spirit not quantity counts, but quality. It is not two or three Great Powers that will mold the world and determine its fate, but the historic needs of all the nations. Once the distinction between the ruling and dominant and the poor and backward nations is expunged, dictatorship will not last long, the danger of war will pass and confinement of peoples and populations against their will in totalitarian countries will cease."

FOR A MAN who has spent most of his 75 years in the make-believe of the stage, George Abbott has authored a surprisingly candid appraisal of himself, his relatives, friends, associates and the celebrities he has known.

From his childhood in Salamanca, N. Y., the son of an alcoholic father and courageous mother, "MISTER ABBOTT" (Random House, $4.95) spans a most remarkable career as actor, author, director, producer and collaborator in 103 plays, including many of Broadway's most memorable successes.

Always the realist, Abbott leaves nothing to the imagination in his autobiography—no inner meanings, no symbolisms. With humor and gusto he x-rays his failures and triumphs; his two years of writing and striving for acting jobs; his first marriage and the disastrous second one; the Long Island social set in which he lived and played; and the big names:

David Belasco, Jed Harris, Harpo Marx, Tallulah Bankhead; Leonard Bernstein, Larry Hart, Alexander Woollcott, Rodgers and Hammerstein, Irving Berlin, Harry Cohn, Jeanne Eagels, Claudette Colbert, and others.

WHEN Meriwether Lewis and William Clark set out from the Mississippi River in 1804 on their exploration mission to the Pacific Ocean for President Thomas Jefferson, they opened up not only a great new American territory, but also an era of giant, rugged pioneers.

Helen Addison Howard deals with "humanized" accounts of these personalities, rather than dates and places, in "NORTHWEST TRAIL BLAZERS" (Caxton, $6). Her story of the Lewis and Clark expedition, for example, is much concerned with Sacagawea, the young Shoshone Indian mother, who was their primary guide, and also all their later lives and deaths.

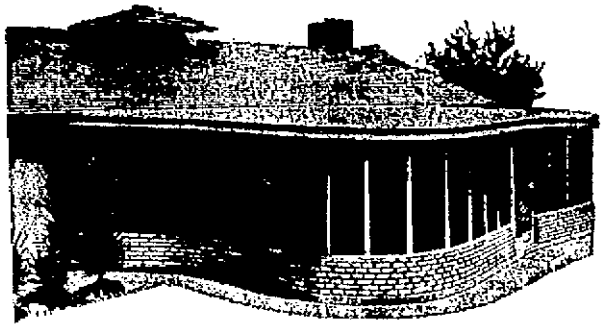

There are chapters on 17 historic pathfinders: traders, missionaries, engineers, Indian chief and Indian agent, merchant, statesmen and tycoons. All contributed some through altruism, some through greed—to the eventful development of the great Northwest.

CAROLINE GLYN

Remember "Three Weeks" and "It," by Elinor Glyn, the naughty books of the 1920s? Elinor's great-granddaughter, Caroline Glyn, 15, is author of a novel, "DON'T KNOCK THE CORNERS OFF," about a teen-ager in school (Coward-McCann, $3.95).

Lawn edges can be chemically treated to eliminate laborious care, as before and after photos show.

IT'S NEW

Chemicals Edge Lawn

FREQUENT chore for every home gardener, keeping lawns neatly trimmed with mechanical edgers, spades and/or lawn shears will become as old-fashioned as chopping kindling for the kitchen stove for those who use E-Z Edge.

E-Z Edge is composed of two chemical herbicides; Simazine for immediate grass removal and Atrazine for long term prevention of plant regrowth. These chemicals are laminated into a water-soluble plastic strip, which, when watered thoroughly, completely disappears releasing the two chemicals. The effectiveness of E-Z Edge, it is asserted, lasts up to four years and costs about two and a half cents a foot.

The dissolved chemicals leave a neat and distinct path of soil four inches wide wherever application is made. They will not affect growth beyond this line. E-Z Edge is available in packages containing 60 feet of tape or on reels with 1,000 feet for commercial users. Vanlor International, P. O. Box 2175, Inglewood, Calif., has complete information.

Museum of Little Ships

— U. S. Navy Photos

Bristling with miniature guns, this movie prop-model of Lord Nelson's flagship is now a naval museum piece.

One of the museum's prized possessions is the ship's bell from the USS Yorktown, famed vessel of the 1880s.

By Kay Dunn

WHAT TO DO with the gift of a handsome model of Lord Nelson's famous flagship, the Victory, measuring 25 feet long, 20 feet high and weighing two tons?

This was the predicament in which the U.S. Naval Training Center in San Diego found itself some years ago when Sir Alexander Korda, film director and producer, presented the model to the Navy. It was a superb model and had been used in the picture, "The Hamilton Woman," the story of Nelson's life. For many years the Victory was shifted uneasily from building to building—an over-sized orphan with an acute housing problem. One day, when Capt. Lawrence Cook, USN, the center's commander, noticed the Victory forlornly hidden away in a dark corner, he got an idea. Why not start a naval museum, where all could see the gallant Victory proudly displaying Lord Nelson's famous signal, "England expects that every man this day will do his duty."

In 1960, the museum was officially launched and the Victory was given a permanent berth. Now in the collection are numerous replicas of famous ships as well as trophies, paintings and historical relics.

ONE OF ITS prized possessions is the ship's bell from the USS Yorktown of 1888. The Yorktown, while on patrol in Latin American waters in 1917, rescued the last survivors of an isolated colony who were marooned on the lonely island, Clipperton, and transported them to safety on the Mexican mainland.

Much smaller than the Victory but still large in their own right are two authentic eight-foot builder's models of the USS San Diego and USS Oklahoma, pre-World War I fighting ships. The sinking of the San Diego was probably Germany's most conspicuous naval success during World War I. While making passage from Portsmouth, N.H., to New York in July 1918, about 10 miles off the Fire Island Lightship, the ship struck a mine and sank within 20 minutes. Later, it was learned that the German submarine U-156 had laid the mine.

OFF THE PROW of the Victory to port side is an outstanding display entitled "Remember the Maine!" The intriguing story of the sinking of the USS Maine in Havana Harbor in 1899 is graphically depicted in photographs, newspaper clippings, relics and paintings. This disaster spurred the nation to frenzy and triggered the Spanish-American War.

Representing almost 3,600 hours of painstaking work, a 12-ship collection donated by Edward Face, veteran builder of fishing boats and minesweepers, including such famous ships as Sir Francis Drake's flagship the Golden Hind, the USS Constitution which is better known as Old Ironsides, an old Spanish Galleon and the clipper ship Flying Cloud, is in the museum.

Another group, consisting of 11 different types of ships, was donated by the late Lt. Daniel Sullivan. It begins with an ancient Egyptian galley and is carried through the centuries with a Dutch trading ship, the American continental frigate Raleigh, the USS Kearsarge of the Civil War period and the 1921 schooner Bluenose.

Actual details of the museum's operations are handled by CWO Llew Powers, a dedicated maritime historian. It is open to the public and the log shows more than 144,000 guests have visited the museum since its opening in 1960.

PUERTO RICO

THE FLAVOR of this island is a subject that may come up for poolside discussion only in reference to the taste of the last rum punch.

Few resorts have been so unjustifiably slighted by their patrons over the years, though it was inevitable. The cheapest per-mile air fare from the United States (it costs more to go to Nassau or Miami, each several hundred miles nearer the major northern population centers), a dependable tropical climate that produces enough rainy days a year to count on the fingers of one hand, and luxury hostelries that are lobby and roof garden above most of those in the Caribbean, all have combined to give Puerto Rico a booming reputation as a reliable spot for a winter vacation.

Yet if Puerto Rico were in the Mediterranean instead of the Caribbean, busloads of tourists would ply its highways and cobbled streets with the same application they presently devote to the cocktail lounges and casinos of the hotels.

San Juan is, in many ways, more Spanish than Madrid. And, although Puerto Ricans are proud of their American citizenship, they haven't lost their Latin pride or tried to bury the civilization that Columbus founded, Ponce de Leon spread, and 400 years of ancestors perpetuated.

ON ANY GIVEN night, there is probably more flamenco dancing, guitar playing, and Granada-singing going in the night clubs, more paella and arroz con pollo being eaten, and more Garcias and Lopezes enjoying it all on Cristo Street in Old San Juan than in the cuevas around Madrid's Plaza Mayor.

There are in Spain few more genuine cobbled old quarters with flowered patios, secret courtyards, and wrought-iron balconies than there are among the squares, parks and ancient cathedrals of old San Juan. Most of it has been lovingly preserved and the rest is being devotedly restored.

El Morro fortress was for nearly four centuries the key to the defense of the Spanish Empire in the western hemisphere.

EL MORRO, plus the complexes of San Cristobal and El Canuelo, are today a national historic site, their storerooms, powder magazines, dungeons and courtyards open to the public. They are as well preserved as—and far more elaborate than—many in Europe.

Puerto Rico's charms do not lie exclusively among the fortresses and ancient houses of the old quarter (many of them are now smart shops, art galleries and restaurants) any more than they do among the sleek hotels of Isla Verde and the Condado strip.

Beyong San Juan lies a Connecticut-sized island of almost incredible verdant beauty. Its interior mountains slope in every direction to coastal plains and deep, wide beaches lined by towering palms. In colonial towns and fishing villages a life goes on that is all but oblivious to the sophisticated resort image of San Juan.

Caribbean Way of Life

MAYBE you've dreamed of getting away from the rat race, sailing to some island where office hours can't imprison you, lying contentedly under a coconut tree and eating its fruit while contemplating a dip in the nearby surf.

Maybe you've dreamed of just going to such a place for your next vacation. Or, maybe, not having the means of doing even that, of just reading about such places.

Whichever is your dream, latch onto a copy of "Retiring in the Caribbean" (Doubleday & Co., 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y., $4.95). The author, Wesley Edson, has been visiting the West Indies for 35 years. He tells you where you can buy an island if you wish; where you can live on $3,500 a year, including entertainment and wages for a servant. He gives many little-known facts on all the islands of the Caribbean, including living conditions, cost of land, taxes. But there's no dry stuff. You'll enjoy every page and wish there were more!

AGAIN, as in the last four years, Matson Lines will reduce fares for four spring sailings of the liners Mariposa and Monterey to the South Pacific from Los Angeles Harbor.

The savings, amounting to 25 per cent for full cruise passengers, range from $187 to $659, with reduced fares starting at $937 for the full six-week trip.

The Mariposa and Monterey, each 21,000 tons and carrying 365 passengers—all in first-class accommodations—will call at Bora Bora, Tahiti, Rarotonga, New Zealand, Australia, New Caledonia, Fiji, Niuafo'ou ("Tin Can Island"), Samoa and Hawaii.

Sailing dates from Los Angeles Harbor: Monterey, March 19; Mariposa, April 13; Monterey, May 4; Mariposa, May 29.

HONG KONG

MOST travelers readily agree that this crowded, raucus metropolis of 3½ million is Number One in matching their concept of the most Oriental city in the Far East.

You know: Sampans bobbing nervously in the harbor. Cargo junks weaving their way around ferry boats and foreign men o' war. Coolie-drawn rickshaws. Tight little alleyways choked with street vendors, their wares and their victims. Laundry fluttering from bamboo poles above you. Look-alike Chinese lounging everywhere, smoking casually and eyeing you curiously. Streets festooned with signs of red and gold. The discord of a million pounding feet and a dozen languages and dialects. Tall Chinese beauties, their trim legs showing from the slits of their cheongsams. . . .

One of Hong Kong's newest palaces for the tourist is the $15 million Mandarin Hotel, on the busy waterfront.

It's dandy to get the flavor of a great city. But, let's face it, Americans (out of 253,016 visitors in 1962, 90,184 were from the United States) come here to shop.

FOR HONG KONG is the biggest bargain basement on earth.

Shopping is easy if you follow the practices of the pros. If you don't, the suit you buy may not be suitable even for a kimono when you get it home. And the "jade" you bought from that street peddler may not be jade at all.

It's advisable to buy only at reputable stores where prices are still far below what you'd expect to pay. It's a pretty safe bet that the store is a reliable one if it displays a seal of membership in the Hong Kong Tourist Association, and many do. You don't bargain with these merchants as you do at the street stalls. They have one price, and that's it.

THE THING you really watch out for is goods from Communist China, all of which the customs man will take away from you when you reenter the United States. Most Star and Sickle-type goods are now produced in Hong Kong and this makes it doubly hard to know what you're getting.

The answer, of course, is a Comprehensive Certificate of Origin, issued by the Hong Kong Government. All shops approved for the use of this important document are provided with a "registration certificate" which they display. Shop in these stores. Demand a Comprehensive Certificate of Origin with your purchases. If the merchandise does not come from China you'll get one. The certificate costs 5 Hong Kong dollars (less than $1 American), covers up to $1,500 in merchandise from one store, usually requires about 24 hours to obtain. Don't pay for your purchases until they are accompanied by the Certificate.

Comprehensive Certificates of Origin cannot be obtained for antiques of any kind. They are needed for such items as scrolls, paintings, china (except Meissen and Dresden), brocades, carpeting, furniture, ivory, jade and silks.

THE AVERAGE tourist lingers seven days in Hong Kong. Many arrive by cruise ship, but most zoom in on sleek jets such as the DC8s operated by Japan Air Lines. Hotel accommodations, once hard to come by in this overcrowded city, have loosened considerably with the opening of several beautiful new hotels, among them the 27-story, 650-room air-conditioned Mandarin situated on the waterfront in the heart of Hong Kong Island.

You don't have to be a Chinese to get around, but it might help. Of Hong Kong's millions, at least 98 per cent are Chinese. However, 98 per cent of the 98 per cent savvy the Hong Kong dollar.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"Am I correct in Europe that we need not be careful of the drinking water in large cities?"

PEOPLE who live in the capital cities drink the water — Americans, I mean. They all assure me the water is good. (Madrid and Rome residents claim it is excellent.)

Some people have problems anyway when they change water. Mexican friends of mine say they always get sick when they come to New York. So you try the tap water—if it doesn't work for you, switch to bottled water.

Fiuggi for Italy; Solares for Spain; Evian for France; and one whose name I've forgotten you'll find all over Portugal. (I always ask the desk when I check in everywhere if the tap water is OK. You'll find many places where they'll say so. But they won't volunteer it unless you ask.)

"What is the best time of year to visit the Scandinavian countries? If we go to Finland, what do you think of a short trip into Russia?"

MAKE THE Scandinavian countries in deepest summer —any other time will freeze your memories. You can make arrangements to go into Russia out of Helsinki. But you ought to get a visa before you leave the U.S. It sometimes takes three weeks.

You can find out quite a bit about this through the Russian travel agency INTOURIST. They have offices at 335 Lexington Ave., New York 36.

"We are interested in staying with families sometimes in these northern countries. How do you go about it?"

DENMARK has a program called "Meet the Danes." I imagine the other countries have something similar. I'd write their national tourist office in New York. (In the phone book.) And the airline SAS should have a lot of information, too.

Actually, you almost always do better asking a national airline than asking a national tourist office. The airlines get on the ball.

"Where can we get reasonably priced rooms in Honolulu at the beach? We would like a kitchenette."

Hawaii Visitors Bureau, Honolulu, Hawaii, has listings like this. You won't get easy prices right on the beach. But you can get them a block or so off the beach and walk over. Reader tells me she got a three-room apartment on Main Street, a block from the beach, at $10.50 per night. (Sorry, she didn't say the exact address.)

"When do you wear formal wear on a cruise ship in the Caribbean?"

GENERAL RULE: Dinner jacket each night except first night out, last night before getting into port. (However, formal clothes are not "must.")

New Anthony "Hida-Sweep" automatic pool cleaner...

CUT POOL CARE 90%! HIDA-SWEEP, NEW ANTHONY ROBOT CLEANER, "HIDES" IN POOL WALL, COMES OUT AND CLEANS WHOLE POOL AUTOMATICALLY...EVERY DAY!

All you have to do is relax. Or even sleep. Each day—or night, at a time you've selected—automatic clock control sends floats and cleaning arms swinging out across the pool like a flotilla of mine sweepers. When jets from high pressure pump have swept settled dirt down the drain, Hida-Sweep swings back into its harbor hidden in the pool wall.

You are always ready for a swimming party. There's nothing to move or remove. Won't get jarred out of adjustment. The cost: much less than pool service, adds about $7 a month to your 10-year pool contract. Call any Anthony showroom for details.

ANTHONY "HIDA-SWEEP" POOL CLEANER PLUS OTHER EXCLUSIVE ACCESSORIES CUT POOL CARE 90%—MAKE ANTHONY YOUR BEST POOL VALUE!

Pool owners can now be more carefree than ever. Exclusive Anthony manufactured accessories take most of the work out of pool care. Besides Hida-Sweep there's Antho-Pure. Dispenses daily; holds up to six months' supply. Anthony automatic, long-cycle filter, automatic heater keep water condition always ideal. Exclusive accessories, volume building give Anthony pools extra value.

ANTHONY BLUE LAGOON $1690

$22.54 per month, 10-year terms. Pool is 15' x 31', 312 square feet, 78 perimeter feet, 3 to 6 feet deep. Steel reinforced gunite, waterline tile, filter, copper plumbing, pump, motor, steps. Includes standard coping. Deck in picture is slightly higher. Price based on normal access and soil; subject to hillside and higher costs in some areas. "Hida-Sweep," "Antho-Pura" and heater not included.

ANTHONY DELUXE CUSTOM POOLS

Pool above is typical example of dozens of designs and sizes available. Anthony manufactures precast parts, coping, accessories. Factory-to you selling keeps prices low.

Anthony has built twice as many pools as any single builder.

For Fun and Toil

By Eleanor Avery Price

FOR FUN, drama and excitement in the dog world, little else surpasses dog sled competition, such as the annual Sled Dog Derby set for Feb. 8 and 9 at Big Bear. The sight of robust sledders working with rugged dogs is exceptionally entertaining.

Canines participating will include Siberian huskies, Alaskan malamutes, akitas and Samoyeds.

The Samoyed originated in the huge tundras stretching from the White Sea to Yenesei River in Siberia as a reindeer herder, hunter and companion as well as sled dog for the nomadic people after whom he was named. Without dog teams, transportation would have been almost impossible. And in extreme cold, Samoyed dogs were taken inside shelters to help provide heat in the small abodes. They were also used as pillows! And their thick undercoat when combed out made excellent chink padding against the raging blizzards.

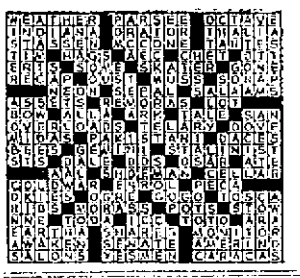

The nomads also used reindeer with sleds, but these animals were not reliable nor did they make comfortable pillows.

HAVING TROUBLE with a fussy feline when it comes to eating? Let Mary Ruth Kieran direct you to exactly the right menu for your kitten, kittling, catten, catta or cat in her gourmet cookbook for mousers. (Lots of cats just catch mice but don't eat them.) The book is For the Love of Cats (Pageant Press, N. Y. 3, $4.95). The names of the dishes are delightfully ridiculous, but the ingredients have been chosen with scientific care. There are other helpful hints included to prevent catastrophies among catophiles. Discussed are newborn kittens, adolescent felines, stray cats and the like.

IT PAYS to keep your pet well fed, and I don't mean overstuffed. Animals can suffer from anemia just as humans can. I have seen cats and dogs that could not stand and that refused to eat because they were so weak from poor diet. And their eyes look dull and the coat lacks luster. An animal that won't eat may accept baby's canned meat on a spoon or by medicine dropper.

ORANGE EMPIRE Dog Club show and obedience trial is scheduled today at National Orange Show Grounds, San Bernardino.

House Plants Like a Turn Around

By Joe Littlefield

House plants, turned regularly toward the light, will grow evenly, avoid unbalanced look like this specimen.

DIEFFENBACHIAS are indoor house plants that make up for lack of flowers, by providing interesting foliage. Dieffenbachia picta variety for instance, with two-tone, green-and-yellow, speckled leaves provides an eye-catcher pattern.

All indoor house plants are sensitive to lack of proper light and tend to lean towards the light forming an unbalanced shape. Wise gardeners realize this and quarter-turn the plants every few days, always in the same direction.

Container plants outdoors on a shaded porch also tend to lean towards the light and should be turned periodically to help them grow evenly all around.

LIVING PLANT Growers, an association of indoor house plant wholesalers, provide healthy plants to the retail nurseries and garden centers, and pass on helpful cultural information.

Some home owners are satisfied with gardens that have only foliage shrubs, no flowers. As soon as those gardens have some flowers or flowering plants, the gardens literally "light up" with color. There's more interest and personality added.

Of all combinations of flowering plants that bloom seasonally each year, the big 3, between them provide color the year round. The camellias, wisely selected for three periods of blooms, supply color from October into April. Roses provide flowers off and on for about eight months of the year. Royal Bird of Paradise blooms from around October into March, unless heavy frosts damage them or slow down their growth.

WISE SELECTION of perennials also will keep a garden in flowers and color the year round. Helleborus orientalis, "lenten rose," blooms for four months continuously, starting in late December or early January.

Saxifrage crassifolia, "bergenia" flowers from winter into spring season. Tulbaghia violacea blossoms from May through October. Dianthus Rose Marie a rose color pink, blooms off and on all year long.

Between all these perennials your garden won't lack for color or cut flowers.

GARDEN CLUBS

Charter memberships are still open in the newly formed Rose Society of Orange County, according to Fowler I. Phipps of Lakewood, rosarian and soil expert, who will be in charge of the program at the organization's next meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Sun Garden School, Trask and Newland Streets, Garden Grove. Anyone interested in rose culture is invited.

Strong interest has been shown in the society, according to George F. Roy, vice president and program chairman, who stated that members to date are from eight Orange County cities and from Long Beach.

Prizes to be awarded at the meeting Tuesday include several Winifred Coulter roses bushes, a hybrid rose developed by John van Barneveld, rosarian and member of the Orange County organization.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week ... You will still find roses and fruit trees and other deciduous plants bare root but time is getting short. As long as the soil isn't too wet, plant.

You should be able to start gladiolus, amaryllis, and cannas now.

Fruit trees can take a dormant spray still as a preventive measure against curly leaf. Ask your C.A.N. nurseryman for the right material and drench the trees.

Keep rotting foliage, scraps of wood or debris of any kind cleared away. They're the happy homes of earwigs, snails, slugs and other garden-lovers you don't want to encourage. Use snail bait now for effective control.

Berries and grapes can be planted now. Berries want perfect drainage but grapes will tolerate a soil that stays moist longer than will the berries.

Another product of the English music halls, Laurel was close to Charlie in his feel for pantomime. He was a great comedian. Hardy was a fine comedian and was just as good in the team. But Laurel could have been great on his own, whereas I don't think Hardy could have reached the same heights alone as he did with the complementary Laurel.

Their appeal was as a couple of struggling characters, kind of in between tramps and working men. They were always buddies, but always had differences that would get them into trouble. One reacted differently from the other one in the same situation.

THEY DEVELOPED many characteristics—the slow burn of Hardy's, the cry that Laurel had, the bickering back and forth. They also worked the borderline between comedy and tragedy, but usually on the broader side.

They were probably the best team we ever had in comedies, and their revival through television has again demonstrated their worth.

Some film historians have claimed that sound killed the Golden Age of Comedy. That is partly true. Sound didn't actually kill our kind of comedy; sound divorced it. Comedy could have gone on and become stronger, because sound was an added element that could have enhanced comedy.

But some technical problems interfered. The sound equipment was rather crude in those days. They were using the stage technique because the actors had to remain close to the microphone, which was often concealed. Most of the early talkies were made on sound stages and there was very little action. When they went outdoors, there were difficulties with extraneous noises, like airplanes.

HUMAN FACTORS played a role, too. Some of us like Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks and myself had been in pictures for a number of years. We took longer to shoot our pictures; we didn't push as hard. Monetary success contributed to a certain lack of drive. Perhaps we didn't have the energy to cope with the challenges of a new medium.

Also, it's true that sound did interfere with some careers. A lot of the boys had voices that didn't fit their characters.

Comedy became a verbal medium, of doing jokes, as opposed to the pantomimic, sight gags. It was cheaper to tell jokes than to go out with the sound equipment and try to do action.

Our comedies had been basically motion pictures. They couldn't have been done on the stage or in any other medium. The new comedies, including the many fine ones that are being done today, could usually be done as stage productions.

I DOUBT that the movies ever could go back to the sight comedy that we did. You don't have gag men. You don't have the schools of vaudeville, burlesque and two-reel comedies in which to train comics.

Fortunately, we do have the old films. Nowadays people ask me how it is that my comedies seem to get as big laughs from audiences now as they did when they were first made.

My answer is that comedy that is basic will live on forever. It can't be impaired by sound, color, wide screens or any other development in the film medium.

Our comedies concerned basic human emotions which have existed since man has. Those films will be just as funny a hundred years from now as they are today.

Humphrey." In the late 1200s Peter Umfrey and John Hunfrey, ancestors, lived in Oxfordshire. The Humphrey shield is black, decorated with three silver ostrich feathers. The shield for Humphreys has an ermine cross on a black background.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform on DYKE, DYKES.—A.B., Long Beach, B.D., Lakewood.

A.B., B.D.: DYKE and DYKES allude to an English ancestor who lived on or near a dyke or river-embankment that kept water out of low-lying farmland. In 1303 Robert del Dykes lived in Cumberland, north England. Anthony del Dike was a Yorkshireman in 1379. The Dyke and Dykes shield has three black five-leaved rosettes on a gold background.

DEAR MISS RULE: We believe QUETSCHKE will challenge your knowledge and research.—R. G., Garden Grove.

R. Q.: QUETSCHKE is German. This surname is a provincial dialect spelling of Zwetschge meaning "prune" or "plum." Quetschke refers to a fortunate forefather who owned orchards of plum trees.

NICK KATSARIS
Back From Asia

MR. AND MRS. Nick Katsaris have discovered first-hand that their restaurant has an international reputation for quality.

During their recent trip to Asia, the owners of Sam's Sea Food restaurant, 16278 Pacific Coast Hwy., Surfside, met numerous Japanese and Chinese business leaders who were familiar with the reputation of this famed Southern California dining establishment. "We have acquaintances who have been there," they informed Nick and his wife, Ruth. "We would love to go there ourselves some day and have one of your dinners."

Mr. and Mrs. Katsaris spent many weeks in the Orient vacationing and buying import articles for the restaurant's gift shop. They visited the Philippines, Hawaii, Japan and Hong Kong, making many new friends en route.

Sam's, open daily and Sunday, is an exceptionally large, luxurious tropical restaurant which has been a landmark on Pacific Coast Highway for many decades. Its sea food menu is perhaps the most varied in California. A few of the entrees available are tender, succulent broiled swordfish with amandine sauce, $2.95; sweet, fresh broiled lobster ($3.95 for half portion); fabulous captain's dinner (lobster, shrimp, scallops, abalone, crab, frog legs, oysters) $5.25; giant shrimp steamed and served in the shell, $3.15; grilled Rocky Mountain rainbow trout, $3.10, and lobster tail-New York steak combination, $5.25. The latter is a popular new item. All include tasty clam chowder, tremendous fresh salad, baked potato, assorted sourdough breads, beverage and dessert.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

If You're Missing 'Boone' Show, You're 'Nuts'

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Actress Bethel Leslie, a permanent cast member of NBC-TV's Tuesday night "The Richard Boone Show," is a critic.

She is not a television critic nor a movie critic nor a book reviewer.

Miss Leslie is an audience critic.

"I think," Miss Leslie said, "people are nuts not to watch it."

The "it" to which she refers is "The Richard Boone Show."

With announcement that "The Richard Boone Show" has not been renewed for next season, viewers have launched a storm of protest.

Another story on the series may be found on Page 11 and viewers' opinions are expressed in the "Pan and Fan" column on Page 7.

From Miss Leslie's point of view, there is no other dramatic show in the same TV league.

* * * *

"I THINK this show presents a challenge to the audience, which it should do," she said. "It makes an audience work.

"I don't think you can watch the show without stopping and thinking about things.

"We're all devoted to making television as good as can be. Our performance level is above and beyond most television shows. That's inevitable because of the level of talent and we work together all the time."

As for that portion of the audience which may be so "nuts" as not to watch the program, Miss Leslie has a few, well-selected unkind words.

* * * *

"I WONDER," she mused, "if television is a thing you turn on and don't really watch or listen to—like radio used to be.

"I've talked to people who do this and they say, 'Well, it's company.'

"I don't think ours is a show you can turn on and forget it's on—which I'm proudest of."

Lest it appear at this point that Miss Leslie is overcritical of the television audience, be informed that she is equally as vehement in her function as another type of critic.

She is her own severest.

"I am never happy with my own performance," she said.

"I'll watch the tape at the studio and say to myself, 'Oh, Bethel! Why?'

"I'll watch it on my TV set at home and say, 'Well I can

REMEMBER RUBY KEELER?

Newport Beach Housewife Makes TV Drama Debut

FOR THE PAST 23 YEARS the only dancing performed by Mrs. John Lowe, Newport Beach housewife, was between the stove and the refrigerator.

It was the type of terpischorean choreography performed by any average housewife with five growing children and a husband to feed.

Then a newspaperman discovered that this average housewife at one time was associated with dancing as strongly as pie with coffee.

In those days she made nine movies and, with just a few exceptions, played the dancing star's stand-in who always went on with the show when the star broke her leg on opening night.

In those days she was known as Ruby Keeler.

The newspaperman, in his story brought back those days. One of those stirred by the memories was comedian Jerry Lewis who had a two-hour television show on ABC-TV.

He contacted Ruby and asked if she would appear on the program. She agreed because she thought it "would be fun."

STANDING IN THE WINGS before she was to go in front of the cameras, Mrs. John Lowe wasn't so sure it was fun returning to Ruby Keeler.

She said to herself:

"Ruby, what the devil are you doing here? You don't need the money."

Once on stage, though, Ruby, making allowances for the 23 intervening years, was her old "42nd Street" self. She brought down the house and the television audience sent more mail in connection with her appearance than for any other star.

On Tuesday, again for "the fun of it," Mrs. John Lowe will appear on television—but not as dancing Ruby.

She has a dramatic role, Peggy Rusher, on "The Greatest Show on Earth," channel 7 at 9 p.m. in COLOR.

"I DID ONLY ONE dramatic role in my entire professional career," said Ruby. "That was in the picture 'Mother Carrie's Chickens' made in the 30s."

Is another phase of her professional career getting started?

Not if she can help it.

"It's very flattering to think that I've been away from show business so long and people still remember me," she said.

"And I don't mind doing a few things in television, but I couldn't think of it as a steady diet."

Ruby was content with her professional "steady diet" as long as she had it, but has no regrets on trading it for domesticity.

"I WAS IN THE BUSINESS long enough to see what goes on and wonder where those people thought they were going.

"There's so much more to life than that.

"With all the wealth and material things, they don't have as much as me hoping to have the house cleaned and the beds made in time to get out on the golf course, then make it home in time to get dinner ready."

A 9-handicap golfer, she's had more time for the game since the children, Peter, 27, Theresa, 20, Christina, 19, Johnny, 18, and Kathleen, 15, have grown.

They are children who are "a little embarrassed but mostly proud" when strangers stop their mother and ask for her autograph.

But the return of Ruby Keeler hasn't altered the relationship of Mrs. John Lowe with her neighbors.

"It makes no difference to them," she said, "and that's the way I like it."

SPECIAL

WIZARD OF OZ—The 1939 MGM classic is telecast by CBS for the 6th year as a 2-hour special at 6 p.m., ch. 2, with all but the first 22 min. of the film in color. Judy Garland stars with Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Margaret Hamilton, with songs by Harold Arlen, who'll be the subject of a full-hour filmed profile at this same time two weeks from today. Danny Kaye hosts the film from a leprechaun's perch atop a mushroom, with original musical introductions by jazz flutist Paul Horn.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC—President Lyndon B. Johnson is key speaker at the dedication of the new 10-story white marble building in Washington, D. C. Also seen in the half-hour tapes at 8:30 p.m., ch. 11, are Chief Justice Earl Warren and Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall.

THE KREMLIN—The story of the Kremlin, seat of Russian authority, is told in its reflection of the five centuries of rulers, from early Moscow Princes to Czar Peter the Great and the present Soviet era. Frank Bourgholtzer is guide for the tour through historic Spasski Gate, seen in color at 10 p.m., ch. 4, in a repeat of the original May 21 and June 4 hours.

The World Is His Bus Stop

JIM McKAY . . . At Innsbruck Olympic Site

Jim McKay commutes around the world as routinely as a Long Beach student taking the bus to high school every day.

As sports commentator for ABC-TV's "Wide World of Sports," he's traveled more than a million miles.

That doesn't include the mileage flown for his job in reporting the 1964 Winter Olympic Games from Innsbruck, Austria, the daily telecasting of which starts 10 p.m. Wednesday on channel 7.

In one eight-day period recently, McKay did a rodeo in Las Vegas, flew to London for the soccer championships, went to Monaco for the Grand Prix of Europe and finished up with a report of a wrestling tournament in Bulgaria.

* * * *

HE ALSO was in Long Beach last year for the telecasting of a championship water-polo match.

Of all the places he has been, Jim prefers Paris.

"If I had a second home," said the Connecticut resident, "It would be in France about 40 miles from Paris."

One reason is the food.

"In France you can walk into any restaurant in the country and get a fine meal."

The food in England, by contrast, lacks imagination, according to McKay. "I've had better kidney pie in the United States."

* * * *

McKAY IS AWARE that many American tourists don't like Paris.

"I don't know why," he said. "Sure, the Parisian people are independent and the cab drivers are nasty.

"But that's the nature of the people, being independent. They just don't feel they have to get on their knees to tourists."

In Russia, McKay was surprised at the number of jokes going around about Khrushchev.

"But they're jokes with lessons, like Confuscius parables," he said.

* * * *

IN HIS travels McKay has come to the conclusion that sports transcend all political feelings.

"If there is some rapport between the East and West, no one will ever be able to really gauge just how important a contribution was made by sports and the cultural exchange."

An ex-Navy lieutenant and a former police reporter, McKay and his wife, Margaret, have two children, Mary, 10, and Sean, 8.

He doesn't want his children worrying about the long distance he travels and the many airplane flights he takes. When he leaves home, he tells them about how many hours or days he'll be gone, not how far he's going.

"I had to get leave-taking matter-of-fact," he said, "just like any other guy going to work."

Matter-of-fact, just like any other guy whose work is to cover the world.

Pan and Fan Mail

The first time we watched the "Richard Boone Show" I said it couldn't last.

Most of the viewing audience hasn't the intelligence to appreciate a truly great show such as this. It takes much less mentality to watch a farce such as the "Beverly Hillbillies" which receive the ratings.

Just whom do they ask to determine the ratings — the same group of people that watch and actually enjoy such nonsense as daytime serials?

Shirley Nelson, Long Beach

My wife and I reserved Tuesday evenings for "The Richard Boone Show." The ability and acting performance of these unknown stars was something we shall always treasure as the first major breakthrough in the "vast wasteland" of TV.

We felt that young people contemplating Hollywood and acting careers would now understand what it really meant to be called an "actor." That they should seek higher goals than to emulate the Elizabeth Taylors, Marlon Brandos and Paul Newmans.

We're sick of watching the rock-and-roll beatniks, the thrill-seeking surfers and free-fall jumpers, drunks, psychotics, neurotics and extremists portrayed on such shows as "The Defenders" and "The Nurses."

Can't the networks show us the Americans we love, respect and adore? Has it disappeared?

Walter Sall, Los Alamitos

The Richard Boone Show is one of my favorite new shows. I can't see why they'd take such a good show off. Once you start watching it, you don't want to miss it.

Jaynie Fernandes, Norwalk

I'll miss it, too.

* * * *

Can you tell us how they got the Chevy in the "Bonanza" commercial on top of that rock formation in Monument Valley?

Is it superimposed photography?

C. Everett, Long Beach

No, it's not superimposed. The automobile, in three sections, was airlifted by helicopter and then assembled on top of the mountain.

* * * *

To those people who enjoyed Joe Pyne so much, he may now be heard on KLAC each evening beginning at 7:30.

This program is more interesting and educational than some of your TV programs.

Perhaps you may be skeptical to notify people of this, but I know a lot of people who do enjoy listening to Mr. Pyne.

Harry E. King, Long Beach

It's no crime.

see why but I wish I hadn't.'"

* * * *

THERE IS a personal thing about each performance that always bothers the actress although, truth to tell, it has not been specifically remarked upon before by those who have seen her.

"I cannot say 'Hello' without my forehead going up and down," she lamented. "I can't do it in real life, either."

However, it is a very nice forehead. Including its ups and downs, it's not a newcomer to television.

Since 1957, it has accompanied Miss Leslie on such video productions as "Thriller," "Checkmate," "Wagon Train," "Have Gun, Will Travel," Perry Mason," "Ben Casey," "Gunsmoke," "The "Rifleman," "Adventures in Paradise" and "Hong Kong."

* * * *

IT HAS NOT accompanied her in any continuing performance in a situation-comedy. Miss Leslie maintains she has turned down a number of lucrative offers to do situation-comedy.

"I didn't become an actress to go to the studio and wash dishes," she said.

"That's really how I feel about situation-comedy."

What, to date, has been her greatest acting challenge on television?

"My greatest acting challenge," said Miss Leslie as she lit a cigarette, "has been all those impossible parts I had to play before the Boone show."

Boone Show Axed Because 'Experiment was Failure'

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—An NBC-TV vice president says that "The Richard Boone Show," which has been canceled by the network, was axed because it was an experiment that failed.

Mort Werner, vice president in charge of programming for the web, said Boone's series "didn't seem to reach the kind of an area we wanted to reach and I don't mean in terms of audience."

Boone's show, a repertory company of actors presenting a one-hour drama each week, was considered by many viewers to be a step in the direction of better television.

RICHARD BOONE

Boone learned of the show's cancellation from a movie and television trade journal. He was incensed to find out about the action through a news story. Dick felt he should have been informed personally.

NBC Vice President Werner said that he had come to Hollywood from New York to break the bad news to Boone personally but the two men never had a chance to get together until after the story was printed.

"We didn't purposely leak it," Werner said, admitting that some of Boone's anger might have been justified.

But he defended the cancellation, which Boone hopes to reverse through a fan-letter campaign aimed at NBC.

"We decided to go only one year," Werner said. "This was an experiment to see what could be done with a repertory company. I think in the 20 shows that have been done they did a lot of good shows and some that didn't come off.

"MAYBE THE SOURCE of the problems was material. NBC is a network that experiments all the time and this is one of our experiments that didn't work out so well. There is a great hue and cry in television to try something new. We tried something new. Everybody on the show worked real hard, including NBC. We are as sorry as everybody else."

The network's decision means that Boone's show is scheduled to go off the air this September. But it won't go off without a fight.

Boone, who uses such terms as "Madison Ave. jellyfish" in reference to his opponents in this battle, intends to fight on with the aid of loyal fans. He has many for his current series, along with millions who watched him for years on "Have Gun, Will Travel."

He has called for the fans to engulf NBC with letters demanding the show's retention. Dick claims there is no lack of sponsor interest for his series.

Boone faces an uphill fight. Television executives rarely change their mind once a decision is made to cancel a show.

A notable case in point was the series "It's a Man's World." When that show was dumped less than two years ago there was an organized campaign on the part of the producer, actors and others to save its hide. Thousands of letters were said to have been received by network officials. The brass was not impressed and the cancellation stuck.

Werner has not heard the last of Boone and his fans, a fact of which the video executive is well aware.

"The job is not the best one to have if you want to win a popularity contest," he said of his role as vice president in charge of programming.

Businessmen Name Red Skelton 'Best Dressed'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Comedian Red Skelton is the "Best Dressed Man of 1963," according to the consensus of the Downtown Businessmen's Association.

The association presented a plaque to the tall clown citing him as "representing the business or professional man who is well dressed in work, at play or travel."

The award came on the heels of a similar award to fellow comedian Jack Benny from the Men's Apparel Club of California.

IX WINTER OLYMPICS, 10 p.m., ch. 7, has Jim McKay, Curt Gowdy and Jim Simpson, plus a team of 6 Olympic experts, at Innsbruck, Austria, for opening ceremonies, lighting of the flame and Austrian President Adolf Scharf's formal opening address. First of 17½ hours of coverage, with a full hour each week night, more on weekends, as events are covered by ABC's 25 cameras, plus a Eurovision feed, for transmission to Frankfurt, Germany, and jet flight to New York for same-day viewing.

ROBERT RYAN portrays a flamboyant politician during "The 11th Hour" at 10 p. m. Wednesday, channel 4.

SPECIAL

CHRONICLE—Charles Collingwood is host-narrator for an affectionate profile of the Western world's largest, oldest, most colorful but now anachronistic big-city food market, le Halles, in Paris. Cameras will focus on the workers of the market, which will soon be a memory with the building of a new modern terminal at Rungis, and at les Halles' famous cafes. It's at 7:30 p.m., ch. 2, filmed in Paris.

REPERTOIRE WORKSHOP — KNXT's second contribution to the station-exchange series features an all-Negro cast at 8 p.m., ch. 2. Negro playwright Ann Flagg's one-act drama describes the tense situation created in a household as a man and wife prepare to send their 6-year-old daughter to an all-white school.

Nation's Pay-TV Eyes Focus on California Plan

By RICK DU BROWN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The appeal of baseball may decide whether pay-TV will pay off in a big way soon.

A major experiment involving the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants, hopefully planned for this year, may be the tipoff to the vast national potential.

If it comes, and if it works, the day will certainly be closer when plays, new movies and other events not now available on free television will be on tap in your home.

There have been well-publicized pay-TV experiments before.

A venture in Bartlesville, Okla., flopped. The need was for more varied and better attractions, an official said.

An attempt in Hartford, Conn., is still going, with about 3,400 families participating. A United Press International correspondent reports that "customer reaction has been mixed, but mostly favorable." Hartford has just signed up the Liston-Clay heavyweight championship fight on Feb. 25.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT, started in the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke, reached a maximum of 5,300 homes at one time. The figures is now at about 3,500. A UPI correspondent reports:

"The response of viewers is 'only as good as the shows themselves.' Sports events appear to be the biggest attraction and if a first-run movie gets good reviews and is well accepted by the public, it is popular on telemeter."

Still, none of these three experiments has stirred the excitement of national possibilities as much as the current West Coast plan with its tremendous sports offering, which officials explain is only part of the eventual programming.

And if there is real excitement in the pay-TV camp, it is because of the reputations and big dough associated with the California operation, which is called Subscription Television Inc. (STV).

To start with, both the Dodgers and Giants are stockholders in STV. The key figure here is Dodger owner Walter O'Malley, who has a close, shrewd and loving association with money.

It was he who spurred the baseball move west to the Pacific Coast with an eye on the eventuality of doing what he is trying to do now: operate on a pay-TV basis. In New York, his games were shown free. In Los Angeles and San Francisco the only games fans see free are their team's nine road contests with each other.

SYLVESTER WEAVER

Furthermore, STV's president is Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, who once bossed NBC and has long been respected as one of the truly creative men in television. Among his contributions at NBC-TV were the "Today" and "Tonight" shows. He had a great deal to do with NBC-TV's drive to be the "prestige" network.

In addition, in a business in which reputation swings much weight, there were considerable ripples last fall when it was disclosed that arrangements to form STV were being made by Lear Siegler Inc., an electronics company, and Reuben H. Donnelley Corp., a Dun & Bradstreet subsidiary.

WEAVER, WHOSE ABILITIES as a creator are matched only by his skill as a pitchman, promises many and wondrous results besides sports events from STV. His concept is that of a specialty magazine rack—a bookstore shelf—in which viewers with individual interests would be able to purchase programs and events catering to their tastes. Therefore, he reasons, it would not be necessary to have huge multitudes of viewers to make a program pay off. He would offer three STV channels.

Yet, to many, STV seems bound to stand or fall with the pay-TV appeal of the Dodgers and Giants. Sports is the heart.

The immediate question for STV is whether it can get the Dodger and Giant games into homes by the time it is promised —by mid-summer. A telephone strike delayed the wiring and cabling, some reports saying as much as two months.

Weaver, whose Los Angeles headquarters indicate just how pivotal baseball is, admits to "the usual difficulties" — the financing, the strike, and the like.

"But," he says, "it is still too soon for us to give up" on the original date, which was to be in July. The aim was for about 20,000 homes to be wired by July 1.

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, gas, dust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. At the first alert of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such cause, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

What's My Line?

A 15th Season Where Guesswork Teams with Reason

THE PANELISTS OF "What's My Line?" start the program's 15th season at 10:30 p. m. next Sunday on channel 2. At top is Bennett Cerf. Others (from left) are Arlene Francis, John Daly, host, and Dorothy Kilgallen.

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)—The years marched by—and marched and marched—and so did the jellybean polisher, the mosquito counter, the money burner, the ladybug salesman and the paper-panty maker for lamb chops.

The man who sells life insurance for chickens came and went, and so did the man who plays piano on an airplane, the man who makes false teeth for cows, the man who paints dots on dice, the man who drills holes in bowling balls and the man who sells warships.

There were the mattress tester, pillow stuffer, chicken plucker, egg breaker, salami knotter, mustache-wax wrapper, boxing-glove stuffer, whale counter, beehive inspector, false-teeth modeler, pooltable pocket-crocheter, horse-hat maker, goose caller, spider raiser, tuba tester, chewing-tobacco twister, nose-warmer knitter and the false-eyelash fitter.

And did the occupations stump the panel? Over the span of 15 years, they did two-thirds of the time.

THAT'S THE CONSIDERED estimate of the proprietors of CBS-TV's redoubtable "What's My Line?" Redoubtable? Make it incredible. A week from now, on Sunday, Feb. 2, the show begins its 15th season.

The first panel on Feb. 2, 1950? Might as well flip all the cards, you'll never guess it: former Gov. Harold Hoffman of New Jersey, Dr. Richard Hoffman, the psychiatrist; Louis Untermeyer, the poet and anthologist; Dorothy Kilgallen, the newspaper woman—and the moderator, John Daly. The first mystery guest was Phil Rizzuto (they didn't guess him.)

Arlene Francis became a panelist on the second show; Bennett Cerf went on in 1951. The show started on an alternate-week basis and, in the fall of 1950, went weekly and has stayed in the Sunday night spot.

On the anniversary, the show will have appeared 698 times—bearing in mind that it started on a fortnightly basis and since then has been pre-empted several times by important events.

A MAN WHO HAS LIVED with "What's My Line?" as its director ever since the third show is a big, bluff, humorous former actor named Frank Heller.

"Back in 1950," he said, "all of us were terribly fascinated with the mechanics of TV—the majority of the studio audience didn't have sets at home. What we really needed was the audience's attention to the stage. I took the cameras off the stage—put 'em way back with the longest lenses we could get; we have even longer now.

"I told the cameramen to wear dark suits (they really had begun to enjoy getting so much attention) and to be inconspicuous—so the audience could attend the stage and ignore the technical aspects and become a part of the program itself.

"This was a kind of program that never had been done before on TV—it's one of the few programs that are really indigneous to TV: Ed Sullivan is really a form of vaudeville; others are an extension of the theater.

"ITS SUCCESS? I think one of the factors is that the show hasn't changed a good deal since it began. The public realized instinctively that this is something they can't find elsewhere. People say, there, but for the grace of God, go I. And it gives them a chance to associate with the celebrity.

"We have changed in one way. For a long time we had a regular panel. Then, Fred Allen died, on a Saturday night, March 17, 1956. Since then, we have never permanently filled that chair—as a tribute to Fred. It's a rioting chair, and we try to get people with a light touch to fill it.

"The moderator? I think John Daly is as unique in the business as the game itself was when it started. His skills as a moderator are so great, he's absolutely without fear in this field."

Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from Headaches, Backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, OYSTEX may give you fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine. And it's tasteless pain reliever. Get OYSTEX at druggists. Follow label directions.

Repeat Special Tonight on Moscow's Governmental Seat, 'The Kremlin'

Emphasizing the historical rather than the political, "The Kremlin" will be repeated at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) in COLOR on channel 4.

The hour program concentrates on the 65-acre walled "city" within Moscow.

Aired originally on May 21 last year, the program met such popular acclaim that it was repeated two weeks later.

The tour starts with the Grand Palace, moves through government buildings, then into several cathedrals and the many museums.

* * * *

THE PROGRAM recreates events that took place in the Kremlin, seat of Russian authority, during five centuries.

The Soviet era is illustrated in scenes of Lenin's apartment, the Palace of Congresses, the meeting hall of the Supreme Soviet and the burial places of leaders of the Bolshevik Revolution outside the Kremlin walls.

The Moscow fire of 1812 is recreated.

Frank Bourgholtzer, NBC news correspondent, is host for the tour. The guide is Lt. Gen. Andrei Vedenin, commandant of the Kremlin.

ELENA VERDUGO joins the "New Phil Silvers Show" as the title comedian's sister at 9:30 p. m. Saturday, channel 2.

SPECIAL

PHIL SILVERS SHOW — Harry Grafton, the Bilko-in-mufti, gets stuck with housekeeping and baby-sitting chores at 9:30 p.m., ch. 2, as in an effort to boost the series' ratings he acquires a new batch of relatives—a sister, teenage niece and young nephew. Elena Verdugo, one-time star of "Meet Millie," and more recently introduced as heart-interest of the defunct "Redigo," plays sister Audrey, whose holiday starts Harry's troubles, with Sandy Descher and Ronnie Dapo as her children.

'SO LONG, PHILLY'

Clark Sad to Depart City of Brotherly Love

Dick's "American Bandstand" was the only network show (ABC-TV) emanating from the Pennsylvania metropolis.

Clark, who loves the City of Brotherly Love, was loathe to depart, which comes as a shock to his new neighbors in Hollywood. Out here Philadelphia is a favorite topic for jokes.

DICK CLARK

Tinsel Town folk are fond of repeating W. C. Fields' request for his gravestone which he wanted engraved: "All in all, I'd rather be here than in Philadelphia."

They also delight in re-telling the old vaudeville chestnut: "I went to Philadelphia one weekend, but it was closed."

Jibes at Philadelphia water and politics are always good for a laugh—except when they are told to Dick Clark. He likes the water, the politicians, the weather and everything else about Philly.

If he sounds like a demented hometown booster, it should be remembered that the handsome video star lived there only 12 years. He's a native of New York and old enough at 34 to know what he is saying.

IF PHILADELPHIA is so great, why did he emigrate?

"Because there is very little work left in the East," he said. "A man must go where he can make a living. New York is no answer because there is little enough television activity back there."

W. C. Fields said New York is a great place to visit but he wouldn't want to live there.

Clark, who bears a remarkable resemblance to actor James Garner off-screen, is indeed busy in Hollywood. He is play host and emcee for a daily quiz show titled "The Object Is . . ." for ABC.

Though Clark is happy in his work, the palm trees and fat women decked out in garish slacks and sun glasses take some getting used to.

"It's certainly a different way of life," Clark said. "It's nothing like Philadelphia."

W. C. FIELDS said "Hollywood is a great place if you're an orange."

To ease the blow of leaving Philadelphia's water system, Clark has bought a new home in the San Fernando Valley for his wife, Loretta, and their two sons. But real estate prices in California have convinced him even more that Philly is the garden spot of America.

In spite of himself Dick has acquired one Hollywood status symbol, a swimming pool. He's a little self-conscious about it, too.

When he discusses the pool a faraway look comes into his eyes. And it's an even money bet that he is plotting some way to fill the pool with good old Philadelphia water.

Personality Parade

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, PARADE, 733 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. I would like to know how many times actress Arlene Dahl has been married and to whom.—Pam Kaufman, Palo Alto, Calif.
A. Three times. Her husbands have been Lex Barker, Fernando Lamas and Christopher Holmes.

Q. Did Sen. Barry Goldwater vote for or against the Peace Corps?—A. Schneider, Las Vegas, Nev.
A. Against.

Q. Is it true that producer Stanley Kramer will never make another picture with Frank Sinatra?—Ellen Pinckney, Charleston, S.C.
A. That's what Kramer says, the result of having worked with Sinatra on Pride and Passion.

Q. When Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain was first married, the people of Kenya gave her as a wedding present a beautiful lodge and 25 acres of surrounding land. Is it true she has now sold the gift since Kenya gained its independence?—George Dana, New York, N.Y.
A. The Queen recently gave the Sagana Lodge and its 25 acres to the government of Kenya as an "uhuru" (freedom) gift.

Q. Who are the richest songwriters in the world?—Alma Shenson, Glencoe, Ill.
A. Three of the richest are Irving Berlin, Richard Rodgers, Cole Porter, all multimillionaires.

Q. Can you tell me if screen star Doris Day refuses to pose for photos with her 21-year-old son because she doesn't want people to know how old she is?—V.T., Rocky Mount, N.C.
A. Miss Day poses with her son infrequently, does not like to publicize the fact that she has passed 40.

Q. Who said: "The old believe everything, the middle-aged suspect everything, the young know everything"?—Ben Norwich, Salem, Ore.
A. Oscar Wilde, British dramatist.

Q. Lee Oswald, who assassinated President Kennedy, and Jack Ruby, who assassinated Oswald—did these two have anything in common? Were they friends?—Fred Willoughby, San Antonio, Tex.
A. They were not friends. What they had in common was a desperate desire for status and grandeur.

Q. How much did Richard Burton pay his first wife so that he could be free to marry Elizabeth Taylor?—Wilma Gordon, Atlantic City, N.J.
A. Approximately $1,500,000, plus a trust fund for their children.

Q. Is it true about writer Henry Miller and actress Zita Rodann?—Charles Edens, Los Angeles, Calif.
A. They date.

Q. I understand that Dinah Shore's husband, Maurice Smith, is the best plasterer in Palm Springs. Can you verify?—M. H., Tucson, Ariz.
A. Maurice Smith is an excellent plasterer and tennis player.

Q. I read recently in a history book that King George V of Great Britain was responsible for protecting Field Marshal Haig, who sent so many British soldiers to their deaths in World War I. Your comment, please.—Francis Corda, Hanover, N.H.
A. For the past 50 years the British royal family has inclined to protect members of the Establishment, no matter how stupid. According to many military authorities, Haig in World War I was guilty of bad judgment, should have been removed.

Q. Is Mickey Rooney broke? — Eleanor Donahue, Miami, Fla.
A. He is financially behind, but so long as he maintains his acting talent, he will never be "broke."

Q. Can you tell me if President Lyndon Johnson is a millionaire?—Dave Rowan, Urbana, Ill.
A. He and his family have assets worth a million or more.

Q. What's happened to Irina Demich, the French model Darryl Zanuck put in The Longest Day? Is she still with him?—Mamie Noonan, Philadelphia, Pa.
A. Yes, he recently cast her in a 20th Century-Fox film in Rome.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

Because of volume of mail received, it is impossible for PARADE to answer queries about this column.

THE KENNEDY LEGEND. Like Abraham Lincoln, John F. Kennedy was no legend in his lifetime. In death, however, he has become and will continue to become one of this nation's greatest. Last month more than 20 million copies of his recorded speeches, books and photos were sold in this country. Eventually, publishers say, as many books will be written about him as have been penned on that other Presidential victim of assassination in 1865. Kennedy will probably be remembered best for his youthful and intellectual personality, then for the Peace Corps, the Bay of Pigs, the nuclear test-ban treaty, the courage with which he met the civil rights drive and his acceptance of the economic theory of planned deficit spending.

SWISS TV COMMERCIALS UNDER CONTROL. For years Switzerland fought to keep its TV screens free of commercials. When television was first introduced there several years ago, the Swiss decided to ban all commercials until 1967 or until the country had 180,000 sets. It now has 350,000 sets, 1 for each 14 people, and is ready to permit TV commercials, but only under the following circumstances: no commercials on Sunday; no commercials on weekdays after 8:30 PM; no commercials for liquor, tobacco and installment buying.

NEW PHONE SERVICE. The telephone companies are now selling gift certificates for long distance phone calls. Certificates for $2 and more will be honored by all phone companies in the nation except in Alaska and Hawaii.

DEER HUNTING DANGER. Dr. Arthur Kerkhof, director of the Cardiac Work Evaluation Unit of the Minnesota Heart Association, has discovered that deer hunting imposes heavy and frequently dangerous demands on the hearts of men believed to be in good health. Noting that "cardiac deaths during the deer hunting season occur three times as frequently as accidental deaths," Dr. Kerkhof put 37 men, average age 48, through physical tests simulating deer hunting activities. The major test was dragging a 100-pound sack of sand through loose gravel for 3 minutes as a hunter might drag his deer out of the woods. Four of the 37 men tested, or 11%, showed "significant electrocardiographic abnormalities."

SIX STATES. During 1963 citizens and business concerns in 6 states paid more than half the federal taxes collected in all 50 states. The leaders: (1) New York, $19.1 billion; (2) California, $9.8 billion; (3) Michigan, $8.2 billion; (4) Illinois, $8 billion; (5) Pennsylvania, $6.5 billion; (6) Ohio, $6.1 billion. That's a total of $57.7 billion out of $105.9 billion collected in the entire nation.

FIRE DANGER. According to the National Fire Protection Association, the worst home fires are caused by dirty and defective heating and cooking equipment. Such fires destroy or damage 1,500 homes each week.

SEGREGATION AND TV SPORTS. The TV networks will not telecast segregated football bowl games again. A few weeks ago, when Gillette and Chrysler backed away from sponsoring the Blue-Gray game in Montgomery, Ala., NBC canceled the telecast, paying off the bowl association.

CHARACTERISTIC ACCIDENTS. Older drivers get involved in different types of auto accidents than young and middle-aged drivers. Most common accidents among drivers 50 and older: pulling out improperly from the side of the road; failure to give right of way; inaccurate turning into intersections; ignoring stop signs. According to Dr. Ross McFarland, highway expert at the Harvard School of Public Health, the most important change produced by aging is deterioration of perception.

HEALTH AND LONGEVITY. High in the Indian State of Kashmir, at an altitude of 10,000 feet, live 30,000 Hunza tribesmen, who seem to have discovered the miracle of perfect health. They have an average life span of more than 100 years and suffer no disease, not even an occasional headache. A 10-man research group headed by Prof. Boyer de Belveser of Paris is en route to Kashmir to study the tribe.

LUMINOUS ROADS. The West Germans are experimenting with luminous highways by mixing "aluminum grit" material with asphalt-concrete. The experiments, under way in Düsseldorf and Hamburg, are considered most promising in terms of increasing traffic safety.

WARNING TO DOCTORS. When finished with needles and syringes, please destroy. Police report that narcotics addicts steal these items from trash containers outside doctors' offices. In Los Angeles recently three teenage addicts admitted that they obtained all their needles and syringes in that manner.

ALL THE WAY. Former British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan plans to write his memoirs. Since Macmillan heads the publishing company bearing his name, the book will be about Macmillan, written by Macmillan, published by Macmillan.

DDT INVASION. DDT, the insect killer, has, according to Dr. Luther Terry, Surgeon General of the United States, "invaded the water environment of the world." It has spread over the entire planet and is currently being detected in Japanese fish, Arctic wildlife, India's plants, American rivers. The levels of the insecticide, however, are extremely low and harmless.

DEBORAH KERR

WILL SHE FIND LASTING HAPPINESS?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Actress Deborah Kerr with her second husband, writer Peter Viertel: Of this 3½-year-old second marriage Deborah declares, "I want this life of ours to go on forever."

HOLLYWOOD.

At this moment, unfortunately, there are thousands of married men and women throughout the world who would like to shed their mates.

After 5, 10, 15 years of marriage these couples believe that they are mismated and incompatible.

Prisoners of circumstances, they continue to live together for a variety of reasons: religion, children, fear, economics, social appearances, the fact that they are not in love with someone else. But almost always they are nagged by a constant inner turmoil, an omnipresent frustration, an irritating realization that they are unhappy and unrequited, that time for them is running out and that they would probably be happier alone or married to someone else, if only that other he or she would come along.

Frequently "the other man" or "other woman" does arrive on the scene, and then the critical decision to divorce or to remain married must be made.

For a celebrity, divorce generally requires courage, money and a calculated career-risk, especially when the public has previously been lied to.

Take the case of actress Deborah Kerr, 43, who now claims, "I am certainly one of the happiest and luckiest women in the world."

Five years ago, after 2 children and 13 years of what was repeatedly described as "one of the happiest marriages in the entire film colony," this lovely, gentle, auburn-haired motion picture star called it quits with her first husband, Tony Bartley, son of Sir Charles and Lady Bartley and one of England's great flying aces in World War II.

The true reason for the divorce was that Deborah had fallen in love with writer Peter Viertel, also married, while both were working in Vienna on an awful film called The Journey.

At this point, rather than continue "to live a lie," the actress decided on a divorce. Like most husbands about to be discarded, Tony Bartley struck back. In a London court he obtained a writ against Viertel accusing the writer of enticement and demanding custody of his two daughters, Melanie and Francesca, both of whom were placed under jurisdiction of the High Court of Chancery.

Viertel quickly denied rumors of a romance with Deborah, described Bartley's allegations as "nonsense and pure malarkey," but then asked his wife, Virginia, in Hollywood for a divorce.

Mrs. Viertel consented and was granted custody of their daughter, Christine. One night, not long after the divorce, she dropped a lighted match on her nightgown. It caught fire, horribly burning more than half her body. On December 14, 1959, Virginia Viertel died of burns in a Hollywood hospital.

Six months later, having obtained a divorce which reputedly cost her a small fortune in community property, Deborah Kerr married Peter Viertel in Klosters, Switzerland, where they now live in a marvelous chalet, enjoying "the best of lives."

Viertel writes books. Deborah acts in motion pictures at $250,000 per film and up. The couple's three daughters attend school in England, spend the holidays and vacations with their parents. When Deborah films on location, as she recently did in Mexico for Night of the Iguana, Viertel goes along, works on his writing while his wife emotes for the cameras. Skiing in Switzerland in winter, mixing with the international crowd, traveling the world—London, Paris, Los Angeles—the rest of the time, earning upwards of $500,000 a year, the Viertels seemingly live an idyllic existence.

I say "seemingly" because no one ever knows the truth about these film people. They dissemble so well. Towards the end of her marriage with Bartley, which she admits was no picnic, Deborah used to write magazine articles on the secret of her happy marriage. Recently I asked her if her second marriage was truly successful. "If you could have anything in the whole world you wanted," I questioned, "what would you ask for?"

Deborah with her first husband, RAF ace Tony Bartley: Her successful movie career undermined their marriage.

Quick as a wink, she answered: "Exactly what I now have, only more of the same. I want this life of ours to go on forever."

I then asked if she thought that divorced persons learned from their previous marital mistakes. "I think I have," she admitted. "I think I'm more tolerant, more understanding. Certainly I'm more mature now in my forties than when I was in my twenties. What a first marriage or any marriage does for you is to provide you with a revealing, intimate relationship in which you present yourself to another person for the first time. You learn a good deal about yourself, how you behave, how you react. And I guess in 13 years I learned some wisdom from previous experience that I've now applied to this marriage.

"The thing to realize about a bad first marriage," she went on, "is that you can't afford to blame your first husband or the external circumstances. One learns by examining oneself. If you're going to make your second marriage a success, you'd better ask yourself where you failed in the first one. Generally, a woman has made an unwise choice of a partner or functioned poorly in relating to him. If she acknowledges that failure, the chances are she will do much better the next time. In my case, I just chose unwisely the first time and much better the second. Some women go through life never learning. They choose badly time after time."

WHY CHOOSE A MOVIE STAR?

Deborah Kerr's current husband, Peter Viertel, 45, is a novelist and screen-writer, son of an Austrian playwright. He was born in Europe, raised in Los Angeles, is generally considered a cosmopolitan intellectual, worldly, sagacious and terribly experienced with women. At one time, he and Ava Gardner were an inseparable duo, and, of course, he's spent many years in Hollywood.

In view of Viertel's extensive experience with women in general and actresses in particular, I asked him how he could possibly have chosen a motion picture star for a second wife. He seems too wise for that.

"I wouldn't really call Deborah a motion picture star," he explained. "She's not aggressive. She's not competitive. She's not masculine. More to the point, she's a professional actress. And the best part of the profession is that it's a marvelous profession, the worst part is less than that—like the difference between a gossip columnist in a newspaper and a reporter. Or if your daughter wants to go on the stage, there's a difference between whether she wants to be a stripper or someone like Katherine Cornell.

"Deborah is serene and mature and gracious. I think John Huston described her perfectly when he called her 'one of the world's truly gentle people.'

"The typical Hollywood movie star is not professional. She was originally hired because she was beautiful. With stardom came adulation and work, two departments in which she's insecure. She doesn't know how to handle them. Actresses from the theater—and Deborah is one of them—have had a professional background. Deborah is easy to live with. I understand her pattern, and she understands mine. Deborah is in the movies, but hers is not really a Hollywood background."

Deborah Kerr was born in Scotland in 1921. Her father, a civil engineer who had lost a leg at the Dardanelles in World War I, died of tuberculosis when his daughter was 14. By that time, Deborah was living in London, studying ballet at Sadler's Wells.

A START IN REGENT'S PARK

I realized," she says, "that to become a ballerina I should have started dancing at 2½, so I drifted into acting by way of getting a job at the open-air theater in Regent's Park. From there I moved into film work."

During World War II, Deborah, signed to a long-term film contract by producer Gabriel Pascal, developed into one of Britain's leading actresses. In 1945 she was entertaining British troops on the Western front with actor Stewart Granger when he introduced her to Tony Bartley of the RAF, one of the brilliant fighter pilots who had helped save his country in the Battle of Britain.

Bartley took it from there. He courted and pursued the actress, and on November 28, 1945, they were married in London. Not long after, MGM, convinced that Greer Garson was fading rapidly as a box-office attraction, brought Deborah Kerr to Hollywood at $2,000 a week. With Deborah came her husband, soon to be hopelessly lost in the Hollywood jungle where he was always known as "Deborah Kerr's husband" and rarely as Tony Bartley. In Hollywood eyes he had no identity of his own.

He and Deborah had two children, but not even they could compensate for the disparity in their parents' positions. The marriage went south and ended in divorce in 1959.

Today, Deborah Kerr's fame does not outshine her second husband's quite so glaringly as it did Bartley's. In Klosters, movie stars are not particularly lionized. Moreover, Deborah's days as a leading lady are coming to a close, so that marriage means more to her now than it ever has before.

"If it were not for the money," she frankly admits, "I'd gladly stay at home and just be a housewife and mother, but who can afford to give up all that money? And really, I've had such an easy job of it. I mean my career. It just sort of happened that I got where I am. I have, I suppose, something, some quality or other, that various people have either seen or needed or wanted at sometime on the screen, and it's continued. I think only once in my life did I say, 'I've just got to do something different,' and that's all I said. And I got something different. That was the part in From Here to Eternity. But now they've put me back in the old parts again, the sweet, gracious, matronly, ladylike character, and I'm not about to rebel.

"You see, I realize that I'm terribly, terribly lucky, certainly luckier than most. I truly don't think I could ask for anything more in what's left of my life. It's a jolly nice position to be in, I'm sure.

"I have so much—husband, career, children, good health. I just hope it can go on a little longer and that I can contribute something to the world we live in. I love this part I've just finished in Iguana because I say one line which is absolutely me. I say, 'nothing human disgusts me unless it is unkind or violent.' And that's a marvelous, marvelous line, and I feel that in saying it and millions of people seeing it, maybe that line will stick in their heads, and I will have contributed one small thought to human betterment."

At 43, Deborah Kerr is batting .500 in marriage and 1.000 in career. Few other motion picture actresses can equal that over-all womanly performance, and Deborah Kerr knows it. Her cup runneth over.

LOS ANGELES.

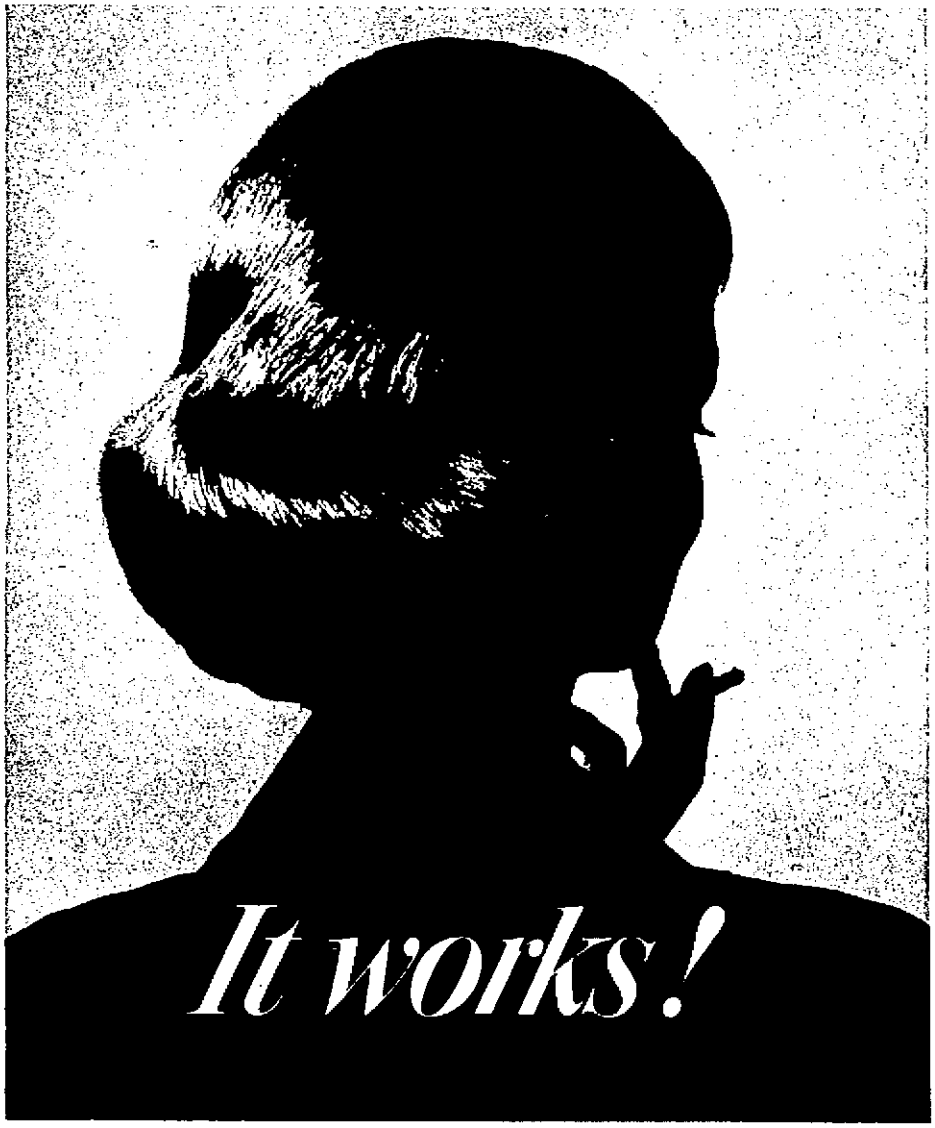

Therapists at Los Angeles' HEAR Foundation recently discovered themselves engaging in a daily struggle with some of the deaf infants with whom they were working. In an unusual experiment, the tots had been fitted with hearing aids. They had always responded happily each morning as the aids hooked them in to the world of sound. Now they began to fuss and cry and yank the wires from their tiny ears. By the time the fourth baby reacted in this manner, the startling explanation dawned on the therapists. The infants didn't need the hearing aids anymore. They could hear without them!

In the remarkable study, HEAR—Hearing Education through Auditory Research Foundation—tested 20 infants afflicted with partial to profound deafness. Each was fitted with two hearing aids, introduced to sounds and encouraged to identify and locate them. Within an average of four months all gave clear indication they had begun to hear normally without the aids, according to Ciwa Griffiths, executive director, and Dr. Harold G. Carter of the Foundation. Only two have since had to resume wearing them. The method was found to be effective only if the infants were no more than eight months old when it was begun.

A tentative theory: Some children may be born with an immaturing hearing mechanism which can be stimulated through amplified sound to complete functional development. But whatever the reason, the finding offers great hope in the world of the deaf. ■

Tiny hearing aid worn by infant in Los Angeles experiment rests in the therapist's hands. Babies in test wear an aid in each ear.

NEW HELP FOR YOUR BUDGET PROBLEMS

by THEODORE IRWIN

Financial Review Clinic members meet informally to give expert advice on the problems of the insolvent.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

A few months ago a hard-working machinist and devoted family man woke up to the appalling fact that he was head over heels in debt. Bills had snowballed. Payments were overdue on his car, TV set, encyclopedia, a department store charge account and loans from two finance companies. His child's illness added medical and hospital bills. In all he owed $2,650, about half of his annual take-home pay. Pressure from creditors created such tension at home that his marriage was about to go on the rocks.

Overwhelmed and desperate, the bedeviled machinist (we'll call him Bob Morrow) turned to a unique "debt clinic" set up here in Springfield by the Child and Family Service of Sangamon County. A rundown of his liabilities, expenses, income and assets was presented to a group of volunteer citizens which included financial and legal experts. One suggested consolidating Morrow's debts into one loan from his company's credit union. Another thought he ought to sell his car and rely on a car pool to go to work.

Then a banker came up with what turned out to be the easiest and most practical solution: refinance the mortgage on the Morrow home. Bob had paid off a little over $3,000 on a $10,000 mortgage. By bringing the mortgage back to its original $10,000, he could walk off with $3,000 in cash to pay all his debts. Today, the Morrows are solvent, their marriage secure.

Credit and installment buying is the backbone of U.S. economy. And, properly used, it is a useful tool for getting more of the good things of life. But many Americans simply don't understand how credit works. They overuse or misuse it. Springfield's Financial Review Clinic appears to be the answer to many a family singing the monetary blues. The idea is the brainchild of Mrs. Marilyn G. Brown, the slim, quick-minded case supervisor at Child and Family Service, and of a former executive director of that 100-year-old agency.

Since Mrs. Brown doesn't pretend to be a financial genius, she decided to recruit experts in the community to serve as advisors. The Clinic, launched last May, is composed of two bankers—Forrest Nurris, assistant vice-president in charge of consumer credit, and Peter Bosnack, a loan officer, both with the Illinois National Bank; Mrs. Dorothea McAnulty, an attorney who advises on legal rights, bankruptcy law and the like; and William Wieties, an experienced labor representative from the United Community Services, who knows about union resources.

Serving without pay, the panel meets every few weeks at lunch hour around a square conference table at the UCS building. Over sandwiches and coffee, they listen to a caseworker present only the more acute and baffling predicaments. Questions fly around the table: "Can the wife find a job? . . . What other assets are there? . . . Can they borrow on their insurance?" Usually families concerned do not appear; Marilyn Brown sits in on every one of these discussions in order to describe each case.

SOME ARE CARELESS

Why do families get to the point where they go broke? Members of the Clinic panel agree that there are several major factors.

Some people are careless about credit. They sign blank contracts or neglect to read the fine print.

Emotional spending—i.e., buying when upset to help feel better—and spite spending—buying to punish a spouse after a quarrel—contribute their share to family indebtedness.

Poor planning that allows debts to pile up is also a common pitfall. Once debts accumulate, they often create a vicious circle. Borrowing to cover existing commitments, a family creates new debts on loans and high-interest charges.

Who are the debt-prone? Certainly they are not confined exclusively to the low-income bracket. "People with substantial incomes can also be addicted to overspending," says Joe M. Jenkins, executive director of Child and Family Service. "I know of one family, for instance, with a $1,200-a-month income that went into bankruptcy."

Couples whose conflicts have led to separation or divorce seem particularly prone to get tied up in financial knots. One attractive, intelligent 36-year-old woman (let's call her Mrs. Dorn), with a 7-year-old daughter, had parted from her husband and was working as an executive secretary in a utility company. Tensions had brought on a stomach ulcer, which meant medical and drug bills. She owed for a washing machine, a life insurance policy, TV repair service, a mail-order course in accounting, a finance company loan and other obligations.

Analyzing her predicament, the Clinic's panel suggested that the husband be approached to raise his monthly stipend, at least temporarily. It also proposed that Mrs. Dorn's minister be asked to appeal to her parents, from whom she was estranged, and explain her acute need and their responsibility. The church credit union granted Mrs. Dorn a loan to tide her over. With moral and financial encouragement on three fronts, Mrs. Dorn's health improved and she could tackle her money problems with a fresh optimism.

Mrs. McAnulty points out that many immature young-marrieds are not equipped to handle their finances. If they come from homes where parents constantly had bill-collectors at the door, they are likely to follow the pattern of fiscal irresponsibility.

A RULE OF THUMB

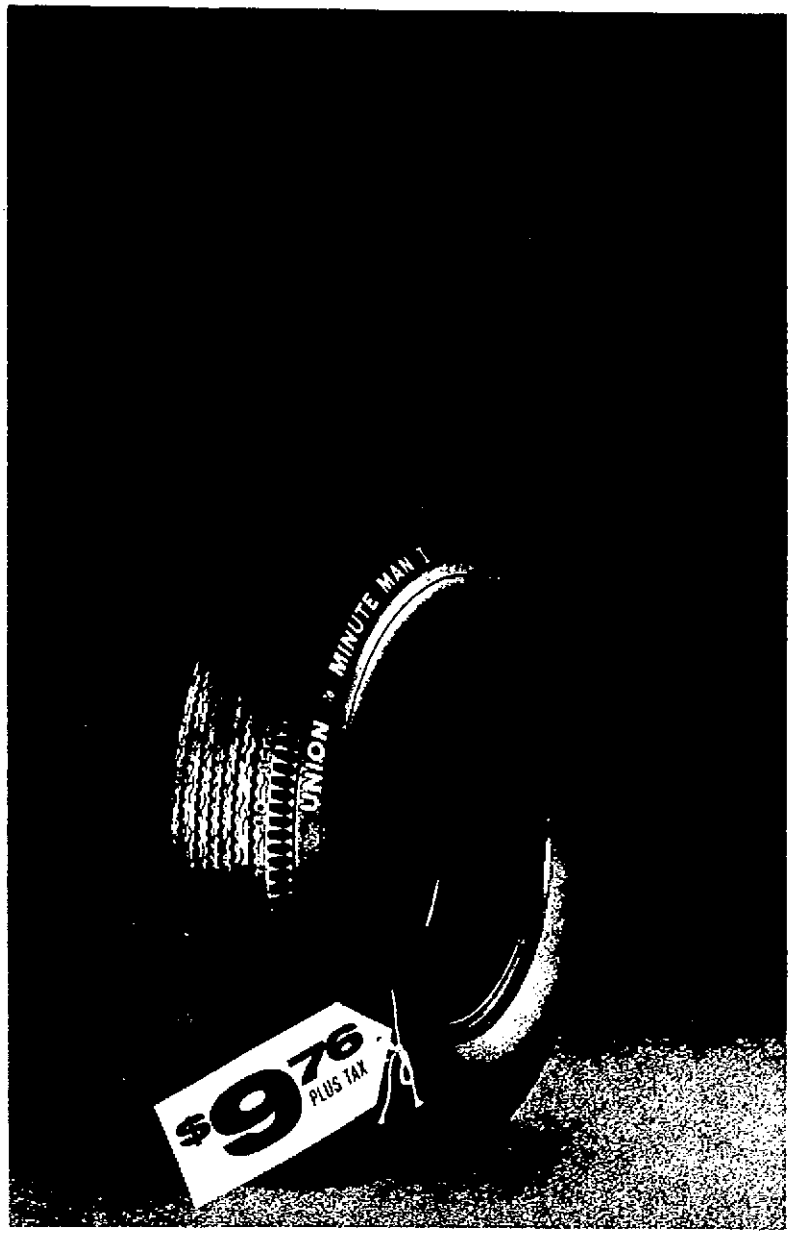

How can you tell if you owe too much? From their combined experience, the Clinic members have evolved a general rule of thumb. You're carrying too much debt, they say, if (a) you have less than $200 in cash to meet emergencies; (b) installment debts total more than one-fifth of your take-home pay; and (c) it will take over a year to pay off present obligations.

To avoid money mishandling and stay solvent, the Clinic offers these sensible tips;

- Be sure to assess your current obligations before you assume any new major debt.
- Talk over each major purchase with your spouse. Unilateral spending frequently leads to overbuying.
- Before signing for a loan or credit contract, obtain a clear-cut statement of actual interest charges and "extras" such as service fees or an insurance tie-in.
- Don't keep borrowing small amounts; they can cost proportionately more.
- Borrowing won't hurt you if you make a cash forecast of your income and expenses, then borrow on a planned, not haphazard, basis.
- If you have charge accounts at more than one store, keep a close check on the total purchases.
- If an emergency or other difficulty interferes with your payments, explain it to the credit manager.

Generally, reputable concerns and banks will cooperate in reasonable arrangements.

Springfield's pioneering Financial Review Clinic is evidently helping to salvage marriages that may have been on the verge of a breakup. Other communities in the nation may do well to adapt the idea as a court of last resort for the insolvent.

Who stands behind Union Oil's new low-priced tire?

He does. And we stand behind him.

When you buy your low-priced tire from a Union Oil dealer, the sale is only the beginning. Every time you stop in for gasoline and service, he gets a chance to follow-up in the care of the tire he sold you.

If you stop twice a week, he gets 104 chances a year. 104 chances to check the tread wear, examine the sidewalls for bruises, check the air pressure, tell you when your tires need rotating. As a result, you get more mileage.

We stand behind his service with a double guarantee: 1. against defects in material and workmanship and 2. against normal road hazards.

So, if you need a low-priced tire, see the man you'll see time and again after the sale: your neighborhood Union Oil dealer.

New Candied Bread

by Beth Merriman Parade food editor

A "jeweled turban" right out of the Arabian Nights—that's Swami's Turban Bread. This sweet loaf, studded with candied fruit, is perfect when guests come for coffee.

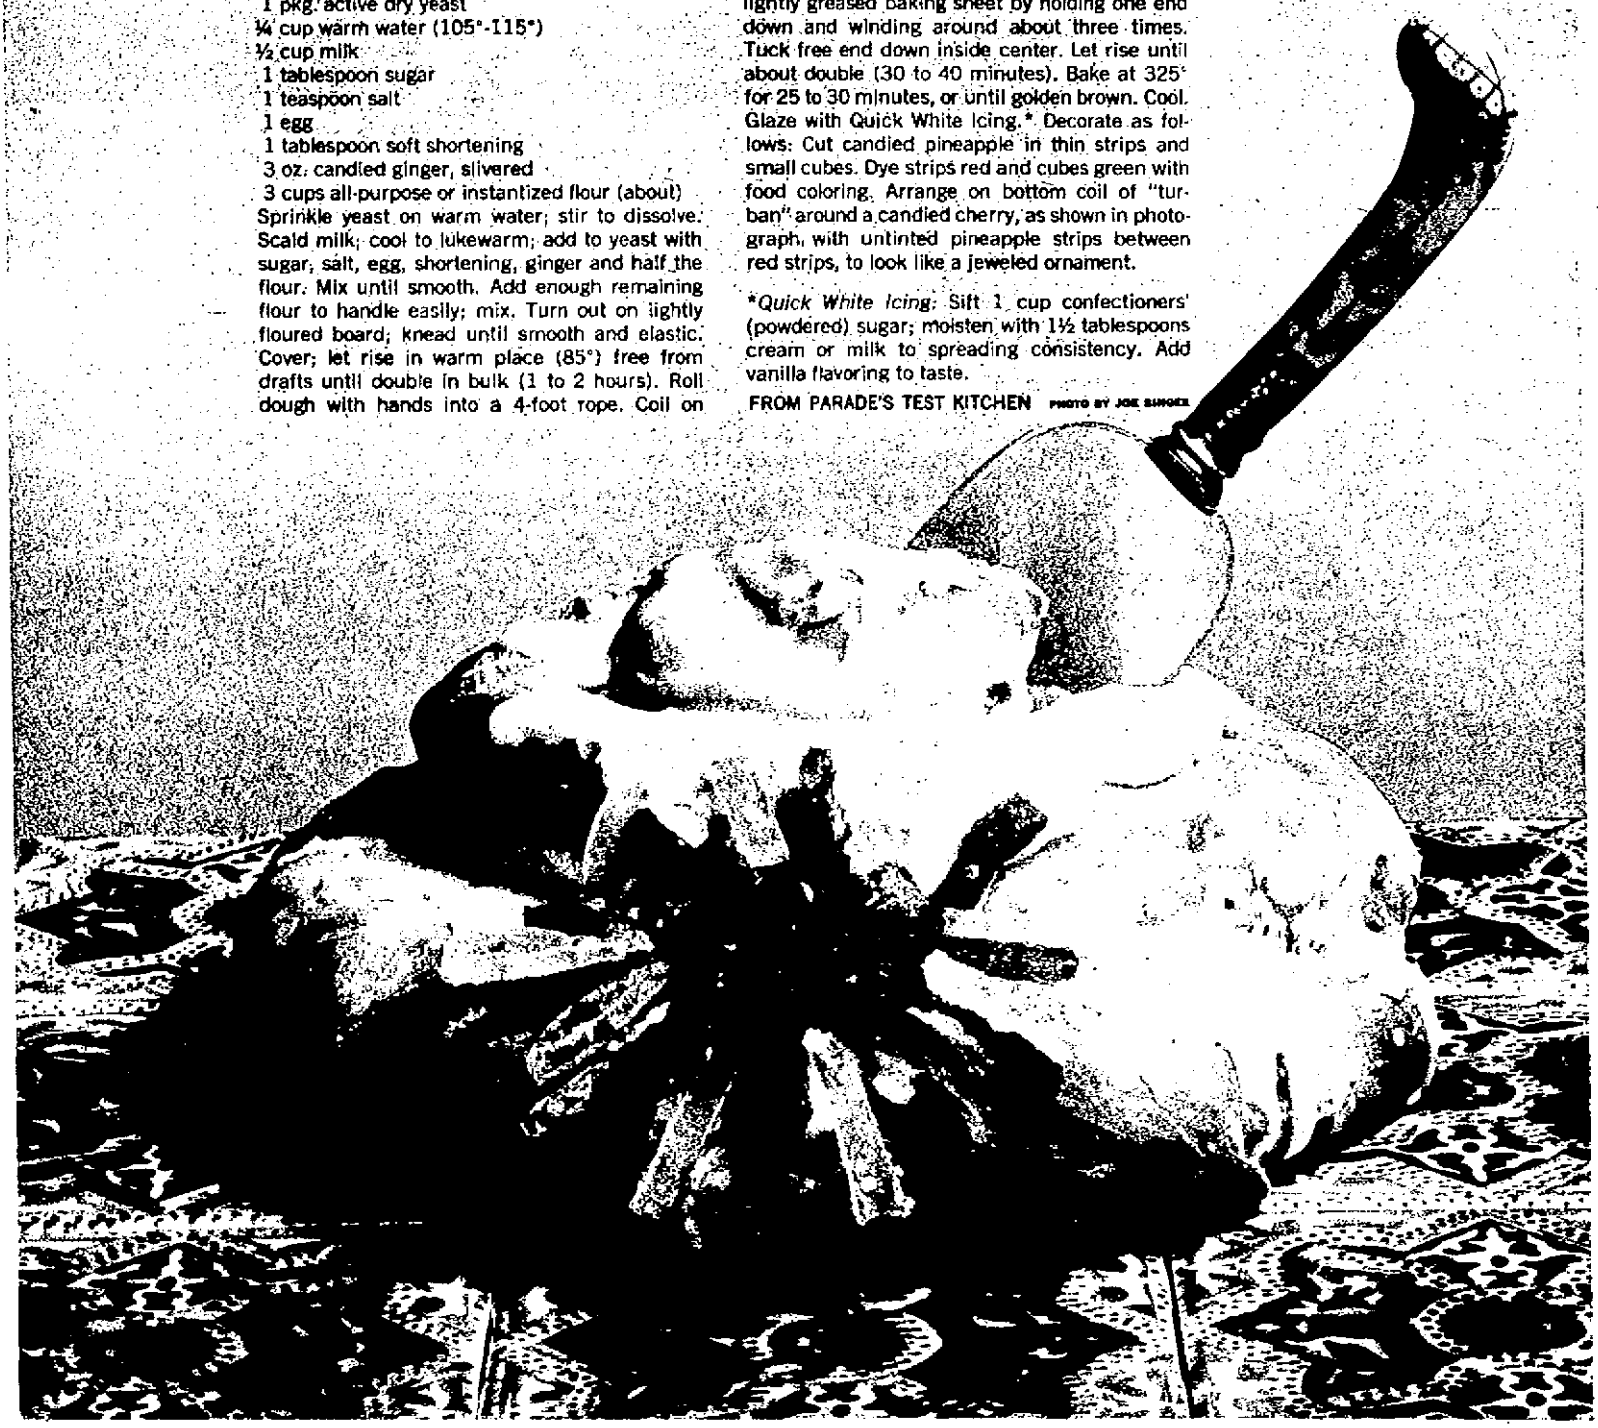

Swami's Turban Bread

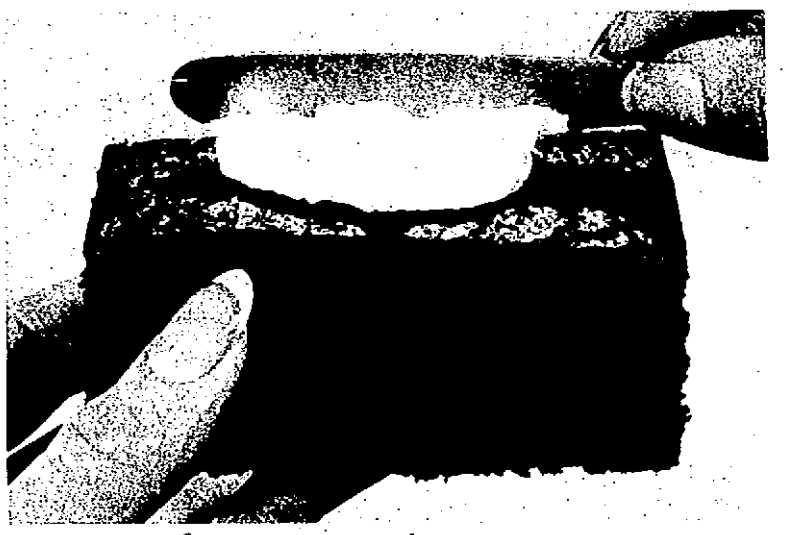

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (105°-115°)
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon soft shortening
3 oz. candied ginger, slivered
3 cups all-purpose or instantized flour (about)

Sprinkle yeast on warm water; stir to dissolve. Scald milk; cool to lukewarm; add to yeast with sugar, salt, egg, shortening, ginger and half the flour. Mix until smooth. Add enough remaining flour to handle easily; mix. Turn out on lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic. Cover; let rise in warm place (85°) free from drafts until double in bulk (1 to 2 hours). Roll dough with hands into a 4-foot rope. Coil on lightly greased baking sheet by holding one end down and winding around about three times. Tuck free end down inside center. Let rise until about double (30 to 40 minutes). Bake at 325° for 25 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool. Glaze with Quick White Icing.* Decorate as follows: Cut candied pineapple in thin strips and small cubes. Dye strips red and cubes green with food coloring. Arrange on bottom coil of "turban" around a candied cherry, as shown in photograph, with untinted pineapple strips between red strips, to look like a jeweled ornament.

Quick White Icing:* Sift 1 cup confectioners' (powdered) sugar; moisten with 1½ tablespoons cream or milk to spreading consistency. Add vanilla flavoring to taste.

A PARADE QUIZ

WHAT KIND OF PARENT ARE YOU?

by ROBERT WACKER, JR.

What kind of Mom or Dad are you? The kind a kid boasts about to his friends? Or the kind he'll be telling his psychiatrist about in 20 years?

One thing is almost certain: you're not the ogre you occasionally think you are, in the thick silence that follows someone's tearful journey to bed without supper. On the other hand, you don't want to be a patsy. Kids want and need some control.

Take a look at the situations below. If you're a parent, they may be uncomfortably familiar. If you're not a parent, read on anyway and learn what's in store for you. Check the way you would or did handle these crises; then read below to see what the Family Service Association of America, an organization of more than 300 local family counseling agencies, thinks of your solutions.

1. The ads describe this Saturday's offering at the neighborhood moviehouse as "FRANK! . . . RAW! . . . GRIPPING!" —in other words, totally inappropriate for children. But "All the kids are going." Is your 12-year-old?

A. — Yes. Prohibition would make the trash seem more attractive, and a healthy child will be unharmed by it anyway.

B. — No, and that's final.

C. — No. How about a skating party instead, with hot cocoa afterward?

2. There's a shriek from the porch and your 5-year-old comes in with tooth marks on her arm. Her 3-year-old brother stands out there scowling.

A. — You grab his arm and give it a good bite, to show him how it feels.

B. — You give him a scolding and make him stand in the corner.

C. — Put your arms around the little girl to comfort her. Then tell her brother that when he's that angry he shouldn't be playing with other children. Send him off alone for a while.

3. Children pick the darndest times to ask the darndest questions. You're in a crowded elevator with Susie. At one of those moments when everything is quiet, she pipes up loud and clear, "Mama (or Daddy), where did I come from?"

A. — You tell her it's too complicated to explain in a crowded place and that you'll tell her when you get home.

B. — Right then, you explain the human reproductive process to her and everyone else in the car.

C. — You say something like, "God made a little seed in me (or in Mother) and first thing you know, it was you."

4. Things aren't going too well in the fourth grade. Teacher complains that your son is far too casual about his work, often hands in homework unfinished.

A. — You have a long talk with the boy and tell him he'll never get anywhere in this world without work. Make him promise to buckle down.

B. — You change his schedule to establish the principle that homework comes before play. Show some interest in his work; study with him and offer to help him if he needs it.

C. — Promise him a reward if his work improves by the next marking period.

5. Your 7-year-old boy says a bully down the street has been making his life miserable, knocking him down, making off with his toys, etc.

A. — Give your son boxing lessons and let him fight his own battles.

B. — Go see the bully yourself (his parents, too, if you can) and tell him and them you want your son left alone.

C. — Ignore it. Boys will be boys.

6. The children have been strewing dirty clothes, toys and the remains of comic books all over the house. You're fed up. After all, it's their home, too; why should you do all the work?

A. — You set up a program of payments and rewards for such jobs as making beds, picking up litter, taking laundry down to the washing machine.

B. — You insist that they do various jobs, but without payment, as their share in family life.

C. — You threaten to take away certain privileges if they don't shape up.

7. At first, Nancy had some trouble adjusting to first grade, but then suddenly, to hear her tell it, everything became rosy. She has been bringing home stories of leading the class in everything from flashcard drill to squat tag. You check her teacher and all her tales of derring-do change to derring-didn't. She's telling you stories of what she wishes she'd done.

A. — Sit her down quietly and explain the difference between reality and make-believe. Tell her nice people don't make up stories about things they haven't done.

B. — Pay as little attention to the fables as possible, but watch the child like a fond hawk for genuine accomplishments.

C. — Challenge her boasts occasionally, with a smile: "Did you really do all that? It's hard to believe a little girl could do so much." But don't criticize her, and praise when you can.

Here's what experts say you should do about these problems

Now learn what the Family Service Association of America thinks of your answers. The situations and solutions were designed to outline some of the principles of what parent and child have the right to expect from each other. If they don't help your relationship with your children, consult your local Family Service Agency.

1. B. Age 12 is by no means too early for youngsters to learn that the family has certain standards of decency which are enforced without negotiation or wheedling. Explain if you wish, but don't offer bribes or alternative treats. Suppose they turned down that skating party?

2. C. Biting the tot back puts you at his level; scolding will just tighten the knot of anger inside him. Let him alone till he has cooled off, then tell him that biting is wrong. He'll understand, instead of waiting to get even. And his sister needs some love and attention now, too.

3. A. Many people think that once the Dread Topic of sex has been raised, there's no postponing it, or the child will get morbid, distorted notions of its importance. But it is too complicated and personal a subject to explain in a crowd. If the tot attaches any importance to your evasion, she'll remember to ask again when you get home—at which time you give simple, forthright answers.

4. B. The key to this one is showing some interest in the boy's work. A 10-year-old wants to do everything and anything he can with his Mom or Dad; and if you're interested in his homework, he will be, too. Making him "promise to buckle down" is like telling a rabbit to swear off lettuce and will teach him only that promises are made to be broken. Incidentally, are you sure his eyesight and hearing are okay?

5. B. Go see the bully and perhaps his parents. You may or may not change his behavior; but you will show your son he can count on you when he needs help. Ultimately he'll have to settle this, and similar challenges, himself—and with the self-confidence born of your support he can do it. Without that confidence, he may become the kid whose timidity and easy tears invite bullying.

6. B. Neither the carrot nor the stick approach will work for more than a brief time. The reason those kids should help out around the house is because they live there, and work is a normal part of living. You don't have to run the place like a state penitentiary; give them a hand with a chore occasionally. But make it clear that jobs are to be done routinely, without rewards or threats.

7. C. Something is troubling Nancy. You've got to encourage her to tell you what it is. You don't do that by calling her a liar ("Nice people don't make up stories") or ignoring the stories. But if you can make her smile at them a little bit, she may tell you what's really on her mind.

It's the newest! It's the greatest!

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?*

If you take vitamins yet still feel tired—you may need more than vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Your worn-out feeling may be due to pale, iron-poor blood.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because GERITOL contains 7 vitamins and, in addition, supplies the amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! In only one day, GERITOL-iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests: Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement.

So when you feel tired, check with your doctor, and if iron-poor blood is your problem, take fast-acting GERITOL every day. You'll feel stronger fast—in just 7 days or your money back from GERITOL.

75,000 LONELY PEOPLE

Foreign students have been rioting in Moscow. But how are they doing on U.S. campuses? A report on an important issue

by ED KIESTER

A few weeks ago, in a history-making and thoroughly unprecedented outburst, 500 African students rioted in Moscow. Shouting "Stop killing Africans," they raged through Red Square and even tried to storm the Kremlin in protest over the mysterious death of a university student from Ghana.

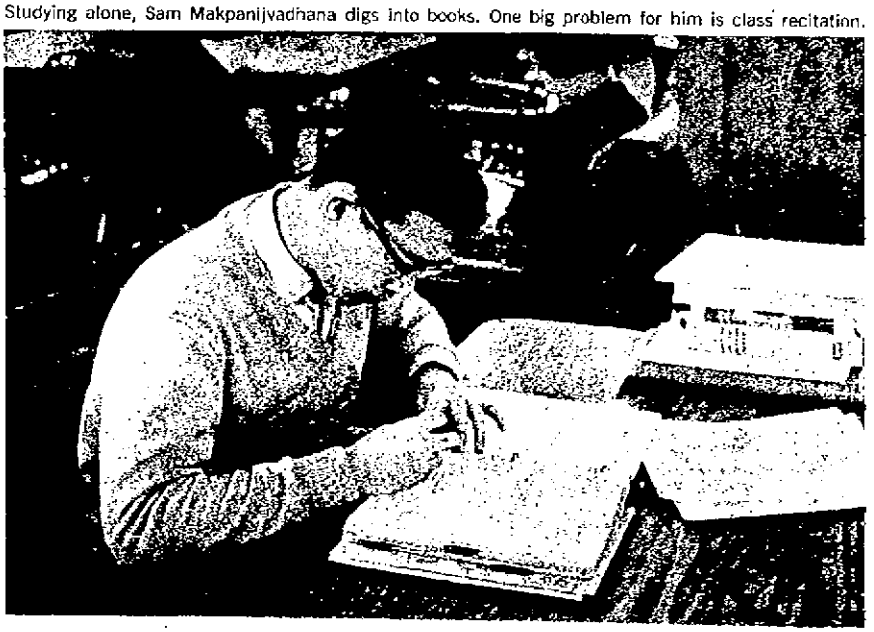

The incident was the latest in a series of such outbursts behind the Iron Curtain. Last spring, in Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, thousands of foreign students similarly demonstrated against alleged discrimination. Before that, there were riots in Prague.

To Americans, the reaction of these potential national leaders of tomorrow to the stultifying atmosphere of Communism was gratifying. At the same time, however, it raised disturbing questions: How about the 75,000 foreign students in this country? How well are we doing by them? What is our record in this increasingly important area of foreign policy?

PARADE has just spent many months investigating this question and talking to students from all over the world on campuses all over America. The answers are both heartening and disquieting. Many students are doing nicely and have only the finest impressions of America. Others—often for reasons that might readily be remedied—have met only frustration, discrimination, failure, loneliness and despair.

Take the case of the boy on these pages—Sarayndh (Sam) Makpanijvadhana, 22, of Bangkok, Thailand, a premedical student at the University of Pittsburgh. Sam's case typifies both the best and the worst aspects of foreign student programs. On the one hand, Sam attends a university with a highly advanced program to help foreign students—including a full battery of student advisors, hospitality program, orientation and English language courses, foreign student loan fund and even a service to find homes and jobs for students. On the other hand, Sam's life is still a difficult one. He suffers from academic difficulties, financial insecurities, overwork, homesickness and isolation. He has very few American friends, knows little about the country and seldom sees the inside of an American home.

But many other foreign students are worse off. A recent survey of African students in the U.S., conducted for the Institute of International Education by the University of Michigan, showed that academic, financial, social and personal difficulties were rampant. Seven out of ten Africans said they had money troubles. Three out of four were homesick. Half said they were enrolled in courses that hadn't the slightest application to Africa. Another half said they were in over their heads academically. Almost all said they had been racially slighted, but some said discrimination was less than they had expected. One in five students didn't know a single American; two out of three said they could count their American acquaintances on one hand.

LURED BY A SCHOLARSHIP

Individual horror stories, moreover, are legion. At the University of California, PARADE talked to a Kenyan who had run out of funds and nearly starved to death before a local minister rescued him. At the University of Washington, a Nigerian transfer student told how he had been lured to this country by a "scholarship" from a small Southwestern college—only to find that it had none of the engineering courses he had been so glibly promised. At a Midwestern school, officials told PARADE, a homesick Afghan had gone berserk and had to be hospitalized.

However, this does not imply that foreign student policy in the U.S. is a fiasco—far from it. It is generally good—and improving. Moreover, reforms initiated by the State Department and the Institute of International Education, a private organization which is chief clearinghouse for foreign student questions, promise further improvement.

One reason for the foreign student problem is that so many students have come to the U.S. so fast. Twenty-five years ago, a foreigner on an American campus was as rare as water in the Sahara. Today there are more than 75,000 of them. Thirty-seven per cent are from the Far East, 17 per cent from Latin America, nearly 14 per cent from the Middle and Near East, 12 per cent from Europe, 11 per cent from Canada, Mexico and Central America, and nearly 8 per cent from Africa.

Of these students, 11 per cent came here with U.S. government help, 6 per cent with the aid of their own governments. Thirty-nine per cent were financed by U.S. colleges or private organizations, and 41 per cent paid their own way.

It is with these two last groups that the greatest concern lies. Many of the privately financed students turn up with almost no money, scarcely able to speak English let alone follow a college lecture, and not prepared by previous educational background to handle U.S. college life. Nonetheless, colleges often will admit them in spite of these handicaps. Indeed, some colleges have even been known to recruit foreign students who were not qualified.

(In the colleges' behalf, it should be said that often applicants deceive them. It is a common trick for an African to have an educated friend write his letter of application or even take his English qualification test.)

Yet sometimes these students turn out to be educational successes—and good friends of freedom. Sam Makpantjvadhana, for instance, a quiet good-humored boy who has always wanted to be a pediatrician, is the eldest son of a Bangkok welding shop proprietor, who saved for years to be able to send his son to the States to study.

Sam arrived in mid-summer 1959 with $2,600 and a detailed plan for his medical education. A Thai educational official had helped him to draw it up. It called for Sam to spend six weeks at American University, Washington, brushing up on English, and then to take a premedical course at UCLA.

It didn't take long to find out how naïve this plan was. Although Sam had studied English for six years in secondary school, he couldn't understand classroom conversation at all. The final blow came when he applied for college. He was found deficient in many of the subjects needed.

Sam decided to spend some of his precious money to improve his secondary education. He went to West Nottingham Academy, Colora, Md., to take high school subjects and English. While there, he decided to drop UCLA in favor of Pitt, whose trimester system of year-round operation would let him finish his studies in three years.

At Pitt, however, he had further setbacks. His first year, tuition suddenly increased $5 a credit—and the next year, went up $11 more. The two increases all but wiped out his tiny nest egg. Sam was all ready to transfer to a less expensive school when foreign student advisor Renee Lichenstein arranged a scholarship grant of $250 a trimester.

DOUBLE TIME FOR STUDY

He also had heavy going academically. His average was good (recent average: 3.18 on a 4.0 scale), but he had to study twice as long as his fellow students. Socially, he was a misfit. He never felt discriminated against, but his encounters with American students were stiff and unsatisfying.

Today, some of these problems seem more manageable. Sam's financial difficulties have been somewhat alleviated by his scholarship and by a job which pays him $75 a month. His social life consists of contacts with a few friends. Sam lives alone in a three-room off-campus apartment, where he is visited regularly by a few fellow Thai students and several Americans. He dates occasionally, attends Pitt football games, bowls and goes to the movies every Friday "just to get away from studying."

The result is that he is still somewhat lonely and homesick. "I want to get back to my own country," he says.

Romping with children of a classmate's sister, Sam spends rare evening out in American home.

"Sam's visit here," says Miss Lichenstein, who has grown close to him over three years, "has been good for everyone—for us and for Sam. He typifies the kind of adjustment many foreign students make here—both the favorable side and the unfavorable one. I think he will make good contributions when he goes back home. I think he will take with him favorable thoughts about the U.S."

"All students, not just foreign students, have problems," says Lucius J. Battle, Assistant Secretary of State whose specialty is foreign student exchange programs. "And I think now we may be taking the worst of them in hand."

COUNSELING CENTERS ABROAD

Recently, the State Department began a program to improve screening of foreign applicants abroad. Counseling centers have been set up in overseas consulates and embassies. The Institute of International Education also has set up branch offices in Africa, Latin America and the Far East to better disseminate information about American schools. The government has given IIE a grant to expand its orientation program in the U.S. for students who come here on their own.

Nevertheless, many foreign students spend their entire college careers in the U.S. without knowing one American really well. State Department officials would like to see every college community organize a program to bring foreign students into American homes and to show them how Americans really live. In Burns, Kans., each year, several hundred foreign students are brought to town for a week of life in small-town America.

"We need more participation, more involvement on the part of the general public, if we are to win these persons to the free world's side," says Assistant Secretary Battle.

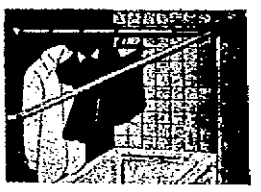

Sam Makpanijvadhana echoes him. "Americans are such friendly people," Sam says. "That is something I will always remember about them."

My Favorite Jokes

by EDDIE HILTON

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddie Hilton, born of well-to-do parents in Indianapolis 30 years ago, attended 13 different prep schools before he was 16. After the prep schools he headed west for the Pasadena Playhouse, then retraced his steps east to Columbia University and the American Theatre Wing. He is one of the most educated comedians in show business. He got his first break at the age of 17 with Henry Morgan in Father of the Bride. For the past 10 years young Hilton has played all over the country in country fairs, one-act shows and in such leading night spots as Boston's Monticello, Detroit's Club Alamo, Washington D.C.'s Casino Royal, telling such jokes as these:

A lot of people say that doctors won't make night calls anymore, but that's not true. I know one doctor who calls on his nurse every single night of the week!

It's amazing what can be done with medicine in this modern age. Monkey glands have made my 95-year-old uncle so vigorous we hardly recognize him, but they have also made him more sloppy. Now he leaves banana peels everywhere.

Did you hear about the biologist whose research project was changing the behavior patterns of rodents? Whenever he was questioned about the nature of his work, he replied: "I pull habits out of rats."

My mother was always such an avid collector that my father finally left her, saying, "Who wants to live in a house with a basement filled with avids!"

I feel sorry for the modern suburban housewife. She now has split level headaches.

If you're thinking of moving the family to the suburbs, I want to warn you that you must have a minimum of two cars—even if you don't know how to drive. Imagine how your neighbors would talk if they found out you could afford only one car—and that it was paid for!

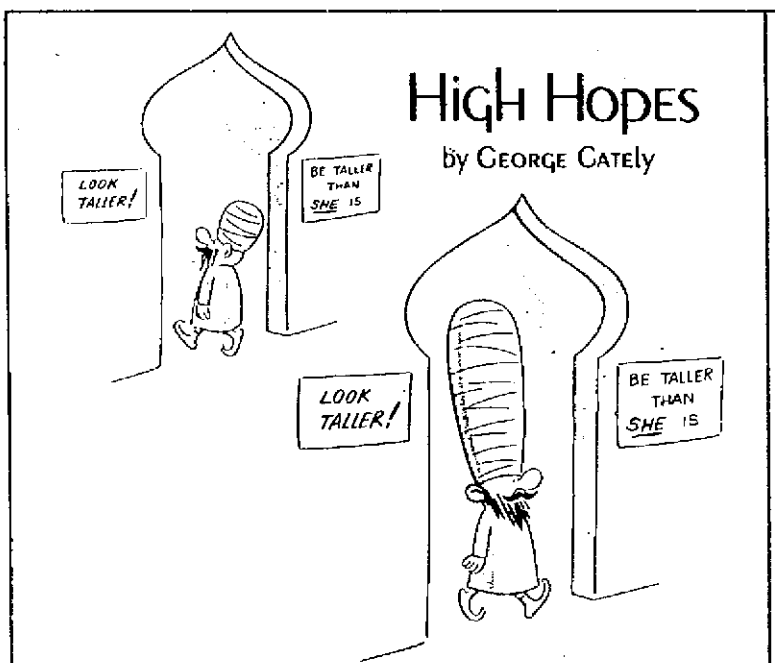

I have discovered a new way to avoid fisticuffs. I calmly say to my assailant: "Would you hit a man wearing contact lenses?" The other day I met someone who would—and did. He was also wearing contact lenses, but I didn't find out how well this guy could really fight until he hit me with his hearing aid!

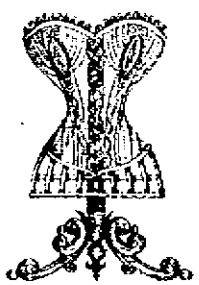

You hear so much these days about school dropouts. Actually, I was one of the first. My teacher took me over to the open window and dropped me right out!

Have you heard the latest definition of Kool-Aid? That's charity for beatniks.

Sign on the wall of a restaurant: GO AHEAD AND USE YOUR FINGERS. EMILY POST HASN'T EATEN HERE FOR YEARS!

The best advice with which I can leave you is: Keep your chin up! It stops the beer from dribbling on your vest.

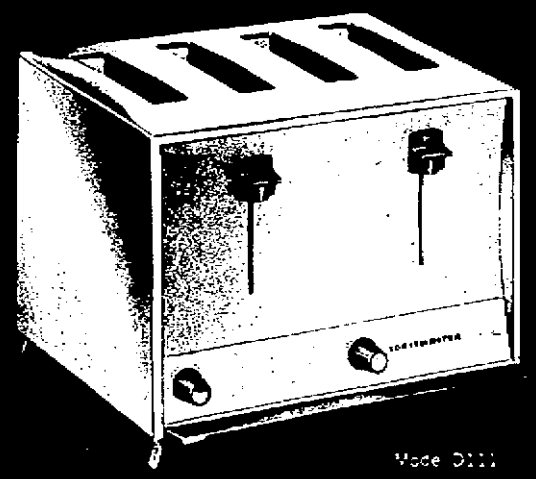

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

■ To increase its sales in January, ordinarily a slow month, a Los Angeles specialty shop recently displayed the following sign on all its girdle counters: LET US TAKE YOU IN SO THAT MEN WILL TAKE YOU OUT. ■

Model D111

TOASTMASTER Hostess 4-SLICE TOASTER has king size capacity in little more than 2-slice toaster space. Toasts 1 to 4 slices. Each two toast slots work separately . . . like two toasters in one. And the controls are "up front" where they belong. Durable? They're made by Toastmaster and most everyone knows Toastmaster products last years longer than others. Next time you want to give an enduring gift, give a Toastmaster toaster. And give yourself one. You should have the best, too.

Actress shows "insane happiness" in improvising class.

MAKING FACES

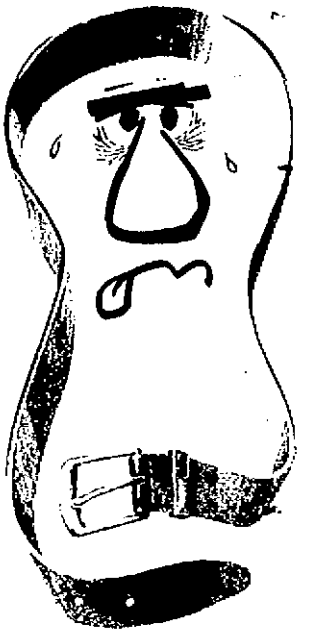

■ Making faces may seem like a child's pastime to you, but to the grimacing people on this page it's serious business. Actors, actresses and entertainers, they're being taught to use their facial muscles to help convey a wide range of emotions. Their instructor, Lionel Shepard, a student of French mime Marcel Marceau, holds classes at the Rodale Theater in New York. He has his students stand before a mirror, then calls out the emotions they are to interpret. "Insane happiness," he will call, and eyes widen, faces light up; "dejection," and jaws droop, lips pout. Watching their own every facial twitch, aspiring players get ready for opening night.

Class makes faces in mirror to strengthen face muscles.

Teacher Shepard does his "sad to verge of tears" look.

UPSET STOMACH?

If you've never tried Alka-Seltzer® BRAND you don't know how speedy relief can be!

When you have an upset stomach there's nothing quite like Alka-Seltzer.

Alka-Seltzer contains a soothing stomach alkalizer, ready to go to work instantly to soothe and settle upset stomach.

Headache, too? Alka-Seltzer provides the effective pain-reliever, sodium acetylsalicylate, in a completely dissolved solution. In the first ten minutes—when you really need it—the system quickly absorbs more of this Alka-Seltzer pain-reliever.

Take two Alka-Seltzer tablets before bed and wake up feeling better!

From Pillsbury's 15th Bake-Off

New Prize Recipes from all over America to the Bake-Off to you

Meet the Champ! $25,000 "Hungry Boys' Casserole". It calls for Campbell's Pork & Beans

A Bake-Off judge described Mrs. Walilko's unusual winning entry as a hearty, come-back-for-more, family main dish. "Hungry Boys' Casserole" makes good use of masculine favorites like Campbell's Pork & Beans, hamburger, and good hot biscuits made with a special twist.

A talented cook, Mrs. Walilko is also a trained musician, writer of poetry and very active in women's clubs and organizations. The attractive mother of 3 "hungry" boys—and two girls—Mrs. Walilko said she'd use her prize money to "educate my brood."

Nourishing Campbell's Pork & Beans are the "let's-have-more" kind of beans that hungry boys, girls and husbands really enjoy. And Campbell's bright tomato sauce is cooked all through each Tender-Hearted bean for prize-worthy flavor.

Campbell's makes 'em and that makes 'em good.

Hungry Boys' Casserole

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Hamburger 'n beans topped with meat-filled biscuits.

BAKE at 425° for 25 to 30 minutes. SERVES 6 to 8.

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 cup sliced celery
- ½ cup each chopped onion and green pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- ¾ cup (6-oz. can) tomato paste

Pillsbury's BEST Flour makes a prize cake great!

HANNA ALBANESE, born in Germany, modernized an old family recipe for the Bake-Off. A gala cake, luscious with butter, it's a birthday cake at her house. Try it!

Lemon Butter Layers

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Butter-cream fills and frosts 4 luscious layers!

BAKE at 325° for 55 to 60 minutes.
MAKES 9 or 10-inch tube cake.

2 cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
2¼ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Land O'Lakes Butter
1 teaspoon Burnett's Lemon Extract
1¼ cups sugar
6 eggs

Lemon Cream Filling:
1 package (3⅝ oz.) lemon pie filling mix
¾ cup sugar
2 cups water
¾ cup Land O'Lakes Butter

Nut Crunch:
½ cup sugar
¾ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter with lemon extract. Gradually add sugar, creaming well, 5 to 8 minutes. Add eggs, one at a time; beat well after each. Blend in dry ingredients. Turn into 9 or 10-inch tube pan, greased on bottom.

Bake at 325° for 55 to 60 minutes. Do not invert. Cool. Cut cake horizontally to make 4 layers. Stack layers, spreading Filling and sprinkling 2 tablespoons Nut Crunch on each layer and on top.

Lemon Cream Filling: Prepare lemon pie filling using amount of sugar and water given above. Cool to lukewarm. Cream butter. Gradually add pie filling; beat well. Cool.

Nut Crunch: Heat sugar in skillet until sugar melts and is golden. Stir in walnuts. Spread on greased cookie sheet; cool. Crush fine.

Chocolate Celebration Cake. Edna Buckley, Collins, N.Y., created her cake with chocolate pudding mix . . . and chocolate morsels bake on top of each layer. Luscious!

Chocolate Celebration Cake

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

BAKE at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes.
MAKES three 8-inch layers.

2⅓ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 package (4 oz.) chocolate pie filling mix
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
⅔ cup Land O'Lakes Butter
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
3 eggs
1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
¼ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts, if desired

Sift flour with pie filling mix, salt and soda into mixing bowl. Add brown sugar, butter and buttermilk. Beat 1½ minutes, using a low speed on mixer. Add eggs and vanilla. Beat 1½ minutes. Turn into three 8-inch round layer pans, greased and floured on bottoms. (Use about 1½ cups batter per pan.) Sprinkle chocolate morsels over layers.

Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Frost, stacking layers top-side up. Decorate with walnuts.

Frosting: Melt 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels and ¼ cup Land O'Lakes Butter in ¼ cup milk over low heat. Stir in 1 pound sifted confectioners' sugar. If necessary, thin with a few drops of milk.

Lemon Butter Layers: the cake that's luscious as it looks! A trick to the frosting makes it special, and Pillsbury's BEST Flour makes the cake best. Light, fine, fluffy! See if you don't agree. Both recipes are delicious samples of Bake-Off recipes that come to you all year in sacks of Pillsbury's BEST Flour. And only from Pillsbury!

$3000 Peach Flip Coffee Cake made with Red Star Yeast

CHRISTINE POTTER bakes "for the joy of it." She has a collection of over 1,000 recipes . . . and this prize winner is based on a grand old one from Denmark. Try it!

Peach Flip

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Luscious peach-filled coffee cake.

BAKE at 350° for 20 to 25 minutes. MAKES 2 coffee cakes.

- 2 packets Red Star Special Active Dry Yeast (or 2 cakes Red Star Compressed Yeast)
- ½ cup warm water
- ½ cup and ⅔ cup sugar
- ¾ cup soft Land O'Lakes Butter
- ½ cup hot scalded milk
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 3 eggs
- 5 to 5½ cups Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 cup (4 oz. can) Diamond Walnuts, chopped
- 1 cup peach or apricot preserves

Soften yeast in water. Combine in mixing bowl ½ cup sugar, ½ cup butter, milk and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Blend in eggs and yeast. Gradually add flour to form a stiff dough.

Knead on floured surface until smooth and satiny, 3 to 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl; cover. Let rise in warm place (85° to 90° F.) until light, 1 to 1½ hours.

Combine ⅔ cup sugar, cinnamon and walnuts. Roll out half of dough on lightly floured surface to a 20 x 10-inch rectangle. Spread with 2 tablespoons butter and ¼ cup preserves. Sprinkle with half the sugar mixture.

Roll up, starting with 20-inch side. Seal. Place seam-side down on greased cookie sheet, curving ends to make "U" shape. With scissors, make cut down center, ½ of the way through roll, to within 2 inches of ends. Repeat with remaining dough. Let rise in warm place until light, about 30 minutes. Spoon ¼ cup preserves in center of each.

Bake at 350° for 20 to 25 minutes. If desired frost with a confectioners' sugar icing.

Cheese Secrets. Ann Gaukel, Mukwonago, Wis., says, "There's nothing left but an empty tray when I serve these at a party." No wonder! Cheese inside delicate yeast rolls!

Cheese Secrets

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

BAKE at 400° for 10 to 12 minutes. MAKES 40 rolls.

- ¼ pound Cheddar cheese
- 1 packet Red Star Special Active Dry Yeast (or 1 cake Red Star Compressed Yeast)
- ¼ cup warm water
- ¾ cup hot scalded milk
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 3 tablespoons Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2½ to 3 cups Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 tablespoon Land O'Lakes Butter, melted
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cut cheese into forty ½-inch cubes. Soften yeast in water. Combine in mixing bowl milk, sugar, 3 tablespoons butter, and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in yeast. Gradually add flour to form a stiff dough.

Knead on floured surface until smooth and satiny, 4 to 6 minutes. Divide into 4 parts. Cut each into 10 pieces. Wrap dough around cheese cube. Seal edges; shape into ball. Place on greased cookie sheets. Cover. Let rise in warm place until light, 45 to 60 minutes.

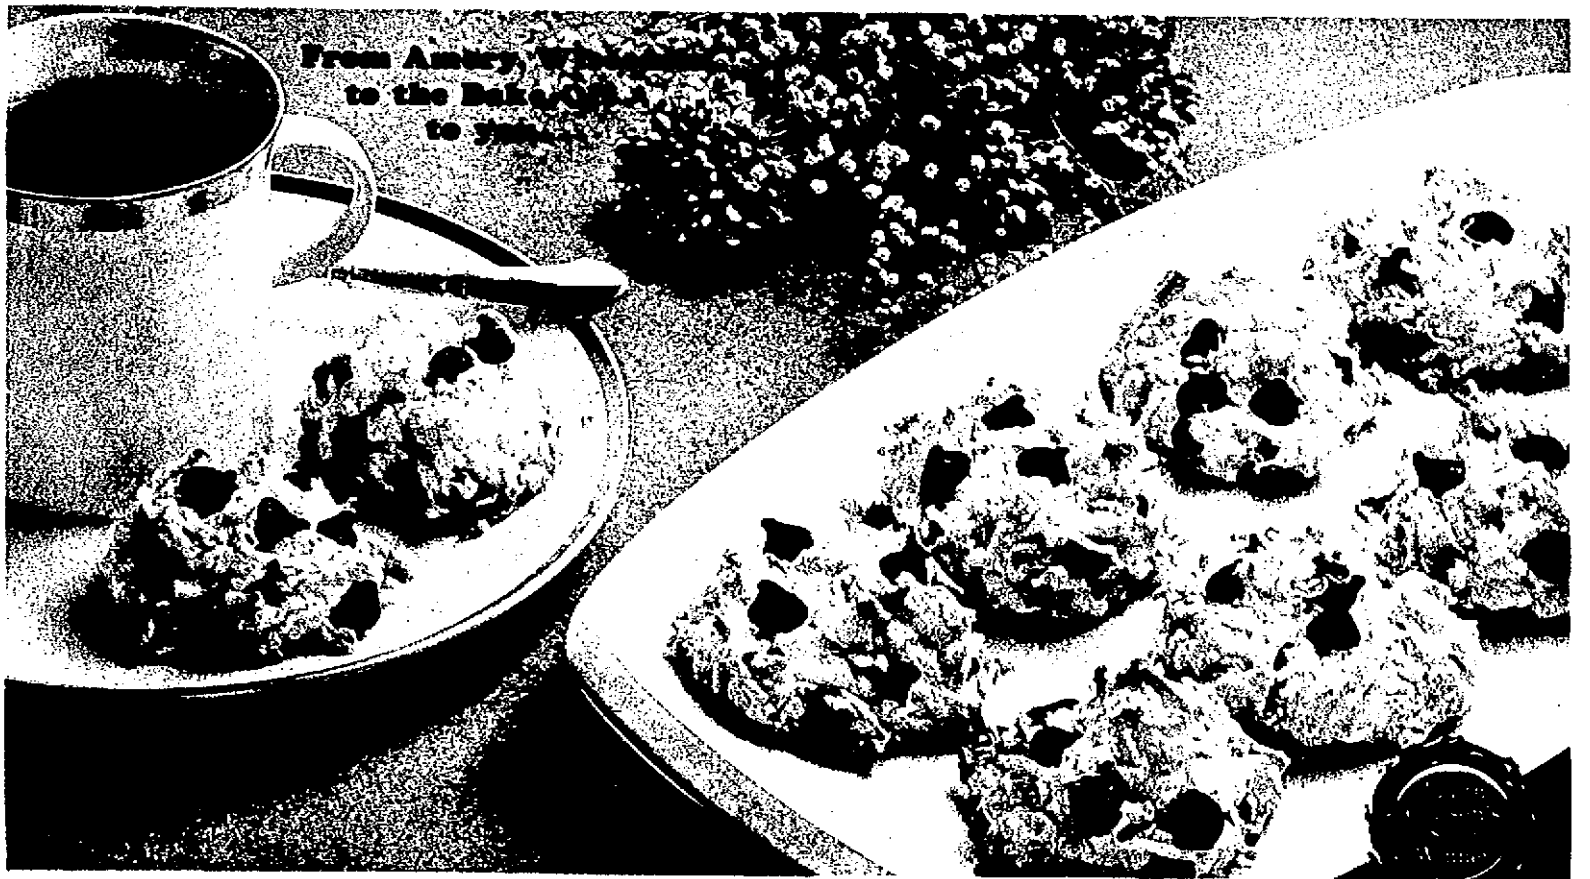

Bake at 400° for 10 to 12 minutes. Brush with melted butter; dip into Parmesan cheese. Best served warm.

For Dinner Rolls: Cut twenty 1-inch cubes of cheese. Cut each quarter of dough into 5 pieces. Makes 20.

This Red Star recipe won First Senior Division prize in the Grand National—and Peach Flip Coffee Cake will win compliments for you every time you serve it. Make it soon. And be sure to use Red Star Active Dry Yeast, the one ingredient that helps all the others do their best.

Why not let Red Star help you make someone happy tonight?

"Macaroonies"—guaranteed great with Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels

JUDITH CARLSON, 17, learned to cook from her mother. Her prize winning cookies are the delicious result of experimenting in the kitchen . . . one of her favorite hobbies. Judith had a good time at the Bake-Off, and went home to spend her prize money the best way in the world: for her first year at college.

"Macaroonies"

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Crisp macaroons with morsels of chocolate.

BAKE at 325° for 12 to 15 minutes.
MAKES about 3 dozen cookies.

- 2 eggs
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ cup Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 tablespoon Land O'Lakes Butter, melted
- 2 cups flaked coconut
- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla

Beat eggs and salt until foamy. Gradually add sugar; continue beating until thick and ivory colored, 5 to 7 minutes. Fold in flour and butter.

Stir in coconut, chocolate morsels, lemon rind and vanilla. Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased and floured cookie sheets.

Bake at 325° for 12 to 15 minutes until delicately browned. Cool 1 minute; remove from cookie sheet.

Butterscotch Pinwheels. Scherrie Pesante, Roswell, New Mexico, is a recipe collector at 15. A grand cook, too!

Butterscotch Pinwheels

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

BAKE at 325° for 8 minutes. MAKES about 5 dozen cookies.

- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 can (15 oz.) sweetened condensed milk
- 1 cup sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- ½ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts

Butterscotch Filling:

- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Butterscotch Morsels
- 2 tablespoons shortening

Melt chocolate and shortening in top of double boiler over boiling water. Remove from heat. Add milk, flour and vanilla. Blend well. Spread in 15x10x1-inch jelly roll pan which has been greased, lined with waxed paper and greased again.

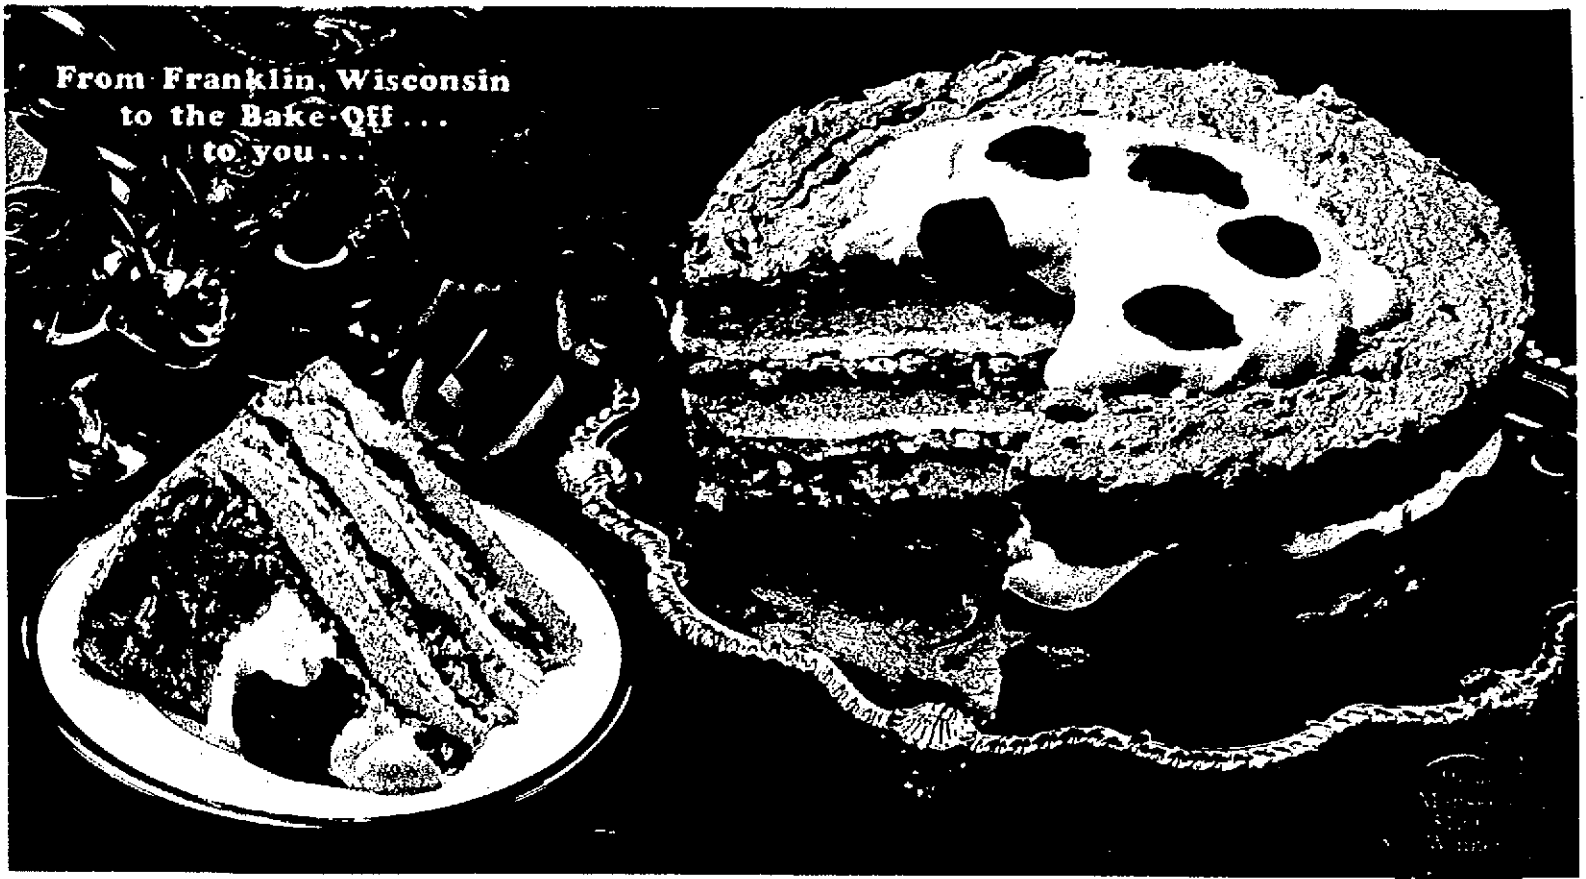

Bake at 325° for 8 minutes. Prepare Filling while baking. Immediately turn out chocolate base onto a towel which has been sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Spread with Filling. Sprinkle with walnuts.

Roll up, starting with 15-inch side. Wrap; chill 6 hours or overnight. Cut into ¼-inch slices.

Butterscotch Filling: Melt butterscotch morsels with shortening in top of double boiler over boiling water.

Want to wind up with a winner? Then start with winners! Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels and Butterscotch Morsels. Fabulous—the way they stay whole in baking, then melt in your mouth. Famous—the glorious, rich flavor they give. Every recipe is guaranteed because Nestlé's Makes the Very Best Flavors.

"Sunday Torte," made with Burnett's® Vanilla

ROSE MANSKE and her husband Leonard will spend her Bake-Off prize money traveling. If she has a hobby it's baking: "I like to bake," she says, "It's creating."

Sunday Special Torte†

Meringue-on-cake, baked all together!

BAKE at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes. SERVES 10 to 12.

- 1 cup Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1½ cups sugar
- 5 eggs, separated
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 2 teaspoons Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- 2 cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 cup raspberry preserves
- 1½ cups (3½-oz. can) flaked coconut
- 2 cups dairy sour cream

Cream butter. Add ½ cup sugar; cream well. Blend in yolks, milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt and baking powder; beat well. Stir in flour. Spread in three 9-inch round pans, greased on bottoms.* Spread ½ cup preserves on each layer to within 1 inch of edge.

Beat egg whites and ¼ teaspoon salt until slight mounds form. Gradually add 1 cup sugar; beat well after each addition. Continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold in coconut and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Spread over preserves.

Bake at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes until light golden brown. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pans. Cool completely.

Spread sour cream between layers. If desired, garnish top with sour cream and jam. Chill several hours.

If you don't have three 9-inch layer pans, hold ½ of dough and topping in refrigerator. Bake as soon as pan is available.*

†Both recipes adapted by Ann Pillsbury.

Imperial Crown Cake. Jeanine Gullett, Atlanta, Ga., dreamed up this new cake with butterscotch and chocolate.

Imperial Crown Cake†

BAKE at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes. MAKES two 9" layers.

- ¾ cup Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- ½ cup Nestlé's Butterscotch Morsels
- ¼ cup water
- 2½ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 teaspoon each soda and salt
- ½ cup Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1¼ cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Melt morsels in water over low heat. Cool.

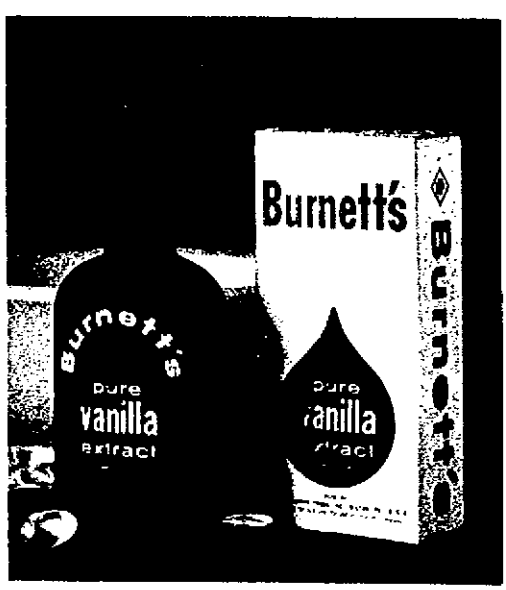

Sift flour with salt and soda. Set aside. Cream butter. Add sugar gradually; cream well. Blend in eggs, beat well after each. Blend in vanilla and morsel mixture. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk. Turn into two 9-inch round pans, greased and floured on bottoms.

Bake at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool. Frost between layers and on sides. Frost top with Topping.

Sea Foam Frosting: Combine in top of double boiler ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup corn syrup, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons water, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Cook over boiling water, beating constantly with mixer or rotary beater until mixture stands in peaks. Remove from heat. Add ½ teaspoon each Burnett's Vanilla and Burnett's Maple Flavor. Beat well. Reserve 1 cup.

Chocolate Topping: Melt ½ cup each, Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate and Butterscotch Morsels. Cool. Combine with ½ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts and reserved Frosting.

Because you're proud of your baking, depend on Burnett's: the first pure Vanilla made from only choice selected vanilla beans. That's why it was the official Vanilla at The Bake-Off. Whether you're making the luscious, lavish Sunday Torte or the handsome Imperial Crown Cake, do what so many other good cooks do. Reach for Burnett's Pure Vanilla. It's a natural!

Make his Winning Walnut Glory Cake with prizeworthy Diamond Walnuts

UMEJIRO FRANK KURITSUBO, an animated Japanese gentleman, became a United States citizen in 1960. "It was," he says, "the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me." Another wonderful thing happened when Bake-Off judges awarded him $1,000 for his superb Walnut Cake. The prize money will buy a visit back to Japan after 30 years.

Walnut Glory Cake

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Light texture, crunchy with walnuts.

BAKE at 350° for 55 to 65 minutes.
MAKES 10-inch tube cake.

- ¾ cup sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 9 eggs, separated
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- 2 cups, finely chopped, Diamond Walnuts

Sift flour with cinnamon and salt. Beat egg whites (1¼ cups) in large mixing bowl until soft mounds form. Gradually add ¾ cup sugar. Continue beating until very stiff, straight peaks form. Do not underbeat.

Combine egg yolks, ¾ cup sugar and vanilla in small mixing bowl. Beat until thick and lemon colored. Stir in dry ingredients. Fold batter gently but thoroughly into egg whites using a wire whip or rubber spatula. Fold in walnuts. Turn into ungreased 10-inch tube pan.

Bake at 350° for 55 to 65 minutes. Invert immediately. Cool completely before removing from pan. Frost with a vanilla glaze, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar or serve with whipped cream.

Fudge Nougats. Dagmar Mallinson of Kansas City, Mo. created these no-bake cookies for her two youngsters to eat instead of candy. And candy-like they are, (luscious with walnuts) yet really easier to make. Bake-Off judges awarded them $1,000 in prize money. We think you'll call them prizewinners, too!

Fudge Nougats

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

MAKES 40 pieces.

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- ½ cup Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- ¾ cup Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 cup finely crushed graham crackers
- ¾ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- Diamond Walnut halves

Combine in saucepan sugar, evaporated milk and butter. Bring to a full rolling boil, stirring occasionally. Boil hard 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend in chocolate, flour, graham crackers, walnuts and vanilla; mix well.

Spread in well-buttered 12x8-inch pan. If desired, top with walnut halves, one for each piece. Cool. (For faster setting, place in refrigerator.) Cut into squares.

For a stronger chocolate flavor, increase chocolate morsels to 2 6-oz. pkgs. (2 cups).*

Every Bake-Off winner who used walnuts used Diamonds to be sure of fresh, sweet, crisp walnut kernels. When you make this wonderful Walnut Glory Cake, or any favorite recipe, look for the best California walnuts, Diamonds. The Diamond brand is stamped on every shell in 1 lb. and 2 lb. cellophane bags. Or you can get Diamonds already shelled in handy, recipe-size amounts in vacuum cans or clear, see-through bags.

Cheddar and Parmesan Cheese give Venetian Veal Pie its Prize-Winning Touch

NOREEN JOHNSON, young mother of two, is an artist in her free time, and specializes in gourmet cooking. Her prize money will help furnish a new house.

Venetian Veal Pie

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Flaky cheese pastry covers veal Italian style.

BAKE at 400° for 30 to 35 minutes.
SERVES 6. (Makes 9-inch pie.)

1½ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon leaf oregano
¼ cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
½ cup butter
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water

Meat Filling:
1 pound veal steak, cut in bite-size pieces
½ cup Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
¼ cup butter
2 cups (1-lb. can) tomatoes
1 cup (8-oz. can) tomato sauce
¼ cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon sweet basil
½ teaspoon each salt, garlic salt and oregano
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 slices (¼ lb.) Cheddar cheese

Sift flour with garlic salt. Add oregano and grated cheese. Cut in butter until fine. Sprinkle water over mixture, stirring with fork until dough holds together. Roll out ⅔ of dough on floured surface to an 11-inch circle. Fit into pan.

Meat Filling: Coat veal with flour. Brown meat in butter in skillet. Stir in remaining ingredients except Cheddar cheese. Cover; simmer 30 minutes or until meat is tender.

Turn into pastry-lined pan. Top with cheese slices. Roll out remaining dough to ⅓-inch. Cut into 2-inch rounds. Place on cheese, overlapping slightly. Flute edge.

Bake at 400° for 30 to 35 minutes until golden brown.

Hot Cheese Pups. Elizabeth Antisdale, 17, tried a new twist on bread baking. Result: the hot cheese sandwich that brought her from Oakland, Calif, to the Bake-Off.

Hot Cheese Pups

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

FRY at medium heat about 8 minutes. MAKES 16.

1 packet Red Star Special Active Dry Yeast
(or 1 cake Red Star Compressed Yeast)
¼ cup warm water
1 cup hot scalded milk
¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1 egg
3½ to 4 cups Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 pound (4 cups) shredded Cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion

Soften yeast in water. Combine in mixing bowl milk, butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Blend in egg and yeast. Gradually add flour to form a stiff dough; beat well after each addition. Cover. Let rise in warm place until light, about 1 hour.

Combine cheese and onion. Roll out dough, half at a time, on floured surface to 14x8-inch rectangle. Cut into 7x2-inch pieces. Place about 3 rounded tablespoonfuls cheese down center of each. Bring edges to center; seal. Seal ends. Place, seam-side down, on cookie sheets. Repeat with remaining dough. Let rise in warm place, 30 minutes.

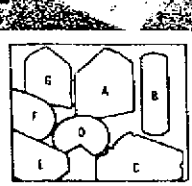

Fry in heavily-buttered skillet on medium heat (325° to 350° F.) about 2 minutes on each side. Turn carefully to brown all sides. Add butter as needed. Serve hot.

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident — any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This Insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy — at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt, But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

LBJ CLAMPS LID ON BAKER CASE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson Saturday put the lid on further White House discussion of the Bobby Baker case and brushed aside Republican criticism of his acceptance of an expensive hi-fi set from the former Senate aide as something he has learned to endure.

"I have said what I'm going to say," he declared at another of his impromptu news conferences. He had been asked to comment on the Senate investigation of the outside business interests of Robert G. Baker, former Senate Democratic secretary.

The President's name cropped up in the Senate Rules Committee hearing when Don Reynolds, a local insurance dealer, testified that he had sent Johnson a $550 stereo set at Baker's behest in 1959.

The President volunteered earlier in the week that he had believed it to be a gift from Baker. Noting that he and his former Senate protege often had exchanged gifts, Johnson had said Baker "was asking for nothing and, so far as I knew, expected nothing."

Republicans, including Sen. Barry Goldwater, have contended that Johnson, who then was Senate majority leader, should have questioned seriously the fact that Baker was giving him such an extravagant gift.

Saturday, Johnson declined to reply to specific criticism, but he remarked:

"I have learned to expect Republican criticism." He observed wryly that he had "endured it for 32 years" and "I get amused by it once in a while."

As a parting shot, the President said such criticism seemed to be "a kind of hallmark" of the Republican Party.

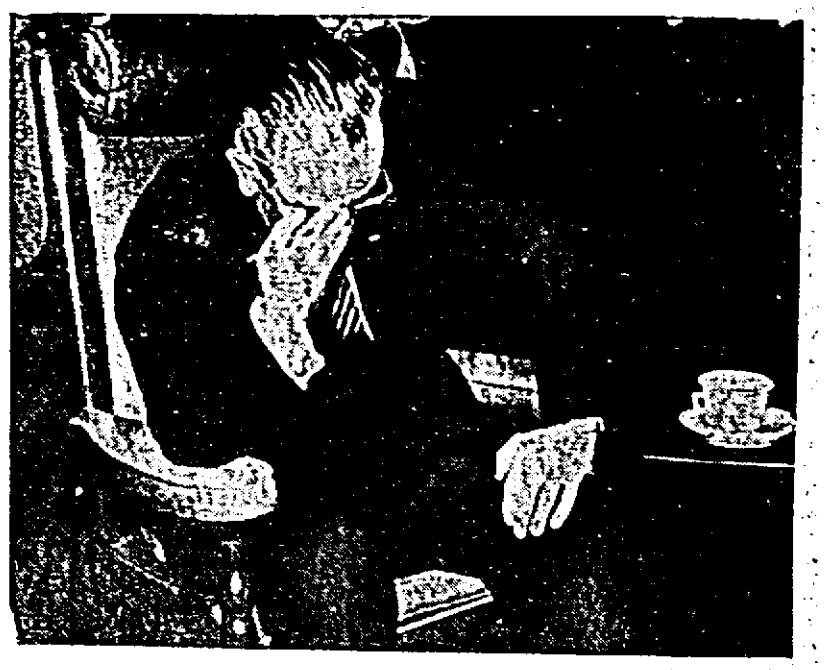

Asked about the overall question of ethics involved in Baker's lucrative private business dealings while serving as a Senate official, the President commented: "That is a matter the Senate is working on."

Without amplification, he said he got "a little amused when they talk about a stereo and a miniature TV — I don't know what that is."

At the hastily summoned meeting with about 20 newsmen, Johnson also:

—Said he thinks there is "a good deal of concern throughout the world"

Negroes Fight Ku Klux Klan in Atlanta Clash

ATLANTA (UPI)—Negro civil rights demonstrators and white segregationists, including some Ku Klux Klansmen, clashed briefly Saturday night in a pushing, shoving and bareknuckle brawl in downtown Atlanta.

About 35 whites and Negroes tangled while milling around outside a downtown motel. A Negro police lieutenant said there was a "terrific amount of pushing and shoving" and other eyewitnesses said some fistfighting occurred.

• • • •

POLICE moved in immediately to break up the mounting scuffle that erupted during a tense evening of racial demonstrations between Klansmen and young Negroes.

One nightclub-restaurant was integrated, but a Klan spokesman warned if the civil rights demonstrators entered the restaurant again, "We'll go down and demonstrate, too."

The demonstration took place before Leb's Restaurant, integrated by five Negroes, and Leb's Downtown Motel. The scuffle erupted in front of the motel, then the demonstrators moved back to Leb's Restaurant, the focal point of the demonstration earlier in the night.

The scuffle that saw the whites and Negroes shove, push and exchange a few blows lasted about one minute before police broke it up.

• • • •

THE EVENING'S demonstration of jeering Negroes and Klansmen, some robed and others in white plastic helmets and red armbands —members of a "security patrol" — took place while city officials hosted a United Nations group in town for the weekend to examine Atlanta's racial situation.

Satellite Sighted Over L.B.

A glittering new manmade star — the balloon-satellite Echo 2—twice transited the Long Beach sky Saturday night while circling the globe.

Passing overhead at 6:09 and 7:58 p.m., the satellite, 135 feet in diameter, appeared here as a slow-moving, star-like object. Echo 2 also crossed at 3:48 and 5:36 this morning.

• • • •

POPPING open in space some 800 miles above South Africa Saturday morning the balloon became the largest artificial moonlet ever launched and was expected to be seen by more people than any other object ever made by man.

It was sent up from California's Vandenberg Air Force Base.

The United States and Russia have agreed to try to bounce radio signals off its reflective aluminum-foil skin in the first joint experiment in communications via space between the two powers. A date for the first tests has not been set.

THE HUGE BALLOON was carried aloft folded in a 30x40-inch pod in the nose of a Thor-Agena B booster at 5:59 a.m.

The U.S. space agency said a timetable of visibility in major cities would be announced today after the pre-

Parley Set on Phone Walkout

The Federal Mediation Service announced Saturday the scheduling of a Feb. 1 meeting in Washington between the president of General Telephone and Electronics Corp., parent firm of General Telephone Co. of California, and the president of the striking Communications Workers of America in an attempt to break the 100-day-old work stoppage.

William R. Simkin, director of the mediation service, in a wire to officials of the company and union, said, "The public interest demands that the parties exhaust every means available to reach a prompt and equitable settlement of this dispute."

The move by Simkin came on the heels of an announcement Thursday by federal mediator E. Marvin Sconyer that he was suspending all local mediation sessions. Sconyer said he hadn't been able to make any progress.

DONOR REVEALED

Heart From Chimpanzee Transplanted Into Man

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The heart of a large chimpanzee was used in the first known heart transplant into a human being at the University of Mississippi Medical Center last week, it was revealed Saturday.

A team of surgeons at the center here carried out the trail-blazing operation Thursday night but the organ failed within an hour because it was too small for the human recipient.

The center, in disclosing the operation Friday, never revealed where the heart came from. It was disclosed Saturday by a hospital spokesman that a large chimpanzee's heart was used.

• • • •

A HOSPITAL spokesman said the heart was transplanted into a man dying of terminal heart failure.

The spokesman said the plan was to transplant a human heart from a human donor, dead of brain damage, but the clinical course of the two patients did not coincide.

The recipient, who was not identified, went into collapse and the surgical team used the heart of the chimpanzee, kept in reserve for this purpose, the spokesman said.

Chimpanzee kidneys have been transplanted into humans in operations elsewhere.

Dr. James D. Hardy, head of the Department of Surgery, was the chief surgeon on the 11-man team which performed the three-hour operation.

• • • •

HE WAS in charge of the team which performed the first successful lung transplant at the medical center last June. Hardy has been in charge of surgery since the center opened in 1955.

Others on the team were: Dr. W. A. Neely, associate professor of surgery; Drs. Fred Kurrus, Carlos Chavez and Robert Williams, surgery residents; Dr. Leonard W. Fabian, professor of anesthesiology; Dr. Milton York, assistant professor of anesthesiology; Thaddeus B. Labecki, clinical professor of medicine, cardiology consultant; Dr. M. Don Turner, physiologist; Helen Carr, heart-lung pump technician; Joyce Caracci and Ruby Nell Winters, suture nurses.

State Demo Chiefs Evade Engle Stand

By BOB HOUSER
L-P-T Political Editor

State Democratic officials Saturday opened the party's U.S. Senate nomination to all comers, at the same time declining to "pass judgment" on incumbent Clair Engle's medical status.

State Democratic Chairman Eugene L. Wyman read to newsmen a 158-word statement composed in an hour-long, closed-door meeting of the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee in the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles.

Wyman and other party leaders had given Engle an ultimatum Jan. 10 to disclose fully his medical condition by Saturday's meeting. The senator's physician, Dr. Roy L. Sexton, gave assurances Wednesday that Engle could campaign and serve but it was not the full disclosure that party leaders had requested.

But Saturday's committee action abandoned the demand for further medical evidence of Engle's recovery from his Aug. 24 brain surgery and, referring to Dr. Sexton's assurances, noted:

"It is not the executive committee's function to pass judgment on this in-

Spain May Build Ships for Castro

MADRID (AP)—Spain sent one of its top naval constructors to Havana Saturday and reliable sources said his trip was to close a deal to build freighters and fishing ships for the Castro regime.

The deal would mark a major assist in Prime Minister Castro's efforts to shake off the effects of the U.S. economic boycott. It follows the recent British sale to Cuba of buses, a move strongly opposed by the United States.

Magin Ferrer, head of the technical and commercial division of Spanish Naval Constructors, flew to Havana on a Spanish airliner due to arrive today.

La Gazeta del Norte, the leading newspaper in Bilbao, said the Spanish government has approved construction of ships for Cuba worth $30 million.

Police Kill 4 to Quell Riot

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Police killed four rioters and wounded eight Saturday in the Kashmir capital of Srinagar when tear gas failed to break up a stone-throwing mob demonstrating against the government, the Indian News Agency reported.

New Delhi newspapers said nine persons were killed.

WHOLE TOWN GREETS JACK'S GIRL FRIEND--LUCY JOHNSON

MAIDEN ROCK, Wis. (AP)—Maiden Rock turned out nearly all its 183 citizens Saturday to welcome President Johnson's younger daughter to the hometown of her boyfriend, Jack Olson.

Lucy Baines Johnson, 16, accepted a bouquet of roses and merchants' gifts from Village President Henry Lark, shook hands and chatted with the smiling townspeople.

"We're so glad to see you here," Lark told the attractive brunette as she stood on the steps of the First National Bank building with Olson and his mother, Mrs. Howard C. Olson.

"Thank you, thank you, I appreciate it very much," Lucy replied.

A banner hanging across the street and twisted by a chill wind carried the message, "Welcome, Lucy, to Maiden Rock."

Lark, 64, a carpenter, patted Miss Johnson on the shoulder and they posed for pictures with the Olsons.

Townspeople laughed and shouted comments as they crowded around the bank steps.

"She's cute," commented one youngster.

"I'll never wash this hand again," said another who had just shaken hands with the President's daughter.

The President's daughter met a Maiden Rock resident with a similar name—Mrs. Lucy Benita Johnson, a housewife who commented, "She's a real nice little girl."

Lucy and Jack drove here, with their ever-present Secret Service escort, to enjoy a ham dinner with Jack's parents and his six brothers and sisters.

The young couple is spending the weekend at Rochester, Minn., with Dr. and Mrs. James Cain, longtime friends of the Johnson family. Maiden Rock is about 50 miles away, just across the Mississippi River in Wisconsin.

L.A.C. Says:

Wonderful--If We Can Pay For It

Our welfare state program is already costing almost as much as our defense program. Since 1950 it has increased from $13 billion a year to $44 billion and it is going up annually. It is a wonderful program which gives old age pensions—unemployment insurance and numerous other benefits. But it is reaching a point where the spiraling increases are endangering the programs and the nation's economy.

* * *

An idea of these increases is shown by the cost of Social Security alone. The S.S. tax on payrolls started at one per cent for each worker and employer on the first $3,000 income—that meant $60 a year total. Today this total tax is 7.25 per cent on the first $4,800. It goes up in 1966 and to 9.25 per cent by 1968. If the medical care for the aged program is added, it will come close to 10 per cent of each payroll up to $5,200 a year. That will mean over $500 a year tax on each $5,200 a year pay check.

* * *

But Social Security accounts for only about a third of the welfare bills for the nation. The cost of unemployment insurance—pensions for the military—government and railroad workers runs into billions of dollars a year. Welfare payments to families cost California counties almost half of the taxes they collect from property owners.

An idea of the attitude of some relief administrators was given in New York City where legalized bookmaking is demanded by Mayor Wagner. It would make it easy to bet on the races in city booking offices. The administrator was asked whether it would be all right for welfare recipients to use relief payments to bet on the horses. His reply was—the law does not stipulate what they do with their money—he continued: "I do not believe in the double standard—if the wealthy can wager the same right goes to those who are not wealthy."

The welfare programs got their big impetus in 1933 when the New Deal started them. In the depth of depression in 1935 the cost was about $3 billion—when unemployment was three times the present percentage. Then, year after year, it was extended with added benefits until today we find old age pensions under Social Security endangered. The reserve is far below what is needed for safety. It is apparent future generations must pay much higher taxes if those covered now are to receive what is promised them.

A comparison is shown in that, while we are spending $44 billion on welfare, we are spending half that amount on our total school budgets. It is apparent both of these programs are going to increase year by year. School costs will increase because of our high birth rate and better pay for teachers and more elaborate buildings. The welfare program costs will increase because legislators continually promise greater benefits for the constituents who have come to expect and demand them.

These are programs that bring about socialism. That would be acceptable if it had ever worked—in any country or in history. But, wherever it has been tried—as at present in Russia—it has resulted in stagnation of the productive capacity of the nation. This is now being proven by the failure of Russia's state-owned and directed farm program. It may be said Russia is a dictatorship which is true but where government controls all the activities of a nation, dictatorship is natural.

This is why the United States must restrict its welfare programs to essential things the people cannot provide for themselves. We must encourage people to provide more for their old age, rather than calling for ever greater benefits from government. We need to insist that welfare recipients work for what they get if physically able to do so. These are among our greatest increases in welfare costs. We are reaching a point where our people cannot afford the continued increase in costs of these programs.—L.A.C.

Wilmington Youth Shot

A Wilmington high school student was rushed to Harbor General Hospital in critical condition Saturday when he was accidentally shot in the face at the home of a friend who was showing him a revolver, Harbor Division police reported.

The victim, David Otis, 16, of 117½ E. N St., was struck when a .38-caliber revolver held by Wayman Reynolds, 19, of 917½ Banning Blvd., fired while he was removing it from a drawer, said Det. Sgt. Wayne Butts.

The gun was acquired the day before by Reynold's father, John, as collateral for a loan, Butts said.

Panamanian Talk Rules Said Near

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Panama were reported Saturday right close to agreement on a formula to resume diplomatic relations and begin talks aimed at resolving differences over the Panama Canal.

The formula would call for talks "without any limitations" on U.S.-Panama disputes, beginning 15 days after diplomatic relations are restored.

It was embodied in a draft communique agreed on by U.S. and Panamanian negotiators here and submitted to the two governments for study, informed sources said.

* * * *

NEGOTIATORS met for more than six hours Saturday with the Inter-American Peace Committee appointed by the Organization of American States, then adjourned to consult their governments. They planned to meet again this morning.

Panama broke relations with the United States eight days ago, after an earlier accord collapsed in a dispute over whether the United States had agreed to "negotiate" changes in the Canal Zone treaty or merely to "discuss" differences.

Negotiators apparently took extreme care in writing the communique this time to be sure that both sides interpreted it the same way. At one point, they sent out for an unabridged dictionary.

* * * *

THEY AGREED to include both the words "negotiate" and "discuss" in the new agreement.

President Johnson earlier expressed cautious optimism about the outcome of the talks.

The last stumbling block in Saturday's talks was understood to have been Panama's insistence that the agreement say ambassadors of the two parties would meet to "negotiate in good faith and without delay new conventions relative to the Panama Canal which may substitute for the existing agreements."

Meeting Today Ends Assembly of Witnesses

Jehovah's Witnesses conclude their Southern California Circuit Assembly today in the Municipal Auditorium with a public meeting and address at 3 p.m. by the Western coordinator, Theodore Jaracz.

Jaracz will speak on "The Bible Triumphs in a Scientific World."

There have been 2,000 delegates on hand since Friday, going into all phases of work.

"The primary objective of the assembly was to equip our people better to feed Jehovah's sheep," Irvin Johnson, local chairman, said Saturday.

City Still Seeks Park-Plan Help

Long Beach will make another effort to get outside governmental help in the development of the 470-acre section of El Dorado Park east of the San Gabriel River.

Acting on directions of the City Council, City Manager John R. Mansell broached the subject last week in letters to official agencies of the state, Los Angeles and Orange counties and the city of Lakewood.

Whatever the outcome, the city administration will not accept earlier suggestions from Los Angeles County officials for development of a regional golf course in the area.

* * * *

MANSELL said his staff dropped earlier discussions with the County Park and Recreation Department because of the latter's insistence on a golf course as a condition for county aid.

Councilmen directed that the new attempt be broadened to include Orange County and Lakewood because many residents of those areas will be served by a developed park. State aid is regarded as only a remote possibility.

* * * *

THE COUNCIL has so far refused to place the park development on the agenda for budget discussions next June or July. But some councilmen, among them James A. Hayes and Raymond C. Kealer, are predicting it will come up just the same when the budget-making reaches the subject of public improvements.

Councilman Robert F. Crow estimated that an outlay of $4 million to $6 million will be necessary for development according to the master plan approved by the council in 1957.

Other officials, not yet ready to be quoted for the record, said they will support the submission of a bond-issue proposition if alternate sources of financing fail.

* * * *

CITY HALL attention is being focused on the long-delayed park development because of dozens of letters in recent months from community organizations urging that the improvement plan be activated.

Among the groups sparking the campaign are the Community Welfare Council and Parent-Teacher organizations.

Almost without exception, they have advocated adherence to the woodland type of development envisioned in the 1957 plan. This type of improvement would open the way for camp activities, a nature-study center, picnic areas and similar facilities. It would exclude a golf course or a baseball stadium.

* * * *

A $450,000 allotment for El Dorado Park East was included in the original allocation of the $29,219,000 bond funds approved in 1956. Subsequently the council transferred the $450,000 to expedite development of El Dorado West, including the new golf course there.

The only parklike improvement in the easterly expanse of park land, extending from the so-called butt end of the Shotgun Strip south of Carson Street to the junction of Coyote Creek and the San Gabriel River, is the 30-acre city tree farm.

City Manager Mansell said he hopes an improvement plan will be formulated on a scale and schedule to place the idle land in condition for public use "within the next few years, not by some future generation."

Masseuse Tied, Robbed of $60

A gunman who tied the owner of Jean's Massage Studio, 525 E. Pacific Coast Hwy, with adhesive tape escaped carrying about $60 in cash Saturday afternoon.

The victim, Jean M. Travine, 28, said the robber drew a gun from his belt and ordered her into a room at the rear of the studio, taped her hands behind her back and fastened them to her ankles.

She broke loose and ran to the street for help shortly after the bandit took the money from a cash drawer and left.

Saucer Will Probe Depths Off Coast

By LOU JOBST

Scientists plan to ride a French-built underwater saucer to the bottom of the sea off Southern California.

They'll be diving in a 7,000-pound dish-shaped submersible designed and built by Jacques-Yves Cousteau, inventor of the aqualung and world-renowned undersea adventurer and explorer.

The bright yellow two-man deep-diving machine —leased by Westinghouse Corp. at a cost of $2,000 a day—winged into Los Alamitos Naval Air Station from Marseilles, France, Friday aboard a giant MATS C124 cargo plane and was transferred to a marine research ship, Surf Tide, at Long Beach Harbor.

Making the 6,000-mile flight were three of Cousteau's celebrated oceanauts including stocky, dark-eyed Albert Falco, pilot of the craft. He has taken it down to 1,000-feet.

Falco was one of seven men including the 53-year-old Cousteau who spent a month last year living in an underwater village at the bottom of the Red Sea.

• • • •

THE MUCH PUBLICIZED feat earned the nickname of "homo aquaticus," or "fish men," for Cousteau and his crew.

During the five-week Southern California sojourn of the saucer, the Cousteau men will assist the Americans in surface and subsurface operations of the craft.

Tom Horton of Westinghouse's Underseas division said the 10-foot-diameter dish, named the Denise for the shipbuilder's wife, will make about 60 dives here.

The Denise, equipped with elaborate electronic equipment, cameras, powerful floodlamps and a mechanical arm, will be operated, successively, by the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, Westinghouse and the U.S. Navy.

All of the programmed dives will be made on the Continental Shelf with at least one to 1,000 feet planned. This will be a look at the bottom of the so-called Scripps Submarine Canyon north of Point Loma.

• • • •

THE SAUCER ALSO WILL be on display during Gov. Brown's international Conference on California and the World Ocean Friday and Saturday at the Los Angeles Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park.

Among those who will present papers to the conference are Cousteau; Dr. Edward Wenk, one of President Johnson's science advisors; Dr. H. J. Dunster, official of the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority; Dr. Hiroshi Kasahara, fisheries and oceanography project officer for the United Nations Special Fund; Dr. Francis Christy, officer of Resources For Future, Inc.; and several other eminent authorities on the ocean sciences.

The conference—called the "greatest concentration of oceanographic brains in western U.S. history"—will take up a wide range of subjects including world fishing rights, offshore oil exploration, seaside location of nuclear power plants and seawater conversion.

• • • •

THE COUSTEAU SAUCER, christened and launched in 1959 and a veteran of more than 120 dives, is really two dish-shaped sections of ¾-inch steel fastened together and covered with a cowling.

Demise dives and rises by adding and jettisoning ballast which is composed of 510 pounds of metal weights and 270 pounds of mercury. In a dire emergency about 200 pounds of batteries which are used to power the saucer's hydrojet drive and electronic paraphernalia can also be dropped.

There are two water jets installed on each side of the bug-eyed face of the contraption. These jets can be moved in full 360-degree arcs, providing the saucer with up-and-down and lateral movement. Point the nozzles down and the saucer rises, vice versa and it dives.

There are two close-set portholes in the face for observation. The pilot and observer lie behind these on foam rubber mats. They wear bathing suits in warm water excursions and coveralls in dives to cold depths.

Emergency escape gear carried inside the saucer include aqualungs, lifejackets and an inflatable life raft.

The divers figure they can leave the saucer via a topside hatch, if trapped on the bottom, by raising the air pressure inside the craft to a point equalling the water pressure outside. Such a technique is pure theory, however.

Denise has had a number of close calls and Falco once had to jettision the craft's 400-pound emergency weight to pull free of the bottom and pass up through a layer of dense cold water in a dive in the Mediterranean.

Unmanned tests have shown the Cousteau saucer, capable of 1½ knots submerged, can operate "safely" at depths up to 3,300 feet.

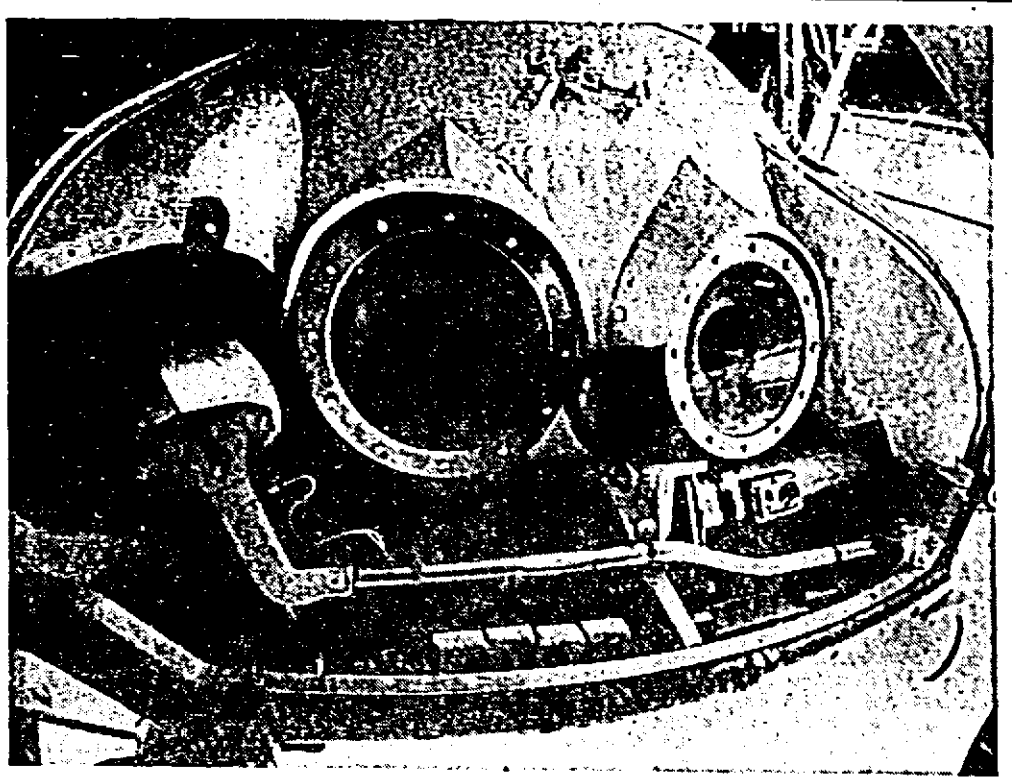

The French submersible is the prototype for a larger research submarine being built by Westinghouse Corp. Known as the Deepstar, the $500,000 Westinghouse craft will be 17 feet in diameter and capable of carrying three men to depths of 12,000 feet.

It is due to be completed this fall.

Glenn Minard of 5430 Walton St., Long Beach, a retired Navy diver who worked on the super-secret Polaris missile program, is expected to become a pilot of the Deepstar. Minard is in charge of surface operations and logistics aboard the Surf Tide.

"This is really a new concept in scientific research," said one project scientist.

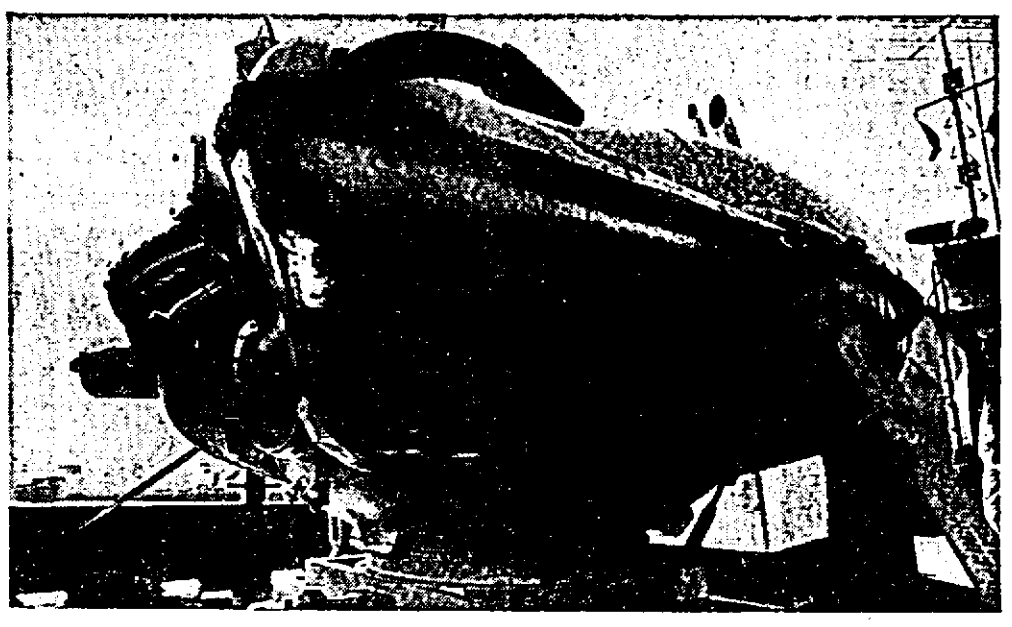

"This proves that we have an invaluable ocean research and exploration tool which can be transported and put into operation anywhere in the world in a matter of a few hours."

Kennedy Continues Talks With British

LONDON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy visited the grave of his sister in northern England Saturday, then prepared to resume talks with British officials on his Malaysia peace mission.

In talks set for today, the brother of the late President was expected to try to convince British leaders of his belief that President Sukarno of Indonesia will live up to a cease-fire in the jungle isle of Borneo.

• • • •

KENNEDY will be a luncheon guest at Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's official country residence at Chequers. Also there will be Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler, Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, Defense Minister Peter Thorneycroft and U.S. Ambassador David Bruce.

The 38-year-old attorney general arrived in London Friday after reaching the cease-fire agreement with Sukarno during a whirlwind week of negotiation in Asia.

The cease-fire becomes effective in nine days. By then the foreign ministers of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines will be ready to get together for a conference to end the Malaysian-Indonesian dispute.

• • • •

THE BRITISH, whose troops are defending the Malaysian border, still are skeptical of Sukarno's promises.

Kennedy has no intention of raising the possibility of the withdrawal of British troops.

2 in Cabin Succumb to Smoke

BIG BEAR CITY (AP) — A high school honor student and her grandmother died, apparently from asphyxiation, early Saturday in their mountain cabin.

Sheriff's deputies said Lorraine Gaertner, 17, and Mrs. Zella Mae Leacock, 81, apparently succumbed from smoke which filled the cabin from smoldering clothing.

The clothing was ignited by an electric heater, said deputies. Windows of the cabin were closed tightly against the cold mountain night.

• • • •

A NEIGHBOR discovered the bodies in the smoke-filled cabin.

Sheriff's Deputy Jack H. Cox said the victims were mother and daughter of Mrs. Helen Gaertner, who telephoned from Indiana a short time after the bodies were discovered.

Mrs. Gaertner phoned to tell the woman that a relative she had been nursing in Indiana had just died, said Cox. He informed her of the women's deaths.

PARENTS PRAISE NEW PIANO PLAN

Prompted by the enthusiastic response of parents to the new "Lessons only" piano plan the studios of "the MUSI-CAL" announced today that the plan will be extended until their supply of spinet pianos runs out.

Simply stated, the plan is this: you pay for the lessons, the piano is free. This plan and the high quality of instruction at "the MUSI-CAL" has added many young pianists to the Long Beach scene in recent months. Interested parties should call "the MUSI-CAL" as soon as possible. The remaining pianos will be sent out on a first-come first-served basis.

SIGHTED IN AREA

Subs May Freight Arms to Viet Reds

CA MAU, South Viet Nam (AP)—Officials are studying reports here that Communist submarines have been sighted six or seven times in the past few weeks off the southern tip of Viet Nam.

The reports have come from peasants in the area, and officials are not discounting the possibility that the sightings may only have been whales or large fish. But according to some reports, lights were seen on the objects just before they submerged.

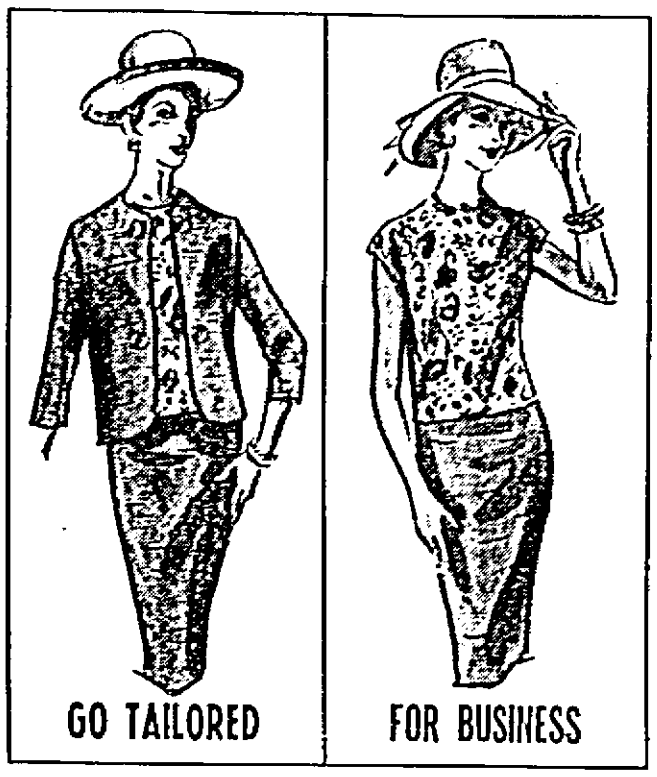

Communist - made arms, ammunition and supplies have been reaching Viet Cong guerrillas in this area in large quantities in recent months, and it is speculated some of these supplies must be coming by sea.

The southern tip of Viet Nam is mostly ringed by dense mangrove swamps and forests, and is almost impossible to patrol effectively. Almost all the area is controlled by the Viet Cong, making government patrols more difficult and dangerous.

South Viet Nam's coasts are guarded by modern patrol and landing craft, and a fleet of several thousand armed junks. Government patrol boats check all suspect vessels near the coasts.

L.B. PATHOLOGISTS' SPACE-AGE WONDERLAND

New Clinical Lab Fantastic

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Something new has been added at Memorial Hospital of Long Beach: a spacious wonderland of glass, plastics, electronic gear and automated instruments, all designed to explore medical science's "inner world."

Hard by the nation's first space-age hospital at 2801 Atlantic Ave., this fascinating complex of scientific equipment is housed in a new four-level annex that cost $600,000 to build and equip. It's Memorial's new clinical laboratory, and it's the largest facility of its kind west of the Rocky Mountains.

It is dedicated to modern pathology's concept that pathology's main concern today is the cure of disease and the prolongation of life rather than the old approach of merely determining the reason for a life's ending.

The pathologist's challenge today is to keep abreast of the dynamic changes produced by disease in the living body. His main task is to report and interpret his findings to the patient's physician. Thus the pathologist is known as the doctor's doctor.

• • • •

IN DESIGNING and equipping this new lab, the doctors' doctors at Memorial have pulled out all the stops.

Memorial's new department of pathology features a myriad of precision instruments. A sea of glass instruments immediately meets the eye. You see also arrays of microscopes (28 in all), incubators, shaking devices, cameras, refrigerated tissue-cutters, centrifuges, analyzers, electronic balances capable of weighing to one ten-thousandth of a gram and the ever-present test tube (Memorial uses 5,000 a day).

Although automation is very much in evidence, the lab still swarms with skilled white-uniformed medical technologists and white-coated physicians.

There are eight medical doctors — four pathologists and four pathology residents —as well as two scientists with Ph. D. degrees. Other personnel include 35 medical technologists, three laboratory technicians, five laboratory aides, 10 student medical technologists, two blood-bank - certification students, four medical stenographers, one medical secretary and six clerks.

• • • •

IT IS THE realm of medicine's elite science, the place of the "final diagnosis."

Right now 1,000 medical tests are being performed here daily, but, on demand, that number could be doubled, according to Dr. Elmer R. Jennings, director of laboratories for Memorial.

Here, chemistry is not just a room behind a sign, "Chemistry." In Memorial you'll find signs such as "General Chemistry," "Developmental Chemistry," "Special Chemistry."

In Developmental Chemistry, scientists are hard at work developing improved methods of laboratory medicine. Here, too, medical residents and medical technology students receive special training. Typical device in Developmental Chemistry is an automatic recording instrument called the spectrophotometer. One of its uses is to determine the blood level of barbiturates in cases of barbituate poisoning.

In Special Chemistry, there is a device to analyze hormones, those powerful internal secretions in the body that regulate various organs. An instrument called the fluorometer measures fluorescent materials in blood or urine to give the physician special information.

• • • •

measures proteins in the blood; the flame auto analyzer, which shows the content of important chemical elements in body fluids.

It's a pushbutton world here. Distilled water isn't

TECHNOLOGISTS in blood laboratory study specimens on three of Memorial's 28 microscopes.

Example: the dual auto analyzer, which can handle 40 blood samples an hour to determine concentrations of sugar and urea, the latter a substance that tells how efficiently the kidneys are functioning. The technologist puts in the samples, starts the instrument, returns one hour later to read the results.

There's also the fibrometer, which measures prothrombin, a factor involved in the blood's clotting mechanism; the total protein meter, which hand-poured from plastic bottles. Rather it comes steaming through 10 tin-lined pipes from a master tank.

On another level in the 20,000-square-foot building is the Blood Department. Here a superdeepfree unit (minus 121° F.) preserves plasma and other blood components. Cold? Well, the standard household freezer drops only to minus 4° F.

A large walk-in refrigerator houses the hospital's blood supplies. Even the centrifuge used here is refrigerated.

• • • •

THE REVOLUTIONARY new process known as plasmapheresis now is commonplace in Memorial's lab. Blood is extracted from donors, certain components are removed, and then the donor's red cells are returned to him within the hour. Significance: a donor can give blood more often than hitherto possible.

A blood-donor room, with specially designed reclining contour chairs, is a new feature of the lab. It will be open evenings to accommodate donors who work days.

Automated devices count red cells and white cells with amazing accuracy.

A special lab has been set up to perform studies dealing with bloodclotting, a factor of utmost importance in coronary disease, stroke and blood disorders such as hemophilia.

From 175 to 200 blood specimens are drawn daily for tests at Memorial.

• • • •

ONE OF THE most outstanding features of the new lab is the new Microbiology Department, with special divisions for the study of bacteria, fungi, parasites and viruses.

The virus section, to be known as the James K. Wood Virology Laboratory, is the only one of its kind in Long Beach. Technologists here will attempt to identify viruses, a herculean task since more and more viruses are being linked with diseases.

In the virus lab is a special freezer for specimens. Its temperature drops as low as minus 94° F.

Work desks in the bacteriology section have special out-draft vents to draw micro-organisms away from the worker in an effort to prevent contamination and possible infection.

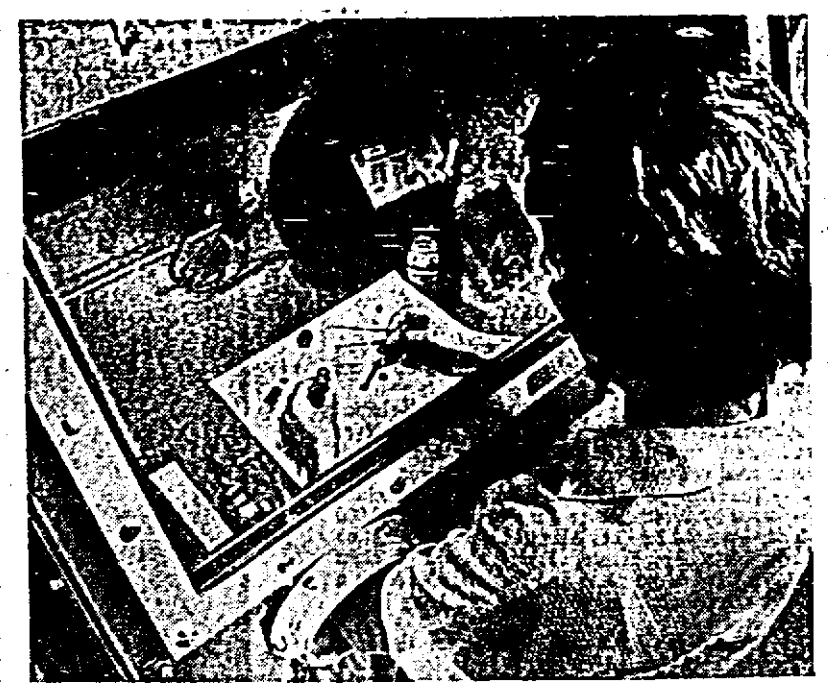

In the tissue-study areas are two cryostats, refrigerated devices in which tissue specimens are thinly sliced for microscopic study. Microscopes line the room. Nine dictating instruments are scattered throughout the area to record the reports of examiners.

• • • •

THERE ARE the other usual departments found in a pathology lab: histology, involving the staining of thin tissue slices for microscopic study; cystology, for the examination of smears of body fluids for abnormal cells, helpful in the diagnosis of certain cancers; urinalysis, the chemical and microscopic examination of urine; immunology, involving the detection of antibodies in blood plasma to identify certain diseases, and the admitting laboratory, which accommodates new patients as they check into the hospital.

The science of pathology stems from the studies of Rudolph Virchow, a German physician, in the middle of the 19th century, and Louis Pasteur, at the end of that century. The first pathology lab in the United States was established in New York City less than 100 years ago—in 1878 at Bellevue Hospital Medical College by William Henry Welch, who studied under Virchow's pupil, Julius Cohnheim of Breslau.

Virchow, Pasteur, Cohnheim, Welch — if they saw Memorial's new lab today, they wouldn't recognize the place.

Holmes Takes Helm of U.S. First Fleet

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Vice Adm. Ephraim P. Holmes Saturday relieved Vice Adm. R. T. S. Keith as commander of the First Fleet at a ceremony aboard the heavy cruiser USS St. Paul.

Holmes formerly commanded the Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force. Keith faced assignment to the Naval Hospital here, where he has been under treatment for a heart attack suffered last December.

Rusk Holds Talks With Japanese

TOKYO, Sunday (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira plunged into an unscheduled series of conferences today, apparently to discuss France's forthcoming recognition of Communist China.

Rusk arrived here Saturday at the head of an 18-member U.S. delegation that included Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and Walter W. Heller, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers.

The purpose of the trip was the Third Annual Japanese-American Trade and Economic Conference, but today's session between Rusk and Ohira emphasized the importance to both countries of President Charles de Gaulle's announced intention to establish diplomatic ties with the Peking regime.

• • • •

DISCUSSION of the French action was not on the publicly announced agenda.

The economic-trade conference was not scheduled to start until Monday.

Rusk had been en route to Tokyo for the conference last November when news of the assassination of President Kennedy reached his plane over the Pacific Ocean. The jet turned back to Washington.

The secretary of state and his delegation arrived here Saturday and he hailed Japan as "a strong and virgorous member of the free world."

• • • •

OHIRO greeted the Americans at Tokyo Airport and told Rusk, "The world now seems to be coming to a turning point, both politically and economically.

"Standing as our two countries do in the moving tide of world developments, we, both Japan and the United States, need to make renewed efforts for the peace of the world and the welfare of mankind.

"We confidently expect that the present meeting will, as did the two previous ones, mark another step forward in the strengthening of the already close relationships between Japan and the United States."

• • • •

RUSK TOLD Ohira that President Johnson had taken over leadership of the United States "with a steady hand and a clear mind." He thanked the Japanese people for their expressions of sympathy over Kennedy's death, calling them "a great comfort and strength to all of us Americans."

PRESIDENT GREETS NEWLYWEDS
President Johnson chats with Paul Eugene Sigmund and his bride, Barbara, at their wedding reception in Washington Saturday. She is the daughter of Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La. He is a Princeton University professor.

about the decision of the French to grant diplomatic recognition to Red China. He acknowledged that the question was "a matter for the French government" but said the United States has made its concern known to French President Charles de Gaulle. Johnson declined to go into details on the U.S. views.

—Expressed belief that the differences of opinion that brought on the crisis between the United States and Panama can be "reasoned out." He voiced hope the Panamanian government will resume diplomatic relations quickly so discussions can begin.

—Reported he feels that Congress has done "a pretty good job." He is hoping for Senate action on the $11.5-billion tax-cut bill and House passage of the civil-rights bill before Congress takes a break Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12.

— Announced he will meet with Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and other congressional critics of the foreign-aid program to get "constructive opinions on how it can be improved."

—Left it entirely to the Senate preparedness subcommittee to decide whether to hold a full-scale investigation of U.S. missile preparedness, as demanded by Goldwater.

Said his administration is "hoping and praying and working very hard" in its efforts to work out differences with the Soviet Union over disarmament. Johnson had been asked if there could be a compromise with the Kremlin on his proposal to restrict the spread of nuclear weapons.

—Observe that the United States has made "very clear" opposition to the recent $11-million sale of British buses to Communist Premier Fidel Castro's Cuba.

—Announced that he has assigned the rank of ambassador to Teodoro Moscoso while he serves as U.S representative on the Inter-American Economic and Social Council of the Organization of American States.

Johnson closed the door on his further discussing the Baker case as the Senate Rules Committee announced that it would resume hearings Tuesday. Special Counsel L. P. McLendon said that Max H. Karl, president of a midwestern mortgage-insurance firm involved with Baker, would be the witness.

In another development, Sen. Frank Church, whose name was mentioned in the Baker inquiry, declared that he has never been involved "in any way whatsoever" in the business or financial transactions of the former senate official.

LBJ Adds to Nuptial Confusion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson took time off from the White House Saturday to wish a bride well —and add more commotion to a wedding party.

Johnson attended the reception following the wedding of Barbara Boggs, daughter of Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, to Dr. Paul Sigmund Jr., associate professor of political science at Princeton.

The President arrived late at Boggs' Maryland home, but made his way to the receiving line and was applauded as he went through, complimenting pretty girls and kissing newswomen. He murmured something to the bride, but she did not say what the message was.

• • • •

IN INFORMAL remarks to the reception guests later, Johnson said his own marriage has been happy and added, "I hope Barbara and her young man will find it the same way."

The couple was married at a 12:30 p.m. ceremony at the Shrine of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Demo Chiefs Throw Open Senate Nomination Race

formation or to determine who should nor should not declare for public office . . . We believe that within the spirit of the democratic process the public should appraise the qualification of any and all candidates who shall seek the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate."

Although the state committee is forbidden by law to take sides in primary contests, a statement of unequivocal satisfation with Engle's recovery might have deterred other aspirants. One Engle campaigner was dissatisfied, complaining that the committee had failed to close ranks behind Engle.

• • • •

BUT MRS. Edna Weisbart, special consultant to Engle, representing him at the committee meeting while he and Mrs. Engle are on a "sun and sand" vacation of undisclosed locale, expressed favorable reaction to the statement and to a committee resolution praying for his swift and full recovery.

Mrs. Weisbart said she did not construe the statement as an invitation for others to enter the race against Engle.

Although Wyman said he would reveal no details of what happened in the closed-door meeting, Mrs. Weisbart said there was no talk in the meeting of withholding support from the senator.

• • • •

SHE ADDED that Engle now is walking without a cane, is getting more feeling in his heretofore paralyzed right hand, has improved notably in the past two weeks, has all his mental faculties and there is every reason to believe he will attend the California Democratic Council state convention Feb. 21-23 in the Long Beach Arena.

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk, who will announce his decision on entering the Senate race by Feb. 15, said he felt the committee had taken "a sound position. Final judgment on the qualifications, both as to ability and physical resources will be made by the electorate."

• • • •

BEFORE THE committee statement, Rep. James Roosevelt told newsmen he intends to be a candidate but will not decide irrevocably until mid February. He said his own appraisal of Engle's condition would be a factor in the decision but that he will campaign only on qualifications for the office and will not attack any other Democrat.

State Controller Alan Cranston, also considering the run, acknowledged that the decision would be "tough and delicate."

• • • •

OTHER prospective entrants include Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson and Assemblyman William B. Rumford, not present at the Saturday affair. Dewey Anderson, 66, an assemblyman in the mid-30s, has declared his candidacy.

U.S. Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of the late President, gave the main address before 2,000 Democrats divided into two Biltmore dining areas. He said Kennedys intend to stay in public life as long as there is a job to do.

• • • •

PART OF the job, he said, is achievement of the late President's principles and programs "and eradication of the hate and extremism that took him away."

He said California is important not only because of electoral size but to show the nation that the West "is not the stronghold of reaction but of progress; not the home of extremism but of common sense."

cise orbit is computed and compared with the earth's rotation.

Although Echo 2 is the largest satellite yet launched it is far from the heaviest. Its 535 pounds are virtually all plastic and aluminum-foil skin, except for a few pounds of small radio beacons to help scientists track the balloon on its circuits around the earth's poles.

• • • •

NASA spokesmen announced later that the launch was "almost right on the button." Echo 2 achieved an apogee (high point in orbit) of 816 state miles, a perigee (low point) of 642 miles, an orbital period of 109 minutes for each complete lap around the earth.

Hi Mom

With top hat, white tie, and tails, Momma penguin hatches a plot at Marineland designed to egg on the penguin population. Momma sits on the problem for 64 days while Poppa goes out to bring home the smelt. After three score and four days a new flapper comes forth to add to the population. In the past six years, 42 of these Humboldt penguins have been hatched at Marineland.

Giant Solid-Fuel Rocket Motor Successful in Test on Ground

COYOTE, Calif. (AP) — A rocket with one million pounds of thrust — world's largest solid propellant motor — was test fired in place for nearly two minutes Saturday.

Anchored nose down at United Technology Center's test site in the Diablo Mountains, the five-segment rocket stood 75 feet tall and weighed 250 tons.

• • • •

THE FIRING was a complete success, company and air force officials said.

From above, the exhaust of the rocket "looked like the mouth of Hades," said Ernest K. Bennett, Associated Press cameraman who viewed the test from a helicopter.

"The sky was overcast and the area quite dark," Bennett said, "but the plume of flame from the rocket brilliantly lighted the surrounding green hills.

"The flame, a bright yellowish orange, stood probably 100 feet high in an apparently solid mass. Above it rose a tower of white smoke.

"From the helicopter we could see many deer fleeing the area, apparently frightened by the roaring of the rocket.

"It was a truly magnificent spectacle."

• • • •

THE FIRST static firing of the huge motor—heavier than three diesel locomotives—was conducted last July 20. Another is scheduled at Coyote within two months. After that, static firings will be made at Edwards Air Force Base, United Technology spokesmen said.

When two of the rockets provide lift-off thrust of more than 2 million pounds for the Air Force Titan III C standard space launch vehicle, it will help hurl a payload of up to 25,000 pounds into orbit. Flight tests of the Titan III-C are scheduled for 1965 at Cape Kennedy.

Saturday's test demonstrated the way the rocket's steering control system will work in flight by deflecting the exhaust stream as a reactive fluid if fed into the exhaust nozzle.

Belgian Doctors Set Nationwide Strike

BRUSSELS (AP)—Thousands of Belgian doctors Saturday threatened to strike if the government refuses to withdraw its new health-insurance program.

2 Marines Shot; 3 Sailors Booked

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Two Camp Pendleton Marines, defending a comrade-in-arms, were shot in the chest in a brawl Saturday in front of a nightclub, police said.

Listed in satisfactory condition at Balboa Naval Hospital after surgery were Cpl. Arthur C. Manzano, 24, attached to the 1st Tank Battalion, and Pvt. Clyde J. Martinelli, 31, of the 1st Marine Division.

Three sailors were arrested after the 12:45 a.m. shooting in the 1200 block of Fourth Avenue and booked on suspicion of assault with intent to cause great bodily harm.

POLICE LT. William Schenck identified the suspects as Rosito Mota Mojica, 24; Jose Gonzales Magpayo Jr., 26, and Restituto Legaspy Domingo, 25.

"We still don't know who shot Manzano and Martinelli," Schenck said. "The three suspects are believed to have been involved in the fight."

Police were investigating to determine if more persons were involved.

Witnesses said the brawl started over an unidentified woman.

Lance Cpl. John Winch of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot had stepped into an argument on the side of a woman when one of the three suspects told him to stay out of it, Schenck said. Winch was hit in the face, knocked down and pummeled.

• • • •

MANZANO and Martinelli drove by in a car, stopped and went to his aid, he said.

Witnesses told police after the shots the suspects fled in different directions.

A private patrolman at the Blue Note Night Club, Charles Ogier, pursued and brought back Magpayo to the scene where he was arrested. The other two were caught by police.

Mojica is a third class steward stationed aboard the guided missile destroyer Buchanan. Magpayo and Domingo are seamen assigned to squadrons at Miramar Naval Air Station.

New Savings Bond Shows JFK Portrait

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The treasury will issue a new U.S. Savings Bond beginning May 1 bearing a portrait of the late President John F. Kennedy, the White House announced Saturday.

The "Series E" bond will be sold for $56.25 and will have a maturity value of $75.

Under Kennedy's picture will be this inscription from his inaugural address: "Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

The new bond will bring to eight the number of series E bond denominations, ranging from $25 to $10,000.

Red Buttons to Wed Buyer

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Red Buttons and Alicia Pratt Pagan, a buyer, took out a marriage license Saturday and said they plan to be married here onday.

The 44-year-old Buttons, who won an Academy Award in 1957 for his supporting role in "Sayonara," and his wife of 12 years, Helayne, were divorced last January. They had no children.

Miss Pagan's previous marriage ended in divorce in 1953. She is 36.

STATE TESTS AND INSPECTION ADVOCATED

Diving Expert Urges Safety Law

By JACK BALDWIN

"A diver experiencing narcosis—the rapture of the deep—in the company of other divers can be as dangerous to other people as a drunk driver on the freeway."

Such is the claim of underwater expert Lt. Commander Garland Suggs, ex-Navy "hard hat" master diver — three times decorated and commended 27 times, for his work below the surface.

Suggs, a "mustang" who rose from "boot" to top his 30-year Navy career as the captain of a diving and salvage vessel, wants the state to pass laws to protect the SCUBA diver as well as the commercial "hard hats."

• • • •

THE FORMER master diver says he knows of what he speaks because on several occasions he had heard the rap of death's knuckles against his own steel helmet.

The former commanding officer of the USS Mender, now living in retirement at 3841 Clark Ave., says the state should step in to enforce safety regulations concerning divers and their equipment.

"The state could enforce safety regulations for diving operations just as it does for dry-cleaning establishments, elevators, or automobile traffic," the ex-deep sea-diving authority claims.

• • • •

"FOR INSTANCE, I believe every skin diver should take a pressure-test dive at a simulated depth of 100 to 150 feet before he is permitted to make an ocean dive," says Suggs, for five years chief instructor at the Navy's diving school in Washington, D.C.

"Such a test dive would expose the diver to the danger of narcosis. A diver suffering narcosis acts just like he was drunk. On the ocean floor, 100 or more feet down, is no place for a diver to get 'drunk'," says the diving expert.

"MANY DIVERS attempt deep dives prematurely and without the proper indoctrination and training," the former instructor claims.

Supporting his contention is the victim of a first and near-fatal dive to 50 feet off Catalina last January by a 36-year-old Norwalk man, Mike Rodriquez of 14815 Doimart Avenue.

From his bed at the Little Company of Mary Hospital, Rodriquez told reporters he should not have been allowed to descend so deep on his first dive. Rodriquez, in company with two other SCUBA divers, ran out of air 50 feet down. Due to insufficient training in emergency procedures Rodriquez panicked during a "buddy breathing" rescue attempt and nearly cost the lives of himself and his two companions.

• • • •

IN URGING the state to take a hand in preventing diving accidents, Cmdr. Suggs basis his opinion on more than 2,500 hours spent beneath the surface. On seven occasions Suggs has been summoned to testify in court as an expert witness.

When the USS Squalus sank in 1939 in 242 feet of water the Navy divers made 650 dives with only one minor accident," Cmdr. Suggs claims. "This remarkable record was achieved only because the men were expertly trained and the equipment was in excellent condition."

• • • •

SUGGS SAYS that, while he does not expect civilian divers to receive training as extensive as the Navy's program nor be able to work with as modern equipment as does the Navy, he does feel the state has a "right" to step in to regulate divers and their equipment because an ill-equipped or improperly trained diver can endanger the lives of other divers.

"There are laws against drunk driving. There should be and can be laws against 'drunk diving'," claims Suggs.

Inspection by qualified state officials of equipment, diving schools, the divers themselves, instructors, and diving-gear tenders would reduce the number of deaths due to needless underwater mishaps, Cmdr. Suggs asserts.

• • • •

"MANY neophyte divers think that if they just don't go very deep they won't get in trouble. I had a boy die in my arms from air embolism coming up from only 14 feet down," the commander related.

Suggs, now 60, and with his white hair clipped as flat as a shoulder board, was one of the first 11 men in 1929 designated as master divers by the Navy. He is one of few divers to descend to 500 feet in the experimental testing of a helium-oxygen mixture used by divers working at great depths.

Los Alamitos Drive for Recall Begins

A Los Alamitos citizens' group announced Saturday it will begin circulating a petition for recall of three city councilmen this week.

At the same time, the group—known as Citizens for Fair Zoning Committee—disclosed the names of council candidates they will support against the trio should they gain enough signatures on the petitions.

Candidates are August B. LaBourdette, a planning commissioner; William S. Brown, former city councilman, and M. R. Rasmussen, volunteer fireman who works in Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Joe Hyde, committee chairman, said the group is entitled by law to begin circulating the petitions Thursday.

• • • •

"BUT OUR main drive for signatures will come next Saturday and Sunday," he said, "when we hope to have from 20 to 30 persons going from house to house."

The citizens' group must gain signatures of 25 percent of the 1,419 registered voters in Los Alamitos to put the recall issue on the ballot in April.

The group has served the three incumbents with notices of intent to circulate the petition, received their answers to the charges and Thursday published a legal notice of the proposed recall of Los Alamitos Councilmen Tim G. Pool, Clyde Byous and Eme R. Otte.

The recall battle stems from approval by the three of a proposed apartment development adjacent to Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Their three votes overrode the dissenting votes of Mayor James V. Bell and Councilman Charles Long.

Council approval of the project, however, was reversed in a special referendum election Dec. 17, forced by petitions of the Citizens for Fair Zoning Committee.

In the recall notice, the committee charges that the trio illegally used city funds in a publication to residents during the referendum election.

• • • •

THE COUNCILMEN retorted that the publication cost only $17 and was used to correct an alleged untruth in an argument published by the committee.

The committee also charged that the trio showed "contempt for the wishes of the voters" after defeat in the referendum by replacing Donald Dodd with Herbert Grant on the city planning commission.

Shouting Ovation Given Van Cliburn

By RACHEL MORTON

Van Cliburn, in a piano recital at Philharmonic Auditorium Friday night, lived up to his fabulous reputation and by the time he had finished the program the vast audience was shouting and standing in tribute.

This boyish-looking, tall young man became a musical sensation overnight after winning the Tschaikovsky Competition in Moscow in 1958. He has won many awards and competitions, the most important of which in America was the coveted Levintritt Award.

There is no denying that his is a great talent. His great hands and long fingers easily control the whole keyboard in astonishing feats and with prodigious power. The years will doubtless develop a deeper probing into the heart of the music.

• • • •

AN UNUSUAL opening of the program caused some bewilderment. Cliburn began the the first bars of our National Anthem and everyone stood. But instead of including the audience in the customary singing, he proceeded to make a piano solo of the number, with some novel effects. It is to be questioned if this was in good taste.

Intermezzo No. 1 by Brahms was interpreted with too much dramatic fervor and No. 2 lacked the soul of Brahms. But with the flashy, brilliant "Ballade in G Minor" by the same composer, Cliburn came into his own. His particular forte is in big showy music.

In place of the programmed Sonata in C Minor by Beethoven he played that composer's Appassionata Sonata in F Minor, and it was a thrilling performance. The trills were clipped and clean while the left hand made the music glow with excitement. In the second movement, there was a rhythmic insistence admirably kept that was almost funereal in mood. The third movement sounded orchestral, so overwhelming was his big tone.

It was unfortunate that the Beethoven preceded the Sonata Opus 26 by Samuel Barber, for the cruel contrast made Barber definitely the loser. Upon a oft-repeated theme of not much consequence, much ornamentation and filigree was given in the first movement. A light, fanciful wandering over the keys made up the Allegro Vivace and the Adagio promised more than it fulfilled. I liked best the Fugue and final Allegro with its delightful interplay and flashy finish.

• • • •

CLIBURN'S best programmed playing was the Sonata in B Minor by Chopin. Here, Chopin and the pianist were in perfect accord. the inner contents of the music were brought out and the mechanics were flawless. It was apparent that Van Cliburn liked directness and clarity better than sentiment. The Largo spoke gently, slowly and sadly under the pianist's fingers. The Presto mounted steadily, with the right hand cascading runs that dazzled.

The audience was so stirred by his tremendous performance that four encores were thrillingly performed.

Auto Show at Arena Ends Today

When the Pacific International Auto Show closes its 10-day run in the Arena today the sponsors of the show will start worrying about how to get 117 automobiles out of the oceanfront structure.

Because of city fire laws, none of the cars from seven nations of the world have any gasoline in their tanks nor are they allowed to have the ignition switches activated while on city property.

The only thing that has moved in the Arena since the opening of the highly successful display is the record crowd of 45,000 visitors.

M.L. McLaughlin, executive secretary of the sponsoring Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association, calls the 1964 exhibit "the most successful show in our history."

Doors open today at 1 p.m. The final day of the exhibit features Dennis Day and the Osmond Brothers in stage shows at 3:45 p.m. and 9 p.m.

TOYS, CLOTHES AND FOOD

Students Send Gifts to Korean Orphans

Superior Court Judge Vincent S. Dalsimer congratulates students of Ernie Pyle Elementary School in Bellflower, as they sent off cartons of toys, clothes and food to orphans in South Korea.

Judge Dalsimer praised students, P-TA members and Principal Eunice Gaines for sending the materials.

The Korean orphans will receive between 1,700 and 2,000 pounds of clothes, toys and food.

The project was inspired by a letter from Pfc. Edison E. Caldwell, stationed in Korea, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edison Caldwell of Bellflower.

Young Caldwell wrote them about the orphanage, and his mother, who teaches at Ernie Pyle Elementary School, set the project in motion.

Besides Miss Gaines and the Caldwells, others involved in the project were Army Capt. Jack Winkler and Mrs. George Kohrer, P-TA president.

Capt. Winkler arranged for the cartons to be transported by the Air Force on a regularly scheduled flight, so that no additional expense was incurred for transport. The flight left Friday from Van Nuys Airport.

SENDING OFF GIFTS they collected for Korean orphans are students in Bellflower's Ernie Pyle Elementary School. With them is Superior Court Judge Vincent S. Dalsimer, who congratulated youngsters for their efforts, and Army Capt. Jack Winkler. The gifts were taken by Army truck to Van Nuys for air shipment from there.

Douglas Rocket Booster Receives New 'Muscles'

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

The most fantastically successful space booster yet designed, the Douglas-built Delta rocket, is about to receive some new strap-on muscles.

The latest in second-generation rocketry is the TAD, for Thrust-Augmented Delta, which, as recently announced by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will have a 20 to 30 per cent increase in capability over the standard Delta.

However, the workhorse Delta, built at Douglas Aircraft Company's Missile and Space Systems Division at Santa Monica, will not be retired.

• • • •

MOST RECENT success of America's most reliable booster came Tuesday when it carried the second Relay communications satellite into orbit. It was the 22nd straight successful mission for the Delta against a single failure.

Delta was an outgrowth of the Thor, first of the Douglas-built family of booster rockets. When the United States began its extensive space program in 1958, the Thor, having proved itself as a weapon system, was enlisted as a first stage for boosters using a variety of upper stages.

Of these combinations, the Delta was developed.

• • • •

ALTHOUGH modified from its original version, the Delta's first-stage Thor still is basically the Douglas-developed Air Force Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, first built in 1956.

The liquid-propellant-powered Thor now develops 170,000 pounds of thrust, with a burning time of about 180 seconds. Second and third stages provide a total of another 10,500 pounds thrust and another 200 seconds of burning time.

With its new power-pack of three solid-propellant rockets strapped on, however, the first-stage Thor will have a lift-off capacity of 330,000 pounds, enough to place a 1,000-pound payload into orbit compared with 800 pounds for the standard Delta.

• • • •

WHEN THE Delta was first used by NASA in space experiments in 1960, it was regarded only as a temporary or interim booster. Only 12 Deltas were ordered and no more were contemplated.

After the fifth success, NASA increased its order to 27, and then to 40. Now it appears likely that the Douglas space age workhorse will be in business—with its extra oomph—until well past the middle of the decade.

LAKEWOOD WINNER

Patricia Humphrey, 15-year-old Mayfair High School coed, displays winning entry she drew for poster contest sponsored by Lakewood Pan American Festival Association to promote community's 18th annual program honoring Latin America. Holding trophy won by Miss Humphrey is Mrs. Ray Clark, association president.

CHAMBER LEADER

John McKennon, Lafayette Hotel general manager, will head the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce's grand finale membership drive in March, membership chairman John Regan announced. He will direct 150 volunteers when the chamber attempts to attract some 300 new members by March 17. A director of the upcoming California World's Fair and a past director of the Long Beach Convention Bureau, the hotel executive recently was named treasurer of the local Better Business Bureau.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Cambodia OKs Conciliation Plan

MANILA (UPI)—Cambodia and the Philippines Saturday jointly announced Cambodian acceptance of a Philippine formula to restore "normal friendly relations" between the United States and Cambodia.

The joint communique, issued by Philippine President Diosdado Magapagal and Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk, did not spell out details of the Philippine formula, already accepted in principle by the United States.

Sihanouk ended a state visit Saturday in which talks centered on the Filipino conciliation effort.

The Cambodian rift rose when Sihanouk denounced alleged American intervention in his nation's internal affairs late last year, ordered a suspension of U.S. aid and the ouster of American aid and military missions. He later recanted and said he would accept American aid provided no strings were attached.

GOP Blast Hit by State Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican Congressional Committee chairman accused the Johnson administration Saturday of abandoning the U.S. embargo policy against Cuba. The State Department called his charge "a total distortion of the facts."

WILSON

The GOP leader, Rep. Bob Wilson of California, said that, since Johnson became president, 40 ships have been taken off the U.S. blacklist of free world vessels trading with Cuba.

State Department Press Officer Richard I. Phillips replied that only 15 ships have been removed from the blacklist, and these under conditions which, in effect, would reduce free world shipping with Cuba even more.

"The accusations of Rep. Wilson, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, are a total distortion of the facts concerning U.S. policy toward free world shipping to Cuba," the State Department spokesman said.

British Marines Halt 3 Mutinies

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanganyika (UPI) — British Royal Marine commandos put down mutinies by native troops in three former East African British colonies Saturday, Tanganyika, Kenya and Uganda. Tanganyika Saturday night began disarming its own army.

NYERERE

The bizarre chain reaction of mutiny against low pay and white British officers flared Monday in Tanganyika soon after the Zanzibar revolt and spread to neighboring Kenya and Uganda. None of the mutinies appeared to be directed against the governments.

But in Dar-es-Salaam Saturday night, President Julius Nyere said he had decided to disarm all troops and to punish the ringleaders severely even though, he said, it is not easy to disarm an army "intoxicated with the poison of disloyalty and disobedience."

De Gaulle Tells Plan to Recognize Mao

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle of France has informed all of his allies that he will recognize Communist China at the beginning of next week, French government sources said Saturday.

Barring last-minute changes, the sources said, the official announcement will be made Monday. The United States, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy and other leading members of the Western Alliance already have been notified.

Liz and Burton Linger in Southland

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Lovers Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton Saturday decided to remain in the warmth of Southern California a while longer before making another international scene change in their romantic Odyssey.

Miss Taylor and Burton, apparently finding the climate much warmer since the departure of her estranged husband, singer Eddie Fisher, canceled a reservation on the Santa Fe Superchief scheduled to depart Los Angeles for Chicago Saturday evening.

They left the seclusion of their hotel Saturday afternoon for lunch, but refused to answer questions about their plans.

Dubliners Riot at Beauty's Wedding

DUBLIN (UPI)—Hundreds of Dubliners staged a wild, stampeding riot Saturday and battled police to get a look at Miss Ireland when she married the son of novelist Daphne Du Maurier.

A woman was trampled by the mob and taken to a hospital with a possible fractured leg. Several other persons were shaken up, cut and bruised in the melee. Cars were dented when spectators scrambled atop them for vantage points outside the church to see the couple and their celebrated guests.

The bride was Olive White, 21-year-old blonde model and television personality who was last year's Miss Ireland. The groom was Christian Browning, son of Miss Du Maurier and her retired British army officer husband, Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Browning. Miss White represented Ireland last year in the "Miss International" contest in Long Beach.

LBJ at Alfalfa Club Dinner

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson put in an appearance at the annual dinner of the Alfalfa Club here Saturday night after it got done with its annual ribbing of the Washington political scene through nomination of its own mock candidate for the White House.

The President made brief remarks to the all-male assemblage, which was composed of many Washington luminaries including—just down the head table—Republican presidential contender Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona. Johnson's words were off the record.

Darkness Halts Hunt for Boy, 3

GOLETA (AP)—More than 150 men searching for 3-year-old Todd Collett, missing since Thursday, called off the hunt at dusk Saturday. They planned to resume again today.

Wind-Driven Rain Rakes New England

BOSTON (UPI) — A wind-driven storm lashed New England Saturday, dumping more than an inch of rain in most sections and accounting for at least four highway deaths.

Two greater Boston teenagers were killed when their car crashed off fog-shrouded West Roxbury Parkway in Boston.

Police said John J. Higgins, 17, and Keenan W. Ryan, 18, were dead on arrival at Faulkner Hospital.

Henry N. Kirk Jr., 19, of Burriville, R.I., was injured fatally when his car collided with a bus in North Smithfield, R.I.

Also in Rhode Island, Paul F. Malenosky, of Westerly, R. I., was killed when his car slammed into a utility pole in Westerly.

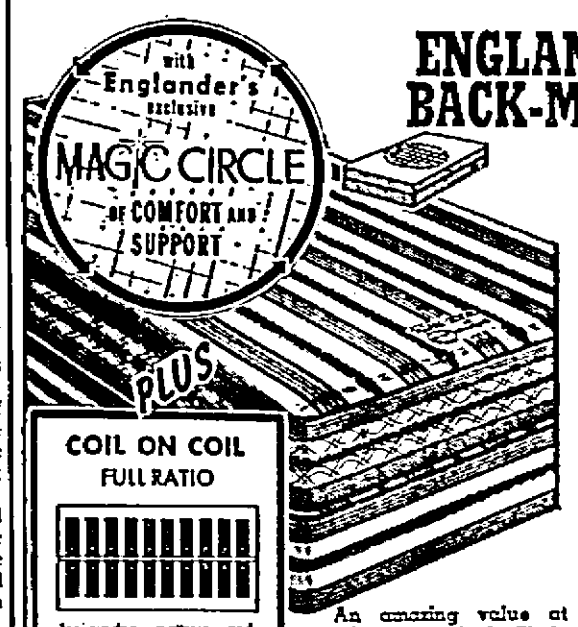

The four other New England states maintained fatality records on the highways.

The U.S. Weather Bureau here said the storm, which was over eastern Maine at 10:30 p.m. (EST) Saturday, would be followed today by clearing in southern regions and snow flurries in northern states.

Temperatures were expected to return to seasonal normals with readings in the low to mid 30s in the South to the mid 20s near the Canadian border the Weather Bureau said.

You Push a Phone Button, Start Cooking Roast 20 Miles Away

By LOU PRATO

GREENSBURG, Pa., (AP) — A dutiful housewife climaxing a hectic day shopping steps into a public telephone booth, pushes a few buttons and in her suburban home 20 miles down the expressway an oven instantly starts cooking a roast for the evening meal.

A harrassed steel salesman unable to return to his office in time to turn on a data processing computer picks up the restaurant phone, touches a couple buttons and the office machine suddenly zips into action.

That's what enthusiastic telephone company officials envision in the not too distant future for their newest innovation — the push button telephone, now in its initial stage of use by the general public.

Two communities near Pittsburgh in western Pennsylvania, Greensburg and Carnegie, are the first in the nation to be offered push button telephones as a regular service. By the end of 1964, the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania plans to install the push button system in 37 of its 577 offices.

• • • •

WHAT IS A touch-tone phone? Well, it looks no different than the rotary dial except that there are push buttons where the dial is normally located. The buttons with a tenth button — for the operator — centered underneath. Each button is numbered and lettered similar to the conventional dial.

Telephone company officials figure it will be 10 years or so before touch-tone is available everywhere in the nation.

"We have to offer touch-tone on a gradual basis, because of the extensive equipment changes that must be made," said Alexander Kyle, the Greensburg district manager.

I WENT home early Friday, and thereby got a first hand experience with a neat bit of subterfuge that dramatically points up those warnings against willy-nilly giving to solicitors for offbeat "causes."

The fellow came to the door and asked for the lady of the house.

He appeared slightly taken back when I showed instead, but he went on with his pitch.

It was a request for money for something he identified as a missionary organization.

He assured me he had full accreditation for soliciting. He mentioned the Chamber of Commerce, and at the same time exhibited a board on which were clipped several pieces of paper. A folded paper at the top for plain viewing was clearly a photostat of a letterhead of the manager's office, City of Long Beach. It was folded to show just the name of the city, and the obvious purpose was to convey the idea that he had a city permit.

So the stage was set.

HAVING read and heard a lot about phony solicitations, I told him so and that I was reluctant to give to outfits I didn't know much about.

He cautioned me not to judge everybody by things I might have read in newspapers.

"O.K.," I said, "then let me have a look at that permit or whatever it is from the City of Long Beach."

He was obviously reluctant. "It just shows," he said, "that we are a religious organization." But I said I wanted to see it, and he took it off the board. I unfolded it and read a letter to the missionary group from the city manager informing them that the city was not acceding to their demands for a solicitation permit.

Now, I said, I would like to see what he had from the Chamber of Commerce.

He flipped up a couple of papers and revealed a form or document of some kind bearing the name of the Wilshire Chamber of Commerce. Wilshire Chamber of Commerce!

"This is Long Beach," I said, and he made some remark to the effect that any chamber endorsement is a chamber endorsement, no matter what chamber.

WELL, I told the fellow I guessed I'd seen enough and I had no intention of contributing. There were, I said, plenty of responsible, local organizations, all worthy and well known to me, to which I could and do contribute.

My visitor was ready to go.

"Pray for us, anyhow," he said as he left.

I will. Clearly, prayers are in order.

THIS incident I've recounted in detail because I think it bears a strong lesson for all householders. And I'm wondering how well the visitor did in our College Park area.

My encounter with him was at about 4:45 p.m. After 7 p.m. I had occasion to drive out of the area. As I reached the corner of Seventh and Silvera, I observed a pedestrian approaching the intersection. A second look and I recognized my friend.

He had been working the district for the better part of three hours.

D'yu suppose he'll report the results to the Wilshire Chamber of Commerce?

TERRIER MISSILES AS WELL AS SHELLS

2-Course Meal of Ammo at Navy Base

By WILLIAM JONES

The sailor said: "If the ammunition goes, don't forget the first rule of safety—hold your fingers to your ears."

The sailors with him exploded in laughter.

"All right, you guys," the sailor added, "but don't forget that when the explosion comes, you don't want your ears to pop."

The sailors with him let go of the missile for a second to stifle their laughter. Ahead was the ship. And before that, an officer.

The joking appeared to be almost a necessary part of the day as the United States Naval Weapons Station at Seal Beach served up a two-course meal of ammunition in a display of America's might.

• • • •

THE SAILORS were loading eight "birds" — the terrifying, supersonic Terrier guided missiles— aboard the destroyer USS Worden.

Next to them, other sailors were carting shells for the five-inch guns of the destroyer USS Chevalier.

In this one morning in Seal Beach, more than a half-million dollars worth of ammunition was on dockside.

The destroyer Worden represents the nation's deterrent to future war with the Soviet Union's fleet of submarines and aircraft.

The destroyer Chevalier can pound beaches with shells in "brush warfare."

In this display of contrast, both ships entered the mouth of the small harbor just south of Long Beach and were replenished with ammunition in an overnight stay.

• • • •

THE NEXT morning the Chevalier steamed north to have more modern ship equipment added in Washington and the sleek Worden raced south to test her missiles.

During their stay here, Capt. Warren Hall, commanding officer of the weapons station, directed civilian and military crews in trucking the missiles and conventional shells from the station's tomb-like magazines to dockside to replenish the warships.

"It's an odd situation—shells for one, missiles for the other," he said. "But a future war and 'brush warfare' remain as our nation's problems."

He added: "I wonder how many people noticed the two destroyers steaming out of here by Pacific Coast Highway? And I wonder how many noticed the difference between the two vessels?"

The Chevalier, with a heroic past in Pacific waters during World War II, raced out of Seal Beach with her awesome display of six 5-inch guns and torpedoes that can dive into the ocean to destroy an enemy submarine.

"Our bread and butter," said her skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Albert B. Hallman, "is to kill enemy subs and to lay off shore and destroy land targets."

It is still an annoying subject to the genial Texan to talk about "killing subs," because as he admits, "my first years were spent as assistant engineer, engineer officer, electronics officer and supply officer in the Navy —on a submarine."

• • • •

THE SECOND ship, the destroyer Worden, looks innocent beside the Chevalier.

Instead of heavy guns protruding from her topside, she displays only a modern, back-swept catapult in front.

But from this block of metal can sprout instantly the Terrier missiles — worth about $55,000 each —that can knock down planes and submarines beyond the horizon.

In this $70 million ship, Capt. Scott Lothrop commands 350 men — compared to 850 men on the same size of vessel in World War II—and a battery of computers.

The computers take the data from the cobweb of radar blanketing the ship, and fire the Terriers into aircraft or submarines.

"It's almost impossible to miss the target," said Lt. Cmdr. M. A. Arnheiter.

• • • •

CAPT. LOTHROP, a survivor of the Okinaway kamikaze attacks, has been resurrected as a "modern-day Navy man."

He was retrained as an engineer-scientist after the war, shown the fantastic possibilities of computers and then given command of the Worden before she was commissioned on the East Coast.

As the third of a new class of guided missile-frigates, the Worden was the first to come to the Pacific Coast with its primary mission as a defender of aircraft carrier task forces last November.

Actually, its description as a destroyer is deceiving. It is as large as the light cruisers of World War II—can fire into the air a more destructive punch than any of the battleships of the same era.

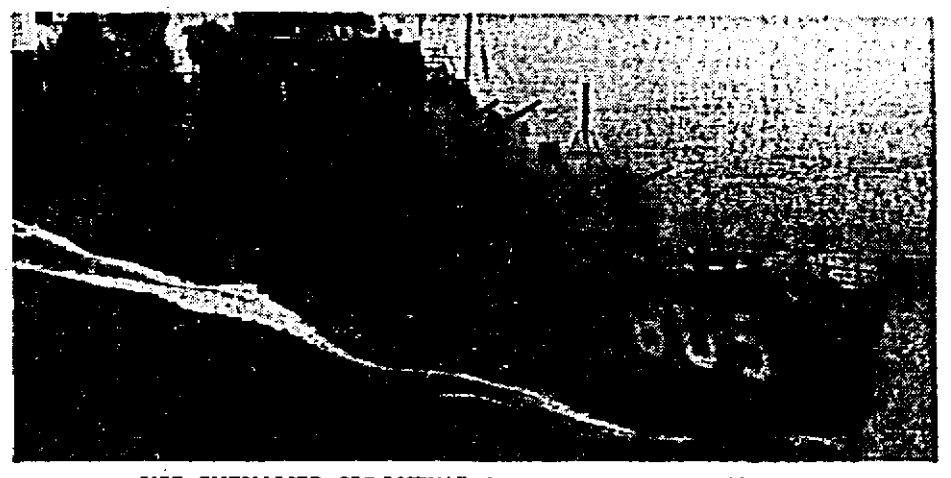

And, with its nuclear warheads — well, that's classified information.

Guidance Group for Boys Set

A branch of the Big Brothers movement, a group of men who volunteer to give fatherless boys guidance, help and companionship, is being organized here, according to Sterling E. Gilmore.

The group will offer professional casework counseling combined with volunteer service in which a one-man-one-boy relationship is set up between an adult volunteer and a boy who has no father or adult male in the family.

Any man of good character, over 21, interested in giving some of his leisure time to a boy is eligible for membership in the local group, a chapter of the national organization.

• • • •

THE GROUP points out that its success in the 60 years of its existence has been based on the individual attention and inspiration a boy receives from his big brother.

Present plans call for a permanent office to be set up here and contributions to help support the program now are being sought by Gilmore, an insurance and securities broker with offices at 4130 Atlantic Ave.

Forming the local group's advisory board, along with Gilmore, are Rev. Hiram Crosby, Les Miller, Police Lt. Ernest Roberts, Dr. E. M. Blumberg, E. Ray Webb, Howard Buttery, Harwood Stump, William T. Garner, Willard D. Bretz, David Bland, Oscar Bluitt, Edward Butler, William Caskey, Edward P. Grieve, Carlton King, Tom Moule, Arthur G. Triplett and William L. Carnes.

Bonanza Star to Speak in L.B.

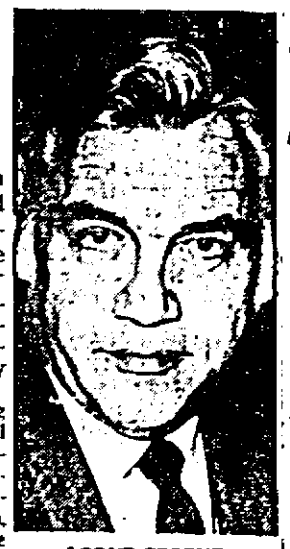

Lorne Greene, "Ben Cartwright" of the Bonanza TV series, will be the featured speaker at the annual testimonial dinner of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Long Beach Chapter, in the Lafayette Hotel, Feb. 20.

The formal dinner will mark the area's celebration of National Brotherhood Week, Feb. 16-23. President Lyndon B. Johnson stated in his brotherhood message, "Democracy cannot live in hate and fear. Prejudice and bigotry are the advance guard of failure.

"I urge all my fellow Americans to join with me and the NCCJ in this national community celebration of tolerance, truth and charity toward our neighbors, wherever they live, whoever they are."

Highlighting the Long Beach chapter celebration will be the presentation of Brotherhood Awards for outstanding service in human relations to Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, president of Long Beach State College; Herman H. Ridder, publisher of The Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram and Maurice Harris, publisher of the Enterprise Newspapers.

Harry Buffum is general chairman of the observance in Long Beach. Norbert Dean is Brotherhood Week chairman; George McLean, chairman of the Long Beach Chapter, NCCJ; Dr. Jacob Cunningham, executive director; Dr. Robert Walker, program chairman; Lewis Sandler, director of finance. Judge Max Wisot headed the awards committee.

USS LONG BEACH

Arena Display for Ship Model

An 18-foot-long model of the USS Long Beach has arrived here from Washington by van and will be placed on display beginning Tuesday in the lobby of the Long Beach Arena.

The 3,500-pound model is being stored temporarily in a local van line warehouse pending the arrival of a Navy-assigned expert who will supervise the uncrating and removal to its new home.

Valued at $200,000, the model has been loaned to the city by the Navy for display in the arena for one year, with an option for renewal of the agreement for a second year. It was built to scale—¼-inch to 1-foot—at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Yard.

City Manager John R. Mansell said a city work crew of eight men will assist the Navy expert in erecting the display.

Underground Mischief Club Keeps College Prank Alive

By BOB WILCOX

A Long Beach State College football yell suddenly turns into words nobody's mother ever taught. It's the "R.F. Club" at work.

Two hundred coeds are barricaded in a dorm with the telephone wires cut. It's the "RFers" again.

What in the world is the R.F. Club?

It's a mysterious underground campus mischief organization dedicated to keeping alive the vanishing college prank in an increasingly academic era.

RFers have coated bathroom facilities with honey, set off fire alarms, painted signs. Once they padlocked all the doors on the college library from the outside. A monkey named "R.F." was disqualified from last year's 49er Day contest to pick "Black Bart."

• • • •

R.F. CLUB sweatshirts and windshield decals have blossomed on campus.

"The club seems to stress the creative, the different," concedes Dr. Karl A. Russell, LBSC dean of students. But many of its activities, he says, are "out of taste, out of bounds."

The organization gives "RFs" (points) for mischief. If the perpetrator is caught, he or she loses RFs. Club "literature" intercepted last October indicates a conscience.

"The RF must not cause or be conducive to damage to anyone or their possessions," it says. "The RF must not cost anyone valuable loss of time, such as study, sleep." The instructions stress "originality, wit, humor."

College officials estimate that the four-year-old group has 50 members. They cross campus social "class" lines. Nabbed have been dormitory residents, fraternity and sorority members and students with no affiliation. Membership requirements are "cloudy."

Through the years, the college has identified about 20, including a coed "with a 140 IQ who just wanted to let off a little steam."

The initials "R.F." are obscure, but club members often use the euphemism "rat fink."

Wrong Address

The address of rape suspect Alan L. Roebuck, 25, now held by Long Beach police, was printed incorrectly in earlier stories. Roebuck, officers say, lives at 934 Euclid Ave. Other stories gave his address as 924 Euclid Ave.

Hurting Their Own Cause

PANICKED BY THE FEAR that their facility may be closed by Defense Department economies, the San Francisco Shipyard Employes' Association has composed an argument which pretends to "prove" that Long Beach Naval Shipyard and others are poorer than the San Francisco facility. This hysterical effort can harm rather than help the San Francisco yard's chances of remaining open.

The worst possible thing cities with Naval shipyards can do is attack one another. If each of them starts belittling all the others, the net effect will be to fortify the arguments of people who want to close down shipyards. Besides, such bickering only directs attention away from the good reasons that are being offered for keeping the shipyards open.

Aside from this, moreover, the San Franciso statements are false and misleading. The charge that subsidence in the Long Beach Naval Shipyard has not been halted is based on stale satistics and is simply untrue. City Manager John R. Mansell puts it in stronger words than that: The charge is "totally false." He states: "The Navy reports quarterly on fluctuations of the benchmarks, and the last readings, taken Dec. 4-10, showed that all are rising—not sinking." The San Francisco statement that the Long Beach yard can't handle vessels of the Forrestal class —the nation's biggest ships, of which there are but a handful—is beside the point. Such ships have never been handled here, and their repair and maintenance is not the function of this yard. The purpose of the Long Beach Naval Shipyard is to repair, alter, and convert ships the size of heavy cruisers and smaller which make up the bulk of the Pacific Fleet.

THE HYSTERICAL UTTERANCES of the San Francisco shipyard people are particularly ill-timed in view of the critical situation in Panama. If Panama develops into a problem requiring greater use of U.S. warships, which is a very definite possibility, the need for shipyards to keep the fleet operative would be greater than ever. Sen. Thomas Kuchel, in fact, has just stated that the country in the face of this crisis not only must keep its shipyards open, but also should re-open the recently-closed facility at San Diego.

However, the long-range reason for keeping the shipyards open goes beyond the Panama crisis. The United States has long since accepted the necessity of maintaining a capability to wage limited war. This means that men and ships in fairly large numbers are constantly on the seas, at great distances from home. These Navy men need well-anchored stable home bases for their families. This is an overriding consideration in keeping good men in the Naval service.

When a man refuses to re-enlist because of unstable conditions, the Navy must spend a huge sum of money to induct and train another man to take his place. The "economies" effected by closing shipyards and upsetting the naval complexes to which they belong are very dubious savings, indeed.

These are things San Francisco shipyard people should think about if they again get the urge to disparage other shipyards. Long Beach has restricted its activities to outlining the positive reasons for keeping the shipyard open. San Francisco should do likewise. If anything, that city owes this city and its congressional representative, Craig Hosmer, a debt of gratitude for representing the basic interests of all shipyards and naval communities.

DYNAMITE

DAVID LAWRENCE

An Inflated Prosperity

WASHINGTON—For the past week, the American people, and particularly the news correspondents in Washington, have been deluged with an avalanche of figures. This has been designed to prove that the United States from 1961 to 1963 has gone through a period of unexampled prosperity and that even better times are ahead for 1964. But the figures given are not complete and in many respects are meaningless, if not misleading.

LAWRENCE

Thus, the "gross national product"—the phrase supposed to describe the output of the whole economic system—is given in the President's economic report as reaching $623 billion in the year 1964. This is $259.9 billion above what it was in 1954, just a decade earlier.

But more than 40 per cent of this rise is due to higher prices. If compared with the prices of goods and services in 1954 and the value of the dollar at that time, the "gross national product" this year would not be $623 billion. It would be $517.4 billion, which is $154.3 billion above what it was 10 years ago.

The President also points to corporate profits as having made a 44 per cent rise in the last three years. This, however, is from a low point in 1961 and is not based on any annual figures. He says that a further rise will come with the tax cut. But a study of the fine print in the same volume of statistics handed to the press this week discloses that corporate profits are projected at 4.9 per cent of the "gross national product" for 1964. This is less than what it has been in 11 of the 17 years since World War II. Corporate profits went up as high as 8 per cent in those years. They were 6.2 per cent in the 1949 recession year and stood at 4.6 per cent in 1963 after two full years of "expansion."

The sad truth is that corporate profits as a total figure are meaningless. The entire private-enterprise system, even by the President's figures, will retain in 1964 only $30.5 billion after taxes. Profit margins are rarely examined in government reports, and the fact remains that the narrowness of many of these margins prevents the investment of capital and discourages the expansion projects through which jobs can be created for the people who need them.

Much of the difficulty in creating jobs is due to psychological barriers. There can, for example, be little confidence in the economic future as long as the dollar itself is unsound. Budgets have remained unbalanced almost continuously for many years now and the cost of living has risen as the purchasing power of the dollar has gone down.

The assertion is made by the President that a tax cut now is necessary to stimulate the economy. But the economic report in some sections gives the impression that the economy is really riding high and doesn't need a tax cut as a stimulus. These viewpoints are contradictory.

BOB HOUSER

Nixon '62 Loss and Farewell Could Haunt Another Race

I, P-T Political Editor

THE BLOOM on Richard Nixon suffered two wilting blasts in 1962—a 300,000-vote loss to Pat Brown for the governorship followed by a bitter lashout at the press.

With memories like these, plus a 1960 loss which many party pros ascribe to an aloof, go-it-alone Nixon, California Republicans seem privately reluctant to endure another Nixon November. Some not so privately.

HOUSER

In Long Beach and elsewhere in the state, Republicans personally fond of Nixon are saying, "I hope he doesn't run." They acknowledge Nixon's strong run in current polls but feel the strength can't be sustained should Nixon be weighed next July in San Francisco against the bad-loser image of two years ago when he left the state.

Nixon, looking and talking better than he has in years on last Thursday's TV "availability" statement, alluded to the realism of current reaction against his candidacy. He said the party might prefer new faces. His availability even extended to the vice presidency, he admittted.

A PATTERN of primary victories for another candidate could relieve the Nixon pressure, which he understandably responds to now. But with the building and moving organizations aligning behind others, Republicans in those organizations are hoping the pressure won't become a GOP bottleneck.

Unlike Nixon, neither Barry Goldwater nor Nelson Rockefeller are without staff. Goldwater has a Knowland heading his effort and fiercely loyal partisans—mysteriously unnumbered at present—across the country. Rockefeller has reportedly given financial carte blanche to the California firm handling his campaign in this state. Eastern rumors have it that Nixon will declare for Rockefeller before the June primary here. If the governor does well in other primaries.

The state has begun to seethe with these and other political maelstroms. Rocky and Happy come to Long Beach next Wednesday and will be greeted by Republicans who, in general, were once strong for Nixon.

CONGRESSMAN James Roosevelt intends to run but leaves himself a mid-February out if the "full story" on Engle's health favors the incumbent. Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk will announce his decision about the same time. Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson is a possible entry. Controller Alan Cranston also would defer to a healthy Engle but, lacking satisfaction on that score, looms as one of the stronger contenders. Another Anderson, Dewey, has announced his candidacy; he was an assemblyman from Santa Clara County 1935-37.

The Republican challenge to Engle and company now includes former actor George Murphy and industrialist Lee Kaiser. Former pole vaulter Bob Richards is strongly inclined. Joe C. Shell, 1962 primary loser to Nixon for the governorship, may announce his decision soon. There is talk of another candidacy by former Gov. Goodwin Knight. And, perhaps the strongest of all based on a good 1962 run for lieutenant governor, is George Christopher, ex-mayor of San Francisco.

THE SWIRL is boiling around the blockbuster names in national politics today. And it suddenly occurs — who will the Republicans run against Long Beach Assemblyman Joe Kennick? What Democrat will oppose Deukmejian? Will there be a challenger Deukmejian? Will there be a challenger to Long Beach Congressman Craig Hosmer?

'Winning' Our Way to Communism

EDITOR:

At the time of the construction of the Berlin wall, the "deep-thinkers" in our State Department, headed by the master of double-think and double-talk, Secretary Dean Rusk, told us that the wall was really a "victory" for the free world. I must assume therefore that the opening of the wall over the holidays must be a "defeat." I wonder how many more "victories" we can absorb before we are all slaves of communism?

Thanks Police in Child Search

EDITOR:

Would you please publish a "thank you" to the Dominguez and Long Beach Police Departments for their efforts in searching for my two children. The children were missing from 11:30 a. m. to 8 p.m. They had set out on a trip to the Pike in Long Beach and were on their way home when located.

During their absence I became highly distraught but the police of both cities cooperated in a most excellent way in searching for the youngsters. Our family thanks them from our hearts and will never forget their helpfulness.

First Rumford Argument Wrong

EDITOR:

The proponents of the Rumford Act, which forces property owners to sell, rent, or lease their property to individuals other than those of their own choosing, reveal the falsity of their position in their primary argument—to wit, "Human rights are above property rights".

What they are saying is that it is a human right for an individual to force another to rent to him, or sell to him, and that it is not a human right for a property owner to choose his tenants and his customers.

Many of us, including the writer, wish that all would be judged on their own individual merit, and not as part of a minority. We wish that better housing was available to those families who presently find difficulty in locating in better communities. But this feeling for our fellow man must not lead us to be unfeeling about the rights of property owners. There are many who have worked all their lives to own an apartment house. An undesirable tenant can empty an apartment house in a hurry—causing not only turmoil, but financial ruin in some cases.

The right to own property, as outlined in the Constitution, includes within it the right to manage that property. Leaving the property owner simply a custodian of the property, while the State decides who shall occupy or purchase that property, is not a right at all—but a form of socialism similar to that found in Russia.

Let us with "friendly persuasion" do what we can to aid those who are presently in need of better housing—but let us not employ tyranny to force others to comply with our wishes.

President, Peninsula Republican Men's Club.

Foreign Policy 'Topic B' With LBJ

WASHINGTON — Lyndon Johnson's mind is not exactly a clean slate as far as foreign policy is concerned. On the other hand, it is not a definite treatise on the subject to which we can turn for any reference he needs, subject only to the need to keep it up to date. It therefore becomes a matter of some interest and importance to consider who is contributing ideas and views to him.

• • • •

AS NEARLY as can be determined, foreign policy is Topic B with Johnson. That doesn't mean it is neglected. Topic A is domestic policy. It commands his first instinctive interest. It has interested him all his life. He has built up a large body of information and thought on it. So equipped, he is better able to evaluate and employ, by himself, the information which comes to him through all the channels leading to the presidency, including personal, individual, conversations. He couldn't neglect foreign policy if he wanted to, because it is there, part of his job, demanding attention.

In the Senate, Johnson of course had to deal with matters of foreign policy. As Vice President, he fortunately traveled abroad a good deal. But it is natural for him, until he has deeper experience, to view what happens abroad as an appropriations problem, or a military problem.

Given this situation, Johnson depends a good deal on the established operators in the field, carrying on from the Kennedy administration. Chief among them are Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and McGeorge Bundy, Special Assistant on National Security Affairs.

In looking into this matter, evidence is found that Johnson has a special predilection, which is of substantial importance. He likes Germans.

This goes back to his earliest days. His part of Texas was the destination of a substantial organized German immigration in the last century. As visitors to his ranch have noticed, one of the most conspicuous features of the nearby landscape is a Lutheran church. One of his principal mentors as he was entering public life was a man named Alvin J. Wirtz, a Texas lawyer (briefly Undersecretary of the Interior in 1940-41), who is credited with embedding German liberalism firmly in Johnson's political thought.

Consider this as background for the recent visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard to the LBJ ranch during the Christmas holidays. Johnson obviously got much more than a formal, official pleasure out of that visit.

• • • •

ANOTHER of the informal advisers to Johnson in this field is Abe Fortas, Washington lawyer, also a former Undersecretary of the Interior. The brilliant Fortas mind can operate almost wherever the compass can point. Those around Johnson, however, see him as having two special areas of interest: Israel and Puerto Rico. The implications of such interests for United States attitudes toward the Arab world and toward Latin-America are vast and complex, and worth keeping in mind in watching the Johnson performance.

JACK ANDERSON

LBJ Uses Phone Line as a Lasso

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Drew Pearson's column today is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—Not even most of the Senate knows why the Senate Finance Committee suddenly snapped out of its lethargy on the tax bill and also started reversing some of the tax giveaways which the House proposed for the wealthy.

Backstage reason is a telephone barrage from President Johnson.

LBJ had been phoning senators on the Finance Committee as early as 8 a. m., as late as 11:30 p. m.

"Are you still in bed?" he would demand in the morning, or at night, "have you already gone to bed?"

Then he would ask about the tax bill, pretending—though he knew better—that the sleepy senator was working on it at all hours.

WHEN SEN. GEORGE SMATHERS, D., Fla., called off an afternoon session of the Finance Committee, the President was soon fuming into the phone. Smathers explained it was necessary to grant one afternoon off before the senators would agree to meet in the afternoons in the future. This didn't satisfy Johnson at all.

Again, Smathers held up voting on an amendment for an extra day until Sen. Albert Gore, D., Tenn., could get back from a speaking trip. This was arranged behind closed doors, but both President Johnson and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon learned of it. Within 15 minutes they phoned Smathers demanding to know why he had agreed to the delay.

IT WAS THE PERSONAL lobbying of Johnson and Dillon that also swung a majority of committee members against a House provision to cut capital gains taxes on assets held more than two years. The Treasury considers this is a flagrant tax giveaway to the wealthy. In fact, the Treasury even considers the present 25 per cent capital gains tax a loophole for investors. Despite this the House trimmed the 25 per cent tax down to 21.

Believe it or not, the Senate Finance Committee, which has always favored the big-money interests, did not go along.

Inside reason was that the President got on the phone to key senators, warning that the cut would benefit only the wealthy, would open Congress to charges that it had passed a "rich man's" tax bill.

Johnson and Dillon persuaded 12 of the 17 senators to vote against the capital gains reduction. Even Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, usually a friend of big business, announced behind closed doors that he would vote "with qualifications" against any more tax relief for people with capital gains.

Elbie Jay Meets the Paper Folks

HOWDY THERE, FOLKS. How's things with you'all tonight? Welcome to "Heaps o'Horse Sense," the rib-tickling tee-vee adventures of that rootin'-tootin' Jay family—starring ol' Elbie Jay, the friendliest wrangler ever to wrangle his way out of Texas.

As we join Elbie, his pretty wife, Birdie Bird, and their two cute tads, L'il Bird and Bye-bye Bird, they've struck it rich and they're a-moved into this big white house back East. That's Elbie there now, a-pokin' through the East Room with his faithful sidekick, Sancho Pierre.

• • • •

ELBIE: RIGHT FINE PLACE. Soon's I get my initials branded on these fixing's it's going to seem just like home.

Sancho Pierre (worriedly): Chief, the newspapermen are demanding a press conference and you've got to build your public image. Only you know them. They'll try to skin you alive.

Elbie: Well now, Pierre, any friends of yours are friends of mine. The varmints. You tell 'em we'll have one of them there ol' press conferences right now.

Sancho Pierre: Okay, Chief. I'll set up the State Department Auditorium. Let's see, Kleig lights, coaxial cables, Nielsen surveys. . . .

Elbie: No sense a-goin' to all that fuss. Just open that there door and herd 'em in.

Sancho Pierre (horrified): In here! But, Chief, that's unheard of. You can't build a public image in here.

Elbie: As my grandaddy used to say, "A mule down a gopher hole is worth six crows in the schoolmarm's toolshed." Just you leave it to me.

(Sancho Pierre hesitantly opens the door. One hundred and sixty-two slick Eastern newsmen rush in, eager for blood.)

Elbie (cool as a mushmelon): Howdy there, boys. Glad you-all could come chat a spell. Have a souvenir ballpoint pen and a souvenir ashtray. Had a little trouble getting my picture on them pens. Lucky I'm tall and lean.

Ace Newsman: Sir, what are your plans for increased monosodium glutinate exports to the Common Markets in view of EFTA's opposition to the GATT agreements on . . .

Elbie: That's a right fine question you asked there, son. (Pierre, unscrew a souvenir doorknob for the lad). And I want you-all to know we're a working on that problem mighty hard. Now, boys, have you-all seen around this place? This here's my office and that there's the Blue Room. Skee-daddle along now. And this here's Birdie Bird's bedroom . . .

Birdie Bird: Elbie! You've just got to learn to knock.

Elbie: Now don't get your feathers ruffled, Birdie Bird. Our dear friends here have seen ladies in pin curlers before. And this here's our L'il Bird's bath. Oops, excuse us, L'il Bird. And this here's the back yard and that there's my horse on which I'm about to ride off into the sunset while you boys go write your mighty fine stories about my warm, lovable family and how I'm working hard on any problems you got on your minds. And, Pierre, cut down a nice souvenir chandelier for each of the boys on their way out.

Cigarette Sales Up in Long Beach

Despite the health-hazard report released by the United States surgeon general, the sale of cigarettes—at least those sold in vending machines—has not fallen off locally.

A survey of Long Beach-area vending companies indicates that the sale of cigarettes is following the usual pattern for this time of year a slight increase in sales attributed to the aftermath of the Christmas holidays.

George Seedman, president of Long Beach Cigarette Service Sales, Inc., said that although everyone seems to be convinced that large numbers of people are quitting smoking, "You couldn't tell it from our business. We are operating at our normal rate for this time of year."

Officials of other vending companies emphasize that cigarette sales are "up" but are quick to add that they are normally up at this time of year.

One official offered a solution when he said, "It may just be that people who are quitting bought their cigarettes by the carton and our individual-package sales are benefitting from their backsliding on their resolves and buying one pack at a time."

Red Cross Drive Aid Named

Mrs. George P. Taubman, Jr., has been appointed chairman of the executive committee of the residential division of the March fund campaign of Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross.

Members of the committee are Mrs. Francis J. Heusel, Mrs. Malcolm C. Todd, Mrs. Max E. Nichols, Mrs. Ike Sukman, Mrs. Betty Benwell, and Mrs. Rufus A. Davis.

Mrs. Taubman, who was honored as one of Long Beach's celebrities in the recent Diamond Jubilee, was first listed in "Who's Who of American Women" in its initial issue in 1957, is also listed in "Who's Who in the West" for her multiple distinguished services, national, state, and local.

Her service on the international executive board of United Nations Children's Fund, to which she was appointed in '58-'61 by President Eisenhower, took her to Geneva, Switzerland, and to Poland as official United States representative in 1959.

In 1933, she served as one of two women on the Rehabilitation Committee of Red Cross in Long Beach after the March 10 earthquake.

With her committee, Mrs. Taubman has started on the organization of the residential campaign. This will comprise 15 area chairmen, 80 colonels, 600 captains, and 3,000 block workers.

Check Firm Promises to Pay Off All

The owners of a California money-order firm undergoing reorganization said Saturday none of their customers will lose any money despite more than 70,000 money orders which have "bounced."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wierman said they have lost more than $500,000 in the collapse of their firm, Security Currency Services, Ltd., of East Los Angeles.

"But everyone else will get their money back," Wierman promised.

Wierman said his firm was in trouble because money orders were presented for payment before hundreds of small firms, grocery stores, neighborhood shops, etc., had submitted funds from the sale of money orders.

Wierman said he is sure the matter "will be cleared up" when the small agencies send in their remittances.

AN INTEGRAL PART OF THE COMMUNITY

RETAIL CLERKS UNION LOCAL 324, SERVING LONG BEACH AND ORANGE COUNTY

Millions Poured Into Economy of Area by Members of Clerks 324

On Sunday, January 19, 1964, Retail Clerks Union Local 324 opened the doors of its beautiful building, located at the corner of Stanton and Crescent Avenues in Buena Park, in an "Open House" dedication of a newly-completed annex.

Well known as one of the showplaces of Orange County, the Local 324 office and auditorium house a multiplicity of services, both to the union's members and to the community. The annex to the building, not visible in the picture above, has enabled Local 324 to expand and improve its membership services, some of which are reviewed on these pages.

The economic impact of Retail Clerks Union Local 324 on the communities where the union's members live and work was graphically demonstrated in a special report issued to all members in mid-1963.

Patterned after the stockholders' reports distributed by major corporations, Local 324's "1962 Annual Report" revealed that during that one year some $15,000,000 was poured into the economy of communities served by the union's membership—all of Orange County, plus the southeast area of Los Angeles County, including Long Beach.

A breakdown of the factors involved included actual wages paid to Local 324's 10,000 members in accordance with contracts negotiated by the union with employers in the area; wage increases under these contracts during 1962, totaling well over $1,000,000; and monies paid out in union benefits for members and their families for medical and hospital expenses, dental and psychiatric care, and supplemental unemployment and disability payments—over $2,082,000.

The "1962 Annual Report" pointed out that for an annual dues investment of $72, Local 324 members received a direct $244's averaging more than $300 per member during the year.

Other contractual benefits won by the union for its members over and above the established wage scale include job security, excellent working conditions, pensions, vacations, premium and holiday pay—practical advantages guaranteed by the union's contracts with employers.

Local 324 proudly points to other intangible values accruing from membership, too: the prestige of being part of a group recognized for their contributions to community betterment, the opportunity to join in social activities with friends who enjoy a similar way of life, the knowledge of being backed by a strong organization standing ready to help the individual at all times.

Although a "1963 Annual Report" has not yet been compiled by Local 324, these pages reveal some insight into the record for the past year—a record that Retail Clerks Union Local 324 presents with pride.

Unquestionably, the $15,000,000 cited in the "1962 Annual Report" has grown to even larger proportions in 1963.

And Local 324 welcomes 1964 with confidence that it will continue to record fruitful progress in behalf of its membership and the community—the achievement of its goal of a better way of life.

James Suffridge National Head of Retail Clerks

James A. Suffridge

Heading an organization of more than 400,000 members working in retail stores throughout the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico is James A. Suffridge—a distinguished Californian—President of the Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO. Local 324 is one of the largest of the several hundred local unions which make up the RCIA.

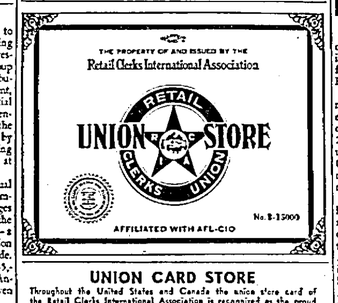

During his 20 years as RCIA President, Suffridge has guided the Clerks Union in its steady advance from 250th in size in 1944 in the old AFL to sixth in size, currently, in the combined AFL-CIO.

The outstanding leadership of James A. Suffridge is perhaps best attested by not only the organization's growth but also its present stature and prestige. Without question, the Retail Clerks International Association is one of the best known and most highly respected labor organizations in the world.

In addition to being International President of the RCIA, Suffridge is also a Vice President of the AFL-CIO, and is an officer in numerous other groups affiliated with the trade union movement.

In 1961, he accompanied Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson as labor advisor on a high level diplomatic mission to six Asian nations. The RCIA President is serving as American labor's representative on the three-man national American Red Cross Committee during 1964.

Under the accomplished leadership of James A. Suffridge, the Retail Clerks face the future with confidence, knowing that a capable and dedicated officer stands at the helm of their organization.

UNION CARD STORE

Throughout the United States and Canada the union store card of the Retail Clerks International Association is recognized as the proud symbol of reliability, integrity, and the best in service from skilled tradespeople.

The familiar red, white and blue card—displayed at supermarkets, drug stores, discount and shoe stores throughout the Orange County, Long Beach area—is the shopper's guide to buying from employers who respect the rights of their employes, where good working conditions and good pay make for better citizens and a higher standard of living for all.

Thousands Use Job Referral, Insurance Claims Departments

Local 324's Job Referral Department, like every other department in the union, is constantly busy with special services to the members.

As an example of this department's services in obtaining employment not only for union members but also for anyone else seeking employment, over 2,000 job listings were received during the year from employers throughout the area served by the union.

The immediate value of this service is revealed by the fact that more than 8,000 persons were referred to employers for job interviews during 1963, while almost 5,000 were interviewed at the union office concerning possible employment.

With the opening of many new stores in the area and with normal turnover of personnel, Local 324's Job Referral Department has become one of the most important services offered by the union.

At left, the Insurance Department handles health claims. Employment Department, at right, refers members and applicants to jobs.

Service With a Personal Touch

The sincere personal interest of the entire organization in each individual member is a major factor in the success story of Retail Clerks Union Local 324.

At each monthly membership meeting, service certificates and emblems are awarded, symbolic of completion of five, 10, 15, 20 and even 25 years of continuous good standing membership. Close to 1,000 members have completed at least five years of membership.

Also awarded are "paid-up life memberships," granted to retired members with 15 years of continuous membership in the Retail Clerks International Association, of which Local 324 is a part. Since 1957, Local 324 has honored 59 such members for their loyal service to the union.

One of the more unusual membership services in Local 324 is the "Aid and Assistance Fund," set up to provide help for members in financial difficulty.

During 1963, members received almost $5,000 in direct "Aid and Assistance," and in addition, there were well-filled baskets of food and toys filled for the children at Christmas.

On their birthdays, members receive a card bringing them greetings "from thousands of friends"—their fellow union members.

And those who are ill receive a get-well card with similar best wishes for speedy recovery. Hospitalized members receive flowers from the union, and their sincere appreciation is self evident from the "thank you letters" published in Local 324's monthly newspaper.

The union maintains a death benefit fund which provides the beneficiary with $1,000 upon death of a good-standing member. The beneficiary also receives a white Bible of appropriate faith, direct from a union business representative.

Local Members Have Health, Dental Care

One of the most important achievements of Local 324 in creating valuable services for its members is the complete health care provided under the union's contracts with employers.

Not only do the members enjoy complete medical and hospital care, but they also receive dental and psychiatric care under their union-won plans. These benefits are paid for by employer contributions to trust funds, jointly administered by union and employer trustees.

Although health is more precious than all the money in the world, the full value of these health plans is apparent when actual figures for 1963 are considered:

Medical & Hospital
13,013 claims paid	$1,227,060
Dental
6,742 claims paid	450,734
Psychiatric
357 claims paid	41,945
Total	$1,749,739

During 1963, an increasingly large number of Local 324 members became eligible for dental care, resulting from contracts signed in 1962 with major discount stores.

Members of Local 324 obtain necessary claim forms from the Insurance Department of the union, while the Trust Fund Office, located in the newly added wing of the building, maintains records concerning eligibility, employer contributions, and other data for Local 324 and other local unions as well.

Another fringe benefit negotiated into many contracts calls for pensions to supplement social security payments for persons reaching retirement age.

At the end of 1963, there were 331 retired Local 324 members enjoying retirement benefits totaling $6,901 each month—106 Food Division members and 25 Drug Division members.

And this vital personal protection is being negotiated into more and more Local 324 contracts, to enable members to approach retirement age with hope and optimism instead of fear.

Trust Fund Office serves Local 324, other locals in administering health and welfare, other benefits.

10,000 Members Work Together to Improve Living Standards, Promote Community Betterment

Occupying a prominent place in the community as well as in the circles of organized labor is Local 324 of the Retail Clerks International Association (AFL-CIO), 8530 Stanton Avenue, Buena Park.

Arthur Z. Berland

Having grown from a membership of less than 2,500 in 1950 to more than 10,000 today, Local 324 represents employes working in retail stores in Long Beach and throughout Southeast Los Angeles County, as well as all of Orange County. The Buena Park headquarters is centrally located to best serve the union's members.

Key to the success of Local 324 is its basic philosophy of providing, through collective bargaining, a better standard of living for union members. This in turn, the union members feel, brings a sounder economy to the entire community, for by achieving better wages and working conditions for its members, the union not only attracts new members, but it also creates more purchasing power which in turn promotes community growth and well-being.

California Governor Edmund G. Brown, having reviewed Local 324's "1962 Annual Report," commented in a letter that "when the earning power of an organized group releases $10,000,000 per year into the economic flow of its environment, the nourishing effects extend far beyond group channels to a community-wide enrichment."

In 1963, because of additional members, wage increases and broadened benefits, the economic impact of Local 324 was without question appreciably greater than the $15,000,000 cited by Governor Brown.

"We don't seek anything which would adversely affect the community or the economy of the community," says Local 324 Secretary-Treasurer Arthur Z. Berland. "We recognize our responsibilities not only to our own members, but also to the various communities we serve. On the other hand, we're totally dedicated to the principles of trade unionism, without which our country would not have achieved its present-day standard of living."

More Precious Than Money

Proof that the union has achieved its aims of an improved way of life for its members is contained in the contracts under which the members work. Two major contracts which have stabilized wages, conditions of employment, and benefits are in the Food and Drug industries, where agreements have been negotiated on an industry-wide basis. These contracts not only set an excellent wage standard, but also provide union members and their families with a complete medical and hospital plan, including surgery, X-ray, laboratory work, home and office doctor calls, and maternity care. In addition, many contracts include dental and psychiatric care for not only the union member but family members as well. As the members themselves so often say, these health benefits are "more precious than all the money in the world."

Benefit Payments

Also included in many Local 324 contracts is provision for benefit payments to supplement state unemployment and disability payments, so that if union members are unemployed or disabled, they can still maintain a decent living standard.

Pensions for retiring union members are another proof of the effectiveness of the union in negotiating beneficial contracts. In addition to Social Security, retirees at age 65 with 30 years' employment in the industry covered receive over $100 per month as well as continuing medical care and a cost-of-living adjustment to their pensions. Those members reaching retirement age with fewer years of service to the industry receive lesser amounts, depending on length of service.

Governor Brown had this to say about Local 324's benefit programs: "It is particularly gratifying to note the part that your developed and negotiated benefit programs have played in providing not only economic stability but health preservation and cultural growth as well for your membership."

Credit Union

An additional service to Local 324's members is its Federal Credit Union, which offers them an opportunity to borrow at very low interest rates and to save with high dividend returns.

In 1963, the Credit Union disbursed more than $800,000 in loans, and at year's end, the share deposits representing members' savings were also over $800,000. For the fifth consecutive year, the Credit Union paid a dividend of five per cent.

Social-Fraternal Events, Personalized Approach Spark Union Achievement

FEATURED AT Local 324's annual Labor Day Picnic, fun and food for all the family.

Local 324's success story goes much deeper than the basic elements of better wages and conditions for those working under union contracts.

The union personalizes much of its activities. The 10,000 members are not just so many names on a roster; Local 324 looks on them as members of one big family, with mutual goals and mutual problems. And as a result, an unusual number of special social and fraternal events are scheduled to bring members and their families together.

On Labor Day each of the last three years, more than 5,000 union members and their families have gathered for a gigantic picnic featuring food, fun, and frolic, and—on the serious side—major addresses from Governor Brown and other dignitaries. This event has become an annual tradition, a time when Local 324 families join hands in celebration of their union's achievements.

Another tradition is the Memorial Day Dinner-Dance, with dinner served under the stars and dancing in the union auditorium. This popular festivity attracts overflow crowds every year. It's obvious that the union members enjoy getting together for an evening of friendly camaraderie.

At Christmas, a special party is held for children of Local 324 members, with Santa Claus, special entertainment (this year it was a marionette show), and candy and a toy for each youngster. Here again, the members respond in large numbers for "their own" holiday event.

And still another innovation has been "Family Night"—a union meeting at which husbands and wives, and sons and daughters of members can see how a democratic union functions. The union feels that by bringing the family into the picture in this manner, everyone will have a better understanding of just what Local 324 accomplishes in behalf of the member and the family.

"A business corporation may be an impersonal thing to its thousands of stockholders," says Secretary Berland, "but a union can never be an impersonal organization to its members. The members of a union are the union and the union is a living, vital force in their lives."

Carrying the personal theme even further, the union sends birthday greetings to all members, and flowers and get-well cards to those who are hospitalized or ill. And when a member needs direct financial assistance, he may turn to the union's "Aid and Assistance Fund," set up specifically to help members when unexpected financial difficulties are encountered.

"We're here to help our members," says Secretary Berland. "In helping them, we help the community. That's what unions are for."

Arthur Z. Berland Heads Local 324 as Secretary-Treasurer

Guiding its destinies as administrative head of the 10,000-member union is Arthur Z. Berland, secretary-treasurer of Retail Clerks Union Local 324.

As executive head of one of the largest Retail Clerks' unions in the country, he is dedicated to rendering the maximum service to its membership and establishing a standard of living which benefits not only the members but the community as a whole.

The high degree of community respect for Berland and the union he heads has been graphically demonstrated during the past year as a direct result of Local 324's major contributions to community service. On behalf of Local 324 and its members, Berland has received honors from the American Red Cross, City of Hope, American Cancer Society, United Cerebral Palsy, Multiple Sclerosis Society, and United Way. All these organizations were given space for their own fund campaigns on 33 billboards posted throughout Southeast Los Angeles County and Orange County to call attention to the important position the Retail Clerks Union occupies in the community.

Berland's dedication to trade unionism, the guiding force in his personality, led to service as an elected Business Representative, Head of the Textile Division, and ultimately to his present position as Secretary-Treasurer. He was re-elected to office for a three-year term in November, 1962 by an overwhelming majority.

Berland's background embodies management as well as union administration, leading to an atmosphere of mutual respect and understanding between this union and employers in matters of labor-management relations.

"We are proud of our business-like approach in the conduct of our union affairs," Berland says.

"After all, meeting the needs of more than 10,000 union members is big business in itself, and it has to be approached this way."

The union publishes its own monthly newspaper, the Local 324 Reporter, which keeps the members up-to-date on all phases of union activity. The Reporter has been praised by labor leaders and government officials as an outstanding example of labor journalism.

One of the most significant special services to the union members and their families was inauguration of a college scholarship program, with $5,000 set aside annually to provide 14 scholarships during the academic years of 1962-63 and 1963-64.

Eligible to compete for the scholarship awards were Local 324 members, children of members, and wives or husbands of members. Selection of winners each year has been made by a Scholarship Committee composed of representatives of Long Beach State College, Orange County State College, Orange Coast College, and University of Southern California.

During each of these two years, one award of $750 has gone to a graduate student; a similar award ($750) has gone to an undergraduate student; two awards of $500 each have gone to undergraduates, and 10 awards of $250 each have been presented to undergraduates.

"We'd like to see the day when every high school graduate can look forward to attending college if he wishes," Secretary Berland says. "By assisting a number of students in continuing their education, we feel the union is making an important investment in the future of our country."

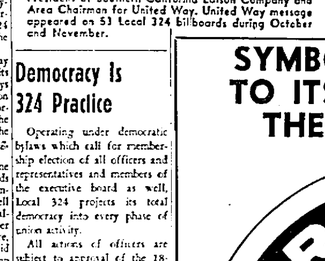

THESE YOUNG STUDENTS, winners in Local 324's 1963-64 $5,000 scholarship competition, received awards ranging from $250 to $750 to aid their higher education. 10 of the 14 winners this year were members of the union, 3 were members' daughters, one was a member's husband. At center, Local 324 Secretary-Treasurer Arthur Z. Berland.

Members Enjoy Many Services from 324

Inside Local 324's beautiful headquarters building, you'll find efficiency at work—a modern, departmentalized business utilizing the latest IBM equipment and methods to maintain up-to-the minute records on more than 10,000 union members, without sacrificing warm human relationships.

In addition to necessary membership records and data on eligibility for various negotiated benefits (health care, pensions, etc.), the union maintains many services to its members—a credit union, job placement, grievance processing, insurance claims, and other departments.

Thanks for Union Help

THANKS for Local 324's help expressed to Secretary Berland (left) by Thomas McDaniel, Executive Vice President of Southern California Edison Company and Area Chairman for United Way. United Way message appeared on 53 Local 324 billboards during October and November.

Democracy Is 324 Practice

Operating under democratic bylaws which call for membership election of all officers and representatives and members of the executive board as well, Local 324 projects its total democracy into every phase of union activity.

All actions of officers are subject to approval of the 18-member executive board and the membership.

"We feel that Local 324 is a classic example of democracy in action," Secretary Berland says. "We're proud of our membership participation and we want to keep it that way."

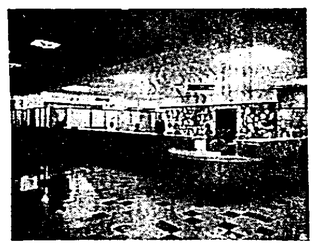

SYMBOL OF SERVICE TO ITS MEMBERS and THE COMMUNITY

Retail Clerks Union Local 324 proudly displays its symbol, worn as a union button by retail store personnel throughout the area served by the union. The symbol has been featured in an extensive public relations program, using newspapers and a year-long campaign with 53 billboards.

Better understanding of the union and its accomplishments as well as public acceptance of the "Union Store" has been the goal of Local 324's continuous advertising campaign. In addition, the union has projected its public service contributions by use of slogans incorporated into its billboards, calling attention to major community charities and the need for their support.

The billboard program, largest and first of its kind by a local union, covers illuminated signs in Long Beach and Orange County with a daily circulation of 650,000 motorists. That's 237,250,000 viewer impressions a year! The signs advertise union stores, promote charities, and instill pride of membership in Local 324.

Step through the front door. You're greeted by modern decor, functional design, friendly personnel.

Friendliness, Efficiency Highlight All Departments in Local 324

Anyone entering the Local 324 office cannot help being impressed by the friendly, yet efficient way in which every transaction is conducted.

In addition to members stopping at the union office for business purposes, there is a constant stream of interested persons inquiring about job opportunities, seeking information regarding various stores in the area, and hoping for the chance to become a member of the organization.

The entire Local 324 office has been designed specifically with service to the members in mind. Procedures such as furnishing information, taking applications, issuance of withdrawal cards, and other matters pertaining to membership in the organization are handled in the "general office."

These and other functions have been completely departmentalized, to achieve the highest degree of efficiency, yet retain a warm cordiality that marks Local 324's sincere interest in everyone served by the union in any way.

No matter which department a person may be referred to, the same courteous, helpful manner is always apparent throughout the Local 324 headquarters.

Funds Aid 324 Members

As a vital part of its contracts, Local 324 has negotiated extra protection for its members against the misfortunes of unemployment, illness, and injury.

To go along with unemployment insurance provided under state law, the union adds extra dollars in Supplemental Unemployment Benefits from an employer-contributed trust fund.

In 1963, there were 3,637 such checks issued to Local 324 members, providing $78,948 to help them carry on until they returned to work and a regular paycheck.

And much extra worry about the family income was eliminated through the union's Supplementary Disability Benefit program, which paid out a total of $182,140, covering 4,426 claims.

Local 324's Claims Department, which processes the supplemental benefit programs, also assists the members in many other ways.

This department collected for union members during 1963 more than $8,000 in disputed state unemployment benefits, and processed 221 Workmen's Compensation cases, collecting over $26,000 for the members involved.

As another service, Local 324 collected almost $1,000 in members' wages through the State Labor Commission.

There were 82 cases of disputed sick pay provisions under union agreements, in which the Claims Department collected almost $6,500 for members concerned.

The value of the Claims Department is best illustrated by more than $500,000 being paid to Local 324 members during 1963, which re-emphasizes a union slogan:

"It doesn't cost—it pays to belong to Retail Clerks Union Local 324!"

Over Million In Wage Hikes For Members

Year after year, wage increases previously negotiated in long-term contracts bring Local 324 members the benefits of a larger paycheck.

In fact, a conservative estimate of the economic impact of 1963 wage increases alone for Local 324 members would place the amount involved at well over $1,000,000.

In 1963, for example, food clerks received pay increases, including cost-of-living adjustments, totaling 9½ cents per hour.

Drug clerks also received 9½ cents hourly pay increases and cost-of-living adjustment during the year, while increases for pharmacists totaled 35 cents per hour.

For discount store clerks, wage increases during the year ranged from 7½ cents to as much as 44 cents per hour, with an over-all average pay raise of about 10 cents per hour.

New, Efficient Equipment Saves Union Dues Dollars

To maintain necessary records on membership status and other essential data, Local 324 has installed a completely modern Data Processing Department.

In addition to dues billing, this department maintains a constant flow of vital statistical information required to keep the union's records up-to-the-minute.

The constant growth of Local 324 from issuance of its original charter to eight members in July 1935 to its present membership of over 10,000 created the need for the most modern equipment available.

This modernization of office functions is in keeping with Local 324's policy of maintaining maximum efficiency in operation of the union's business affairs, without losing the personal touch which is evident throughout every Local 324 department.

Local 324 Cited for Service to MS Fund Drive

TV's PERRY MASON—Raymond Burr—acting in behalf of National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Southern California Chapter, presented Local 324 with handsome plaque expressing gratitude for union's assistance in 1963 fund campaign, through use of 53 billboards posted by Local 324. Receiving award, at right, Secretary Berland.

Elected Business Representatives

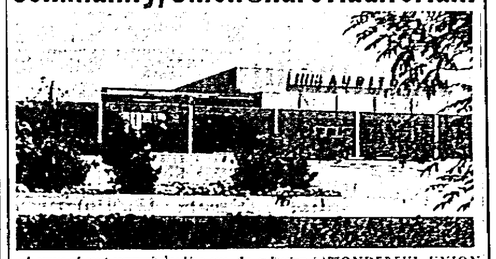

Serving the membership of Local 324 in the field are the Business Representatives, who are constantly on the job of checking stores under contract with the union, to see that provisions of the agreements are followed without exception.

During 1963, there were almost 500 wage claims processed through Local 324's Grievance Department, with the Business Representatives collecting over $29,000 for members filing reports of contract violations.

There were also 56 members put back to work after being discharged—another typical example of contract enforcement by the Local 324 Representatives.

Community, Union Share Auditorium

A source of great community pride is Local 324's beautiful auditorium, the largest and most modern in Orange County. In almost constant use, it serves not only for the monthly meetings of the union's members and for their social events, but also for important public and charity functions. In addition, it is available, at nominal rental, for use by conventions, trade shows, large or small meetings, and other group activities.

Seating 1200, and complete with catering kitchen, full stage facilities, and an expansive parking area, the auditorium is looked upon by Local 324 members as one more way in which they can prove their value to the community. They take great pride in their auditorium, just as they take great pride in their union and everything it stands for.

The sign permanently painted over the inside entrance doors of the auditorium is symbolic of what Local 324 members think of their organization, and what they believe others think of them: "THROUGH THESE PORTALS PASS THE MOST WONDERFUL UNION MEMBERS IN THE WORLD."

Of special interest during the past year has been development of a weekly teen age dance each Friday night, supervised by the Buena Park Police Reserve Association in cooperation with Local 324. The dances have been aptly described as "a positive plan designed to revise the concept of juvenile delinquency to juvenile decency throughout the Buena Park area."

1,200 to Attend Luncheon Here for Rockefeller

BY BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

A capacity audience of 1,200 will lunch here Thursday with New York Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the Lafayette Hotel International Ball Room. The host committee said it will return money to an estimated 1,000 others who bought tickets but could not be accommodated.

e Richard Sukman, committee chairman, urged all ticket-holders to be prompt because of the Rocketfellers' schedule, which allows them to visit here only between 11:30 a.m. and 12:55 p.m.

The Long Beach appearance will be the last of a three-day California visit by the Rockefellers in his campaign for votes in the state's June 2 presidential primary. The Republican governor will open his Northern California campaign headquarters in San Francisco Tuesday, his southern HQ in Los Angeles Wednesday.

Rockefeller will speak before a Wednesday-night dinner audience in the Hollywood Palladium over national closed-circuit television, a hookup which also will feature other possible GOP presidential candidates as well as declared candidate Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The Rockefellers' schedule includes a number of private meetings with party leaders and a public reception at Peacock Gap Country Club in Marin County, hosted by State Sen. Jack McCarthy and Assemblyman William Bagley.

Working with Sukman on local arrangements is a luncheon committee headed by George P. Taubman Jr.

WOMEN VOTERS

The 19 chapter constituting the League of Women Voters of Los Angeles County will meet from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday in the Furniture Mart, 1933 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, for a "Focus on Los Angeles County" program.

Participants in a county-government discussion will include members of the Board of Supervisors, the district attorney, assessor and sheriff.

Program features include a demonstration of voting machines and a panel discussion on rapid transit.

RESIGNS FOR ROCKY

A second member of the Republic State Central Committee, Vice President Mrs. Lee Sherry of Fairfax, has announced resignation from the committee in order to serve with the Rockefeller for President Committee.

Mrs. Sherry said she agreed with State Committee Treasurer Robert Rowan, first to resign, that party officials who support specific candidates in a contested primary should leave their committee posts.

Mrs. Sherry said she has endorsed and will work actively for Rockefeller "because he has a positive program —not just a list of things he is against. This is what women voters want, and they want a winner." She said the vast majority of Republican women "are not ultraconservative, as too many pundits would have it, but with enlightened stability. . . . The silent rank and file needs to find a home. It is here. Governor Rockefeller can win."

Bad Material Blamed in Navy Air Crashes

POMONA (UPI)—The commander of the Naval Air Force, U.S. Pacific Fleet, Vice Adm. Paul D. Stroop, Saturday stated faulty material plays a part in almost half of the Navy's aircraft accidents.

"During the last five years, 721 pilots were killed and 1,762 aircraft were totally destroyed," Stroop reported. The only cause of accidents more common than material failure was "pilot error," Stroop said. Pointing to the 112 Navy and Marines Corps pilots killed in fiscal 1963, Stroop commented that "this is approximately 10 percent of the yearly output of the Training Command."

Speaking before the 77th annual Inland Empire Quality Control Conference, Stroop said 23.3 percent of aircraft accidents last year were traced to faulty material. An additional 19.7 percent of accidents were partly caused by such failures making "a total involvement for material failure of 43 percent for fiscal 1963," Stroop said.

Stroop pointed to "a consistent downward trend in the accident rate." But he added quickly, the cost per accident increased from $286,000 in 1959 to a staggering $546,000 in 1963.

He said the 275 aircraft destroyed in 1963, 115 of them "high-performance, high-cost jets," were the equivalent of 10 new jet squadrons. This is "approximately 10 percent of the naval aviation combat potential," Stroop said.

POSTHUMOUSLY

Navy Man's Work Cited

Mrs. Lois Brissey, of 722 American Gold Star Homes, accepted a posthumous letter of commendation aboard the destroyer USS Cowell, citing her late husband, Edgar, for "outstanding achievement and superior performance of duty" while serving aboard that ship in 1962.

The award, signed by Adm. U. S. G. Sharp, commander-in-chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet, cited the first-class boilerman for his work in repairing the power mechanism of the ship under hazardous conditions. Brissey was killed in a shipboard accident aboard the Cowell in 1962.

562-TON SATURN TO BE LAUNCHED MONDAY

Moonshot Tests Slated This Week

CAPE KENNEDY, (UPI) — America plans two key steps this week in its climb to the moon with an orbital firing Monday of the rocket billed as the world's largest by the late President Kennedy, and a Ranger moonshot four days later.

The 562-ton Saturn-5, to be launched at 7 a.m. PST Monday is the forerunner of boosters that will hurl men to the moon before 1970. It will be the first in the successful Saturn series to carry a satellite.

The Ranger, sixth in its ill-fated program, is designed to provide the first close-up lunar pictures needed for manned landings. It is set to be rocketed into space Thursday.

It will be one of the nation's most ambitious weeks in its drive to conquer space. Russia's space program apparently also has been active. Last Thursday, the Soviet Union announced it had launched "new improved" space rockets expected to carry cosmonauts into orbit later this year.

RANGER-6, to be boosted on its 2½-day voyage to the moon by an Atlas Agena, has been revamped to get the nation's failure-plagued lunar exploration program moving. Five previous Rangers and nine other moon probes have failed, although a lifeless Ranger hit the moon in 1962.

President Kennedy proudly examined the towering Saturn and its $65 million launch complex at this sprawling spaceport six days before his death. In the last address before his assassination, he predicted the mighty Saturn would give the United States the lead in rocket power.

The 16-story rocket, first of the new breed of "superboosters," will carry a live second stage for the first time and will loft into orbit the world's largest man-made satellite — 18 tons of useless burned out rocket casing and sand.

Lung Victim Murrow Quits Cigarettes

LA JOLLA (UPI)—Edward R. Murrow, who resigned as head of the U.S. Information Agency to recuperate from a lung operation, has given up —at least temporarily — his trademark, cigarettes.

Murrow, whose burning cigarette became a familiar sight to millions to television viewers, said he has quit smoking at least temporarily.

He underwent lung surgery last October and is recuperating here., where he and his wife are the house guests of biologist Jonas Salk.

11 Die in Train Wreck

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Eleven persons were killed Saturday and 19 other injured when a freight train rammed into a passenger train in a railway station near Kladno, the official news agency CTK reported.

Portugal Imposes Tax on Night Life, Casinos

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—A broad range of excise and entertainment taxes is building up Portugal's state welfare fund this year. The cost of night life is going up.

The government has imposed a 2 percent levy on the receipts of legitimate theaters and 10 percent on the take of casinos, dance halls and luxury class cafes.

Movie houses must turn over 5 percent of their receipts to this fund for the benefit of the underprivileged. Sports events, circuses and bullfights are assessed 3 percent.

A 10 percent tax is imposed on all wines and liquor consumed in hotels and restaurants and a further 10 percent is added to already expensive foreign liquors and tobacco.

The sale of every box of matches will contribute 10 centavos—about one-third of one U.S. cent.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Favorable Senate Vote Foreseen on Tax Measure

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

An $11.5 billion, two-year federal tax cut which President Johnson hopes will pump new life into the nation's economic stream became assured last week.

Americans in all walks of life will benefit. So will business.

The tax-writing Senate Finance Committee approved most sections of a bill already passed by the House and hoped to get it to the Senate floor this week for a certain favorable vote.

• • • •

THE PRESIDENT earlier had handed Congress a $97.9 billion "economy and progress" budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, along with a rosy economic forecast. But he had tied both to the urgency of tax reduction.

Without an immediate cut, he said, the present business boom could backslide into a recesson and higher red ink spending would be inevitable.

Senate investigators digging into the tangled financial affairs of former Democratic Senate Secretary Secretary Robert G. (Bobby) Baker disclosed that President Johnson, when he was Senate Democratic leader in 1959, was given a $580 stereo hi-fi set by Don B. Reynolds, local insurance dealer, at Baker's request.

The President called a press conference and volunteered the information that he had supposed the hi-fi was a present from Baker and that it was not unusual for him Baker to exchange gifts. He said Baker "expected nothing in return."

JOHNSON said he had had no communication with Reynolds since 1957 when his wife and daughters took out $200,000 of insurance on his life after his 1955 heart attack. He said the insurance was taken out in the name of the family-owned LBJ Co., Texas radio-television station, to protect their interests.

Reynolds figured in the inquiry as an associate of Baker's. He admitted he had not communicated with the president either before or after the hi-fi was sent to the Johnson home.

French President Charles de Gaulle continued rocking the Allied boat with his announced intention to recognize the Red Chinese government, probably this week. The United States sent him a firm protest and in return got a short, dry rejection. American officials fear many of France's former colonies in Africa as well as other countries will follow De Gaulle's lead. Belgium and Mexico gave such hints.

STILL undisclosed were the terms Peking would attach to recognition but French sources said De Gaulle would not break relations with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist China which is based on Formosa.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said after talking with Johnson that De Gaulle was weakening the Allied position in turbulent east Asia. A bipartisan group of senators was gathering signatures to petition De Gaulle to abandon his plan. Japan was reported preparing to expand trade with Red China because of impending French recognition.

De Gaulle also was making overtures to Russia and Latin America. U.S. officials said his independent course seemed to be a reaffirmation of his goal of making France a world power at the helm of a Europe independent of the United States.

In Moscow, Khrushchev announced a new long-term trade pact with Communist Cuban Premier Fidel Castro whose allegiance to the Soviet Union and Peking has been divided. This was seen as a down-payment for Castro's support in Russia's ideological split with Red China. Castro flew to Moscow with hand out as the U.S. economic boycott made existence of his regime less tenable.

The U.S. State Department said Castro seemed to have "lined up" with Moscow against Red China as the price for needed Soviet aid. It also asserted that Cuban-trained rebels took part in the recent Zanzibar revolt.

In politics the field actively running for the Republican presidential nomination expanded to three when 56-year-old Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, announced his candidacy. The other two, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, were intensifying their campaigns.

Pollster Louis Harris reported, meantime, that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has announced he would accept a draft, "holds a decisive lead" among GOP voters and would run the strongest race against Johnson.

Stassen tried to get the 1956 GOP convention to dump Nixon as its vice presidential nominee. He said he was entering the race at the suggestion of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower who favors a free-for-all to stimulate interest in the party.

President Johnson's political aides circulated results of a Democratic-sponsored Pennsylvania poll purporting to show he would carry the Keystone state over any of the present or potential GOP candidates. At Newark, N.J., a campaign was started to persuade Johnson to tap U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson as his running-mate.

Rep. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late FDR, announced he intends to become a candidate for the California Democratic senatorial nomination. The seat is now held by Sen. Clair Engle, a fellow Democrat, who is running for re-election despite recent brain surgery.

The poll tax as a voting requirement in federal elections was outlawed automatically when South Dakota became the 38th state to ratify a constitutional amendment — the 24th — making it illegal. Poll taxes, now in force only in Virginia, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi and Texas, have been levied almost since the birth of the republic.

On other news fronts, the House Rules Committee deadlock on civil rights legislation—one of Johnson's priority programs — was broken and House floor debate on passage will begin Jan. 31, with approval expected by Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12.

Edward R. Murrow, noted radio-television reporter and commentator, resigned as director of the U.S. Information Agency and the Voice of America because of poor health. He had a cancerous lung removed last October.

The President named Carl T. Rowan, present ambassador to Finland, as his successor. Rowan, a Negro, was a reporter for the Tribune before joining the government in 1961. He will become the first Negro in history to sit in regularly on meetings of the cabinet and the National Security Council.

Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson visited Johnson and the two agreed to try and head off U.S.-Canadian friction through a new economic golden rule covering complex relations between the two countries.

Lamb Chop Breaks Ankle, Destroyed; Gun Bow by 12

By ERNIE MASON

Gun Bow won the $132,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes Saturday by 12 lengths but the Santa Anita feature brought tragedy — and death—to Lamb Chop, America's premier filly in 1963.

Lamb Chop stumbled in the backstretch, fell and broke an ankle and was destroyed soon after.

• • • •

JOCKEY Manuel Ycaza, who rode Lamb Chop to many of her nine stakes triumphs last year, was unhurt. But emotionally upset, he withdrew from the day's final race.

The speedy 4-year-old filly was running well in the rear of the field when she snapped her left front ankle. Taken to the stable area, Lamb Chop could not be saved in the opinion of veterinarians and she was put away by Dr. John Peters.

Gun Bow, ridden by Willie Shoemaker, was the betting favorite with the crowd of 52,925. Lamb Chop, the lone filly in the race, was the second choice.

Gun Bow, a stakes winner here last week, equalled the track record of 1:59 4/5 set by the great Round Table in the 1¼ mile race in 1958. Shoemaker was Round Table's rider that day.

Rocky Link was second in a photo-finish decision over Win-em-All, with Big Raff fourth.

The winner paid $6, $4.60 and $3.60. Rocky Link, with Don Pierce up, returned $25.60 and $13. Win-em-All, an entry with Sy Gem, paid $5.

The victory was worth $87,000 to Gun Bow's Gedney Farms.

William Haggin Perry, owner of Lamb Chop, was told that because the leg was broken completely loose, it was impossible to save the filly for breeding.

"She seemed to bobble the first time as she went by the stands," Ycaza said afterwards. "Then she bobbled again entering the backstretch and I thought she was going wrong. Before I could ease her up she snapped her leg.

"I feel very, very bad about this. Lamb Chop was really a great filly and this injury saddens me."

Jockey Longden hustled Nevada Battler into a quick lead, with Sky Gem and Win-em-All in close pursuit as the pack went past the grandstand the first time.

Lamp Chop was third from last at this stage. Gun Bow was rated around fourth, and moving in the second spot as they rounded the clubhouse turn.

Shoemaker kept Gun Bow within range of the front pace and then took over with a rush at about the half-mile point.

• • • •

A MASSIVE groan arose when the crowd saw the filly go down.

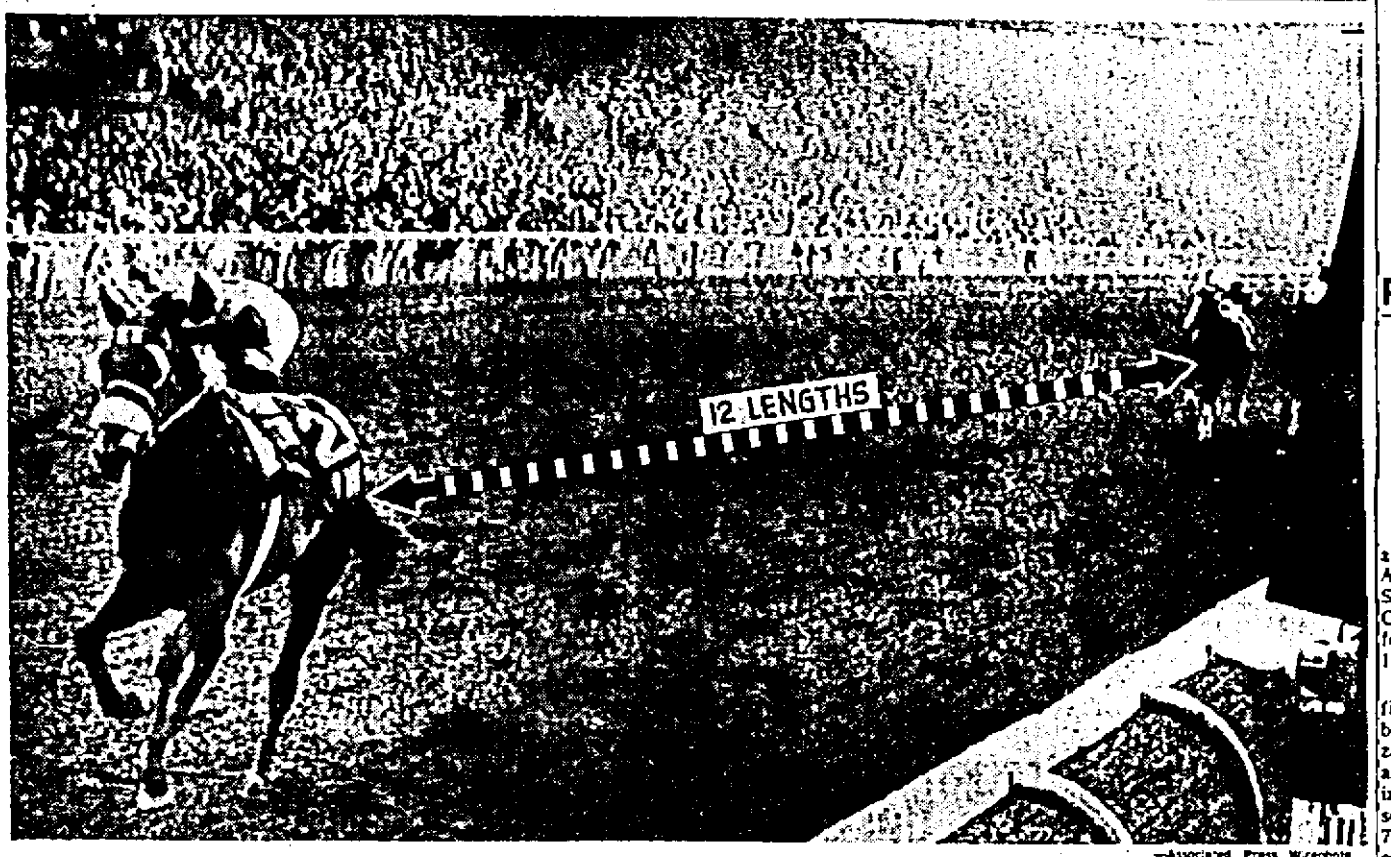

As Ycaza leaped off, she limped towards the outer rail but did not bolt. Ycaza walked over to her and held the reins as the race continued. She finally was taken off the track in the horse ambulance.

This was only the second race at Santa Anita for Lamb Chop since the meeting began Dec. 26. She finished a strong second to Gun Bow in an overnight race Jan. 15.

In the secondary feature, the $10,000 El Peco Ranch Purse, South African Colorado King scored a head victory in his U.S. debut.

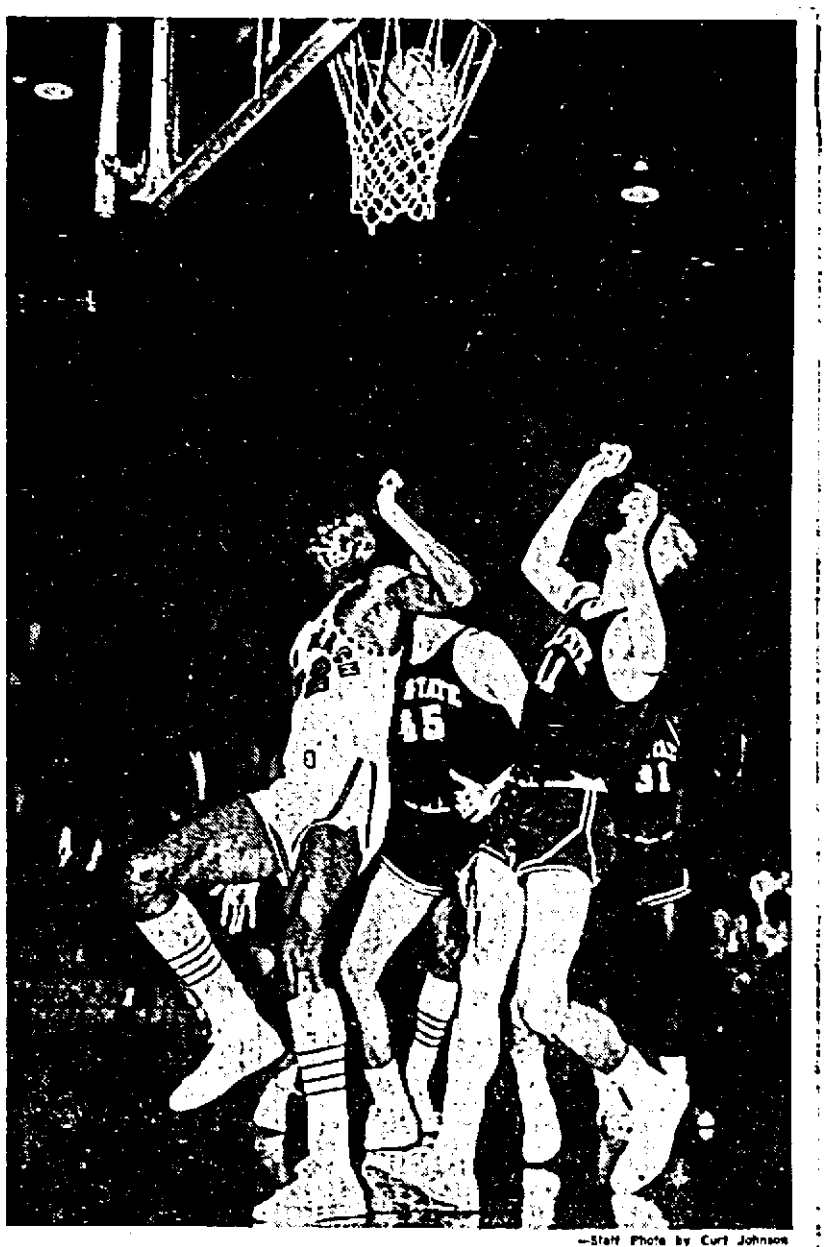

With Longden riding, Colorado King overtook Ronnie's Ace and Vetirok in the stretch of the 6½-furlong turf race. Colorado King was sent off as the second betting choice and returned $8.60, $6.20 and $5.20.

WAR DANCE?

RAMBO SCORES 37, BUT—

Diablos Dash 49er Title Hopes, 90-85, in Overtime

By AL LARSON

Long Beach State suffered a bitter 90-85 setback to Los Angeles State in overtime Saturday night to see its CCAA title hopes dashed before an incensed crowd of 1,500 in the 49er gym.

Trailing by 13 points in the first half, coach Dick Perry's beach city five shifted to a zone defense at intermission and when Lyn Hodge slipped in a basket as the final buzzer sounded gained new life, 72-72, forcing a five-minute overtime session.

Thanks to the herculean efforts of John Rambo, who scored 37 points, the 49ers jumped ahead, 77-75, but the Diablos then regained their poise and started a game-clinching rally.

• • • •

CLARENCE Wilson and Dick Barton scored baskets and with 1:04 to go, Wilson put L.A. ahead for good, 82-81. Jack Golphenee pumped in a two-pointer and Ken Renaud flipped in a pair of free throws to give Bill Sharman's freeway five an 86-81 advantage with 50 seconds to go. Rambo contributed with two free throws, but Caldwell Black wrapped up matters with two charity tosses with only 16 seconds remaining.

This was old hat for Black, for he made good on 16 attempts from the foul line. He led LASC scorers with 20 points.

• • • •

LOS ANGELES (4-1) now is only one game behind Fresno (5-0) as the first round of conference play drew to a close.

Rambo's sensational scoring output fell one point shy of Bill Florentine's school mark of 38. Rambo hit 15 of 27 field goal attempts along with seven free throws and was one of only two Long Beach starters not to foul out.

The game was only one or two elbows short of turning into a riot on several occasions. A total of 58 personal fouls were whistled—35 assessed against the 49ers.

Long Beach outscored Los Angeles by six field goals, 33-27, but the Diablos' ultimate margin was determined at the charity line. They converted 36 of 50 attempts. Long Beach was 19 for 29.

• • • •

JOHN BARNICOAT finished with 19 points for Long Beach before fouling out with 9:57 to go in regulation play. Ken Knapp, Al Windfeldt and Hodge followed him to the bench with five personals. L.A. lost three players—Wilson, Barton and Vern Jordan—on infractions.

L.A. shot 39 percent from the field (27 for 69) while Long Beach had another hot night, connecting on 33 of 74 shots for a 45 percent mark. The Diablos now have won eight of their last nine games while the loss snapped a three-game 49er victory string.

Blades Rap Canucks to Regain 2nd Place

By RICH ROBERTS

The Blades are back in second place in the Western Hockey League, but their sights are set higher than that.

Saturday night's 6-4 win over Vancouver pleased coach Alf Pike as well as 8,657 fans at the L.A. Sports Arena and put the Blades in a winning frame of mind for the next seven days.

"This is going to be the biggest week of the season," Pike said.

The "biggest week" starts tonight with a game at Portland, picks up tempo against league-leading Denver in Colorado Tuesday and Thursday, then sweep into a crescendo with two more against the pacesetters at home Friday and Saturday.

"Even three out of four against Denver wouldn't help us much with the lead they have," Pike said. "But four straight sure would."

• • • •

IDLE SAN Francisco fell back to third place from whence it had arisen in Thursday's win over the Blades, who never trailed in a free-scoring affair featured by Jimmy Baird's two goals against his former teammates.

Early in the first period the Blades had a 2-0 lead and early in the second they led, 5-2. But each time the Canucks, acting quite unlike the league's last-place team, charged back to apply the pressure.

The Blades' prettiest play of the game produced Baird's first goal and a temporary 2-0 edge. Marc Boileau brought the puck down the right side and centered it perfectly to Baird, who was waiting at the mouth of the goal.

• • • •

THE SAME combo improved on a one-goal win by ganging up on Vancouver defenseman Ron Matthews and an empty net with 19 seconds remaining.

But the Blades' "speed line" made the winning margin. Willie O'Ree got the fourth goal from a scramble at 4:35 of the second period and Stan Maxwell broke away from the right side 48 seconds later to make it 5-2.

All of the Blade lines were pumping the puck at Canuck goalie Marcel Paille, who stopped 42 shots to 27 for the Blades' Jim McLeod.

McLeod was embarrassed for Vancouver's third and fourth goals. Bob McCusker's shot appeared to be stopped, then crawled over McLeod's shoulder into the goal. Then Jim tossed a save right at the skates of Dave Duke, who took his time to fake the goalie for an easy score.

• • • •

BAIRD WAS named "star of the game," followed by Blade defenseman Harley Hodgson, who was instrumental in the work of the penalty-killing crew, and McCusker.

The Southern California Hockey Writers and the Blades Booster Club played to a scoreless tie in their broom ball classic that featured the best fight of the night.

Most of the players piled up in the writers' goal and the referee finished the game in the penalty box.

January Grabs Lucky Lead as Arnie Falters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Texas Don January finished his round with three consecutive threes Saturday to grab the third round lead from a faltering Arnold Palmer and a charging Ray Floyd in the Lucky International Golf Tournament with a 54-hole score of 204.

He fired a 36-34—70 for a one-under-par effort to take a one-shot lead over Palmer who had a 72 Saturday and Floyd, who had a 69.

Floyd, engaged in a head-and-head battle with second-round leader Palmer, had a chance to tie for the lead but bogied the final hole.

• • • •

THERE WAS A traffic jam at 206 involving Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico, Gene Littler, Jack Rule, Dave Ragan and Mason Rudolph. Rodriguez had the finest round of the day, a six-under-par 65.

January parred all holes on the front nine and appeared to be dropping out of contention when he bogied the 12th and 14th as he three-putted both greens. He had a bird on the 13th with a four-footer.

Then he started cracking his approach irons stiff to the pin. He hit to within 18 inches of the cup on the 16th for a birdie, parred the par—three 17th and then knocked a four-and one-half footer on the 18th for the bird that gave him the lead.

Meanwhile, Palmer, the second round leader, ran into three straight bogies early in the going as he engaged in a head-and-head battle with 21-year-old Floyd, golf's 1963 "rookie of the year."

Floyd could have taken the lead with a birdie on the 18th, or could have tied for it with a par. But his approach shot missed the green and he chipped to within four feet of the hole. But he missed the putt for his only bogy of the day.

He hit 17 greens and had three birdies with putts of 18, 10 and eight feet.

January said that he played

Wounded Brito Fights Back

More than two years ago, the same dread disease that took the life of the immortal Lou Gehrig struck down the Ram's Gene Brito.

Doctors shook their heads and agreed on one thing: Gene Brito had no more than a few weeks to live.

Today, Brito is alive, not entirely healthy, but alive and with his wife and children. Frank X. O'Neil has forwarded an article from Columbia, the Knights of Columbus publication, that expresses the former all-pro's attitude today (an attitude we all might do well to consider).

GENE BRITO
Finds Silver Lining

"We're put on earth not to become rich or successful," says Brito, "but to become saints. If what has happened to me helps save my soul, I'll be a happy man."

A 10-year veteran of pro football, five times an all-pro end and once named the NFL's outstanding performer, Brito was being compared to the likes of Carlisle's Jim Thorpe, Notre Dame's George Gipp and Stanford's Ernie Nevers.

Then, without warning, in 1961 at the Ram camp in Redlands, it happened.

At first it was just a feeling of tiredness which Brito attributed to the hot weather and the fact he was a little out of shape. Later, when his tiredness gave way to complete exhaustion, he became alarmed.

When he tried to run his legs felt like lead, his cleats caught in the turf, his arms lost their muscle coordination.

When scrimmages began, Gene found himself hoping he'd be allowed to sit on the bench. The thought of having others notice his condition sickened him. Finally, almost too weak to move, he went to general manager Elroy Hirsch.

"Something's wrong with me," said Brito. "I don't know what it is, but I can't go on."

Stunned, Hirsch promptly arranged for Gene to enter a hospital and undergo a series of tests. When they were over, Gene returned to camp to await the verdict.

HIS WIFE, JUNE, broke the crushing news to him.

"The doctors say you have peripheral neuritis of the lower part of your body," she told him. "They want to run more tests, but they said one thing was certain: You can't play football any more."

Crushed in soul as well as body, Brito left the training camp at once and returned home. Soon, he couldn't even feed himself or tie his shoes.

"I was all thumbs," sighs Brito even today. "When I tried to eat, I couldn't make the fork hit my mouth."

The hospital was the next step for Gene and his condition got so bad that in February, 1962, he was given the last rites of the Catholic Church.

For weeks, Brito lived in an iron lung, hovering between life and death.

Then, something—and even the doctors don't know what—happened. Brito was able to breathe for a minute or two on his own, then he graduated from the iron lung to a wheelchair.

IN AUGUST, 1962, a year to the day from the time he first became ill, Brito made his first public appearance on a football field. You may remember the occasion—when the Rams played the Redskins and Gene received a five-minute standing ovation . . . and, later, the game ball.

Though still in a wheelchair at his West Covina home, Gene has some comments that I think it is appropriate for all of us to study on this Sunday.

"Lots of people get bad breaks," says Brito. "It's what you do with them that counts. You can panic or you can get a new set of values. You can despair or you can put yourself in God's Hands.

"When I got out of service, I never expected to be anything more than a day laborer. I certainly never expected to go to college, much less play big time football—yet I did both and because of that I've made thousands of friends I could never have known otherwise."

"BEING SICK HAS ITS advantages," continues Brito. "It gives you a chance to explore the whole meaning and purpose of life. Before I became ill I had a normal, healthy interest in getting out and doing things—having a good time, in fact.

"Now I realize my outlook was a little hazy. I read or heard somewhere that our big job on earth is not to achieve happiness—but holiness. If being weak and helpless enables me to understand that fully, then I'm a very lucky man."

Whether he ever walks again, whether he is able to live normally as other men, is beyond human conjecture.

One thing, however, is certain: Gene Brito is not fighting his battle alone.

Without raising a finger—smiles Gene, "I couldn't if I wanted to"—his courage continues to get in motion a sort of nationwide emotional telepathy among people of all colors and creeds.

The cloud in Gene Brito's life does have a silver lining.

Wilt & Mates Overwhelm Lakers

LANCERS KNOCK OFF MILLIKAN, 57-53

By DOUG IVES

Underdog Lakewood High took over undisputed second place in the Moore League Saturday night as junior guard Tom Meeks provided the tie-breaking and insurance points that gave the Lancers a thrilling 57-53 win over arch-rival Millikan.

A crowd of 1,500 at City College watched the lead change hands 12 times before Meeks rammed in a long jumper with 2:28 left to snap a 51-51 tie, then sink two foul shots at 0:30 to put the game on ice.

Held to 12 points in his last two games, Meeks came through with 15 Saturday and with center Dick Nelson and forward Lee Waters combined for 44 of the Lancers' points.

Millikan, meanwhile, was virtually a two-man show with reliable Bill Johnston hitting 23 points and surprising Marlin Kidder 18. Snarlin' Marlin also pulled down 20 rebounds, one less than Nelson.

• • • •

THE LAKEWOOD trio turned out to be too much for the Millikan duo when it counted most as they scored every one of Lakewood's 16 fourth-quarter points. Nelson finished with 18 and Waters 11.

Millikan, which led by seven after the first period but went 5½ minutes without a point to open the second stanza to trail 25-23 at half, enjoyed its last lead (48-47) on Kidder's 12-foot jumper with 4:21 to go.

Meeks countered with a lay-in at 4:04, Kidder tied it with a foul shot at 3:48, then Nelson, on a pass from Pod Gaspar, scored on a cripple with 3:01 left. The Rams got even again, 51-51, however, as soph Bob Davis scored at 2:42.

After Meeks' tie-breaker, Waters tipped in Gaspar's missed free throw following a Lakewood stall and after both clubs failed on field shots, Meeks put it away with his free throws.

Millikan outshot Lakewood from the floor, but the taller Lancers pulled down 43 rebounds to the Rams' 29.

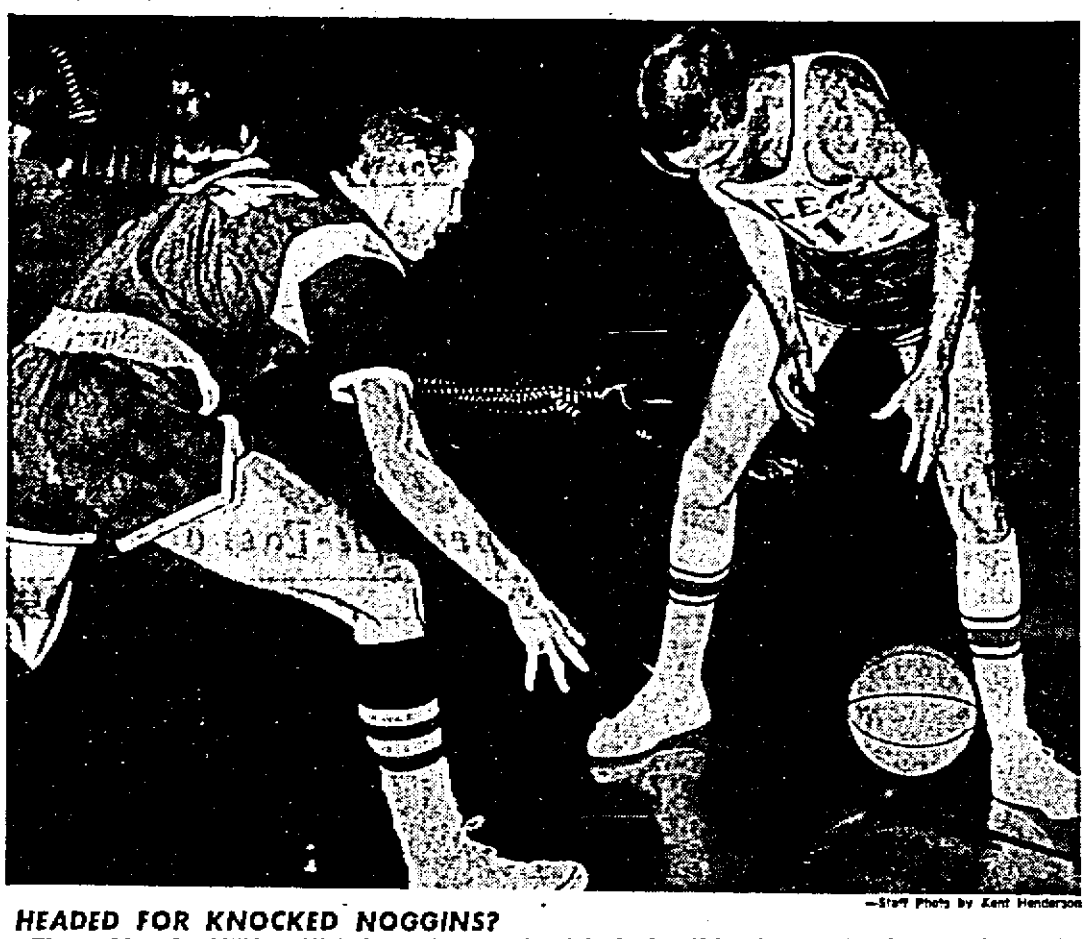

The victory gave Lakewood a 2-1 record and left the co-champion Rams at 1-2. The Lancers move up in class Wednesday when they host pacesetting Poly.

HEADED FOR KNOCKED NOGGINS?
The problem for Millikan High forward Joe Blake (left) is that if he charges after ball that bounced away from Lakewood's Tom Meeks, Blake is liable to smack heads as both bend over for it. But neither got konked and Lakewood went on to win 57-53 league decision.

Clash at LA Arena Tonight

By DON HARDIN

The Lakers and San Francisco Warriors war again tonight at the L. A. Sports Arena.

But the time, as usual for these Sunday affairs, will be 7:05 instead of the customary week-night 8:30 tipoffs.

Saturday night, in the second of the three-night series between the NBA giants, Wilt Chamberlain and Co. had much the best of it with a 120-95 victory before a sellout throng of 5,389 at the University of San Francisco gym.

• • • •

CHAMBERLAIN scored 40 points, 12 of them coming midway in the final period to put the game out of reach and the win was just as easy for the Warriors as the win obtained by the Lakers at the Arena Friday night.

Jerry West was held far below his normal average with 19 points. Dick Barnett led the local crew with 23 points and Elgin Baylor, still being held in check somewhat, had 22.

Now, if the 18-point win margin by the Lakers Friday, and the Warriors' bulge of 25 Saturday could be equalized tonight, we might have a ball game. The Lakers still are trying to shake off the pesky Warriors and St. Louis Hawks and are having little luck doing so.

Tonight's contest is a makeup for one originally scheduled when former President Kennedy was assassinated. Tickets for that Nov. 23 game will be honored tonight but others are available at the Arena box office and at Mutuel Ticket Agencies. Another crowd in excess of 10,000 is anticipated.

• • • •

ONE OF THE most interesting preliminary games of the season will be played starting at 5:30, so eat early or plan to do so late, because this one really is a treat. A hand-picked group of L. A. County All-Stars, including eight from the Long Beach Boys Club Assn., will face the nationally-famous trick ball-handling squad of boys from Tacoma, Wash.—the Cheney Studs.

The Studs, ranging in age from 11 through 13 as do the All-Stars, have appeared on TV many times.

2-Mile Triumph for Baillie

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—New Zealand's Bill Baillie sped to a meet record of 8:31.9 in the two-mile run Saturday night at the Oregon Invitational indoor track meet.

Baillie set the pace all by himself after European distance champion Gaston Roelants of Belgium dropped out with a pulled achilles tendon with 13 laps of the 22-lap race remaining.

The 29-year-old New Zealander, already the world record holder at 20,000 meters, was making his first indoor race and the only one on a short trip to the United States.

His effort was the highlight of a night which saw five meet records broken and the upsets of pole vaulter C. K. Yang, last year's most valuable performer here, and NCAA sprint champion Larry Questad.

Yang was beaten by unknown Nels Siverson from Washington State, who went 15-8. Yang's best was 15-4.

Wayne Herman from San Jose State scored an upset victory in the 60-yard dash in 6.3. Last year's NCAA 100-yard dash champion, Larry Questad of Stanford, finished third.

Olympic long jump champion Ralph Boston won the 60-yard high hurdles in 7.3 seconds with Steve Cortwright of Stanford right behind.

The Shockers, racking up their eighth win in a row and their 14th against only three defeats, handed Loyola its third loss in 14 games and its second consecutive setback.

Free throws made the difference. Wichita sank 22 of 28, including its last 13 in a row. Les Hunter led Loyola with 36.

• • • •

AT GREENSBORO, N.C., Jeff Mullins scored three of his 33 points in the last minute of the second overtime as Duke, ranked eighth by AP and ninth by UPI, edged Tennessee, 67-65.

Kentucky enhanced its position of moving back up by exacting revenge against its jinx rival, Georgia Tech. The Wildcats pinned a 79-62 defeat on the Engineers after trailing 39-37 at half.

Snazzy Cazzie Russell had 34 points as Michigan defeated Michigan State, 91-77 before a crowd of 12,239 in East Lansing. However, the Big Ten star of the day was Ohio State's Gary Bradds, who had 47 points in a 98-57 win over Purdue.

Record Indoor 300; O'Brien Wins Shotput

WINNIPEG, Man. (UPI)—Tom Robinson, a native of the Bahamas now running for the Toronto Track Club, established an indoor record for the 300 meters with a timing of 35 seconds flat in the Tournament of Champions Saturday night.

The distance is rarely run in competition. The mark is two seconds off the American outdoor record.

The old indoor record was 36.4 seconds, held jointly by George Short of the University of Alberta and Larry Dunn of Arizona.

Shot-putter Parry O'Brien of Pasadena, Calif. and Toronto's Bill Crothers also established Canadian records. Crothers hustled to a 1:09.7 clocking in the 600-yard run while O'Brien had a toss of 52 feet 2¾ inches.

Ramblers 'Shocked;' 'Cats Win

Compiled from Wire Reports

First it was the University of Cincinnati that started losing this college basketball season after a long rule on top. Now it looks like defending NCAA champion Loyola of Chicago is falling even faster.

Wichita, ranked eighth by UPI and in a tie for 10th on the AP poll, got a 29-point effort by Dave Stallworth to defeat the No. 2 ranked Ramblers, 80-76 Saturday night in Chicago.

The Shockers, racking up their eighth win in a row and their 14th against only three defeats, handed Loyola its third loss in 14 games and its second consecutive setback.

Free throws made the difference. Wichita sank 22 of 28, including its last 13 in a row. Les Hunter led Loyola with 36.

AT GREENSBORO, N.C., Jeff Mullins scored three of his 33 points in the last minute of the second overtime as Duke, ranked eighth by AP and ninth by UPI, edged Tennessee, 67-65.

Kentucky enhanced its position of moving back up by exacting revenge against its jinx rival, Georgia Tech. The Wildcats pinned a 79-62 defeat on the Engineers after trailing 39-37 at half.

Snazzy Cazzie Russell had 34 points as Michigan defeated Michigan State, 91-77 before a crowd of 12,239 in East Lansing. However, the Big Ten star of the day was Ohio State's Gary Bradds, who had 47 points in a 98-57 win over Purdue.

Florida Tee Final

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Floridians Nancy Roth of Hollywood and Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach advanced to the finals of the Doherty golf tournament Saturday.

Hayes Ties 60 Yd. Record; 49ers 3rd in 2-Mile Relay

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—World record holder Bob Hayes of Florida A&M eased to a yard and a half victory in the 60 yard dash and tied the indoor record of 6.0 seconds in the Albuquerque Indoor Invitational track meet here Saturday night.

Hayes, holder of the indoor 60 and outdoor 100 world marks, was slow off the blocks but overcame an early half-step advantage by University of New Mexico freshman Bernie Rivers and tied the record.

Rivers was second in 6.1 seconds with Willie Williams of the Southern Cal Striders third in the same time.

Long Beach State finished third in the two mile open relay behind Oklahoma State and the University of Oklahoma.

THE 49ERS closed fast, but were hampered by Steve Tilney's slow 2:00 in the first half mile. Tom Jennings, 1:57.8; Ralph Lee, 1:55.5, and Darryl Taylor, 1:55.1 followed for a time of 7:45.4. Oklahoma State won in 7:42.8, while Oklahoma's time was 7:47.4.

Texas Southern was fourth in 7:48.5 and New Mexico fifth in 7:50.0.

Taylor, after running LBSC's best leg on the two-mile relay, came back to finish third in the 1,000 yard run. Jim Dupree of the Striders won in 2:18.4, ahead of Ron Singleton of New Mexico (2:20.5) and Taylor (2:21.0).

Colorado's Jim Miller upset Pan American Games' high hurdle champ Blaine Lindghen in the 60-yard hurdles.

1,000—Dupree (Striders) 2:18.4; Singleton (New Mexico) 2:20.5; Taylor (Long Beach State) 2:21.0.

3-mile—Young (unattached, Cota Grande, Ariz.) 9:12.9; Lauder (unattached, Roswell, N.M.) 9:23.2; Burton (Western New Mexico) 9:26.2.

Mile relay—Oklahoma State (Ray Bothwell, Dave Perry, Jack Miller, John Miller) 3:14.1; Striders 3:14.3; Colorado, 3:17.8.

Pole vault — Ferrel (Oklahoma) 14-6 (only contestant to clear qualifying height).

2 Mile relay—Oklahoma State (Dave Perry, John Perry, John Van Winkle, Ron Bothwell) 7:47.4; Striders 7:47.5; Oklahoma 7:47.6; Long Beach State, 7:48.8.

High Jump—Kingsley, (New Mexico Track Club) 6-6 (Awarded first place on fewer misses); Christensen, (Unattached Albuquerque) 6-6; Laverty (Oklahoma State) 6-6.

600—Kessler (Striders) 1:16.7; Sadler (unattached Houston, Tex.) 1:16.8; Strong (Oklahoma State) 1:20.2.

Mile — Rawson (Quantico Marines) 4:20.8; Baker, (New Mexico) 4:21.0; Wighton (Colorado) 4:22.7.

600—Atterberry (Striders) 1:11; Murray (Arizona) 1:12.3; Mizell (Oklahoma) 1:12.8.

60—Hayes (Florida A&M) 6.0; Rivers (New Mexico) 6.1; Williams (Striders) 6.1.

Shotput — Mahon (unattached Pampa, Tex.) 58-4½; Kennedy (New Mexico) 53-7½; Inman (Oklahoma) 53-0.

Broad Jump—Hopkins, (Arizona) 25-½; Robinson (New Mexico) 24-9½; Watson (Oklahoma) 24-6¾.

60 High Hurdles—Miller (Colorado) 7.1; Knight (New Mexico) 7.3; Hewitt (Oklahoma) 7.4.

COLLEGES TO ADOPT PROS' SPEED RULE?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Alex Hannum, who has coached the San Francisco Warriors into a solid National Basketball Assn. contender this season, thinks the day is coming when colleges will adopt some form of the 24-second rule.

That is the deadline which a pro team must meet before it either gets off a shot or gives up the ball.

"The colleges are going through the same problems that the pros did before a 24-second rule was adopted," says Hannum. "They are trying to find some way to outlaw both stalling and deliberate fouls which a team commits when it is behind and wants to get possession."

Hannum said that the 24-second rule, which the pros launched in 1953, was designed to curb these abuses and not beef up the scoring.

"Before then, a pro team could nurse a five-point lead throughout an entire second half by stalling and the game would become a farce," Hannum said.

WYNN

Man to Man

SELVY

By JERRY WYNN

Chick Hearn calls him Pops.

Elgin Baylor calls him Rivers (for Old Man River).

Fred Schaus calls him his coach on the floor.

Call him what you will, Franklin Delano Selvy is the young "old pro" of the Lakers.

At the spritely age of 31, Frank has played for more clubs than any other man in the National Basketball Assn.—Baltimore, Milwaukee, St. Louis, New York, Syracuse, the old Minneapolis Lakers and for the last four years, our Lakers.

Selvy once was one of the game's most prolific scorers and he still holds the all-time NCAA records for average points scored in one season (41.8) and most points scored in one game (100). Today the former Furman flash rates as the Lakers' top playmaker and defensive specialist.

Who is really the "old man" of the Lakers, Frank, you or Elgin Baylor?

"Well, I really don't know. I know I just turned 31. Elgin claims to be 28 so I guess I'm the oldest. But I think all the talk about me being old is rediculous. Boston has eight players older than I am."

With all its accent on height, speed and ruggedness, do you think basketball is a better game today than it was 10 years ago?

"Yes. The players are better individually, and as a team game there's been a big improvement in the last few years. Five or six years ago, the offense had complete charge. Now the good teams are stressing defense and they are making it much tougher on the offense."

In a one-on-one situation, who is the toughest player for you to guard?

"I'll have to say Oscar Robertson. He has all the moves, can dribble and shoot with the best and he is such a big man for a guard. It's almost impossible to play him one-on-one."

As a well-traveled player, which city in the league has the best fans? Which city has the worst?

"We have the best. The people are much nicer here and don't boo as they do most places. Fans here also give a hand to opposing players. The fans are pretty good in Boston, but in most cities they're strictly for the home team. I've had rocks thrown at me in some places. The worst fans are in St. Louis."

What do you think of the officiating in the NBA?

"What they need is more good young officials like Earl Strom and Joe Gushue. Most of them are 5-foot-2, and where do they get them from? It's funny that there aren't former players officiating as in football and baseball. Officiating is a tough job and I have respect for all our men."

If you were a coach and starting a team, who would you rather have—Wilt Chamberlain or Bill Russell? John Havlicek or Jerry Lucas? Elgin Baylor or Bob Pettit? Oscar Robertson or Jerry West?

"Russell. He's such a great defensive man and rebounder. Lucas. A good big man like him is hard to come by. Baylor. In his prime he was the greatest, but it's very close between them. Robertson. He's the best player in our league today but don't take anything away from Jerry. They're mighty close."

What was the one shot you remember most vividly?

"I put one in from midcourt with two seconds left when I scored the 100 points for Furman."

What was the greatest thrill of your career?

"The greatest has been just playing for the Lakers the past few years and playing in the championship games. It's been a lot of fun and pride and great boys to play with."

Are you looking forward to playing the Celtics for the title again this year?

"I'm looking forward to playing somebody. I think we have the personnel to play in the finals again, and I sure would like to be on a championship team. We've come so close before."

Frankly, Selvy and the Lakers are overdue.

HONOR BILLIE AND WILLIE

Four Rams Join Sports Fete

Jockey Pete Moreno and four Ram players have joined the cast of celebrities for Tuesday's big Century Club Sports Night banquet in the Lafayette Hotel.

The Ram players, who will be headed by their coach, Harland Svare, are all-pro linebacker Jack Pardee, offensive lineman Frank Varrichione, linebacker Cliff Livingston and defensive back Lindon Crow.

Additionally, five more baseball players have accepted invitations to the affair which will honor Billie Jean Moffitt and Willie Brown as this city's co-athletes of the year: Bob Bailey and Tom Sisk of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Dave Adlesh of the Houston Colts, Joe Amalfitano (who'll report to the Angels this spring) and Tom Morgan, Angel relief pitching ace who will serve as special assignment coach this season.

Tickets for the big program may be purchased through Monday at any of the following locations:

Apple Valley Steak House, Rig Restaurant, Hoefly's Belmont Shore, Nu-Pike office, Kenny's sporting Goods and the Century Club office, 956 Locust Ave.

A partial list of guests who have accepted invitations to the 7 p.m. affair include:

DEAR BOSS:

Please Paraphrase Pact; Pennant Pay Preferred

DEAR BOSS:

Thank you for joining in the spirit of baseball's annual pen and ink derby. I received my 1964 contract, but I am returning it unsigned.

Please understand that I appreciate your initial offer of a raise, or as you so aptly put it, "go take a hike." I must insist, however, that you be more specific.

The league's publicity men are kind enough always to pin-point increases. And this is relatively simple because there are only two types: the "substantial" raise and the "token" raise.

This immediately separates the men from the boys or, again to be more specific, the Cadillac drivers from the bus riders. I mean, what would you do with a token raise if you didn't use tokens?

• • • •

BEFORE I CAN pen my pact or affix my autograph to the document, as they say in the trade, I must remind you that I did not share in the Dodgers' record World Series split. The only thing I've ever split is an infinitive.

I'll admit you are being most generous in extending fringe benefits, such as increasing my hot dog allowance in the press box and letting me take along a doggie bag. This I appreciate.

But you don't seem to appreciate the fabulous season I had. Koufax can't come close to my records. (If he does, I'll have Frank Howard slap him.)

I led the league in earned pun average. I was near the top in stolen phrases.

Strikeouts? My copy was full of 'em. Wasn't it you who told me never to use an eraser on a typewriter?

• • • •

ALL RIGHT, so I also led in typographical errors for the sixth successive year. But I can't take all the credit. The printers deserve their share.

I also had the fewest walks. You know what they say in baseball: Those walks will kill you every time. Anyway, why walk when you can get a cab?

Obviously, you don't realize I was away in front in double and triple-spacing. No singles for me. I'm a power hitter.

I'm also a switch-Ridder. Or have you forgotten that they use my stuff in Garden Grove?

I'll concede one point. I was far behind Vada Pinson and Earl Lawson in slugging percentage.

But I had my share of roundtrippers. Eighty-one of 'em, from the office to Dodger Stadium.

• • • •

I'M NOT ASKING for the Hickok belt. I've had one for 10 years. I've made it stretch around the loop.

You realize, of course, that the janitors at Santa Anita were given a raise recently and this set a trend. Jim Gilliam signed his contract for the "substantial" raise the next day.

You don't get the connection?

Ah, come on! He's the Dodger keystone custodian.

One more thing, boss. I know of two gardeners who make more than 100 G's. Sometimes they're called outer gardeners. Names are Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle.

Therefore, I think you should consider some sort of adjustment. And I know just what you'll say:

"Go see your chiropractor."

Sincerely,

GEORGE LEDERER

K.C. OFFERS FINLEY NEW 4-YEAR PLAN

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A smiling, affable Charles O. Finley took under advisement Saturday alternate four-year stadium lease proposals for his Kansas City Athletics, after telling the city he couldn't afford more than two years because of "bad publicity."

"I sincerely regret I can't accept a four-year proposal at this moment," Finley told city officials. "Bad publicity has given me, the ball club and the city a bad image.

"Four bad years would bankrupt me, but in two years I could bail myself out. However, we'd be happy to take your offers under advisement."

$10,500 Raise for Pearson

The grin Albie Pearson will be wearing at Tuesday night's Century Club banquet at the Lafayette will be in direct proportion to the $10,500 raise tendered him by Angels' general manager Fred Haney Saturday.

It took Pearson only seconds to approve a $33,000 contract for the 1964 season, making him the highest salaried Angel in the club's three and one-half year existence.

PEARSON

Pearson enjoyed his finest major league campaign in 1963, batting .304 to win the American League's centerfield berth in the All-Star game at Cleveland.

The Riverside rabbit took a $20,000 contract into the 1963 season and, as reported exclusively by the I.P-T, received a $2,500 raise early in July.

The Angels also signed a pair of rookies, outfielder Vic Antonetty and catcher George Pena. While Haney expects to have the complete roster signed by Feb. 17 when the Angels open spring training, he has run into a roadblock in the form of Dean Chance, who is demanding $24,000. Haney is offering $20,000.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron, the second-best home run hitting duo in National League history, came to terms with Milwaukee Saturday.

Mathews signed for $50,000 and Aaron agreed to a $65,000 contract.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds received Jim Dickson, a 25-year-old right-handed pitcher, from the Houston Colts to complete a deal which earlier this week sent end infielder Eddie Kasko to the Colts for pitcher Wally Wolf and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Other signings:

Yankees: Pitcher Al Downing (13-9).
Senators: Outfielder Chuck Hinton (.290).
Pirates: Pitcher Vern Law (4-5).
Orioles: Shortstop Luis Aparicio, pitcher Dick Hall, catcher Dick Brown.
Indians: Pitcher Pedro Ramos (9-11 and outfielder Tommy Agee (.270).

Homebreds to Share in L.B. Games' Prizes

RALPH LEE
Entered in 1,000

The fleetest trackmen in the West have been invited to the first Long Beach Games Feb. 18, yet chances are good that the homebreds will win a few gold medals.

Long Beach has been a hotbed for track and field for more than 50 years, and 1964 looks like one of the best years of all.

Early entries in the Long Beach Arena meet comprise three individuals and eight relay teams.

• • • •

LONG BEACH State will participate in six events, its largest indoor representation in school history.

The 49ers will compete in college division mile and two-mile relays, Ralph Lee is entered in the 1,000, John Rambo will jump, and Dee Andrews will start in the high hurdles and long jump.

Jack Rose's 49ers set mark records in both relays in the recent L.A. Invitational. Lee was a college all-America last season in the 880, while Rambo America's newest seven-foot jumper. Andrews has scored 25-3½ in the long jump, and finished a strong second to No. 1 world ranked Hayes Jones in the Invitational hurdles.

Long Beach City College, winner of the state JC championship last season, will compete in the mile relay against teams from Compton, Santa Ana and Mt. San Antonio.

Wilson, Jordan and Millikan will have teams in the high school 12-lap relay, while Poly and Lakewood are entered in the four-lap sprint relay.

Tickets are now on sale at all Mutual and Liberty agencies and at Music City. Prices are $4 trackside, $3.50 loge and $2.50 general admission.

SHIMER'S STREAK AT 51

Losses Pile Up... Nobody's Mad

MOUNT CARROLL, Ill. (AP) —Basketball at little Shimer College is taken with a grain of salt rather than an aspirin.

They have a 51-game losing streak, longest on record. And nobody's mad.

"I don't think we have the worst college basketball team in the world," said Hans Buhrmann, 28-year-old Shimer athletic director from the University of Cologne, Germany.

• • • •

"WE CAN'T beat anybody around here. But there must be a team in Mexico or Alaska that we could beat. Let's just say we are among the worst teams.

This relaxed approach symbolizes the over-all feeling of the academically-minded college with its faculty of 33 men and women, and a student enrollment of 325. It has been in business 111 years.

Academic Dean Robert Blackburn said that when Les Sheppard left as athletic director and basketball coach a year ago to go to a junior college in Alaska, there were 40 applicants for his job.

• • • •

"WE CHOSE Buhrmann," says Blackburn. "It was sort of a package deal. His wife, Karin, teaches French and life saving. Buhrmann, who teaches math parttime, coached soccer in Cologne, Iceland and Montreal. This fall our soccer team was unbeaten in eight games.

"I also think we'll have a good golf team this spring. I have named my wife, Mary Jane, as coach. She has a 14 handicap.

"We play teams like Roosevelt University (Chicago), Rockford (Ill.) College, Milton (Wis.), and such Iowa junior colleges as Muscatine and Clinton," says new basketball coach Bob Hartman.

"Our worst licking this season was 110-30."

"Our gym floor is only about half regular size so we play our home games in the Mount Carroll High School gym. We get 200 or so Shimer students at the games. They root all the time for us. I never yet have heard them boo. I have heard them laugh, though.

"There's not much we can do to improve the situation. However, we did cut our schedule from 23 games last season to 14 this time. "I am a left-handed shooter, and when I try to teach them shots maybe that confuses them."

PRACTICE TIME?

To those who follow Shimer College's basketball team closely, it's no surprise it has a record losing streak going. Such obstacles as classroom chairs in the parttime gym during practice (final exams are on, you know) and barefoot players don't help.

Still Get Him in Five, Says Cassius

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Cassius Clay sparred nine rounds for charity Saturday night, then reiterated his prediction that he'll knock heavyweight champion Sonny Liston cold in five rounds.

"I can get him in five," Cassius told the crowd of 1,000 which bought $1.50 tickets to aid the United Cerebral Palsy Fund.

90-Hole Classic Begins at Palm Springs Wednesday

By JERRY WYNN

The golfing nomads invade the desert this week for the fifth renewal of the $100,000 Palm Springs Classic.

Instead of Lawrence of Arabia as a leader, they have Arnold of Indio . . . or Casper of Cathedral City . . . or Tony of Twentynine Palms . . . or Boros of Blythe . . . or Jack of Joshua Trees.

Instead of camels, they ride convertibles.

Instead of sabres, they brandish brassies.

There will be four exquisite watering-holes—Eldorado, La Quinta, Indian Wells and Bermuda Dunes—the lush likes of which would make any sultan sigh and swami swoon.

The area once was known as Palmer Springs to salute the three victories of Arnold Palmer. But last year, big Jack Nicklaus became known as Desert Fats with a playoff victory over Gary Player.

Action begins Wednesday and continues through Sunday in the only 90-hole tournament on the tour. Amateurs play with the pros for the first four rounds, and they include such noted sand-baggers as Bob Hope, George Gobel and Jim Garner.

The spa-tacular will feature a $10,000 hole-in-one jackpot. It will be sponsored by Kemper Insurance. Lloyds of London found too many aces among the pros.

'ARNOLD OF INDIO'

BAVASI DENIES WILLS ASKS $65,000

Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi Saturday night denied reports that shortstop Maury Wills had indicated to him that he expected a $20,000 raise.

"I haven't talked to Maury about a contract yet," Bavasi said. "He and I haven't discussed the 1964 season at all."

A published report in Los Angeles said Wills told Bavasi he wanted $65,000 for the 1964 season.

Wills was paid $45,000 last year, which was a $20,000 raise over the year before.

'Big Jack' Began Trotters' Magic

When the Harlem Globetrotters made their annual visit to Long Beach last winter, they found our brand new Arena waiting for them. And like they have everywhere they have performed around the world, they promptly established an attendance record.

The Trotters drew 12,221 fans for their game, largest crowd ever to jam Long Beach's beautiful new arena for a single performance.

Another huge crowd is assured for this season's visit to the Arena Saturday night. The advance sale is even better than last year.

ABE SAPERSTEIN
Set Arena Record

And when the Globetrotters take the floor, it will be just like old times with them. For on the bench will be the legendary "Big Jack"—real name, Inman Jackson, one of the all-time great centers and the man credited with starting the team's fancy ball handling and comedy routines.

"Big Jack" is back on the road with the Trotters to assist Abe Saperstein with the coaching chores. Whenever Abe takes off on one of his numerous business jaunts that take him all over the globe—he's flown 4½ million miles, more than any other person in history — Jackson takes command of the club.

"Big Jack" has been with the Globetrotters almost since their inception, but in recent seasons has occupied a post in the organization's Chicago headquarters.

Jackson, whom Saperstein rates with Wilt Chamberlain as the two greatest centers ever to appear with the team, was one of the famous "iron men" of the early Globetrotters when they toured with just five players and Abe himself served as business manager, booking agent, bus driver and sometimes even as a substitute player in the event someone was injured or ill.

JACKSON STARTED THE ball-handling magic that has become the trademark of the Trotters, never realizing what effect it would have on the team, the game and the public.

The way the team traveled for one-night stands, the gruelling schedule that seldom called for an off-night, and irregular sleeping and eating left the players quite weary during their tours.

Thus, in order to give his mates a "breather" every once in a while during the games, he would balance the ball on his fingertips and roll it up his arm, around his neck and down the other arm. The fans went wild whenever he would go into his act.

That's what really started the Globetrotters on the road to riches and international fame which no other sports aggregation could begin to approach.

JACKSON'S ANTICS CONVINCED Saperstein that laughter was worth priority over basketball, although there had to be a balance.

Players were offered bonuses for any new stunts that might be used and Abe says "they wanted to get rich quick by the look of ideas they threw at me. They really came up with some crackpot stuff."

But they also came up with many of the basic stunts —such as the baseball and football routines—which still form the basis of their performance.

Jackson's main duty with the Globetrotters now is to teach newcomers to the organization, which sends out as many as three units a year, the ball-handling artestry that so delights fans.

THE GLOBETROTTERS HAVE swung into their 37th consecutive season of play on the heels of an outstanding '63 campaign that saw many more notable achievements written into their colorful saga.

Featuring their 14th overseas tour beginning last May, the Trotters made their first visit to Red-satellite Czechoslovakia where years of negotiations by Saperstein finally were culminated in the team playing six games before a total of 90,000 wildly-enthusiastic fans in Prague.

This brought to 81 the number of countries in which the fabulous magicians of basketball have performed. A few weeks later, they visited little San Marino to up the count to 82.

The tours of European and Asian countries have advanced the sport of basketball around the globe.

And the Trotters have become the "greatest group of goodwill ambassadors the United States has ever had!"

REVISE FORMAT FOR NATIONAL AMATEUR

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. Golf Association Saturday teed off on the format of the National Amateur championship by revising the method of play during the first two days of competition and cancelling the sectional exemptions previously granted to all former U.S. and British amateur champions.

Beginning with this year's championship Sept. 14-19 at the Canterbury Golf Club, Cleveland, the first two days will be devoted to 36 holes of qualifying medal play in contrast to the previous pattern of two rounds of match play.

Under the new rules, the only player exempt from the 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds is the defending champion.

After the first two days of the Amateur, the championship will continue as before, with four rounds of 18-hole match play, then two rounds of 36-hole play, within four days.

Under the all-match-play system, 72 of the 200 player field were eliminated the first day. The new set-up will provide all players with at least two days of play in the championship.

ARNIE'S ARMY received special marching instructions Saturday as its chief, Palmer, teed off in the lead at the start of the round.

Palmer commanded the day's huge gallery and it heard rules on spectator decorum before Arnie teed off.

He left in the final group to start touring the 6,772-yard Harding Park Municipal Course.

PALMER'S gallery was the only one receiving the special instructions.

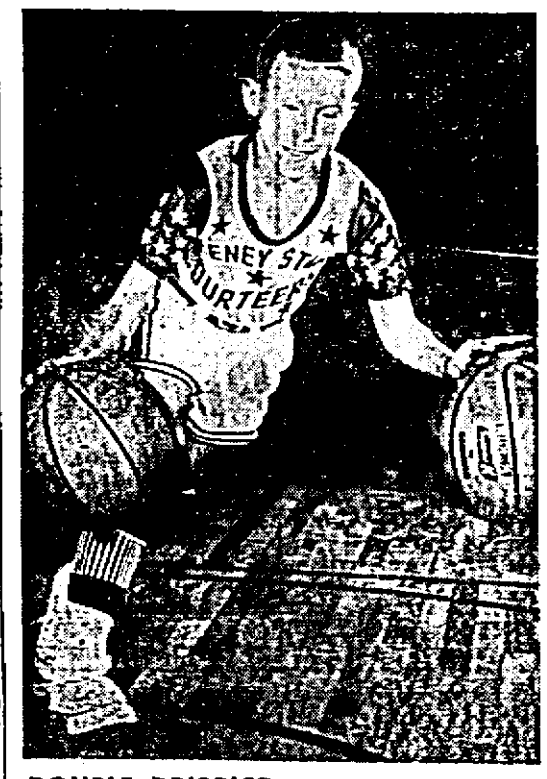

On Friday, the army following Palmer called out "Charge" frequently and he responded. After the warning Saturday, the throng seemed almost intimidated and only clapped softly as golf's record money winner was announced at the tee.

DOUBLE DRIBBLER

They may be little, and this fellow is, but he and his teammates put on a Globetrotter-type show. This is George Brown, 13, a star member of the Cheney Studs Courteers from Tacoma, Washington. They meet the L.A. County All-Stars in preliminary to Laker game tonight.

KERR JOINS INDOOR MEET

One of track's most honored athletes, George Kerr, has accepted an invitation to compete in the fifth Los Angeles Indoor Games Feb. 8.

Kerr was a semifinalist at 400 meters in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne, a bronze medalist at 800 meters in the 1960 Olympiad at Rome. Kerr holds the indoor 600-yard run record of 1:09.2.

The feather-strider, now attending Oregon State, will oppose Roger Kerr of Iowa, Jim Heath of Camp Pendleton and Jay Luck, former Yale star, in the 600 at the L. A. Sports Arena.

LONG BEACH TO HOST WORLD KARATE MEET

The International Karate Championships will be held in the Long Beach Auditorium on Sunday, August 2, it was announced Saturday.

More than 200 of the world's greatest karate fighters are expected to compete, according to producer Ed Parker and tournament director Joe Fletcher.

Parker, author of two books on karate, and Nick Adams, star of the "Rebel" television series, will be present during a karate demonstration Tuesday night at the Century Club banquet at the Lafayette Hotel.

Karate (pronounced kah-rah-tay) is one of the oldest and most effective means of hand-to-hand fighting. Many karate experts can smash 10 clay roof tiles with a bare fist or break a heavy board with bare feet.

'Do-Nothing' WBA Policy Hit by Ortiz

Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz unloaded a verbal barrage at the World Boxing Association Saturday, charging it with harassing him and having a do-nothing policy for boxing in general.

The 26-year-old Puerto Rican, who now lives in New York, is training here for a few days before hopping off for Manila to defend his crown in a 15-round fight Feb. 15 with Flash Elorde of the Philippines.

The articulate and fiery Ortiz based his blast on the fact the WBA will not sanction as a world title bout his encounter with the world junior lightweight champion.

"It will be recognized in three-fourths of the world—by the British Board of Boxing Control, the Asian Boxing Federation, which belongs to the WBA, but not by the WBA. Why?" demanded Ortiz.

"They are trying to take away the livelihood of the most active fighter in the ring today. These people have done nothing for boxing in the past 13 years and boxing is going down and down because of them," declared Ortiz.

A $130 Jacobs custom surfboard will be given away as door prize. Tickets will sell for $1.50.

Results Close in 'Y' Judo Tourney

Results were close in all four divisions Saturday in a judo tournament held at the Downtown Branch of the Long Beach YMCA in connection with national "Y" week. Results:

Tykes (12): Three-way tie for first among T. Fuentsch (Lakewood), D. Akiyoka (Senan Dojo), E. Tolmachoff (Jundokan); Shonen (14): First—G. Kawakatsu (Senan Dojo), tie for second between E. Yoshimoto (Senan Dojo) and D. Williams (Lakewood); Novice (over 16): First—J. Sullivan (Long Beach); Senan (Brown belts): First—F. Kyle (Lakewood).

NFL Could Vote Ties in Standings

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The National Football League will consider altering its rules to make ties count in the team standings at the annual meeting opening Tuesday.

The stystem of ignoring tie games and figuring standings strictly on a won and lost basis almost produced a big controversy in the final stages of the 1963 season.

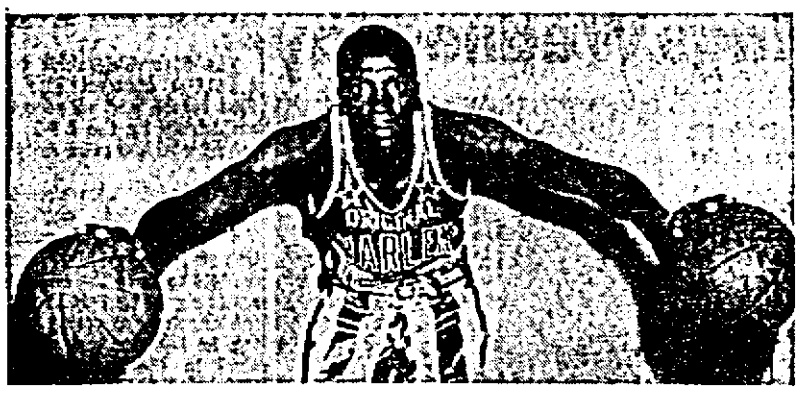

With one game to go — Pittsburgh at New York—the Giants had a 10-3 record for .769 and the Steelers 7-3-3 which, ignoring the three ties, is 7-3 or .700. If the Steelers had won the last game they would have had an 8-3-3 mark or .727 and the Giants 10-4 or .714. As it was the Giants won the game and the Eastern Conference championship and the Steelers wound up fourth.

• • • •

A PROPOSED amendment to the constitution would have tie games count one-half game won and one-half game lost. On that basis, a Pittsburgh victory in the final game still would have left the Steelers short of the title, for they would have a 9½-4½ record for .679.

Several college conferences, including the Big Ten, use this formula in figuring out their standings.

The league will consider this amendment but the guessing is that it will fail.

MEADOWLARK LEMON... Wing Spread a Built-in Prop

Meadowlark Has New Trick Bag for L.B. Date

Meadowlark Lemon, the clown prince of basketball, will open a new bag of tricks when the fabulous Harlem Globetrotters make their annual one-night appearance at the Long Beach Arena next Saturday.

Each year the Trotters add something to their world famous show, but it's Lemon, the No. 1 funnyman, who keeps the crowd in stitches.

He is in his ninth season as a combination of the world's greatest sports comic and star player.

Meadowlark (he insists that's his right name) first saw the Trotters play when he was 13 and that sparked the inspiration to become a member of this illustrious quintet.

After an outstanding high school career in Wilmington, N.C. that saw him gain all-state honors in football and basketball, Lemon showed up at the gym wanting a tryout with the Trotters. They liked what they saw and people the world over have likewise enjoyed watching his antics ever since.

Meadowlark is 6-2, long-armed and has an infectious grin, all fine props for his artistry.

As an added attraction, the NFL champion Chicago Bears will play a preliminary against a team of Long Beach newspaper and sports personalities beginning at 7:30.

The Long Beach Century Club will be represented by Ron Maury and Dean O'Hare. Also playing under the banner of the Century Club will be footballer Johnny Olszewski and Bob Wuesthoff, Fred Miller and Dick Perry, all coaches at Long Beach State.

Tickets are available at all Liberty Agencies including Wallichs Music City Stores, also Humphreys Music Co., Kenny's Sporting Goods and the Arena box office.

EARLY DERBY FAVORITE SIDELINED

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A blacksmith said Saturday that Hurry to Market, the 1963 champion 2-year-old, was suffering from an untreatable ailment and confirmed he would be out of action at least five months.

It was learned Monday that the big colt had a quarter crack in his right hind hoof.

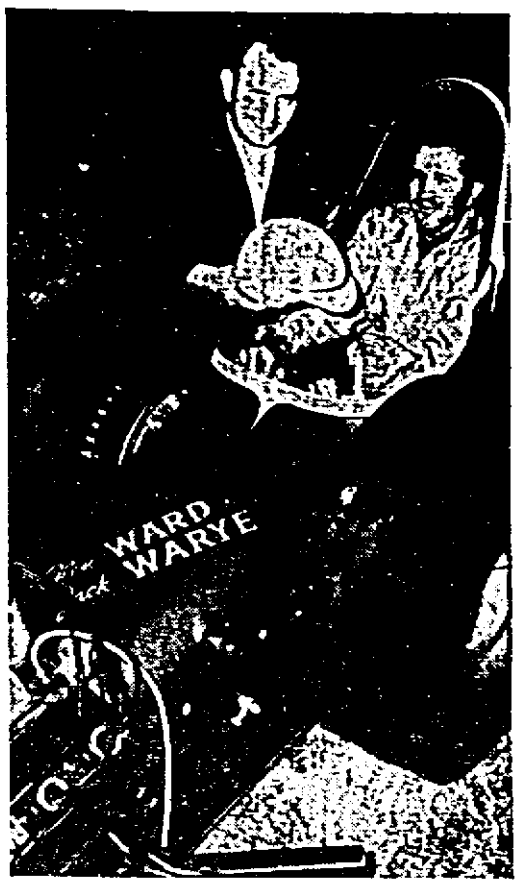

The injury puts the horse, last year's winner of the Garden State Stakes, out of the Kentucky Derby. He was the early favorite.

Bill Banes, noted blacksmith from La Canada, Calif., said the injury was of such a nature as to be untreatable. The entire hoof will have to be cut away and a new one grown, Bane said.

Trainer Dave Erb said he would point the horse for stakes and handicap races at Chicago in the late summer and fall.

2nd Death in 'Worst' Olympics

INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — Death came to an Australian skier on the fastest downhill slope in the world Saturday and two other Olympic contestants were injured in a continuing series of mishaps unprecedented in the history of the Winter Games.

Ross Milne, a 19-year old tobacco farmer from Myrtleford, Victoria, was killed when he lost control at over 60 miles an hour and "catapulted like a bullet" into a tree on the Patscherkofel, one of the mountains towering over this ancient town.

It was the second fatality of the training sessions in the past week. On Wednesday, Polish - born British toboggan rider Kazimierz (Kay) Skrzykecki, 58, died of a heart attack induced by shock and injuries suffered in a floodlight workout.

Milne, who had been skiing for only three years, was dead when a helicopter brought him to hospital a few minutes after the crash.

Two Liechtenstein skiers crashed close to the spot where Milne was killed within minutes of the fatality. Edmund Schoedler, 22, fractured his left arm, injured his left shoulder and suffered severe concussion. Wolfang Ender, 17, broke his leg moments later.

Also in a hospital, in a condtion described as "very dangerous", was German toboggan competitor Josef Fleischmann, 21, who crashed at high speed last week.

K. S. (Sandy) Duncan, secretary of the British Olympic Assn., said, "in all the years I have been concerned with Olympic Games I cannot recall such a series of calamities." Another official called it "a disastrous beginning to what should have been a sporting frolic."

• • • •

FATALITIES are not unknown in winter sports, but never before has there been such a tragic start to a Winter Olympics.

Officials hastened to defend the "perfect condition" downhill and toboggan trails. But today's training has been canceled and the course will be carefully inspected.

"The trouble is that even unskilled racers want to take the same track as the top boys," an expert said. "They shouldn't do it. They build up too much speed and lose control."

• • • •

THERE WAS still another important accident. Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., is on crutches and may be lost to the U.S. ski jumping team. He fell in practice. "He was one of our biggest hopes for a medal," said a U.S. team official.

Saturday's competition highlights:
The four-man record for four-man bobsleds was timed 1:19 flat in practice runs. The best was 1 minute 2.99 seconds for the mile route by eighth-time world champion Eugenio Monti of Italy. "This was one of the greatest days in the history of bobsledding," said a U.S. official.
Russia's hockey team slammed in five goals in the final period to defeat a Canada-dominated I.E.V. Innsbruck team 7-2.

Longshot Nabs Main at Hialeah

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) — Ogden Phipps' temperamental Royal Ascot found Hialeah to his liking Saturday for a one-length victory in the $33,400 Royal Palm Handicap.

Rated expertly by jockey Wayne Chambers, Royal Ascot circled most of the 12-horse field in the stretch and came with a final rush to beat Merry Ruler for a payoff of nearly 15-1.

Belgage, a 60-1 chance, finished third another length back.

Royal Ascot, whose record shows that he either wins or is completely out of the money by a long margin, paid a handsome $31.60, $14.60 and $7 for a $2 bet across the board. Merry Ruler was worth $6.60 and $4.40 while Belgage paid $17 for show. Time was 1:23 1/5.

PARIS (AP) — A field of 19 trotters was named Saturday for today's $100,000 Prix D' Amerique over the Vincennes course.

Three of America's aces—Porterhouse, Duke Rodney and Elaine Rodney — are in the 1 5/8 mile event.

Duke Rodney, a 6-year-old owned by Patrick Di Gennaro of Rochester, N.Y., and driven by Bill Haughton, has been installed as the favorite at 5-1.

Dodgers Face L.B. in Playoff

The best pitching against the best hitters. That's the baseball bill of fare at Blair Field this afternoon in the semi-pro Winter League playoff opener.

The Long Beach Rockets, league champions, meet the Huntington Park Dodgers, the runnerup club. The Rockets have the strongest pitching. Huntington Park has the strongest hitters. The first in the best-of-three series begins at 1:30.

Butch Hughes and Terry Richards will share the pitching for the Rockets, as they have most of the season. Their job will be to stop such power hitters as Dick Nen and Jim Campanis.

Nen, former Long Beach State College first baseman, made his major league debut a memorable one by hitting a home run for the Dodgers in the pennant-deciding series at St. Louis.

• • • •

CAMPANIS, son of Dodger scouting director Al Campanis, hit .300 in his second season of pro ball at Salem, Oreg.

Ex-Long Beach City College stars Jim Jenkins and Downey Thomas also play for Huntington Park.

The Rockets have had to scratch for runs, winning mostly by one or two-run margins. Their power hitter of late has been Nick Hopkins with home runs in three of the last five games.

BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Lass Holds U.S. Gold Medal Hope

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)— Winter sports athletes from 35 countries, trained to the highest peak, were poised for the opening of the ninth Winter Olympics in this Alpine capital Wednesday.

All but a few stragglers among the expected 1,270 athletes are on hand, including a pert Oregon State coed who carries the best hope for a U.S. gold medal.

The Olympic flame has arrived by plane from Greece, and is ready to light up the torch in the opening ceremonies Wednesday morning.

Only the snow is missing.

• • • •

IT HASN'T snowed much in Innsbruck since mid-November, and the ski slopes for the games have been carefully packed by hand with snow trucked in from surrounding valleys.

Some 3,000 Austrian soldiers, dressed in spotted brown camouflage uniforms that blend into the snow-bare hills, did the packing job.

Officials still hope for snow, but they say the Games are going on as scheduled whether they get any or not.

The men's giant slalom has been shifted downhill about 100 yards, and the women's downhill race has been shortened, because of the snow shortage.

Otherwise, all is ready, even though man-made.

• • • •

THE WEATHER is predicted to be clear and cold most of the Games.

The Russians, who are competing in their third Winter Olympics, are expected to dominate the unofficial team standings, but many of the nations entered have a speciality where they expect to win medals.

The host Austrians have trained harder than ever before. So have the French.

The Russians have pointed vigorously for the Games. The Americans began sending teams to Europe well before Christmas, and have the best-honed team in history.

• • • •

AMERICAN hopes for gold medals are concentrated in Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., and Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., in the Alpine skiing events.

Miss Saubert, a 21-year-old student at Oregon State University who hopes to join the Peace Corps someday, has recovered from an attack of the flu and probably is the best American bet for a victory.

Pretty, husky Soukje Dijkstra of Holland, the world figure skating champion, is rated a strong favorite for the women's gold medal. Americans should place well up in figure skating but are not expected to win, in a sport that follows form closely.

After the opening ceremony, only hockey and figure skating are on the program Wednesday.

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — George Porter, offensive backfield coach during the past season at Washington State University, Saturday was named assistant football coach at Utah State University.

McEwen-Ivo Duel on Fuel Today at Lions

Fuel dragster racers from many parts of the nation will move into Lions Drag Strip today, for final action before "the big interlude," when drivers themselves take over next weekend.

Operators of the big 223rd St. raceway have turned next Saturday and Sunday action over to the United Drag Racers Association for an all-out dragster meeting, with $10,000 prizes at stake.

Jack Ewell, president of UDRA, says the greatest array of fuelers ever assembled at Lions will compete.

The Tom McEwen vs. Tom Ivo duel features today's program which also marks appearance of veteran star Glen Ward, in a new $10,000 fueler, co-owned with Jack Wayre. It's claimed to be revolutionary.

Gates today open at 9:30 a.m. with eliminations from 1 p.m.

Saturday night's stock results:

AFX top eliminator, Gas Ronda, Downtown L.A. Ford, 12.04 seconds ET, 119.20 mph. Runnerup (setting course records)—Ray Hayden Profit, Yeakel Bros. Plymouth, Downey. Record ET, 11.42; record was speed, 120.18. Top special, Bill Shrunk, Tushn, Chev, 409, 13.14 seconds ET.

Parnelli Wins as Mishaps Mar Benefit at Ascot

Indianapolis champion Parnelli Jones of Torrance avoided a series of accidents that eliminated all his series rivals Saturday to win the 50-lap USAC midget car March of Dimes benefit race at Ascot Park in Gardena.

A crowd of 3,450 saw Parnelli lap everyone in the field but second place finisher Lowell Sachs of San Diego. Billy Cantrell of Anaheim made the biggest threat of the afternoon, only to suffer a flat tire on the 29th lap.

Defending national midget car champion Bob Wente of St. Louis was knocked out on the second lap when he was involved in a spectacular crash that saw his car sail over Allen Heath's and spin out. Both escaped injury.

LBYC Has a New Commodore

Richard N. (Dick) Brookins, a man with a contagious smile and a quiet driving force that takes him places, became the commodore of the Long Beach Yacht Club the other night, replacing Frank L. Mansuy, who has done a lot for that club in 1963.

Dick Brookins is a native son, having been born in Santa Ana and having spent his entire life (residence, that is) in California, with a great part of it in Long Beach at 5500 The Toledo. That is where he lives now with his wife, Vera. Their one daughter, now Mrs. Veralie Nicgols, long ago sailed from the family nest and now has three sons of her own.

RICHARD BROOKINS
LBYC Commodore

Dick has been in the LBYC 12 years, has a 40-foot Chris-Craft, Molowa, and strangely enough, is a skin-diving devotee. He has spent many hours in that sport at Catalina.

Last summer when 30 couples from the LBYC took a Pacific tour, Dick was one in the party and friends insist that he found more interesting creatures under the ocean than they did while touring Tahiti and its neighboring Islands, Moorea and Bora Bora.

Dick was once the commodore of the Corsair Yacht Club. Also, he was once the commander of the Long Beach Power Squadron, in which he takes a most active part. At the moment he is publisher of Current Action, the LBPS's monthly publication.

BROOKINS IS EXECUTIVE vice president of the Essick Manufacturing Company, Los Angeles, which makes and sells construction and road-building equipment and evaporative air coolers and appliances.

He will have a powerful lot of help from his officers. First of all, his vice commodore is Robert (Bob) Pierce, the original No. 1 Hammond Organ hustler and often referred to as Mr. Piano. Pierce is the man who edited and published the "Long Beach Yacht Club Pictorial Log," a book of real beauty and a rare tribute to the club.

Other officers are William Dalessl, rear commodore; Donald Horton, fleet captain; Harold Drake, port captain; Konstantine P. (Costa) George, judge advocate; Jack Kirschke, secretary, and Frank Mansuy, treasurer.

Those and the following comprise the board of directors:

Clive Graham, Robert Clark Sweet, Donald E. Leedom, Norman Masterson, Fred S. Singer, Ray Fosholdt, Richard J. Barry Jr. and Cliff McElroy.

It is interesting to note that the LBYC was organized in 1929, but for years had no place to call home. It finally established a small structure that was inadequate, but at that time Hitler was snorting in Europe and along came World War II. Nobody paid much attention to yachting in those days.

WORLD WAR II ENDED and several years later a drive was launched for a new clubhouse after the Long Beach Marina was designed and construction was started. The YC had its "keel-laying ceremony" on Jan. 1, 1960, and its "launching" on Dec. 16 of the same year.

The club has 800 members and more than 450 boats are involved in that membership.

It also is interesting to note that back in the early days of the LBYC power-boat races from here to San Francisco were considered the greatest events on the Pacific Coast. Nobody seems to know just why those races were discontinued.

Richard (Dick) Loynes, now deceased, was the club's first commodore. He had the reputation of being "a young man in a hurry," no matter what he did. He won speedboat racing cups by the dozen and then climaxed all his feats in 1939 by winning the Transpacific Yacht Race to Honolulu in his 106-foot yawl, Contender.

LBYC always sponsors classes of sailing races in the annual Midwinter Regatta, along with the Los Angeles YC, Cabrillo Beach YC and Alamitos Bay YC. Some of the sailing races are run in Alamitos Bay, others in the outer harbor and still others in the open sea.

This year, the club wil handle the following classes of sailing craft:

H-28, Schock 25, Cal-24, L-24 Luders-16, Rhodes-19, Electra, Trinton, Cal-28, Columbia-29, Columbia-24, Challenger, Tunderbird and MORF.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of several columns concerning yacht clubs and yachting events in this area. Others will appear at intervals and will concern not only the LBYC, but Alamitos Bay, Cabrillo Beach, King Harbor, Corsair, Los Angeles and Newport Harbor YCs.)

L.B. Soccer Club Takes Day Off

The Long Beach Soccer Club is idle today and won't resume Pacific League competition until next Sunday when it will oppose Hermosa at Pan American Park. Long Beach has a 7-5-2 record and is in fourth place.

State cup playoffs have caused many teams to be idle today. The Pacific Soccer League has now been split into two eight-team leagues with Long Beach in the Northern Division.

Pro Soccer Games Set for Coliseum

The International Soccer League, sponsor of international pro soccer in the East during the past four years, will play six regular season games in the Coliseum this summer, it was announced Saturday.

Participating in regular pro league games will be leading clubs from six countries, including Scotland, West Germany, Yugoslavia, Brazil and Austria.

Roebuck; Bailey Join All-Star Benefit

Washington pitchers Ed Roebuck and Don Rudolph, Red Sox outfielder Roman Mejias and Pittsburgh infielder Bob Bailey have joined an all-star squad of major-minor leaguers for the Southern California Baseball Assn. annual Medical Benefit game.

The Major-Minors, managed by the Phillies' Gene Mauch, will meet the Dodger All-Stars, managed by Lefty Phillips, Sunday, Feb. 9 at La Palma Park in Anaheim.

The charity contest will mark the professional debuts for Dodgers Kenny Washington Jr. and Gary Holman. Both starred on USC's 1963 national collegiate championship team. Washington is an outfielder, Holman plays outfield and first base.

Phillips also will have the services of two first-year Dodger bonus players, outfielder Bill Parlier and first baseman Wes Parker. Parlier slugged 24 home runs and drove in 96 runs at Santa Barbara, while Parker batted .315 with Santa Barbara and Albuquerque.

The Dodger squad includes Ron Fairly, Wally Moon, Bob Miller, Doug Camilli, Dick Tracewski and Lee Walls.

WE WANT YOU TO KNOW

WHY GENERAL TELEPHONE WON'T SETTLE THE 100 DAY OLD STRIKE

Sunday, January 26, marks the 100th day of the strike of nearly 9,000 members of the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, at General Telephone of California.

In those 100 days we have taken every honorable step possible to settle this strike. We have offered to submit the dispute to binding arbitration. The company refused. It will accept only complete capitulation.

The conclusion is inescapable: General Telephone of California does not want to settle this strike. It is interested only in breaking the strike and our union.

We want you to know the company will neither break our strike nor our union.

As the President of our union, Joseph A. Beirne, said in Long Beach: "We have spent $2,000,000 from the union's defense fund to meet the needs of our members on strike. We have five times as much more available and when that is gone our credit is good."

But we are not engaged in a mere test of strength with the billion dollar General Telephone Co. We repeat. The single issue in this strike is simple justice. That means equality of treatment for all the telephone people who work on the same street on the same job and live in the same wage area. We have the same problems to face and the same prices to pay as the employees of other telephone companies.

General Telephone has denied us this simple justice of equal treatment, and the subscriber pays—in constantly deteriorating service.

The company in a desperate campaign of terror, is saying that strikers are being permanently replaced. As president Beirne said at Long Beach "The CWA has never abandoned a member and never will."

The strike has lasted 100 days. It will continue to last until General Telephone of California recognizes its obligation of service to its subscribers and justice to its employees.

Tell Oil, Gas Stake in Tax Law Program

By Harry Wilson Sharpe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The oil and natural gas industry could jump for joy this week or seethe, depending on how it looked at tax law changes going through congress.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are at stake.

There was bad news for big American companies operating overseas and for domestic producers who now lump their good and poor holdings together to take full advantage of the 27.5 percent depletion income tax allowance. But there were compensating factors for both such as the 1962 investment tax credit, fast depreciation write-offs, and consolidated income tax returns.

• • • •

THE CHANGES are all part of the $11.5 billion House-passed tax cut bill which the Senate Finance Committee has approved and will send to the Senate floor for an early vote.

• • • •

BUT THIS will not be easy. Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., heads a small but vociferous bloc determined to cut the depletion allowance and to sidetrack other proposals tending to favor the industry.

Waiting on the sidelines to see what Congress finally does is Federal Power Commission Chairman Joseph C. Swidler and his four colleagues. It seems certain they will have to recast scores of pending rate cases to conform with the new law and also rewrite some of their ground rules.

• • • •

HERE IS what the Senate Finance Committee did on oil and gas provisos as it completed action on the tax bill:

U.S.-Owned Companies Operating Overseas — Allows such companies to continue using any excess foreign tax credits arising from the depletion allowance in actual production operations to offset the American tax on earnings from production-related operations such as refining, marketing and pipelines. If accepted by the House, it will cost the companies $10 million a year. It would have cost $40 as originally drafted.

Artificial Groupings — Adopted a House provision that would outlaw the lumping together of widely scattered holdings — both losers and profitable ones—to take the depletion allowance on the whole works. This would cost the industry $40 million a year and make it much simpler for the FPC to arrive at a fair rate base.

Investment Tax Credit — Adopted a House provision to prevent the FPC from forcing companies to pass along to consumers in lower rates a 3 to 7 percent tax credit for each year's investment in new plant and equipment. The 1962 law was enacted at the late President John F. Kennedy's request to pump new life into the economic stream.

Consolidated Tax Returns — Adopted House provision to outlaw 2 percent penalty tax on companies filing consolidated tax returns. Such returns would cover returns of subsidiaries which no longer would file separate returns.

Depreciation — Adopted a House proviso allowing the depreciation write-off in an investment tax credit to be based on the full price of a plant or machine. In the 1962 law the Senate forced adoption of an amendment that required businessmen using the tax credit to make a corresponding cut in any annual depreciation write-off that was deducted from taxable income. The change can cost the treasury $185 million a year now and still more in the years ahead.

Poets Get $1 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — The Poetry Society of America has received a $1 million bequest. It's believed to be the largest ever given an organization of poets.

Countess Alice Fay De Castagnola of New York, who died last September, made the bequest, it was announced at the society's 54th annual dinner.

A spokesman said income from the trust fund will be used for scholarships, grants, publishing and book-buying.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson painted a glowing picture of business last week—if the income tax cut is quickly enacted.

His qualified prediction that 1964 will be a year of soaring prosperity came in his annual economic message to Congress.

Meanwhile, the tax reduction bill was approved by the Senate Finance Committee and indications were that the House-approved measure would reach the Senate floor next week.

The stock market apparently liked what it heard from the President. It spurted to another historic high.

Here's what Johnson had to say about the economy:

Gross national product (total of all goods and services)—it topped the $600 billion annual rate for the first time during the final quarter of 1963 and is expected to hit $623 billion in 1964.

Personal income—attained an average per capita of $2,500 in 1963 for an after-tax total of $500 billion; expected to increase by $8.8 billion.

Corporate profits—totaled $51.3 billion and, after taxes, $25 billion; an increase is expected.

Employment—exceeded 70 million with an unemployment rate of 5.5 per cent of the labor force; the unemployment rate is expected to drop to 5 per cent.

Despite the bullishly optimistic predictions, Johnson made it plain he was not satisfied. He said:

"New high ground is not the summit. That still lies ahead. Our 1961-63 advance — though impressive, sustained and noninflationary—has not gone far enough and fast enough."

• • • •

HE INCLUDED in his message a price-cut proposal by his Council of Economic Advisers. They singled out the automobile industry as a possible area.

Coupled was a suggestion that in certain industries the overtime pay rate be boosted as a means of spurring an increase in jobs.

The automobile industry was silent on the price-cut suggestion, and some labor leaders said they couldn't see how higher overtime pay would result in more jobs.

Johnson followed up his economic message with his budget message, calling for an $97.9 billion expenditure in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and halving the deficit of the current year.

• • • •

DEMOCRATS HAILED the proposed budget as a realistic effort at cutting down expenditures. Republicans contended it was full of gimmicks.

The automobile and steel industries continued to forge ahead.

Automakers turned out an estimated 178,500 passenger cars, up 12 percent from the 158,905 assembled last week and up 18 percent from the 151,416 of a year ago.

Twelve of General Motors' 23 plants and 4 of Ford's 16 worked six days.

Steel production climbed by 5 per cent last week, reaching 2,130,000 tons against 2,120,000 tons the previous year. For the first three weeks of this year output was ahead of a year ago by 10.2 per cent.

• • • •

THE NATION'S stockholders in 1963 reaped a record harvest of $16.2 billion in dividends, the Commerce Department reported. This was 7.5 percent higher than the $15.1 billion paid in 1962 by corporations issuing public reports. Big boosts were made by automobile, oil and machinery companies.

Economic statistics continued to come in for December. Personal income rose to a record annual rate of $475.2 billion from $472.6 billion in November. However, new orders for durable goods declined for the second consecutive month, dropping to $17.8 billion from $18.2 billion in November.

An attempt to raise the price of aluminum ingots failed when Aluminum Co. of America refused to go along with a one-cent-a-pound boost by Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp., Reynolds Metals Co. and Aluminum Ltd.

"I WILL NEVER HAVE TO FACE THIS PROBLEM ALONE!"

"When my husband suggested we talk to the Rose Hills man about before-need memorial property, I knew he was thinking of the unnecessary suffering my friends went through because they had not planned ahead.

"We arranged a Family Protection Plan, while we both could choose what we wanted, without emotional pressures. He says he feels ten years younger, with the peace of mind he gained, knowing that I will never have to face this problem alone. He has proven his love beyond mere words.

"We certainly are glad we chose Rose Hills. Its beauty is so natural, with rolling hills, lovely lawns and gardens, and no headstones or monuments, it looks more like a park than a cemetery. There were so many beautiful sections from which to choose, and we found just what we wanted.

"We know, too, that Rose Hills will always be as lovely as it is today for they have that government-supervised Endowment Care Fund.

"By planning ahead, we gained financially, too. We were able to arrange a monthly payment plan that fits our budget perfectly, a plan which minimizes the cost to us.

"And as one of those little extra touches you always appreciate, the Rose Hills man gave us a handy Estate Portfolio for our important papers. It has containers for insurance, real estate papers, stocks and bonds and other vital records, properly catalogued so they are easy to find. He told us this portfolio is free to anyone interested."

This reaction is typical of that of thousands of wives, whose husbands had the foresight to plan in advance. Why don't you talk to the man from Rose Hills soon? Arrange an appointment by phone, or better still, send in the coupon for your free Estate Portfolio.

DAVID W. BRYANT
Re-elected

D. W. Bryant Nurse Unit Head Again

David W. Bryant has been re-elected president of the Visiting Nurse Service, United Way agency member which provides part-time bedside care for patients in the home in Long Beach, Lakewood, Dominguez and Signal Hill.

Other officers are Olin Peterson, vice president; Mrs. John Harris, second vice president; Martin Katte, treasurer and Mrs. Ether Thompson, secretary.

Newly elected to the board are: Dr. Everett J. Carmody, Edward Gray, Mrs. Mabel Hoffman, Mrs. Josiah S. Mertz and Katte.

In addition to home nursing, the service said nurses spent more than 400 hours at the Long Beach Day Nursery.

Recent addition to the staff, through a grant from the Rheumatism and Arthritis Foundation, is a part-time physical therapist.

Omarr Reads the Stars

by SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Break out of rut. Life will take on added glow. You can have the right way clear to greater achievement. Family undertaking important. Attend church of your choice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Move fast, quickly—be selective. Don't break vows, hours. See picture clearly. Avoid scattering your forces. Pay time for romance, creative endeavors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Cycle remains high. But you should do something to correct "budget leak." Good time to make basic changes. Be spurred by words of spiritual adviser. Be willing to listen.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): Cycle at peak. You can gain admirers by strong originality, independence. Take a chance on your own abilities. Lead rather than follow. Stick to principles.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Thank matters over; be thorough. Get some advice from one who has experience. Important that you have love to yourself. Be practical, but refuse to let others take advantage of you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Fine for social contacts—making new friends, welcome suggestions. Be adventurous. Others will be attracted to you. Exude confidence. Turn on Virgo personal magnetism!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The many beautiful ways display—the better! Many who previously were indifferent are now willing to listen. Be specific. Emphasize ability to handle responsibility.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be aware of need to communicate, make appointments and verify agreements. Key to ability to tackle threats. Attend to details personally. Evening ripe for extending knowledge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Financial drive promising. Examine hard motives. Be positive you are not acting merely to impress others. Key is sincerity, self-understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): Could be asleep where communications are concerned. Don't jump to others until facts are at hand. Be tolerant. Give associates benefit of doubt. Above all, be patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Many strands on your side there you might imagine. Those who work with or for you will prove loyalty. Stress appreciation. Your kind determination can move any wall.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): Knowledge will clear away emotional debris. Means avoid needless worrying. Breeding. Good Moon aspect coincides with affection, love, pleasure. Day promises relaxation.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you are capable of handling huge projects but often "falter over minor matters."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Practical issues demand attention. Those who talk in rhymes and riddles are ridiculed.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don't work to personal life, appreciate loved ones—show you understand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good Moon aspect coincides with added knowledge gained through written word. Fine for writing, publishing, communications. Display originality. Be independent.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Idea received concerning avocation could add to money in the bank. Pay heed to minor details. Pierce beneath bits of information. Complete story with proven validation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): Inner confidence necessary. Don't permit outside influences to discourage you. Results adverse conditions are temporary. Make pressures work for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19): Key is service. Help others and you will be aided. Practice Golden Rule. Be sympathetic for "others' points of view." Strive toward tendency. Avoid petty actions. Don't cast first stone.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20): Favorable lunar aspect indicates evening ripe for romantic endeavors. Enjoy yourself. Pursue creative activities. Help younger person to understand.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you often have "psychic" impressions which prove accurate. Trust your intuition.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for Leo, Virgo, Libra. Special word to Aquarians: Practice moderation. Means self-control makes you stand out in "crowd."

Dog Walks 250 Miles to Get Home

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI) — Argo, a 5-year-old Dauchshund, came home after apparently having walked 250 miles.

The dog's owner gave him to a friend on the Italian mainland five months ago. For the return trip, Argo apparently hitched a ride on a ferry to cross the Straits of Messina, since it was unlikely the small dog could have survived the swift currents in the straits if he had attempted to swim.

Plantation Fires

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (UPI) — Police Saturday investigated a series of fires on eight cane plantations which burned over 1,400 tons of sugar. Arson was suspected.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITIES

It has been exceedingly rare that the Los Angeles County Hospital System, largest in the nation, has been able to offer top level positions to experienced nursing administrators outside the system. However, with the recent opening of our eighth hospital, we need people for the following positions.

Asst. Director of Nursing I $575-$715

First level nurse admin. Work in such areas as ensuring a high level of care, charting, procedures & liaison with medical services.

Requires a combination of training and experience equivalent to graduation from a diploma school of nursing and 3 years exper. as an RN in a hospital, one year of which must have been in supervis. of a professional nursing staff or a ward unit of a nursing service.

Asst. Director of Nursing III $641-$797

Upper level administrative work, e.g., budgets, staffing, training, policy interpretation.

Requires a combination of training and experience equivalent to graduation from an accredited college and 4 years exper., 2 years of which must be at Master's level which must have been in an administrative capacity or in the supervision of a group of wards or a specialized service.

There are vacancies at both levels at El Cerrito Hospital, 1401 Chestnut, Long Beach.

"LET ME SELL YOU MY '64 DEMO"
say the salesmen at LOS ALTOS FORD

This has been the year of the test drive and in such a short time we have already taken customers on over 3,100 test drives demonstrating '64 Total Performance Fords.

Now we are giving up the keys to 28 demonstrator and executive cars that have been used for demonstration purposes. All 28 have no more than been properly broken in, pampered and cared for daily by our service department. Naturally we cannot sell these as brand new cars so the profit has been written off for demonstration purposes and now we are offering them to you with TREMENDOUS SAVINGS.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER
TOO MUCH . . . OR . . . TOO LITTLE

★ There is hardly anything in the world that some man cannot make a little worse, and sell a little cheaper; and the people who consider price ONLY are this man's lawful prey. ★ It is unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money—that is all. ★ When you pay too little you sometimes lose everything, because the item you bought is incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do. ★ The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little, and getting a lot.

New Film Studio—In Spain

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The most modern movie studio yet held a grand breaking ceremony last week.

But not in Hollywood. It's being built in Spain, near Madrid, by Samuel Bronston. The producer, in town recently with models of the new layout, has come up with one idea that the stars all love.

Bronston's new studio will have more than luxurious dressing rooms. It will have its own hotel with apartment living quarters for stars of Bronston movies.

Bronston doesn't think of himself as a runaway producer.

"My organization is global. Our offices are in London, Paris, Rome, Beverly Hills, Buenos Aires and Tokyo. Moviemaking nowadays is an international business. Even the stars come from all corners of the earth.

"I'm an American employing hundreds of Americans in Spain—and hundreds of other nationalities, too. The movies derive their revenues around the world. Why shouldn't they spread the work?"

He makes no secret of the attractive Spanish cost factor involved. His "Fall of the Roman Empire" is more lavish than "Cleopatra," which cost $40 million.

Bronston, in Spain, brought it in under the $16 million budget.

TV Lines Improve With Age

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Those delayed television films sometimes give double meaning to innocent lines.

In a Feb. 8 Joey Bishop show, Leo Durocher, currently headlined in an alienation of affections suit, speaks this line:

"I'm a baseball man, not a ladies' man."

YVETTE MIMIEUX . . . Choosey About Roles

ACTING SINCE 16

Yvette Escapes Teen Cast Trap

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Blonde actress Yvette Mimieux has escaped the trap of teen-age casting that engulfs many of Hollywood's young performers.

Miss Mimieux, now 21, has been acting since she was 16. She has managed to evade those Hollywood producers who would have cast her as a young ingenue with flopping eyelashes. Many actresses who started their careers as teen-agers never got out of high school in the dramatic sense.

As a pretty 16-year-old it was only natural, by movie production standards, that Yvette should have been cast in a series of high school-type pictures. She wasn't.

"I played leading roles, even in my first pictures," she said. "I was opposite Rod Taylor. I didn't do teen-ager things."

• • • •

MISS MIMIEUX has been under contract to Metro Goldwyn Mayer studio for four years. The pact runs out in a couple of years and Yvette will be free to work for other studios.

Her acting has been confined to motion pictures. But recently she appeared in a two-part "Dr. Kildare" show.

The young actress is a beautiful blonde but she has brains to go with her beauty. She has definite ideas about her career and is willing to fight for them.

Under terms of her contract, she is obligated to make pictures for MGM. But on one occasion, she fought the studio brass, refusing to appear in a film. The studio suspended Yvette for six weeks.

• • • •

"IT WASN'T so much the quantity," she said. "It's finding quality pictures. I wouldn't mind making three pictures a year but they're hard to find.

When Yvette is no longer under contract to Metro she plans to make her own pictures.

ONE LEG, PEG LEG

Famed one-legged dancing star Peg Leg Bates will highlight the between-halves show when the Harlem Globetrotters, fabulous ball-handling basketball team, makes its annual one-night appearance at the Long Beach Arena at 8 p. m. Saturday. Other between-half acts are scheduled.

Ex-Straight Man Martin Funny Just Being Natural

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Dean Martin strode into 1964 recognized as one of the natural funny-men of our time . . a one-time straight man singer for Jerry Lewis who can make people laugh effortlessly . . . yet one whom Hollywood movies and TV still haven't yet let be as funny as he can be.

"Dino" likes to say to his pal Frank Sinatra "Be yourself, Frank, hit somebody in the mouth."

MARTIN

When Dean, Frank and their buddy Sammy Davis Jr. appeared at the Las Vegas Sands' 11th anniversary, Dean bowed to Frank and said, "It's your world, Frank; I just live in it." Picking up Sammy Davis in his arms, he said, "I would like to thank the NAACP for this handsome trophy." He then remarked to Sammy, "If it hadn't been for Lincoln, we could have got a good price for you on the open market."

The public has come to believe the fake picture Dean has painted of himself as a drunk. He was stopped on a California highway while completely sober, and a couple of cops said, "Now let's see you walk this white line."

Staring down at it, Dean exclaimed, "Without a net?"

• • • •

GOV. ROCKEFELLER was trying to raise liquor and auto license taxes. "He's going to lose all the drunken driver votes," warned Bernie Kamber . . . Dick Gregory welcomed news of a tax cut: "I can use the tax refund to pay my taxes" . . . After a visit to Paris, George Jessel said, "The trouble with DeGaulle is, he thinks he's Jack Paar" . . . Toots Shor remarked about Sonny Liston: "Whatever he tells you to do, I would" . . . Johnny Carson, summoned to appear before the Harris Committee investigating TV ratings: "On my old show, I had a minus 2. Nobody was watching the show, and two who weren't, were knocking it."

The cannibal mama said to the cannibal baby: "Don't talk when you have people in your mouth" . . . The woman driver said, "What I don't like about parking is that noisy crash at the end."

Jack Benny was roasted by the Friars." Jack doesn't have a enemy in the world—he's outlived them all," said Marty (Hello Dere) Allen. Woody Woodbury, who arrived with clean jokes, an oversight, said: "I went over like an expectant mother in a bikini."

• • • •

TIME MAGAZINE'S party for its cover subjects brought hundreds of celebrities, including Gina Lollobrigida in low-cut bodice with a rose in it. A newspaperman commented: "Never saw so many guys interested in floriculture in my life" . . . Bright new comic Woody Allen guessed that his marriage failed because his wife was immature: "Every time I was in the bathtub she'd come in and sink my boats."

Alan King, one of the most quoted comics, successful picking on the big institutions, went after the doctors. "I got a brother who's a doctor—went to school from the time he was 5 till he was 38," King said. "He's not really a doctor yet. He's a recommender. He looks at you and recommends you go and see a doctor." King also said: "A sense of humor is not laughing at a man who slips on a banana peel. When a man who slips on a banana peel laughs, that's a sense of humor."

The Boom in Buena Park

Famed for years as location of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Knott's Berry Farm, and before that an area where coyotes roamed, Buena Park now is in an era of industrial growth. Photos shown here were taken in Buena Park plants. For story of business development as told by H. A. Chamberlain, city's building superintendent, turn to Page R-2.

Delicate touch of machine operator Clifford Jones at Georgia Pacific Corp., Buena Park, tests thickness of cardboard strip in production (upper photo). Other pictures, taken at Alloy Die Casting Co. plant, also at Buena Park, show workman ladling hot metal into die and diemaker Charles Hawksford intent on some closeup work. Georgia Pacific plant is located at 6300 Regio Ave.; Alloy at 6550 Caballero Blvd. Area's central location in Southland and access to rail and freeway facilities provide attractive inducements to industry.

Buffums' Will Expand Store to Pacific Ave.

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Buffums' downtown Long Beach store will add an additional 13,000 square feet, giving the store several new or enlarged departments, Valle G. Young, president, announced Saturday.

Signing of a long-term lease with the Jotham Bixby Co., for the building on Broadway extending from Pacific Avenue east to the present Buffums' building, was disclosed by Young as he told of the expansion plans. This lease will provide Buffums' with a full block on Broadway. The master lease is subject to an existing lease with the Magic Mirror Beauty Salon, which occupies a portion of the structure.

• • • •

THE MAIN structure under the new lease, fronting on both Pacific Avenue and Broadway, will be occupied by Buffums' Interior Design Center, which will be able to execute a complete job of designing any given interior from conception to completion in the most tasteful and fashionable manner, Young said that Buffums' Sportsman's Shop also will be located in the Broadway building.

Edward Killingsworth of Killingsworth, Brady & Associates, architects, is preparing plans for extensive remodeling of the leased structure at a cost estimated at $200,000. Work is scheduled to start March 1.

• • • •

WITH THE Interior Design Center, Buffums' will have a complete home furnishings operation. In the center will be carpets, rugs, decorator furniture, lamps, wall accessories including pictures and a complete line of decorator wallpapers.

The decorating staff will be headed by John Nicholson, A.I.D.

To round out, more completely, the home departments there will be a new Sleep Shop in the main store which will carry a complete line of mattresses, box springs, headboards, studio couches and sleep accessories.

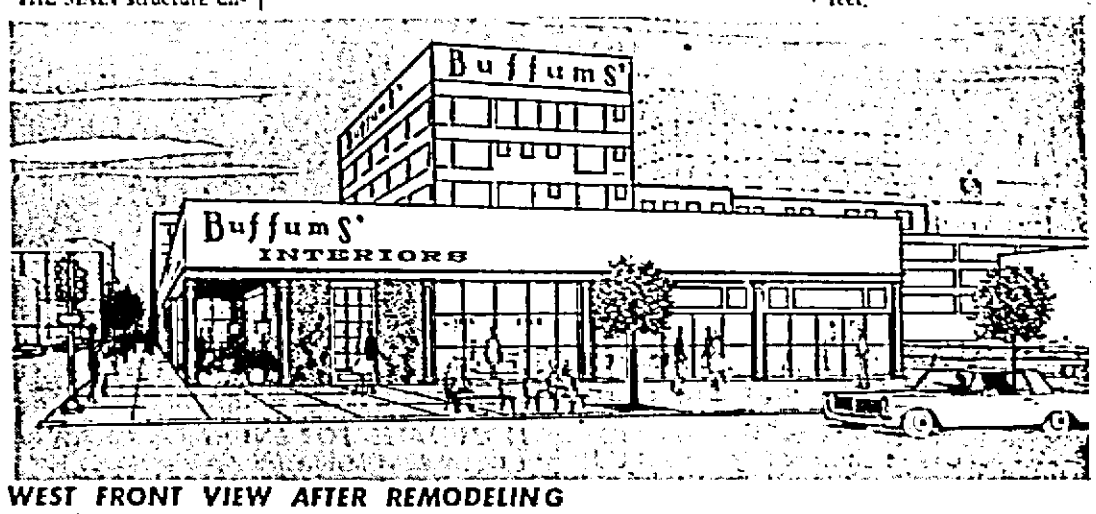

• • • •

Buffums' reenters the sporting goods business with the Sportsman's Shop and will carry accessories and apparel for the sports minded men and women.

The shop will put emphasis on fishing, hunting, golfing, tennis and skiing, and will have an enlarged camera and luggage department with accessories and fine gifts. One of the features of this shop will be shoes appropriate for all occasions.

With the additional space for the new shops, Buffums' will extend the downtown store to approximately 150,000 square feet.

WEST FRONT VIEW AFTER REMODELING
This is how Buffums' downtown Long Beach store will look from the Pacific Avenue (or west) side following remodeling for major expansion. Store will occupy full block along south side of Broadway between Pine and Pacific Avenues. Remodeling, estimated to cost $200,000, is due to start in March.

Set Cargo Terminal Ceremony

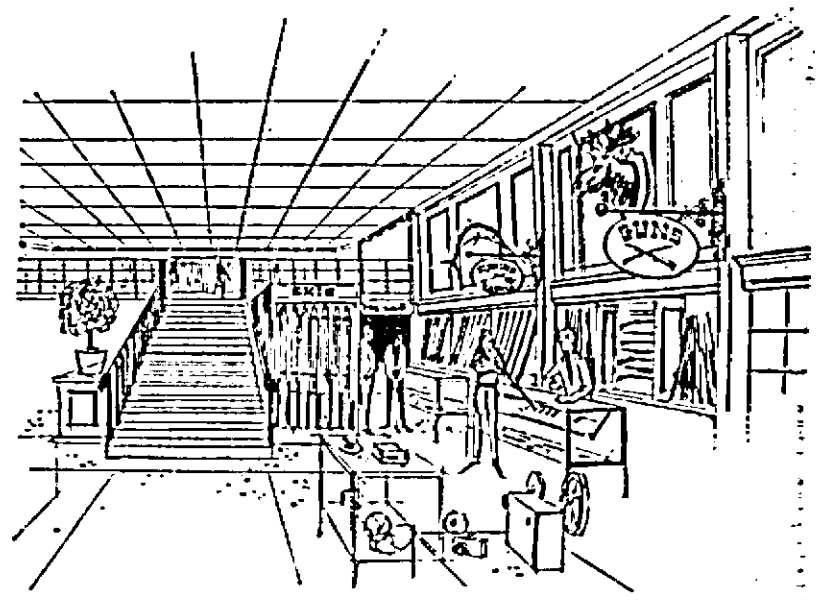

Dedication of a $4,000,000 cargo terminal, newest addition to Los Angeles Harbor facilities, is scheduled for Feb. 24, according to Albert Perrish, president of the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners.

The new facility in the port's West Basin, innermost area of the harbor, includes a $1,500,000 clear-span cargo shed, measuring 1008x200 feet, a 2,100-foot-long concrete wharf, and backland improvements. The wharf was finished just prior to construction of the shed, and accommodates three freighters simultaneously.

• • • •

OCCUPANT of the new facility is Furness, Withy & Co., 39-year resident of the Port of Los Angeles. Steamship companies represented by this agency are the Furness (British), Holland - America (Dutch), Royal Mail (British) and Crusader (Norwegian) lines.

The project is a part of the Port's overall expansion and improvement program, begun in 1960, in which $40,000,000 is being invested in a five-year period.

Signal Adds Garrett Executives to Board

Five executive assignments and election of two officers of The Garrett Corporation to Signal's board of directors have been announced by Samuel B. Mosher, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Signal Oil & Gas Co.

Elected to the board were Harry H. Wetzel, president, and Walter R. Ramsaur, executive vice president, of The Garrett Corp., which merged with Signal effective last Monday.

Albion E. Stebbings, a Signal vice president since 1961 and for the past two years, general manager of the company's Houston Division, has been named general counsel. He will return to the Los Angeles headquarters Feb. 1.

• • • •

H. J. STROUD, manager of employe relations, has been elected vice president. He also will continue in his present capacity.

Raymond F. Granlund, manager of supply and distribution for the Houston Division for three years, also has been elected vice president and, in addition to his present duties, will serve as coordinator for the division.

Ivan D. Stewart, assistant treasurer since 1957, has been elected treasurer, assuming the post from E. Paul Ludman, who continues as financial vice president.

John R. Spencer, who has been in charge of governmental relations three years, has been named assistant to the president with special assignment responsibilities in addition to his work in governmental affairs.

Tire Firm to Build in Buena Park

Permit for a $190,480 Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plant boosted construction in Buena Park to $579,978 during the past week.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Los Angeles will construct a 150,000 - square-foot warehouse and office facility at 6450 Caballero St.

D. Shaw, Los Angeles, is contractor for the project.

The City Building Department issued 20 other permits for construction totaling $99,498, according to figures in the office of H. A. Chamberlain, building superintendent.

• • • •

H. LEE, 8750 Hillcrest Road in the Bellehurst development, was granted permit to construct a $40,157 residence, garage and playhouse.

R. A. Thompson, 6582 Rostrata St., was issued permit to erect a $10,912 liquor sales facility at 6265 Manchester Blvd.

Knott's Berry Farm, 8281 Grand Ave., was issued permit to remodel woodcraft shops, costing $12,400.

$262,000 Deal

OCEANSIDE (UPI) — Retired Marine Corps Lt. Col. Clyde L. Johnson of Salt Lake City has purchased the Buccaneer Motel and apartments here for an estimated price in excess of $262,000 from Ed Crum, former Oceanside Chamber of Commerce president.

Orange Countian Heads Appraisers

Stanley E. Goode, Jr., MAI, was installed as president of The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, Southern California Chapter, at the annual membership banquet in the Huntington Sheraton Hotel at Pasadena Friday evening.

Goode, a partner with his father in the pioneer Orange County real estate appraisal firm of Goode & Goode, succeeded James C. Hill, MAI, division manager, Equitable Life Assurance Society, Los Angeles. The valuation experts achieve their MAI designation only after comprehensive examinations that supplement qualifying background experience, and there are only 147 qualified MAI's in Southern California.

• • • •

STEPHEN WHITTLESEY, MAI, a partner of Hults and Whittlesey, Pasadena, became vice president, and Albert L. Johnson, MAI, of San Bernardino, secretary-treasurer. Robert H. Johnson, MAI, chief appraiser, Bank of America, Los Angeles is newly elected assistant secretary.

George Hamilton Jones, MAI, of Newport Beach, and Donald M. Burnett, MAI, chief appraiser, Union Bank, Los Angeles, are new directors.

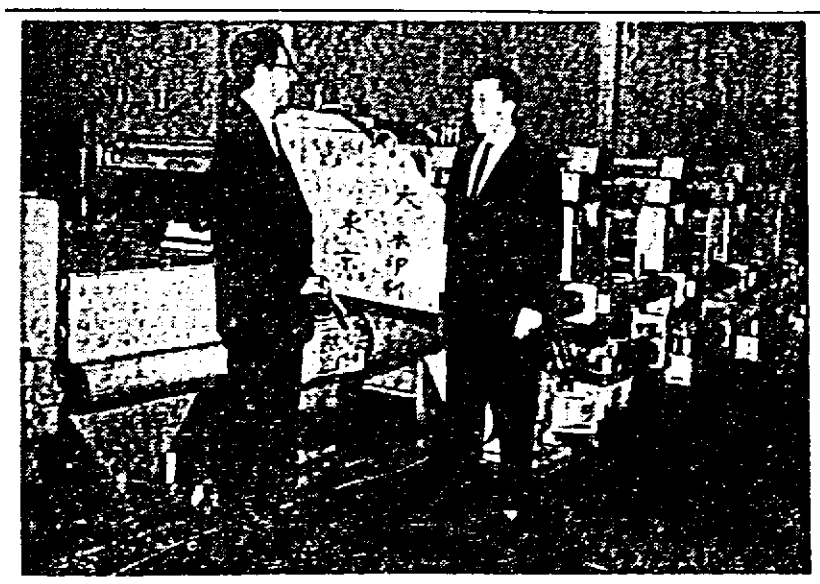

Astrodata Reports Increased Sales

ANAHEIM — Astrodata, Inc., manufacturer of electronic data control systems and instrumentation, has announced six month sales of $5,811,000 and earnings of $259,000, equal to 43 cents per share on 672,374 shares of common stock outstanding.

This represents an increase of over 60% in sales and 80% in earnings over the corresponding period last year.

DOWNEY — Construction has started at Rio Hondo Memorial Hospital here on a cobalt teletherapy unit for treatment of cancer cases. Work on the building is expected to be completed late in the spring.

BUILT IN LYNWOOD
This Lynwood-built press made for the Japanese printing industry by Western Gear Corporation's Graphic Arts Division is appropriately "tagged" by Kiyohary Imanishi (left), director of the Japan Trade Center, for R. E. McNamara, manager of the division. The Speedflex business forms press was purchased by Dai-Nippon Printing Co. of Tokyo. It is a high-speed unit with four offset towers and can print a total of six colors simultaneously, including facilities for numbering and imprinting. The press prints snap-out forms at speeds in excess of 25,000 impressions per hour.

Freeman New Head of Harbor N.E.C.A. Unit

The National Electrical Contractors Association, Harbor Section, held its annual election meeting recently at the Manhattan Restaurant in Long Beach.

Elected to office as chairman for the year was Louis I. Freeman of Freeman Electric Construction Co., Long Beach. He replaces James O. Ashcraft previously elected to the Los Angeles Chapter Board of Directors. Fred Dunn of Hoffman & Son, Inc., was elected vice chairman.

Darrell L. Evans, deputy registrar of contractors, California State License Board, cited a number of instances in which contractors can involve themselves and run afoul of the law in construction work. Earl Chapman, staff assistant to Evans, also was in attendance to help answer some of the many questions on the subject.

FROM COYOTES TO COMMERCE

Buena Park Industrial Growth Detailed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Details on the industrial growth of Buena Park are told here by the city's building superintendent, H. A. Chamberlain, in this special article.)

By H. A. CHAMBERLAIN

BUENA PARK — Coyote Creek and Coyote Hills got their names from the animals that roamed here, as did the Rancho Los Coyotes.

They still roamed here in the Rancho in 1855 when James A. Whitaker bought 690 acres not far from the old ranch house and beginning at Orangethorpe and extending north to where the Santa Fe Railroad was to come through.

At the same time he influenced two people to establish here—one, the owner of the Pacific Creamery Co. and the other Andrew McNally, both of whom established industry in this area.

• • • •

McNALLY BOUGHT in what is now La Mirada, planted olive orchards and built an olive factory.

In 1890, his area remained in Los Angeles County, but the acreage of Whitaker was close to the northwest line of the newly formed Orange county; acreage that in June, 1887 he had filed as a subdivision he called Buena Park.

Because of anger at the Santa Fe for moving north of its original plan, the actual development of the town of Buena Park began in 1887 at the crossing of the Southern Pacific an Grand Ave. (Beach Blvd.) which on the new plat as now was 108 feet wide.

• • • •

AT THE southeast corner of this crossing, in 1889 was built the creamery which not only had a great influence on the development of the area but, unless a winery can be classed as industry, began the industrial development of Orange County.

The Guinn History of 1902 states that this creamery, mainly a condensed milk plant, distributed labor and milk checks amounting to about $15,000 monthly. This was a great deal of money in that era.

• • • •

THE SECOND industrial development began in 1920 in an operation not normally looked on as industrial.

This is Knott's Berry Farm.

Mrs. Walter Knott began the preserving of berries, selling the jars through their roadside stand. Today, their preserving kitchens are very large buildings and the products are sold nationally. Many concessions on the Farm are also national suppliers of their products made here such as candles, knives, etc.

This same 1920 period also brought the beginning of the population expansion of Buena Park.

• • • •

THE MOVING of the movie industry to Hollywood focused attention on the desirability of the area and Buena Park and other areas of Orange County received some reflection.

The census of 1900 gave Buena Park 935 persons while that of 1950 showed 4,583. Nearly all of this came after 1920. This created a labor supply.

In 1946, Nutrilite Products, which began in Los Angeles in 1935, required expansion and in 1946 located in Buena Park at the Santa Fe Railroad.

The creamery that had been converted and expanded into vegetable canning, Knott's canning, and the Nutrilite food supplement production constituted the manufacturing in the Buena Park area when the city was incorporated in January 1953.

• • • •

THE POPULATION explosion of Buena Park and contiguous areas began in 1954.

The first of the large food companies came in 1956 when Kraft Foods bought 100 acres and became a part of Buena Park. It was stated by their engineers that their study of their distribution trend showed Buena Park to be in its center which was the reason for their purchase here.

It was obvious that this would be a general status for much food and other distribution, and as Buena Park had much undeveloped potential industrial acreage that could be either conserved or destroyed for stabilized investment, the decision was made to protect and conserve it by high minimum building requirements.

IT HAS BEEN freely admitted that developments occasioned by "political growing pains" of the city had a retarding effect.

Fortunately, while it retarded decisions of major industries to locate here, the desirability of Buena Park also retarded their decisions to locate elsewhere, so their final decisions were made in balance.

Southern Pacific bought a large area of potential industrial acreage on their trackage in Buena Park and inaugurated their experience in industrial development.

THE SANTA FE more recently purchased acreage in Buena Park offsetting their loss to schools in Los Angeles of contiguous acreage, as an extention of their already established "Central Manufacturing Area."

Smaller industrial zones under their protected building conservation also began to expand, and the results in just three years have been rather phenomenal.

The Kraft area is expanding by the addition of presently building HunKo Oil Refinery that will refine the vegetable oil going into the myriad of products made by Kraft.

• • • •

LUCKY STORES has constructed their Southern Regional Distribution Warehouses south of Kraft and it is virtually a city in itself in size and commodities.

Next to them is the Cal-Ray plant of Burry Biscuit, a subsidiary of Quaker Oaks, and while tremendous in its present size, it can be doubled as needed.

About to be begin is the plant of National Biscuit Company in Buena Park just across the Freeway from Kraft.

It is said that when this plant is operating, Buena Park will have the largest cheese and cracker corner in the country.

The Kraft plant contains 431,000 square feet of floor space, Nabisco will have 340,000 at the start.

• • • •

NOLAND PAPER is building a 270,000 square foot warehouse for their wholesale paper distribution. Their additional acreage reserve will allow for a 1,500,000 square feet of space for the Mead Container Corporation production of which Noland is a subsidiary.

California Packing Corporation is building also in the Southern Pacific tract. This is part of Del Monte Packing and is their advent into canned drinks. We already have the large and beautiful Seven-up plant in the industrial area on Orangethorpe Ave.

As another indication of centralization, The Herald Examiner is building a satellite auxiliary plant that is designed to contain 52 presses.

• • • •

ONE OF THE present big mysteries in this commercial expansion is that of the "Western Distributors," which has submitted preliminary plans that have been approved for a warehouse covering 20 acres (842,000 square feet) and an additional 150,000 square feet of office area.

They have purchased 110 acres at Orangethorpe and Valley View in Buena Park.

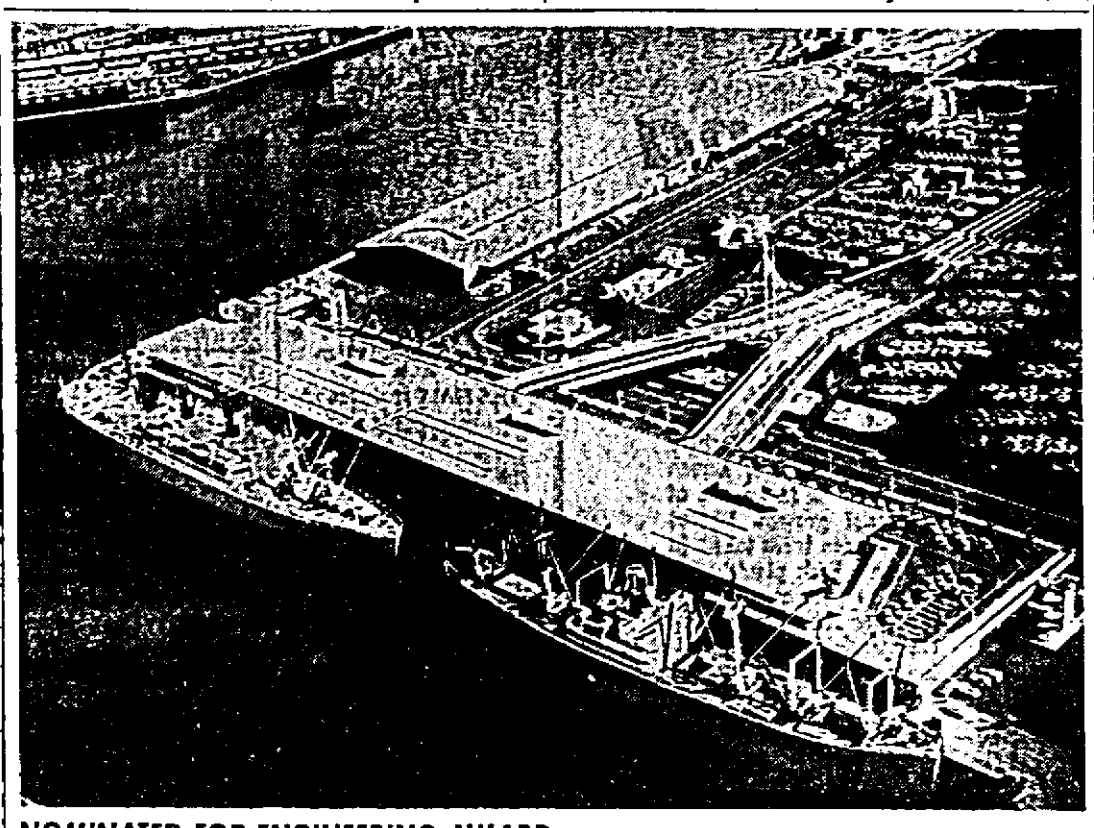

• • • •

IT IS ALSO known that there are at least four rather large firms that have already made final decisions on locating here.

These are in addition to the ones mentioned and the already established firms such as three casting companies, a container plant, a chemical plant, an office and restaurant furniture plant, a filing cabinet plant, a Goodyear Rubber plant, a baby formula plant, serving all Southland hospitals, liquor and beer wholesale warehouses.

There are other small to large plants in three other industrial tracts that serve the missile and aircraft industries and other phases of residential and industrial production in the Southland.

Buena Park in its established and potential industrial development is truly proving itself "The Center of the Southland" in number and size of companies it is attracting. And what is already here is but a good beginning in its industrial development from coyotes to commerce.

BrierclifVillage
a new concept in retirement

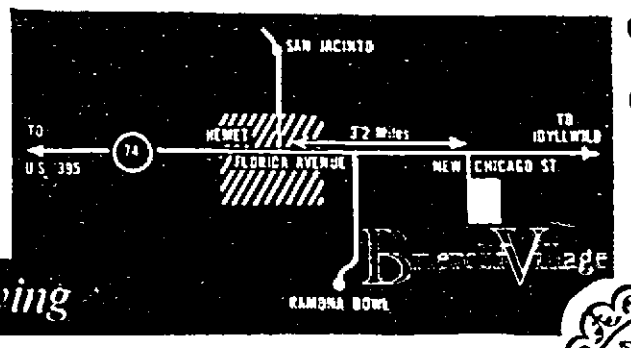

Brierclif offers an excitedly new and different concept of life for those in their retirement years ...a more abundant life with a fresh new lease on living. An offer limited to couples where one spouse is 50 or over and there are no children under 18.

Rather than building a city of hundreds of homes, with the resultant congestion and cold impersonalness that is so much a part of city life, Brierclif has chosen to erect a small community of homes, where residents can enjoy the intimacy and neighborliness of a small town; the old-fashioned first-name type of neighborliness that seems to have all but vanished from the American scene.

Come! Look thru the model homes! Brierclif has so much to offer in carefree-easy living. Throw away troubles and cares to the gentle breezes of the Valley of Contentment in a Brierclif retirement home.

BrierclifVillage

When the whirl of activity beckons, you'll find Brierclif Village just a short drive into glamorous Palm Springs . . . where lights are bright and hearts are gay.

LAND
NEARLY HALF SOLD
(Parcels 10 Acres and Up)

Southern California Mountain-Ringed Recreational Retreat . . . for Discriminating Buyers

Easy to Location—Two hours, twenty minutes from Los Angeles over freeways and excellent roads to "Old West" ambiance and charm. Electric gold rush area in beautiful natural locale is protected by surrounding mountains. Accessible by three roads—and an airstrip on the ranch.

Land, Browsing Land—In Walker Basin, an area of working ranches with lots of trees and green vegetation, the property is rich in history. On it the famous old Jim Walker gold mine was claimed, after water came in faster than it could be pumped out.

Fabulous Climate—At the 3500 foot level it is definitely cooler in Summer, enjoyable all year. Four seasons, blue skies, good rainfall, snow once, and clean, clear mountain air make this a wonderful northwest all year.

Water and Riches—Fed by runoff from surrounding mountains, the water table is reportedly good. A 10 foot well sunk in 1963 tested 240 gallons per hour! Electricity is available, and telephones are in.

A Great Playland—Surrounded on three sides by Sequoia National Forest and overlooked by towering peaks to 8,000 feet, this is fantastic country, ideal for horses. It provides practically endless miles of adventure on horseback. Just 16 miles north you can fish, swim, boat and water ski on Lake Isabella. Another 11 miles is Shirley Meadows, with good snow, ski runs and rope tows. Wildlife Paradise—Excellent hunting, every kind's on a variety of game lands, and one of the largest deer herds in the state. Acreages—There are nine spacious tracts—10 acres and larger. Once a working cattle ranch, land presently raising quarter horses, this is scenic land with oaks, rock formations, stream beds, flat areas and rolling hills. Each parcel has a choice of several sites for building. Find hideaway home. Plenty of land is available for you to divide and retain a view site for yourself.

Mail a Dream Speculation—At $75 down and $75 when you catch our promotion—and not almost sold. Apartment Project Set for Auction

An opportunity for purchase of all or part of the 231-unit Fireside Manor apartment development and two large R-3 lots in Monterey Park, will be offered at public auction Feb. 14, at 11 a.m.

The public auction, to be conducted under the supervision of the Milton J. Wershow Co., auctioneers and real estate brokers, will be based on an approximate evaluation of $4,300,000 on the premises. The property is located at 834-890 W. El Repetto Drive, in Monterey Park.

Fireside Manor, recently completed in March of 1963, has been ordered sold by present owner, Merton H. Baker, on the basis of his need to remain in Palm Springs for supervision of his current mammoth project, "Sky Mountain," which encompasses 640 acres and will be a $100,000,000 development. This, plus other holdings in Palm Springs, demand that he concentrate on this area and eliminate or curtail his Los Angeles area holdings.

• • • •

ALL BIDS submitted for Fireside Manor will be subject to Baker's confirmation.

The property to be auctioned is divided into three parcels: Parcels 1 and 1A contain the 231 luxury apartment units which are housed in eight buildings. Parcel II, which comprises 35,835 square feet and includes a set of plans furnished by the owner for a 30-unit apartment building; and Parcel III, which involves 148,104 square feet now zoned R-3 and suitable for hotel or restaurant development.

In addition to the units, the development contains two Olympic size pools plus a $50,000 penthouse and recreation building. Each of the two pools serves a distinct area of the development.

New Plant to Be Built

Ground was broken recently for the new general offices and Los Angeles Basin division office and maintenance yard of California Production Service of Long Beach.

The new plant will be located at 19431 South Santa Fe Ave. in Compton on three acres of land. In addition to land improvements, there will be approximately 10,000 square feet of shop and office area included in this plant.

• • • •

OWNER of the new development is Dominguez Land Co. Building construction is being handled by Donald F. Shaw, general contractor. All leasing arrangements were negotiated by W. H. Daum & Staff, industrial real estate concern.

California Producton Service, Inc., began operations as a partnership in 1937 with 20 employes and three oil well servicing hoists.

Today, C.P.S. operates 35 oil well servicing, remedial and drilling rigs of various sizes throughout California and in New Mexico.

The 275 men now employed by C.P.S. operate out of five major divisions, the Los Angeles Basin, Bakersfield, Castaic-Newhall, and Ventura in California, and Farmington, in the Four Corners area of New Mexico.

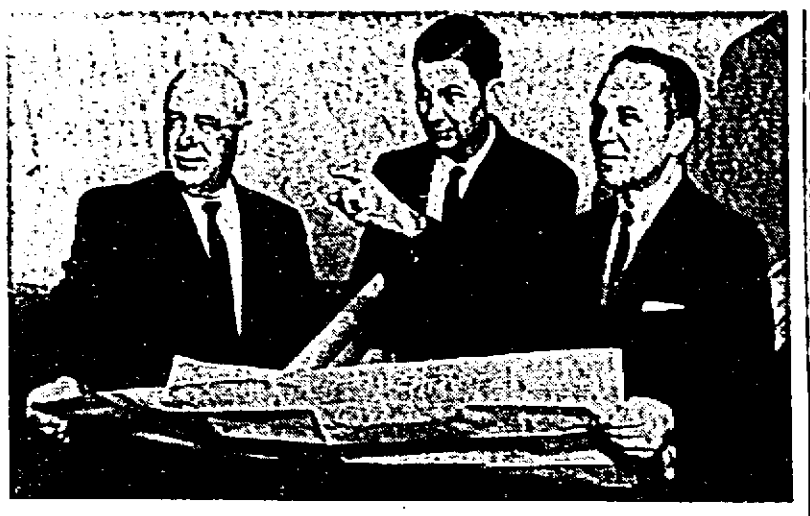

Coast Federal Adds Directors

Coast Federal Savings' president, Joe Crail, announced election of two new members to the firm's Board of Directors and the reelection of a third at the association's recent annual meeting.

Arthur G. Pollock, vice president of the Curt Advertising Agency and formerly business manager of the Los Angeles Daily News for 27 years before its demise, and attorney Harry Pflaumer, manager of Crail and Crail Management Service, are the new directors.

Willard M. Huyck, president of Aseptic-Thermo Indicator Company — a former California Assemblyman and a member of Coast Federal's board for 23 years — was reelected to a three-year term.

Coast Federal's Long Beach area office is located at 200 E. Third Street, corner of Locust. Bill Panzich is the manager.

L. B. PLANT MANAGER CONFERS

Plans for a major Northern California Johns-Manville floor tile plant get a thorough study by three floor coverings executives as J. F. Van Dissen (center), western regional sales manager of the J-M flooring division with offices in Long Beach, points out features of the new plant site on Whipple Road at Hayward, Calif. Pat Kerr (left) and Ira Lazarus, co-owners of Lake Sales, Berkeley, follow plans for the 150,000-square-foot facility. Lake Sales is the J-M floor coverings distributor in Northern California. Construction will begin soon on the 20-acre site. Van Dissen's offices are at 2420 E. 223rd St., Long Beach. The company has California plants in Pittsburg, Stockton, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Lompoc and Corona, with mines at Coalinga and Lompoc.

Firm Moves From Hollywood to Downtown L.B. Edison Bldg.

Marquart-Wolfe Lumber Co. has occupied its new suite of offices in the 10-story, all-electric Long Beach Edison Building at 100 Long Beach Blvd.

The company operates as a wholesale lumber distributor for more than 300 lumber dealers, wholesalers and retailers throughout the United States.

The corporation formerly maintained headquarters in Hollywood.

MEMBERS OF the firm are Horace E. Wolfe, president, Sterling H. Wolfe, vice president, and Ralph Norum, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wolfe have moved their residence to 600 East Ocean Blvd. in Long Beach.

"We are moving to get out of the traffic complex and also the smog," Wolfe commented.

The new suite 825 offices are in the heart of downtown Long Beach and near the ocean.

Forum Speaker to Discuss Forgery

"What Crooks Are Doing With Checks Today" will be discussed by Joe Mead at the Long Beach Community Forum Wednesday.

Mead, western states distributor of Forgery and Alteration Prevention Service, will describe current check forging and alteration practices which net $1½ billion annually for this segment of crime.

Sponsored weekly by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Forum is conducted in the Crown Cafeteria, First Street and Alamitos Avenue, beginning at 7:15 a.m. Clive Graham is program chairman.

Queen Contest Set for L.B. Home Show

A queen contest will be conducted as one of the highlights of the 1964 Long Beach Home-O-Rama to be held Feb. 26 through March 1 in the Long Beach Arena, according to Tom Norcross, general chairman.

Norcross said finalists in the contest will be selected at a screening in the near future.

George Colouris, producer of the annual home show, said selection of the queen will be a feature of the opening night. A queen and two princesses will be chosen by a panel of judges, he added.

• • • •

THE PRODUCER said the winners will receive a variety of gifts and will preside at various functions during the five day show which is staged annually under sponsorship of the Long Beach Building Exchange.

Planning of the Home-O-Rama is picking up tempo as show time draws nearer, Norcross said. Various committees are at work on phases of the event which is the building group's largest public function.

• • • •

THE HOME-O-RAMA will feature hundreds of booths containing the latest products ranging from building materials to fine home furnishings. Those attending the show may tour exhibits at their leisure, Norcross said, and not only see the products on display, but get valuable hints on home projects such as remodeling.

Dividend Declared

The board of directors of Belmont Savings & Loan Association has declared a cash dividend of 20c per share to stockholders of record Feb. 4. According to William J. Crawford, president, the dividend is payable Feb. 18.

At a luncheon with investment bankers, Crawford disclosed substantial gains in assets of the Long Beach headquartered savings association. Assets increased 68 per cent during 1963, from $44,604,978 to $75,049,751 as of Dec. 31, 1963.

Loans also showed an increase of over 68 per cent bringing them to a high of $60,603,776 at year end.

• • • •

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS similarly showed a gain of 60 per cent for the year. As of Dec. 31, savings accounts totaled $53,874,207.

Preliminary 1963 earnings after provision for income taxes were reported at $1,339,329 or $2.24 per share. This compares to $945,450 or $1.52 per share for the preceding year based on 623,920 shares outstanding for both periods.

Crawford stated the directors would consider another dividend payment in the second half of 1964.

Tax Prober Gets Award

Internal Revenue Service agent Irwin Bell, 3823 McNab Ave., won a special achievement certificate and a cash award of $295 for his work during the past two years on special tax investigations.

The certificate and award were presented to him by IRS supervisor John R. McArdle.

Admiral Names Solomon as 'Friend of the Navy'

Irving Solomon, president of the Independent Business Men's Association of Greater Long Beach and newly named chairman of the Armed Services Commission of the City of Long Beach, has been named as a "Friend of the Navy" by Rear Admiral Kenneth L. Veth, USN, commander U.S. Naval Base Los Angeles and commander Mine Force U.S. Pacific Fleet.

The "Friends of the Navy" program honors civilians who are outstanding Navy boosters.

• • • •

THE PROGRAM was initiated to better acquaint Naval personnel stationed in the Long Beach/Los Angeles area with some of their civilian friends always ready to lend a helping hand to the Navy.

In speaking of this program, Admiral Veth has pointed out that, "Although the 'Friends of the Navy' are well known to the top echelon of command, many other Navy personnel are not fully aware of our supporters' firm friendship for the Navy. The excellent spirit of cooperation between the city and the Navy is a tribute to the efforts of these Navy friends."

Long Beach is the home port for well over 100 ships of the Pacific Fleet, making it the third largest U.S. Navy port in existence. It holds the reputation among Navy personnel of being the most hospitable port in the country.

• • • •

SOLOMON, a prominent Long Beach and Orange County businessman, has been a strong Navy booster for more than three decades. He recently stated: "I became vitally conscious of the great value of the Navy to Long Beach in 1933 when the city was stricken by a disastrous earthquake. I was able to observe first hand the fine spirit of cooperation displayed by the Navy through its assistance to the community at a time of great need."

Solomon is owner of Hoefly's Restaurant in Belmont Shore.

In 1953, he formed a partnership with his son Albert and established the Alco-Pacific Construction Co. in Orange County which has built more than 2,500 homes.

L.B. Man Named to National Committee

Steve Spindell, Long Beach farm and land broker, has been appointed a member of the Multiple Listing Committee of the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers, California Chapter, it was announced last week by president Allan A. Stramler Jr. of Bakersfield.

Area Firms Get Contracts

The Defense Electronics Supply Center, Dayton, Ohio, a field activity of the Defense Supply Agency, has awarded nine government contracts totaling $143,813.95 for electrical and electronic supplies to companies in the greater Los Angeles area.

Vernitron Corp., a small-business concern, 1742 S. Crenshaw Blvd., Torrance, received a $20,875 contract to supply 167 control transformer synchros and a $15,885 contract for 132 resolver synchros.

Autonetics Division of North American Aviation, 3370 E. Anaheim Rd., Anaheim, was granted an $11,125 contract for 107 step-down, step-up, power transformers.

Childs Leaves Home Savings for New Post

Kenneth D. Childs has assumed presidency of the Southern California Savings and Loan Association following his resignation last Wednesday as president and a director of Home Savings and Loan Association.

Commenting on the change, Childs said he left Home Savings "with the deepest personal regrets, after 15 wonderful years of the finest of business and personal relationships.

"However," he added, "I think it is proper that I spend my remaining business life with an association in which I have a personal ownership. I will be joined in the management of the Southern California Savings and Loan Association by my two sons, Kenneth Jr., 36, and Timothy Alan, 22."

• • • •

BOTH ASSOCIATIONS are located in Los Angeles, Home Savings being America's largest, and Southern California being the oldest association in Los Angeles County.

Childs, 62, joined Home Savings as executive vice president in 1957. During the time he was managing officer with Home Savings, the institution grew in assets from $15,000,000 to $1,500,000,000.

Childs succeeds as Southern California's president Edward Morgan, who will become chairman of the association's board of directors.

Travelling Exhibits Will Be Home Savings Anniversary Feature

Home Savings & Loan Association, largest of its kind, and now celebrating its 75th anniversary, has scheduled a one-year showing of six unusual travelling exhibits which will tour each of its 24 offices in Southern California.

Meanwhile, it was announced Home had become the first and only savings institution to reach $1½ billion in assets. It was predicted assets would reach the $2 billion mark in 1965.

• • • •

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS at the end of '63 had reached $1,367,934,730, a gain of $265,269,706 that year.

A preview of the travelling displays was held recently at an anniversary party in the Hollywood Palladium, where President Howard Ahmanson greeted hundreds of guests.

Each exhibit will be shown at different branch offices for two-week intervals, beginning Thursday.

• • • •

THE SIX DISPLAYS will include:

Old and new kitchen appliances; antique vending machines; 1889 fashions on special mannequins; precious stones; money; and art.

First exhibit in the Long Beach area will be at the Lakewood office, where the kitchen display will open Jan. 30.

Home Savings, as an association, dates back to Aug. 21, 1889, when it was started by W. A. Bonynge, Sr., under Home Investment Builders & Loan Association.

• • • •

ITS FIRST location was in downtown Los Angeles, in a private home near the intersection of Fourth and Hill streets. Then, in 1925, Home Savings moved to 112 West Ninth St., still a one-man organization.

Irving P. Leigh joined Home Savings as executive vice president in 1928, at which time the association moved to 115 West Ninth. Leigh and a secretary weathered the depression of the '30's, never refusing a withdrawal, for a perfect record.

• • • •

HOWARD AHMANSON purchased the association April 10, 1947. Assets totaled $1,100,000, with capital, surplus and reserve funds of $96,000—and four employes. The office still was on Ninth Street. The move to Eighth and Spring came about in 1949.

Home moved to its present and permanent downtown location in Los Angeles at the corner of Eighth Street and Broadway on November 18, 1957.

On Dec. 31, 1950, Home acquired Long Beach Savings and Loan, with offices in Long Beach and Huntington Park.

A year later, North American Savings and Loan was brought into the Home fold, adding offices in Beverly Hills and Highland Park.

In 1952 Occidental Savings and Loan was acquired with an office in Studio City.

In 1953 Arcadia Savings and Loan gave Home its seventh office.

• • • •

HOME SAVINGS became America's largest savings and loan association on March 1, 1954, when United Savings and Loan merged with Home, raising Home Savings' assets to over $190,000,000, with 70,000 savers, 20,000 borrowers, and new offices in Burbank and Glendale.

In 1954, Home opened a new office in Lakewood.

In March 1956 Pasadena Savings and Loan joined Home with assets of $52,000,000.

Four months later, Home expanded to Orange County, acquiring Anaheim Savings and Loan and giving the association offices in Anaheim, Buena Park and Garden Grove.

• • • •

SIX NEW offices were added in 1957. A merger with Hollywood Savings and Loan expanded Home Savings' boundaries north to Barstow and Victorville, as well as a large office in Hollywood.

The association opened offices in Encino on June 24, Santa Ana on June 27, and in Compton on July 1.

On Feb. 3, 1958, Home opened its 21st office, in La Mirada.

December 1, 1959, found Home with its 22nd office, in Whittier, and its Victorville office moved to a new location.

Shortly thereafter, offices were opened in Torrance and Pomona, bringing the total number of branch offices to 24.

Huntington Village Center Under Way

Construction is under way on the $2,250,000 Huntington Village Shopping Center which will feature a 30,000 sq. ft. Von's supermarket as its largest structure.

Developers of the 105,000 sq. ft. project are A. Vickter and Jack Barenfelt of Beverly Hills. The center is located on a 12½ acre site at the corner of Edinger and Springdale in Huntington Beach, one-half mile from Douglas Aircraft's new $40,000,000 space systems facility.

Completion of the project by Ernest W. Hahn, Inc., general contractors of Hawthorne, is expected within four months.

• • • •

THE CENTER will be built of pre-cast concrete with exposed aggregate exterior finishes. The design features a concrete colonnade on two sides providing an unusual exterior accent.

Von's supermarket will contain a complete produce, meat and grocery service. It will be air-conditioned with automatic doors, acoustical ceilings, flush-mounted lighting fixtures and high-speed checkout facilities.

In addition to the market, the center will include a T. G. & Y. variety store of 11,500 sq. ft., an office of Security-First National Bank, a drug store and additional service shops and facilities.

• • • •

PARKING FOR 650 CARS will be provided for the center with entrances and exits from both Edinger and Springdale.

Developers Vickter and Barenfelt said the site was chosen because of "the rapid growth of the Huntington Beach area and the strategic location of the center near to the Douglas plant, across from the new Marina High School and adjacent to more than 1,000 homes."

Lester Boxer is leasing agent for the center.

Dividend Declared

A regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association capital stock was declared by the bank's board of directors meeting in San Francisco last week.

The dividend, at an annual rate of $2 per share, is payable Feb. 28 to shareholders of record Feb. 7.

U.S. Personal Income Outlook 'Good' for '64

The American breadwinner has ample reason to expect a fatter pocketbook this year, according to Business Week magazine.

Not only is there more than enough steam in the economy to carry through most of the year, but the added push of a reduction now seems assured, it says.

Given this, and assuming there is no major labor strife or international crisis, the experts believe it is safe to count on a personal income gain at least matching — and possibly bettering — last year's preliminary reading of 5½%.

There will be trouble spots, however. In its year-end Measure of Personal Income report, Business Week suggests that Indiana is certain to be hit hard by the loss of 8,000 jobs at Studebaker's South Bend operation. Seattle suffered a blow when Boeing's Dyna-Soar space contract, involving 5,000 employes, was cancelled. Defense industries everywhere are nervous about mounting pressures on federal spending.

• • • •

BUT THE BRIGHT SPOTS far outweigh the dim. For one thing, the auto industry is banking on a 7.4-million car sales year in 1964 — nearly as good as 1963.

This means fatter pay envelopes in Michigan, Missouri, Wisconsin, California, New Jersey, Delaware, and other areas where auto assemblies weigh heavily on the economic scale.

Urban Renewal Official to Talk at Bellflower

BELLFLOWER — Rex Vance, field representative, Urban Renewal Administration, will be guest speaker at the breakfast meeting of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors at the Cerritos College Student Center Thursday, according to F. W. Humphries, program chairman.

The meeting will be called to order at 7:30 a.m. with President Paul M. Williams presiding.

Vance will discuss ways of combatting blighting conditions in cities, explaining the role of the Urban Renewal Administration in programs as developed in many areas.

In addition to the principal speaker, reports will be made on the recent directors' meeting, San Diego, of the California Real Estate Association with Past President Bob Prigmore, a member of the state association education committee, reporting on the work of that committee and Jerry McConnell, CREA director, reporting on the work of the Ethics and Professional Standards Committee.

Ceramic Tile Contractors Will Convene

More than 100 ceramic tile contractors from the Long Beach and Orange County areas will be in attendance at the Ninth Annual Educational Conference and Seminar of the Ceramic Tile Institute, Jan. 30 to Feb. 1, at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

WM. PULLAN

William Pullan, Phoenix, Ariz., tile contractor, chairman of the Ceramic Tile Institute of America, will be a featured speaker.

Opening the Seminar on Thursday from 3 to 6 p.m. will be a construction industries social event.

On Thursday evening, the annual meeting of the western States Ceramic Tile Contractors Association will be held.

Key business sessions are scheduled on Friday and Saturday.

Prestige Homes Offering Wide Variety

"The best homes in the best location can only mean Perstige Homes in Huntington Beach," according to Dan Mytinger, sales director for the new homes built by Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc.

"And our sales record bears out the above remark," Mytinger continued, "with more than 220 Prestige Homes having been purchased since they were opened for sale last July."

A PRESTIGE HOME
Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach, one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes, with 24 different exterior elevations and six floor plans, are priced from $23,900. Here is an interior view in one model.

"The reasons are rather obvious," the sales executive went on. "Prestige Homes offer 24 striking elevations, one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes in six different floor plans. Walk-in pantries, built-in dressers, extra "boat doors," wardrobes to 14 feet long, massive floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, Westinghouse all-electric kitchens, plus a host of other small and large features have all contributed to the outstanding success of Prestige Homes.

• • • •

THE HOMES, priced from $23,900, are available on FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet financing. Buyers receive Grant Deed to their home and lot and there are no due dates or balloon payments.

Mytinger pointed out that Prestige Homes location has been extremely instrumental in the sales picture: a mile from the new Douglas Space Center, within 10 minutes of the Southland's finest beaches, Meadowlark Golf Club, shopping, schools, churches and fast freeways and boulevards all within 5 to 15 minutes driving time.

The six model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. From the Long Beach area: drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West St., right to Edinger Ave., then right to Springdale St., left a short distance to Prestige Homes.

Moore Heads Realty Management Group

E. Tennyson Moore, president of Moore Realty in Long Beach, was installed last week as president of the Greater Los Angeles Chapter of The Institute of Real Estate Management.

Also installed in executive posts of the chapter were: Walt Eichenhofer, director of properties for CalProp Investments, Inc., first vice president; Bob Crane, vice president of Ben Hecht Co. of Hollywood, second vice president; and Clark Loomis, president of Town and Country Realty in Santa Ana, secretary-treasurer.

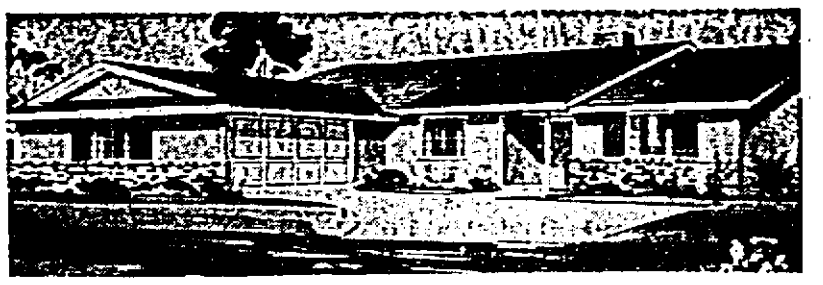

Executive counselors installed were Don Lewis, immediate past president of the Los Angeles Chapter and manager of real estate for the Bank of America Trust Department; Art Mumper, Bohr & Mumper of Riverside; Bill Stagen, Stagen Property Management, Inc., and George Topper, Wagenseller & Durst.

• • • •

INSTALLATION of the new officers and directors at the Cove Restaurant was by Henry Beaumont of Beverly Hills, former national president of the Institute of Real Estate Management.

Moore served as regional vice president of the Institute during 1963 and is a member of the National Governing Council.

Members of the Los Angeles Chapter manage in excess of 8,000 apartment units and 35 major office and medical buildings in the Greater Los Angeles area.

A GARDEN PARK ESTATE
This rendering is of a popular model in Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove. The community is walled-in and features spacious one and two-story family homes.

Future Value Stressed in Garden Park Estates

A steady decentralization from the metropolitan areas to the outlying suburbs has greatly increased the value of urban property. From the predictions made by authorities, this concentrated migration will not diminish for many years, particularly in Southern California.

The builders of Garden Park Estates in Garden Grove feel this established trend can only increase the value of land to a greater degree in years to come.

Garden Park Estates is located in an area that has witnessed a continued value increase during past years.

• • • •

OFFERING ATTRACTIVE one and two-story homes on large lots, the walled community is close to employment centers, schools, freeways and shopping facilities.

These plans are available with three, four and five bedrooms. In plan 6B this plan includes an entry hall so that you never step directly from the porch into any room. A wall divider with turned spindles screens the entry hall from the family room. Three bedrooms, family room and on and one-half baths are offered in Plan 6B.

Among the quality features found in the dwellings are solid concrete driveways; colored plumbing fixtures in baths; cast-iron tubs, stall showers with glass doors and colored Italian mosaic tile, and handy automatic kitchens.

• • • •

FULL PRICES are from $18,975 to $26,250. Veterans can move in with nothing down, except costs and impounds, with monthly payments from $103.90. This includes principal and interest. Non-veterans are offered lowest FHA down on thirty and thirty-five year loans. Conventional and Cal-Vet terms are also available.

Oil Hunt Is Costly

NEW YORK—Looking for new supplies of oil and gas can be a costly venture long before a single well is drilled, Oil Facts reports.

The work of oil industry geologists and geophysicists, for example, costs about $250 million a year.

Before a decision is made to drill in an unproved area, these scientists, using their knowledge of the earth's crust and underground rock formations, try to locate structures which may contain oil or gas.

Despite their best efforts, however, fewer than one exploratory well in nine in the United States finds any oil or gas. Only three in 100 turn out to be commercially profitable discoveries.

Overall, the annual cost of seeking, producing and developing oil and gas in the United States exceeds $6.5 billion.

ONLY $150 CASH NEEDED
Homes like this are selling rapidly in the Buccaneer Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes. Qualified buyers need only $150 cash for one of the homes.

Outstanding Values of Homes Stressed in Buccaneer Series

Despite a heavy volume of 8,000 homes in less than six years, the individual touch is part of every home built by Sunkist Plaza Builders and is the main reason for the equally promising future, notes Sy Bram, executive director of the firm.

A prime example is the current Buccaneer Series of Sunkist Plaza Homes in Huntington Beach, which was opened a few short weeks ago and is now well on its way toward a sellout.

The main reason for this sales pace is attributed by Bram to the fact that these homes include many extras not usually found in this price range. He adds to this that qualified buyers can move in with no down payment—only costs of $150.

* * * *

THE HOMES feature a complete array of Waste King Universal built-in kitchen appliances for the convenience of the housewife. This is included at no extra cost.

"Early indications point to our following closely in the footsteps of our other beach city developments," Bram commented. He based the success of his other developments on the Sunkist Plaza firm's mass buying power, acquired through its years of building experience. "This allows us to build more dollar values into each home for a price comparable to other developments."

Three basic floor plans can be incorporated in a choice of 25 exteriors that cover nearly every motif available. "This is one of the reasons why, all things considered, it is one of the best home values in Huntington Beach," added Bram.

* * * *

THE QUALITY residences which feature as a bonus extra completely fenced rear yards, also include a separate utility room, genuine Formica counters, natural ash cabinets, forced air heating with thermostat control, brick fireplaces, aluminum and glass shower doors, sliding wardrobe closets, shades and aluminum screens.

To reach models, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West turn right to Bolsa then right to Springdale; then left and follow signs.

New Terms Boost Sales of Royal Homes

Record sales were set last week at Royal Homes, states Robert Rodman, spokesman for the developers of the Fountain Valley community.

New financing terms which permit a buyer to purchase with as little as $295 down, plus costs, have proven very attractive. Rodman also stated that the new terms require the buyer to pay no taxes or insurance premiums until January 1965.

Royal Homes, according to Rodman, offer the home buyer a "complete package." Buyers moving in find that the purchase price of their home includes such things as built-in range and oven, fence around rear yard with gate, dishwasher, wall-to-wall carpet, front lawns and shrubs.

* * * *

THE LOCATION of Royal Homes is excellent, Rodman states, being the closest community to the beach (5 minutes) in the new City of Fountain Valley.

The homes are three and four bedrooms with family rooms and two baths. The lots are extra large and will easily accommodate pools. The homes are priced from $20,500 and are available to qualified buyers with very low down payments.

Royal Homes are at Garfield and Cannery. From Long Beach go out Seventh St. to Hwy. 39, south to Garfield and east to Cannery.

LITTLE CASH NEEDED FOR HOME
Royal Homes in Fountain Valley announced that large homes such as this may be purchased for as little as $295 down. The homes are priced from $20,500.

Top Film Role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Al Lewis, the zany comedian with a mouth like a torn pocket, has a top role in "The World of Henry Orient."

Swim Pools on Rooftops New Trend

NEW YORK (UPI)—Apartment builders are getting up in the air about swimming pools. That is to say they're putting the pools up in the air.

Only three years ago, the nation's first steel rooftop pool was built atop Gracie Tower, a 22-story posh cooperative on Manhattan's fashionable East Side. It started a trend, according to Gustav H. Koven, president of a pool-building firm which bears his name.

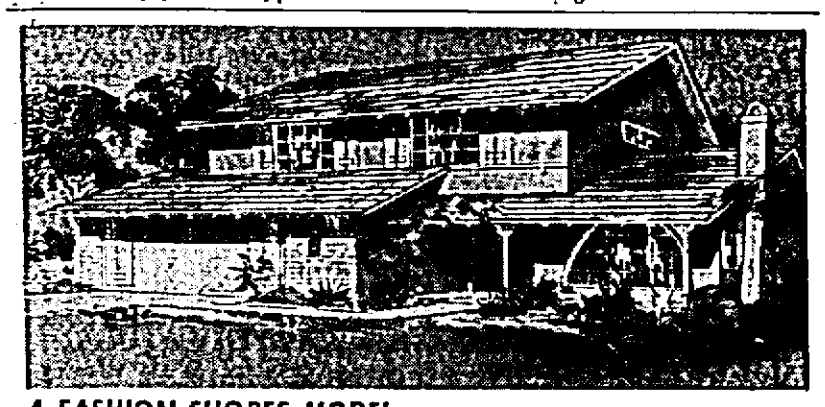

NUMEROUS rooftop pool installations are built or planned in this city as well as Washington, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Palm Beach, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles and elsewhere.

Downtown builders, cramped for ground level space, have followed the example of Alfred L. Kaskel, builder of Gracie Tower, who found a light steel pool was quite feasible as a rooftop installation.

Now, Kaskel said, it is almost necessary for new luxury apartments to include rooftop pools to meet the competition.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Gene Kelly, director of Frank Sinatra's next film, "Robin and the Seven Hoods," has quit the picture because of "artistic differences" he had with the singer's production company.

A FASHION SHORES MODEL
Modern Spanish-style exteriors are one of the many new and exciting elevations being shown at Fashion Shores in Huntington Beach. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $23,900.

Large Fashion Shores Homes in Huntington Beach Attract

An estimated 700 people toured the model homes of the newly opened Fashion Shores development in Huntington Beach during the first Sunday the homes were open, reported Mervin B. Johnson, builder.

Some of the first-comers stayed to be new home owners with a total of 15 sales being made since the homes were opened.

Buyers have been impressed with the overall quality of Fashion Shores: the Dupont "501" nylon carpeting in all bedrooms, living room, halls and stairways; the expensive wallpaper ($500 in each home); the huge overhangs; large wardrobes; walnut paneled family rooms; all the above, and more, immediately struck the fancy of the visitors, Johnson noted.

THE THREE, four and five-bedroom, one and two-story homes, with up to 3,157 square feet under roof, are priced from $23,900, with VA, FHA and unusually fine conventional financing available to meet the needs of buyers.

The big modern kitchens feature Hotpoint built-in electric range, oven, dishwasher, and disposal unit, ample cabinet space including extra space under the breakfast bar seperating the kitchen area from the paneled or wallpapered family rooms. Sunken living rooms in the two-story models are also enhanced, in one of the plans, by a formal dining room. Another two-story home features a sunken Roman tub in the master bathroom.

Model homes are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. From the Long Beach area: drive east on Seventh Street to Beach Boulevard (Hwy. 39), turn south to Atlanta Avenue, left to Cannery Street, right on Cannery to Fashion Shores at the corner of Cannery and Hamilton, in Huntington Beach, one mile from Huntington Beach State Park. Walker & Lee are exclusive sales agents.

BIG HOME ON EASY TERMS
Lark Village offers buyers large homes, such as this, priced from $21,950 to $23,900 for as little as $395 down. Lark Village is a Charles W. Hester development in Fountain Valley.

Lark Village Second Unit Sales are Heavy

Sales in the second unit of Lark Village, a new Fountain Valley community, continue to match the record-breaking pace set in the first unit. This was stated by Charles W. Hester, developer. According to Hester more than $600,000 worth of homes have been sold in the last 30 days.

Lark Village has one and two-story homes of three, four and five bedrooms, family rooms and two full baths. The homes are priced from $21,950 to $25,900 and can be purchased for as little as $395 down, plus costs.

Among the interesting innovations in Lark Village is a "future" room in the two-story models. This mammoth 19'x26' room can be used as a rumpus room now and as the family grows it can be converted into two bedrooms or two smaller bedrooms and a playroom. This area has a bath plumbed for future use.

• • • •

LARK VILLAGE lists, among its outstanding features, blockwall fencing for the rear and side yards, underground sprinklers in the front, built-in Westinghouse range and oven, wall-to-wall carpeting, sunken living room, massive wood-burning fireplaces, mantel over fireplace and distinctive ash paneling. There is a wide variety of floor plans and exteriors.

Lark Village can be easily reached from Los Angeles by driving out the Santa Ana Freeway to Brookhurst, south on Brookhurst to Edinger, then east to models.

From Long Beach go out Seventh Street to Brookhurst, right on Brookhurst to Edinger, then left to models.

May Stock Listed on Coast Exchange

Common stock of The May Department Stores Co. was listed on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, effective last Friday, it was announced by Thomas P. Phelan, exchange president.

The listing covered 7,196,403 shares of the company's common stock. The May Co. has been listed on the New York Stock Exchange since it was incorporated in 1910 and has paid a cash dividend every quarter since 1911.

One of the nation's largest department store businesses, the May Co. presently operates 54 downtown and branch department stores and seven regional shopping centers in 11 major metropolitan areas, including Los Angeles and San Diego. The May Co. had net sales for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1963, of $709,652,000 and net earnings of $24,790,000 or $3.40 per common share.

• • • •

DAVID MAY II of Los Angeles, executive vice president, pointed out that 3,365 of the 28,848 holders of May Co. common stock, live in California and that they own 645,543 shares, or about 9 per cent of the outstanding stock.

"California, now the largest state in the Union, ranked only eighth in population when the May Company name first appeared on a Los Angeles store 41 years ago," May said. "Today California has passed New York in population and the May Co., Southern California, has become the largest of our company's 10 operating divisions."

Geoffrey Swaebe is president and general manager of the May Co., Southern California, and a vice president of The May Department Stores Co.

Lake Park Appealing

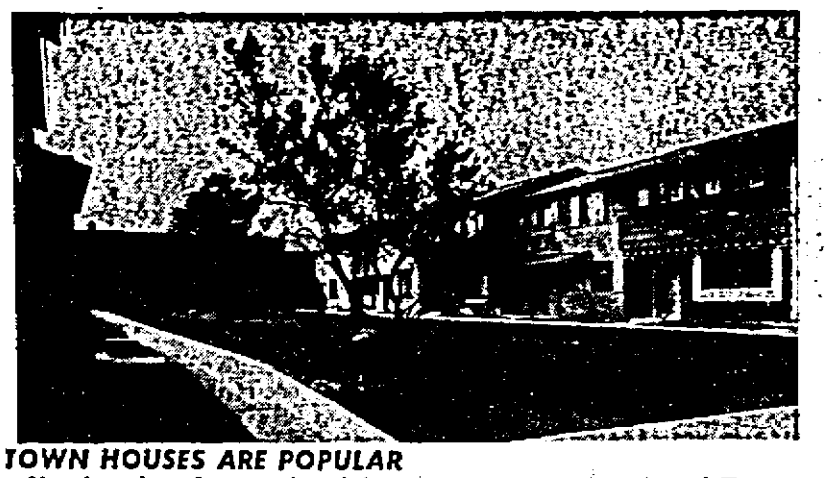

Proximity to commercial, recreational and employment centers is one of the key reasons for the sales success at Lake Park, $40 million, 2,000-home community near Lakewood, sales manager Don Hermanson reports.

Another plus factor at Lake Park, said Hermanson, is the wide selection and price value of two-story homes featured at the residential community.

More than 50 per cent of the homes sold to date at Lake Park have been two-story models, Hermanson said. The five-bedroom, three-bath Huntington home at Lake Park is priced at $21,950.

Lake Park homes are priced from $17,750. The community is being developed by Larwin Co.

Model homes at Lincoln Blvd. and Moody are open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

TOWN HOUSES ARE POPULAR
Here is a view of one section of the newest Huntington Continental Town Houses which are selling rapidly. They are priced from $10,950 with down payments as low as $350.

New Huntington Continental Town House Unit Sells Fast

Homebuyers are responding with record sales and traffic to the community features being emphasized by Huntington Continental Town Houses in introducing its newest unit of town houses. Following an initial sellout of 760 homes in five weeks, Huntington Continental was unable to fulfill buyer demand until opening its newest unit two weeks ago.

Originator of town house living in Southern California, Huntington Continental Town Houses stress the appeal of a location just minutes distant from the beach, title to both home and land, freedom from maintenance cares and worries and ownership of a new home for monthly payments starting at $79 per month, including principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

• • • •

SELLING PRICES of the homes start at $10,950. Low FHA financing is now available, with down payments as low as $350.

The new unit of town houses offers one, two, three and four bedroom homes, some designed with custom-inspired fireplaces. Luxurious appointments such as underground utilities, complete landscaping, private fenced patio and built-in range, oven, refrigerator, washer, dryer and disposal are included in the selling price.

• • • •

ONE OF THE MOST popular aspects of town house living at Huntington Continental is that all exterior gardening, painting and maintenance are handled for residents. This service costs only $12 per month and includes full maintenance of landscaping, parking areas, walk areas and recreational facilities.

In addition to area recreation facilities available because of Huntington Continental's proximity to the beach, the community also has its own recreation centers, swimming pools and central recreation building.

Huntington Continental Town Houses are a development of Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc., one of the nation's largest and best known builders.

To visit Huntington Continental: Drive south on Santa Ana Freeway to Brookhurst Turnoff. Follow Brookhurst south to furnished models at Brookhurst and Adams.

Annual Awards Made at Walker & Lee Dinner

Winners of Walker & Lee's annual awards for outstanding performances in 1963 were made known at the real estate firm's Awards Dinner held recently at the Newporter Inn.

Climaxing the company's best year to date, awards, based on a point system, were presented in the following divisions:

Income and Investment, Harlan Nichols of Long Beach; Acreage, Robert Romer and Elton Barnett, both of Newport Beach; Subdivision, Ray Gault of Costa Mesa, for the most homes sold; Bud Bennett of Seal Beach, for most money earned; John Foch of Anaheim and Ann Seaman of Santa Ana for outstanding cooperation; Rod Henderson of Balboa Island and Joan Guleserian of Garden Grove, both voted "rookies of the year"; Resale Division, Mrs. Merle Rottman of Newport Beach for lister of the year; and Ron Rosen of Garden Grove for salesman of the year, with both tied for the most outstanding performances.

• • • •

ADDITIONALLY, several manager awards were presented.

In the New House Department, Bob White of Costa Mesa was chosen as manager of the year; Dick Scudamore of Walnut and Johnnie Johnson of Wilmington were recognized as most improved manager and rookie manager, respectively.

Tom Mangan of the Anaheim Euclid-Katella office was recognized as manager of the year in the Resale Division with Lloyd Krummey of Fullerton, William McCabe of the Anaheim Lincoln-Magnolia office, Hal Rodman of Garden Grove, and William O. Thagard of Newport Beach as runners-up.

• • • •

SPECIAL commendation was given to 53 "Pioneer Club" members. The club membership is made up of Walker & Lee personnel who have been with the company more than three years.

Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, one of the original founders of Walker & Lee, made the presentations assisted by DeWitt R. Lee, company president, and Frank R. Hart, executive vice president.

Record Machine Hits Jackpot

IN TWO-STORY HOME

Here is an interior view of a spacious Tiara Estates Fountain Valley home, one of many two-story residences offered at individualized new community.

Suburbia Homes Appealing

Visitors to Suburbia Heights, Buena Park development, have been pleased by the variety of home exteriors and the variation in lot levels, according to Norm Williams, director of sales for the Harry Tancredi Co.

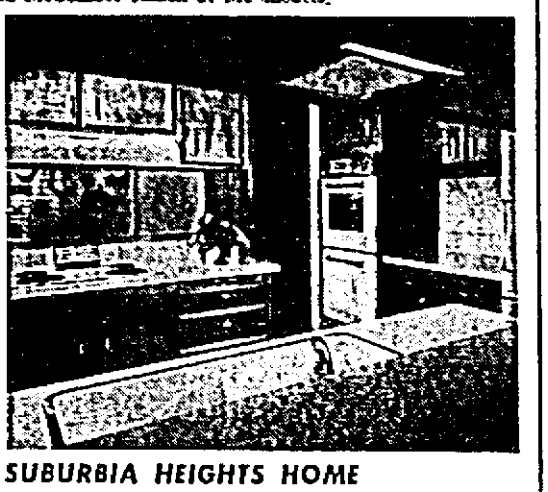

Williams said Suburbia Heights capitalizes upon the beauty of its surroundings by interspersing level lot houses with split level houses, thereby enhancing the view from each home. Architects for the homes utilized the natural slope of the land when designing Suburbia Heights.

• • • •

PRICED FROM $33,950, each two-story home includes four or five bedrooms, three bathrooms, family and recreation room, formal dining room and separate breakfast area arranged in more than 2,300 square feet of usable floor space.

Located on the site of the old McComber Ranch at McComber Road and Luitwieler Ave., on and off ramps of the Santa Ana Freeway put Suburbia Heights within easy access of downtown Los Angeles or Long Beach.

Suburbia Heights can be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to the Beach Blvd. exit. Travel northbound to Luitwieler Avenue, turn north on Luitwieler to models.

SUBURBIA HEIGHTS HOME

Generous counter space is one of the highlights of a Suburbia Height's kitchen. Prices begin at $33,950 for two-story and split-level models in the luxury Buena Park development.

Less Speed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Evidently western star Audie Murphy isn't as swift with a six-gun as he once was, it appears, now that the title of his new movie has been changed from "The Fastest Gun" to "The Quick Gun."

Luxury Bonuses in Tiara Estate Home

One good bonus deserves another, to paraphrase a famous saying, and at Tiara Estates Emerald Series homes in Fountain Valley this "new" saying is defined vibrantly through inclusion of such a double bonus, according to Dick Murray, sales director, Farrow Realty Corp.

The double bonus is a 720-square-foot premium room included in every home which in turn is a two-story residence — the second bonus, says Murray.

"The extra-large premium room," he said, noting that it is about 200 square feet larger than the average so-called bonus room, "can be used as a play or hobby room, two extra bedrooms for guests or as a luxurious master bedroom."

The new unit of homes incorporate a variety of styles which include 12 custom two-story exteriors which make the Fountain Valley community highly individualized, Murray noted.

• • • •

HE SAID THAT the development contains three and four-bedroom, two-bath residences. All the homes include fenced yards and front lawns in the purchase price. Exteriors of the homes are embellished with wood and stone siding and screens, plus shutters.

They have laundry and hobby rooms and den or sewing room. Features are central entry halls, large kitchens with built-in range, oven and dishwasher; stone and brick fireplaces with log lighters; hand finished cabinets; sliding glass doors; luminous ceilings; forced air heat; marble pullmans; insulated ceilings; tile showers and wallpaper.

Priced from $22,300, the homes may be purchased by veterans for nothing down. Also available are low-down FHA terms and conventional financing. In the heart of growing Fountain Valley, Tiara Estates are close to the new La Quinta High School at Verano and Edinger; and an elementary and junior high school near Ward and Hazard.

Model homes are open daily on the southeast corner of Bushard and Heil. To visit the project drive the Santa Ana Freeway to Brookhurst, then south on Brookhurst to Edinger, east on Edinger to Bushard.

Apartment First Unit Is Occupied

The first residents have moved into Community Plaza, reported W. R. Effinger, builder and developer of the new 14-unit condominium.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Clark selected a luxurious unit in the "Glendora."

The condominium, just completed, offers maximum comfort and gracious living in beautiful two and three-bedroom and two-bath units. Located at 1535 Termino Ave., Long Beach, Community Plaza is open daily for inspection.

Ranch Land Sales in W-Bar-B Heavy

"A tremendous public response to W-Bar-B ranch sites in the Walker Basin region of Kern County has cut down on the number of choice lots available now," stated Donald Grant Smith, local broker for the properties. "We still have some good ones left, though."

"We're extremely pleased that within a very short while we have sold so many parcels."

Offering the maximum in rugged, beautiful country for the outdoor enthusiast, Smith said "more than 50 per cent of the parcels have been sold."

• • • •

A GOOD PARCEL still offered is a 30-acre piece of beautiful land, dotted with oaks and trees of many varieties. "If the buyer wanted to, he could parcel off this large piece of land himself. In other words, become his own subdivider. We have the road equipment here to help him."

Scenic land such as this is becoming scarce in California—land that is ideal for both year-round living, or quiet vacation retreats. Wildlife is in abundance at W-Bar-B.

"This is not typical speculation land," Smith said. We insist you come and take a long walk on the property and know what you are buying. Water and utilities are available.

• • • •

PRICES START at $200 per acre, with excellent financing available for qualified buyers.

To reach W-Bar-B from the Los Angeles area, take the Lamont-Arvin turnoff on the Bakersfield Freeway (Highway 99), go through Arvin to Junction of Highway 66. Take right turn short distance to Caliente turn-off, then left through Caliente to Sand Canyon. Follow the W-Bar-B signs to Walker Basin.

Transportation and further information can be obtained by contacting Donald Grant Smith at 12135 Victory Blvd., North Hollywood. Telephone number is 761-2214.

THE PRUDENTIAL Insurance Co. invested $506,185 in Long Beach residential loans during 1963, Karl P. Johnson, Southern California regional manager for the company's mortgage loan department, has disclosed.

APPROVAL has been granted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington, D.C., for California Federal Savings and Loan Association to open its 13th office at Pasadena, in the vicinity of California Blvd. and Lake Ave., according to Howard Edgerton, president.

L. A. PETERS, former chief counsel and secretary of National General Corp., and vice president of Fox West Coast Theatres Corp., has opened law offices at 827 Ocean Ave., Seal Beach.

THE REALTY firm of El Dean Wilson & Associates has moved to larger quarters in Union Bank Tower, Main St. and La Veta, Orange. Paul Stuart, manager, said the company owns and operates properties in Long Beach, Garden Grove, Santa Ana, Glendora, Anaheim and San Clemente.

ELECTION of Edward Calin as chairman of the Board of Governors and George J. Otto as vice chairman was announced by Thomas P. Phelan, president, following Annual Meetings of members of Pacific Coast Stock Exchange. Calin is vice president of Mitchum, Jones & Templeton, Inc., and Otto is senior partner of Irving Lundborg & Co. Governors elected for a term of two years include Robert M. Bacon, of E. F. Hutton & Co., Inc.

Elevator Girl Signed for Films

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Operating an elevator in a Beverly Hills department store had more ups and downs for 18-year-old Masae Haida, a Japanese girl.

Director Ralph Nelson saw her during a shopping trip and signed her on the spot for a role in "Soldier in the Rain" with Steve McQueen and Jackie Gleason.

Co-Stars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Two of Hollywood's fastest-rising young stars, Steve McQueen and Lee Remick, are teamed to play the romantic leads in "The Traveling Lady."

Pacifica Series Homes Offer Many Extras With Much Appeal

Built by Sunkist Plaza Builders, Pacific Series Homes contain many luxury extra offerings. Prices start at $18,250 with terms of no down payment, only $100 costs to move in.

Careful planning and the inclusion of a long list of built-in kitchen appliances have been instrumental in the rapid sales pace picked up the first month of the year at the Pacifica Series of Springdale South in Huntington Beach, according to Sy Bram, executive director of Sunkist Plaza Builders, the developing firm.

Bram based these attributes on informal surveys conducted by sales personnel in which women visitors and prospective buyers lauded the homes' planning which allows for complete flexibility in furniture arrangement and kitchens that include color-coordinated built-in range and oven with hood and fan, waste disposer and sufficient cabinet space of natural ash.

* * * *

BRAM POINTED out that this is part of the extra value found in each of the homes and is due to his firm's mass buying power acquired through volume building. The Sunkist Plaza firm, started in 1958, has constructed more than 8,000 quality residences in various localities of Southern California.

Bram explaines that the Pacifica Series is following suit on the Diamond Head Series, which preceeded it and which sold out in record time.

"In both cases," he added, "stepped-up construction schedules have been put into effect to keep abreast of the sales."

Springdale South, whose models are at the corner of Bolsa Avenue and Edwards Street in Huntington Beach, features an array of four three and four-bedroom plans with a variety of exterior designs. Prices start at $18,250 with terms of no down payment and only $100 costs to move in.

All homes have Custom Aire forced-air heating systems, sliding glass doors, vinyl asbestos floor tile, luxury pullmans with Formica counters and deluxe medicine cabinets.

As an extra bonus feature, the large rear yards are fully fenced with approximately 130 lineal feet of Redwood fencing, plus gate. The finest recreation, schools, shopping centers and employment centers are nearby.

To reach the development, go west on Bolsa to Edwards and models.

Mothers March

...By Air Land and Sea

Turn your porch light on Tuesday night!

More than 5,000 mothers will be on the march on a one night, house-to-house fund raising drive for the 1964 March of Dimes campaign against birth defects, arthritis and polio and support for the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in La Jolla.

One baby in 35 born in the United States is born with a serious birth defect. Among the major projects supported by the March of Dimes is research for the prevention of these defects, 70 U.S. treatment centers for birth defect children and an information program for expectant mothers.

Long Beach children now are being aided at treatment centers at Orthopaedic Hospital and Children's Hospital in Los Angeles and at an arthritis treatment center at Rancho Los Amigos, Downey.

The local chapter provides necessary orthopedic equipment, special shoes, crutches and wheel chairs. (For polio patients, care in private nursing homes and iron lungs are provided.)

Early treatment and detection are important," said Mrs. Albert Smith, chairman of the Mothers' March.

"The key to open the door in '64 is research," she continued. "A vaccine to prevent German measles, for example, is on the threshold of discovery."

THE SALK INSTITUTE for Biological Studies, now under construction in La Jolla, will be aided by March of Dimes contributions. Although the institute will not be completed until summer, Dr. Jonas Salk is already working there in temporary quarters on the site.

The institute will be a center for basic research in the life sciences. Mathematicians, physicists and philosophers, as well as biologists, chemists, virologists and other scientists will exchange views on basic biological questions.

Volunteers still are needed for the Tuesday night march. Any person — man, woman or young adult—wishing to contribute their time may call the March of Dimes Office, 3230 E. Broadway for further information.

The Long Beach office has one paid employee, an executive secretary. All other staffers are volunteers.

Social, welfare and service clubs of the local high schools have volunteered for the march and will be concentrated in the apartment areas, supervised by adults.

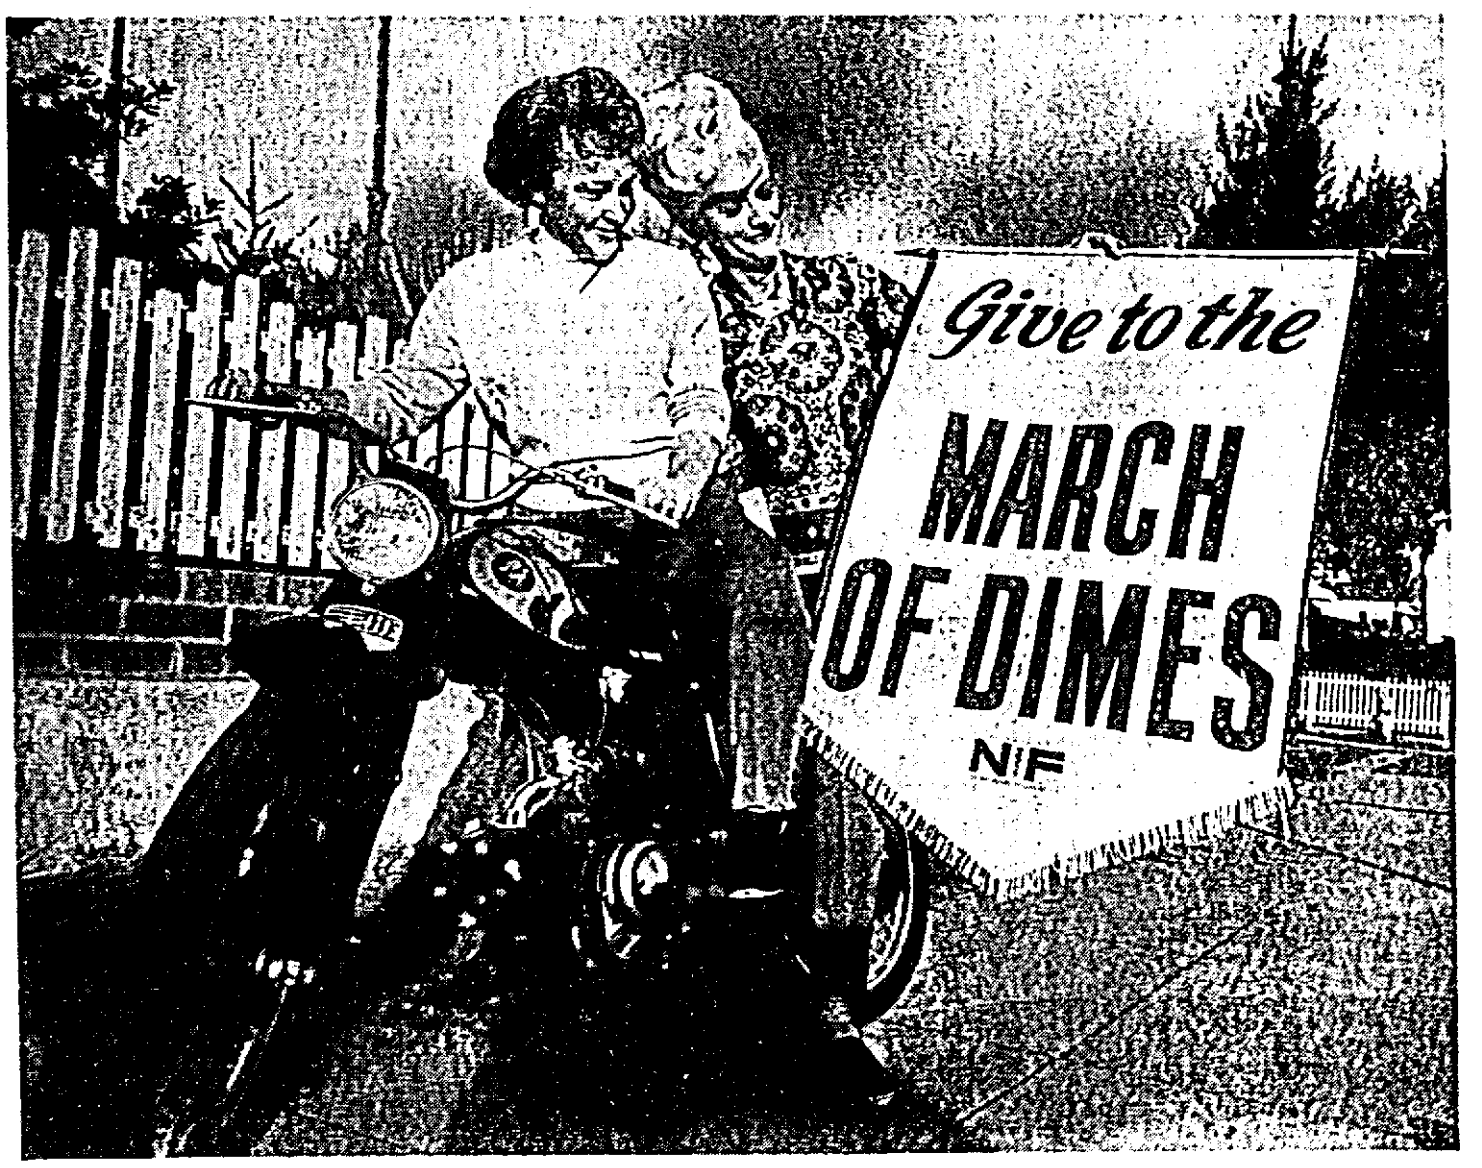

EVERY MODE of transportation will be included in the Mothers March armada, from ocean-going yachts to motor scooters. The motor vessel Shearwater will cruise the coastal area and marina with volunteer mothers aboard; the Goodyear blimp will carry illuminated messages; private planes will pick up Avalon receipts and yachts will deliver Catalina campaign supplies.

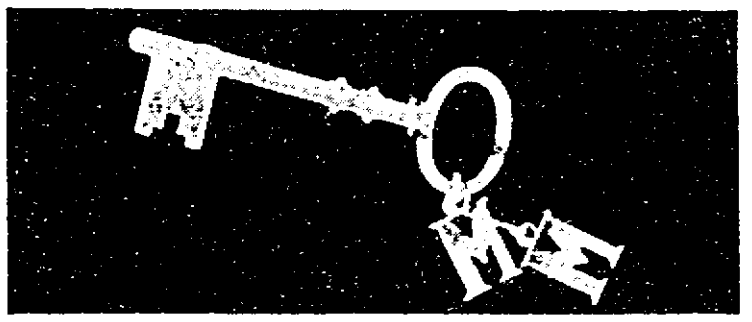

On the night of the drive, cars will be dispatched via short wave radio, courtesy of local ham radio operators, to pick up receipts from the Long Beach, Lakewood, Signal Hill area and deliver them to the Security First National Bank.

For the families of a quarter of million babies born each year, the question, "Is my baby all right?" must be answered "No."

The March of Dimes offers hope and help through research and treatment of birth defects.

Don't forget that porchlight Tuesday night.

"KEY TO OPEN THE DOOR in '64 is research," according to Mrs. Albert Smith, chairman of Mother's March. AIR . . . Doris Eddy, March of Dimes volunteer, hands money bag to R. J. Moore, treasurer of the Long Beach chapter of the National Foundation, with early returns from Avalon. Avalon gave the highest per capita contributions in the U.S. to March of Dimes last year. LAND . . . Using a Honda for deliveries of campaign materials to volunteer marchers are Mmes. Frank Corneil and Charles Weidlein, area lieutenants. SEA . . . Decorating the 45-foot cruiser, Ranger, owned by Donald Horton, are (from left) Mrs. Bert Bond, area captain; Harvey Freeman, March of Dimes campaign chairman; and Mrs. Albert Smith.

People on the Go—at Home and Away

By Iola Masterson
I. P-T Women's Editor

DO A good turn by having a good time and taking a whirl on the Operation Amigos. An excursion flight benefit to Mexico in April, it is being co-sponsored by the Children's Dental Foundation and Junior League of Long Beach.

Explains "art" of Mexico charity flight.

A portion of the profit from each ticket will go to the local dental foundation. Getting in the mood (above) to fire up localites to join the tour (open to to the public—y'all go) are, from left, Audrey (Mrs. Arnold) Romeyn, clinic chairman; Loralee (Mrs. Thomas) Turner, foundation president; Marge (Mrs. Lauren) Conley, endowment chairman; and "Sil" French of Western Airlines cooperating with the groups to make the trek memorable and rewarding.

You must admit, it is a new twist on the philanthropic route. Funds realized, the women tell me, will be used for dental care of under-privileged children of town. Incidentally, the picture is posed in front of the six ton colossal male head of the Olmec Period, 800 BC-100 AD from the exhibit of Master Works of Mexican Art at the L.A. County Museum, representing a collection covering a period of 3½ thousand years of Mexican art, and currently being shown up there.

For ticket information now for the trip contact Mrs. Turner at 3919 Lewis Ave. or Al Beach at his travel agency, also cooperating with the idea.

A few of the early reservation holders are Betty and Gordon Wilkinson, Gertie and Lee Boswell, Emily and Roger Coleman, Jean and Don Holm, Emilie and Don Gilroy, Sue and Art Buell, Irma and Bob Leebrick and, of course, members of the committee.

NO MATTER what anyone insists (and a lot do) installation dinner parties can be very entertaining, zip-along affairs. The "hah!" contingent who disagree have been on the wrong circuit.

I'm referring to Long Beach Yacht Club's hardly-a-word-wasted, such official party of last weekend when Dick Brookins became commodore and wife, Vera, commodoress, taking over from Frank Mansuy and Margaret.

Wild Waves Say...

Big crowd—and a grand intermingling of long and short gowns worn by the women was noted. Which should give a lift, style-wise, to the gal who hasn't bought a long dress yet!

Among those spotted among the 200 or more present were Mary and Mayor Ed Wade, Margie and Bob Pierce, Margo and Bill Dalessi, Helen and Jonah Jones, the Fred Woodwards, Dorothy and Jim Foasberg, Udell and Dr. Gareld Green, Dee and Don Horton (did you know they are infanticipating—in April?), Jennett and Bob Driscoll and Phyllis and Hal Drake.

Also on ye olde note pad noted were the Fred Woodwards, Norma and John McIntire, Don Caffrey and date and the Wiedricks, Blanche and Phil-Hazel and Stan. About there ran right out of paper surface—and just in time.

PARTY-SWITCH that provided hilarious activity (and some surprisingly good results) was used as a gimmick by Nancy and Grant Vogel at their new home in Lakewood Country Estates Wednesday when they entertained at a housewarming. "No gifts," was order of the night. However, the hosts provided their guests with everything needed to "do" an oil painting—from easels to oils to whatever—plus several abstracts (legitimate, by real artists) to provide inspiration, or at least a hint of what was expected.

Guests, let me hasten to add, are not the real artist variety but they painted and laughed and did right well. The finished results (Nancy swears she will follow through) will be framed and will be their friends "gifts" (I feel compelled to quote) to the house.

Nancy, by the way, is TV editor of Writers' Digest and she and Grant have just recently moved to Lakewood from Bellflower. In addition to great blending of oils and smearing of same, friends invited were paid for their efforts with a delightful cocktail buffet party. Instead of paid off the exact wording should be urged on.

IN THE GOOD to hear division of the news, was told that Dr. Harold (Hal) Miller is home and doing very well recuping from pneumonia.

WHAT SOUNDS like a brass band with flourish kind of ramble down to La Paz is in the planning stages for four couples—Maxine and Bill Clemo, Marge and Jack Merrick, Ruth and Gordon Dougherty and Doris and Jerry Young.

When all things blend—weather and timing—they'll fly to the Mexican resort and there charter the big, pleasure cruiser, Malibu, and take to the sea. Bill likes to snorkel and body surf, Jack likes to fish—the rest of them enjoy cards, sun and visiting whatever little towns they'll come to as they seafare. Sound great?

ISN'T ANYBODY excited? Nobody is excited in the home of Nancy and Joe Bogdanovich. Not much! Gleeful sparkles keep rolling out of Rolling Hills where they reside and await the arrival of first grandchild, expected by daughter-in-law and son, Korleen and Martin Bogdanovich.

Nancy had a stork party and luncheon for Korleen Saturday at her home, 31 Saddleback Road. In lieu of the real thing, she had a befeathered stork (a wondrous creature) as centerpiece with arrangement of white and yellow roses and hyacinths. Color-wise in decor, Nancy played it absolutely non-partisan. Boy, girl or twins will be great with her.

Among those present at the little but very gala affair were Dottie (Mrs. Ralph) Clock, Jackie (Mrs. Jerry Kehle), Debbie (Mrs. Roland) Weber, Charlene (Mrs. Ronald) Laraneta, Jean (Mrs. Roy) Scharer, Roberta Griffin and Mrs. Roland Swaffield.

SMILING THEIR approval of grand week in Sun Valley and the trip, thataway and back thisaway, below are, from left, the Richard Prouts of Huntington Beach, Kathy Lamont, L.B., and Leanna Grimm, Lakewood, all avid admirers of the slopes that glisten. They journeyed on UP's special Snowball Express run, returning last Sunday. Among the 550 Southlanders on board, others, from right around here, listed, included Janice Corkery, Mirka Malenfant, Virginia Marine, George Shahinian, Michael Halle, John Valoff, Jerry Schaffer and Tom Webster

ANOTHER perfect time for hardy, energetic ski-type fans was Long Beach Ski Club's trip by bus to Mammoth last weekend. Real blizzard of a storm Saturday dumped masses of perfect snow white for Sunday. Saturday the wind blew so hard many were ski-lifted without benefit of ski lift, right off their feet on the slopes. But, ah, that Sunday.

Among the ski-daddlers to snow heights were Ruben Mancillas, Fran Graziola, George McLaughlin, Pat Durkee, Charles Birkman, John Tansley, Sharon Kothe, "Red" Collins, Mike Baker, Helen Carey and Pat Whalgren. Club president, Bill Coffman, and wife, Shirley, didn't make the trip and, considering how things turned out, are ski-sick at heart-ski.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give 'Em Room, Girls

DEAR ABBY: If girls don't want trouble with boys, why do they ask for it? I think it's disgraceful the way young girls sit so close to boys who are driving automobiles that you can't get a toothpick between them. There ought to be a law against having a girl's arms flung around the neck of a boy who is trying to drive. Where do they think they are? Paris? It isn't safe on the streets any more with all those one-armed drivers. I am not an old fogy, either. I am 31 years old. Someone should tell those brozen girls how to behave.—DISGUSTED CITIZEN.

ABBY

DEAR DISGUSTED: Yes. And it should be the nut behind the wheel.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I am a minister and my wife thinks I have a problem. I don't care to drink anything hot. Especially coffee. (I cannot even stand the SMELL of coffee.) My wife thinks I embarrass a hostess when I refuse coffee, and ask instead for anything cold. She says a hostess goes out of her way to have a perfect meal for the preacher and when I say I don't like something it makes her feel ill at ease. Is my wife right? Must I force hot coffee down me? If not, how can I graciously refuse without embarrassing my hostess?—COLD DRINK PREACHER

DEAR PREACHER: Your wife is mistaken. A minister is just as entitled to his preferences as any other man. If you don't care for hot coffee—say so. And don't be fearful of embarrassing your hostess OR your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the U. S. Navy and have been writing to this girl for over two years. We started out being just pen pals, but we have become very close through our letters. I mean it has become serious in a romantic kind of way. (Mention of marriage, etc.) We have never met face to face, but we've exchanged pictures. I just found out that she was only 13 when she started writing to me (she said she was 15) and now she is only 15 years old. Do you think I should keep writing to her? I am almost 21.—FEELS FOOLISH

DEAR FEELS: Yes. But in your next letter, tell her frankly that you know her age, and also that you never would have begun the pen pal relationship with her had you known she was only 13 at the time. Then taper off.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: As a citizen who is in the public eye I feel it is your duty and responsibility to back up the government in its efforts to make mail delivery easier. I have been watching your column daily in hopes of seeing something added to your message, "IF YOU WANT A PERSONAL REPLY TO YOUR LETTER, PLEASE WRITE TO DEAR ABBY, P. O. BOX NO. 3365, BEVERLY HILLS, CALIFORNIA." Where is your ZIP CODE number, Abby? And what do you intend to do about it?—CIVIC-MINDED

DEAR CIVIC MINDED: I intend to say, "My zip code number is 90212. And thank you!

Get it off your cheest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Children to See 'Heidi' at City College Saturday

"Heidi," the classic children's story, will be presented by Junior Programs of Long Beach Saturday.

The Downey Children's Theater version of the play will be staged at Long Beach City College Theater with the curtain going up at 10 a. m. and 12 p. m.

Written by Johanna Spyri, the story has been adapted for the theater by Lucille Miller.

TICKETS may be obtained from Mrs. John Tylicki, 3507 Gaviota Ave. and Mrs. Burl McColm Jr., 3902 Brayton Ave.

Downey Children's Theater was founded eight years ago. Many of the roles in plays it produced are double cast—adults and children rehearse and perform alternately.

Rummage...

In the warehouse... Junior Leaguers, Renee Fillipow and Barbara Ware, right, check items with Capt. Fred Wessel, Volunteers of America.

In the market for an antique, rare plant, a designer dress, an almost new bus seat, a fur, a crib, a pillow slip or a book, record, or night shirt, bird cage or coffee pot?

You'll find it amid hundreds of other items at the mammoth rummage sale Feb. 1 (9 a.m. to 5 p.m.) in Municipal Auditorium.

It's the big Junior League of Long Beach benefit, the 12th sale for Community Trust Fund, and for browsing and buying it can't be equaled. . . . Prices are low. The selection is overwhelming.

IN FACT, since its inception back in 1953, the league's rummage sale has just about proven that you CAN get something for nothing—at least, close to it.

Though first year sales totaled a mere $4,345 (negligible compared to last year's net of a whopping $14,533), even then the event drew a happy crush of enthusiastic customers. People were buying everything in sight: when a doorknob dropped off mid-sale, it was priced and tagged and toted off before the janitor could whip out his repair kit.

That year the "Bargain Box" event was held in the old Independent Building on East Third. The next year, '54, the sale moved to the former Famous Department Store at Pine Avenue at 6th—and profits went up to $6,938.

IN 1955, the event was moved to Exhibition Hall, Municipal Auditorium, its present address. That was the year the sale was almost washed away. Only fast action of city street employees saved the day. They sandbagged the warehouse building which was being flooded by heavy rains.

It was in '55, too that the Bixbys donated furnishings from Rancho Los Cerritos to the sale . . . items that really stirred shopper interest.

The next year an artificial leg and Chevrolet fender were sale conversation pieces and one lucky shopper hit the jackpot with a ring. She bought it for 10 cents; sold later to an antique dealer for $650.

What has caused the rummage venture to grow each year?

The way the women have handled it has probably been a deciding factor. All items are carefully sorted and marked and everything is separated into departments. Saleswomen, all league members, are on duty throughout the day.

Each member must give $35 worth of rummage at sales prices, plus 24 hours of time—three days of marking plus one sale shift.

This year women in charge of the sale include Mmes. Robert Ware, Donald C. Wallace, Francis Fillipow, assisted by Mmes. John Ganger, Baird Sammons, John Carrol, Charles Chambers, Leo Vander Lans Jr., James Craig and Roy Hubbell.

ALL TOLD, the league raised $110,000 from the yearly event. And, since membership dues cover administrative costs, profits go back into the community fund which helps support the Long Beach Dental Health Center, the league's major philanthropy.

This year, as in the past, trucking is being handled by Capt. Fred Wessel of the Volunteers of America. In exchange the volunteers receive all unsold rummage.

WHY GROW OLD?

Your Age Is Secondary to the Way You Feel

By JOSEPHINE LOWDIAN

"Never trust a woman who tells her real age. A woman who will tell you that will tell you anything."—Oscar Wilde.

This is an amusing thought. The important thing, it seems to me, is to forget age and plan your life and your activities according to your tastes and interests rather than because of the number of years you have lived.

If a woman looks years younger than she is, and many do, I believe that she should have the right to keep her age a secret or to push it back a few years. Many people are so age-conscious that the truth would make them think of you as much older than they would otherwise. Of course a woman cannot push this too far or she will appear foolish.

There is such a great difference in persons of the same age physically, emotionally and mentally. Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "To be 70 years young is sometimes more cheerful than to be 40 years old."

I have known women who were old at the age of 30 and looked much older than they should. A reader recently wrote: "I am sure that you have observed that there is a 'young' and an 'old' in every age group. There is a young and an old 20, 30, 40, 50 and so on. It must have something to do with one's outlook."

I HAVE observed this and feel certain that outlook has a lot to do with it. Of course health and care of the complexion also play an important part. Here are a few more thoughts concerning age.

"Age plants more wrinkles in the mind than in the face."—Montaigne.

Then of course there is Lewis Carrol's famous one:

"You are old, father William,
the young man said,
And your hair has become
very white;
And yet you incessantly
stand on your head—
Do you thing, at your age,
it is right?
In my youth, father William
replied to his son,
I feared it might injure the
brain;
But, now that I'm perfectly
sure I have none,
Why, I do it again and again."

The mature years should be more fun and more rewarding than younger years. The latter is so often fraught with self-consciousness and indecision. If you feel like standing on your head, I hope you do so.

Discipline - - One Needs It, One Wants It

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My teen-age grandson has gotten "too big for his britches" and his mom and dad let him get away with it.

He is consistently correcting his dad with a know-it-all attitude, and he seldom addresses his mother if he is not criticizing her for some small something.

Just because the folks wanted to stay at home on New Year's Eve, you should have heard him call them old "stay-at-homes" and say they were ready for a home for the aged.

I hate to speak harshly of an only grandson, but at this rate he'll soon have me hating him. Am I to blame? —GRANNY.

DEAR GRANNY:

It's too bad there isn't a handy woodshed with a sizable paddle and a hardy arm to wield it on this boy's immediate horizon. If only parents realized that when they let their kids grow up to be smart alecks they're simply letting them grow up to be loathsome members of society, and that's for goldarned sure.—M. M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I know this sounds silly but I feel at a loss because my mother doesn't discipline me the way other girls' mothers do. I'm only 14, and my mother lets me do anything I want to. When I complain she says "you can take care of yourself."

Well, I guess I can but I'd like for her to be stricter so I'd have to behave myself. Please tell me what to do.—BARBARA.

DEAR BARBARA:

Well, make a list of the rules and regulations other girls' mothers lay down and give these to your mother. Ask her to please insist you follow them because you'd feel better if she showed this much interest.

I sort of think this will prompt her to do so.—M. M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My aunt lives just four blocks from my husband and me but we never go to see her because she keeps two dogs and a cat. Oh, she is as clean as anyone can be with these dumb brutes in the house, but it just makes you sick at your tum-tum to hear her call herself mommy to them, and call them baby and all that.

They have to have special diets and foam rubber beds, their toenails cut at the vet's, and Auntie has already bought them lots in the pet cemetery. It's just sickening! You'd think they were as good as we are.—RIGHT, I THINK.

DEAR I THINK:

Maybe they are. I mean, maybe they ARE as good (if not better) than you are.

Oh, yes, I admit I am very partial to pets, sometimes preferring same to people. And certainly to people who won't visit an aunt because she finds happiness in lavishing affection on her pets. At least SHE has a warm heart.—M. M.

Installation Ceremony for Alumnae

Long Beach alumnae club of Alpha Chi Omega will be formally installed as the Gamma Pi Gamma alumnae chapter of the sorority at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in French Room of Lafayette Hotel.

Conducting the candlelight ceremony will be Mrs. Thomas L. Lowe of San Gabriel, district alumnae chairman.

Invitations have been issued to all alumnae in the Southern California area and to presidents and representatives of local Panhellenic groups.

• • • •

RED CARNATIONS, the sorority's flower, will be presented to the 59 charter members and also will be featured on the buffet table.

Mrs. R. L. Yoakam, president, and Mrs. Bruce R. Zacher, event chairman, are being assisted with plans by Mmes. Gordon D. Aumack, Edward J. McMahon, Weldon H. Long, Otto Kerstner, John J. Tindall, Joseph J. Risinger and Miss Lucille Wilkey.

Rossmoor Club in Bid for New Members

Rossmoor Woman's Club will offer membership at half price this week.

Mrs. John Dailey, chairman of the membership committee, announced that women joining the club by Feb. 1 will be charged only one-half the annual dues for the fiscal year. They must be willing to attend at least two general meetings and one meeting of a club section of their choice to qualify.

Membership is closed during March, April and May, reopening in June.

Those joining the club now will be able to participate in numerous events scheduled for the spring. Included: one act play presentations Feb. 28 and 29 and March 6 and 7. March fashion show and luncheon; April home additions tour and flower show; May variety show. Duplicate bridge games are played Fridays throughout the year.

• • • •

THE MAIN objectives of the club are promotion of education, literary and philanthropic work among members plus increase of interest in civic, social and economic conditions of the community.

A new member coffee is tentatively planned for Feb. 10 in the home of Mrs. Alfred A. Dixon, 3071 St. Albans, Rossmoor.

Sorority Sets Grand Ball

Theta Sigma Phi of Long Beach wil have its annual grand ball Feb. 1 in Edgewater Inn.

Members from local and area chapters of the non-academic sorority will attend the public event. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Music will be provided by Al Stafford's orchestra, with money from ticket sales to be given for support of the Theta Sigma Phi Scholarship Fund for training teachers of mentally and physically handicapped children.

Wedding Plans Are Being Made

Smith-Copeland

The engagement of Harriet Suzanne Smith to Robert G. Copeland was announced at a tea Saturday at the home of the parents of the bride-elect, Judge and Mrs. Marion A. Smith, in Santa Maria.

Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn H. Copeland of Long Beach.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Occidental College, where she affiliated with Zeta Tau Zeta and is now a teacher in the Los Angeles City School System.

Her finance is a graduate of Wilson High School and Occidental College, where he was president of Alpha Tau Omega and the Inter-Fraternity Council and a member of the Honor Court. He is now a student at the USC School of Law.

The wedding will be an event of June 27.

Croker-Gibson

Long Beach State College graduates, Jo Ann Marie Croker and James Michael Gibson, will wed June 13 according to announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Croker of Long Beach.

The bridegroom-elect's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James C. Gibson of Avalon.

A St. Anthony's High School graduate, Miss Croker is a teacher in Westminster and a former member of Bachelorettes. Her finance graduated from Avalon High School and is president of Phi Epsilon Kappa.

Newman-Schneider

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Harold Newman have revealed the engagement of their daughter, Judy, to Donald Charles Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas Schneider.

The couple graduated from Polytechnic High School. The bride-to-be attended Long Beach State College. Her fiance attended Foothill College in Palo Alto.

Wedding plans are being made for November.

Walston-Wiener

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Walston of Lakewood announce the engagement of their daughter, Cheryl Lynne, to Ronald Kent Wiener, son of Mrs. J. J. McTee of Torrance and J. E. Wiener of Beverly Hills.

The bride-to-be is a Lakewood High School graduate and is now attending Long Beach City College. She was Miss Long Beach in the 1963 Miss California beauty contest.

Her fiance graduated from Torrance High School and attended El Camino Junior College and Brooks Institute of Photography at Santa Barbara. He is now serving in the U. S. Army.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Robinson-Keast

Betty Joan Robinson and Roger Keast Jr. are making wedding plans for the summer of 1965, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Robinson, have revealed.

Parents of the bridegroom-to-be and Mrs. Alfred Medendorp and the late Roger Keast.

The couple attends LBSC. Miss Robinson graduated from Polytechnic High School and is a past honored queen of Jobs Daughters. She is listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," and a member of Pi Omega Pi.

Hughes-Arthur

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold J. Hughes revealed the news of the engagement of their daughter, Susan Joan, to Edward Alan Arthur at a family dinner party at their Long Beach home.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Arthur.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Polytechnic High School. Her fiance was graduated from St. Anthony's High School. The couple attends LBCC.

A summer wedding is planned.

Rose-Smith

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rose announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Harry C. Smith Jr., son of Mrs. Russell Gill of Long Beach and Harry C. Smith of Alabama.

Miss Rose graduated from Polytechnic High School and is a senior at LBSC. Her fiance was graduated from Polytechnic, attends LBCC and has served for six years with the U. S. Air Force.

Aug. 29 has been chosen for the wedding date.

Moll-Price

At an open house at their home, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Moll of Long Beach announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to John Rees Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Price.

Miss Moll is a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School and attended LBCC.

The prospective bridegroom, a graduate of Millikan High School and LBCC, is now attending LBSC after completing a year at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash.

A late August wedding date has been set.

Benefit Party Is Scheduled

Claretian Guild will sponsor a seminary scholarship benefit party Wednesday noon in Machinists Hall, 725 Elm Ave. Card play will follow luncheon. Games of canasta, contract, 500 and pinochle will be offered.

A Showing of 'Averages' in Fashion

Costly alterations need no longer be a problem for the seven out of 10 women 5-feet-5 or under who complain, "I simply can't find a dress to fit."

So says Bernice Blond, fashion coordinator for Berkshire B-Tween fashions, who will demonstrate her theory during a fashion show Thursday, 2 p.m., at Long Beach's Broadway Store.

Flying here from New York, she will introduce fashions created especially for the "average" woman who needs a dress narrower through the shoulders, a waistline shorter and a bit fuller in cut, added fullness through the hips and a proportioned skirt length. The showing will be in the Broadway's first floor dress department.

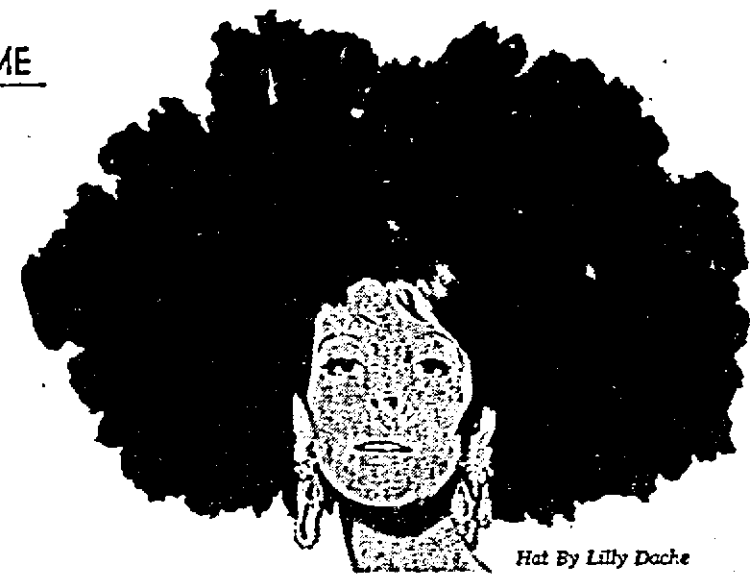

LBCC Patrons to Play Cards

Patrons of Long Beach City College will sponsor a dessert luncheon and card party Wednesday noon at the Garden Room, Third St. and Alamitos Ave.

The event is open to the public and reservations may be made with the chairman, Mrs. Russell Cocks, 2450 Pine Ave. Serving on the committee are Mmes. Reta Carter, Byron Johns, J. W. Tabor, Jeanette Bernstein and W. A. Motkowicz. Mrs. H. A. Zelsdorf is president.

TAKE NOTE, MR. TALL-DARK-AND-HANDSOME

Hats for Spring are...

Hat By Lilly Dache

HIGH, W-i-d-e, Feminine

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I.P-T Fashion Editor

Just in time for Leap Year, the nation's gladhatters have provided the bachelor girl, the career girl and the spinster with plenty of ammunition for trapping her man.

More date bait than the "let-me-cook-dinner-for-you" routine are new sugar scoop brims, yummy floral bouquets and tantalizing turbans of silk, lace and chiffon.

Romantically feminine, new spring chapeaux are designed to alter the proportions of a lady's wardrobe—and to "altar" the intentions of any unattached male.

NO RED-BLOODED man could ignore the new picture hats with their acre-sized brims—big as all outdoors and equally as inviting.

During the Millinery Institute of America's spring review in New York recently, we took measurements on some to find brims eight inches wide.

Double that for the two sides of the hat, add the inches the woman's head occupies, and you have milady carting a cartwheel with a 21 to 22-inch diameter.

Many of the large brims roll up and away to offset soft bangs and sparkling eyes. Others turn down as perfect foil for that come-hither look. . . .

And to attract second glances, fore and aft, the new sugar scoop brim dips deep in front, arches high in back.

FOR THE FEMALE who chooses to snare her man on his own ground, there are, like in past seasons, some styles borrowed from the boys—the plain sailor, the padre, the buccaneer and the sideswept cavalier.

But all are feminine and flirty to fit the mood and manner of spring 1964.

There's a variety of smooth and rough-textured straws, shiny and dull finishes, sheer or opaque fabrics. Black is rarely seen—except in eye-catching black and white combinations.

As one might expect, white dominates spring millinery collections. And there are a few orange blossoms thrown in.

BUT ALSO GOOD as a lure to potential suitors are flamboyant pastels (with yellow a strong favorite), bold greens, peach-toned oranges, sharp pinks and blues ranging from turquoise to the pale and icy tints.

And for the gal who wants to impress Mr. Bachelor with her smart approach to the budget, Mr. John has the answer: a two-for-the-money topper with detachable feminine, floppy brim. The crown (a cloche) goes solo with tailored suits and coats.

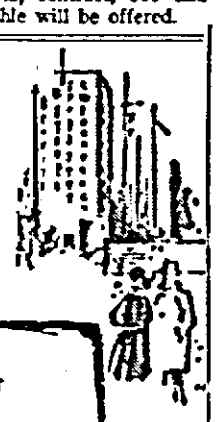

But you can bet your boots that the girl won't go solo.

BRIMMING WITH FASHION . . . two borrowed-from-boys silhouettes that have gone newly feminine and flirty. Left, Chanda's softly upturned buccaneer brim is fashioned of white felt laminated with confetti-like pieces of black straw. Tan Balibuntle boater by Mr. John features higher crown banded in polished black straw. Gentle, up-turned brim is faced and edged in black straw.

Faculty Wives' Date Is in the Cards!

Spelled out in cards by Long Beach State College Faculty Wives (from left) Mmes. Frank Bok, John Wills and John Trevennen Jr. is the Feb. 1 date for the group's annual benefit card party.

The Saturday event will take place at 12:30 p.m. in the Chart Room on the State College campus. A Valentine theme will be used in refreshments and decorations and table and door prizes will be awarded.

Men are particularly invited to the event and tickets will be available at the door. Co-chairmen, Mrs. Bok, 11412 Drysdale Lane, Los Alamitos, and Mrs. Trevennen, 5558 Carita Ave., are taking advance reservations. Assisting in party plans are Mmes. Charles R. Manclark, Warren K. Garlington, Robert E. Loveland, Frank C. Schatzlein, Willard H. Van Dyke, Jack Adams, Norbert Farrell and Miss Nona Nelson.

CFWC Confers Monday

Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, will have senior and junior conferences Monday.

Juniors will meet at 8 p. m. in Lynwood Service Building, Century Avenue and Bullis Road, Lynwood; seniors at 10 a. m. in Artesia Women's Clubhouse, 18522 S. Pioneer Blvd., Artesia.

The all-day Artesia council meet will include a morning session devoted to citizenship with Keith Howdeyshell, public relations director, Belmont Savings and Loan Association, as speaker. He will talk on "The Art of Everyday Living."

• • • •

FOLLOWING, five panel discussions will be conducted on various aspects of federation service. At the afternoon session Mrs. Hugh Butler, representative of Human Engineering Laboratory, Los Angeles, will talk on "How to Find the Real Abilities of Yourself and Your Children."

Special music and community singing have been arranged by Mrs. Ruel Hird with the Norwalk Women's Chorus and Cerritos College Chorus to sing.

The junior evening confab will include a hi-jinks program with each club of the district performing a five minute skit, songfest or dance.

Co-hostesses will be Lynwood Juniors, headed by Mrs. Robert Dixon and Lakewood Juniors, headed by Mrs. Robert Davis.

Pair Wed in Home Rite

Catherine Mary Taylor, teacher at Sutter Elementary School, became th bride of Lt. (j.g.) Henry L. Houst Jr. in an afternoon ceremony Saturday.

Hold-Up No Crime

When you refer to a hold-up in real life you are talking about a dangerous crime of violence.

There is nothing violent about a hold-up at bridge. To the contrary, it may be a horrible crime to fail to hold up when you should.

South should play the ten of spades from dummy at trick one. It might hold the trick, but it doesn't because East produces the king.

At this point if South wants to be a criminal he will take the trick with his ace. Then he will go after the diamond suit. East will win the first diamond trick and play the eight of spades. At this point nothing will do South any good. He can take his queen right away or he can hold off once. In either instance West will establish his spades while he still holds the king of diamonds. South will have a choice. He can cash out three hearts and three clubs and go down one or he can lead a diamond right away and go down two.

• • • •

IF SOUTH holds up on the first spade lead there will be no way for East or West to keep him from making ten tricks. Furthermore, there is no danger in this play. South has three stoppers each in clubs and hearts so a shift to either of those suits can't bother him.

If East plays a second spade, South wins the trick and leads a diamond. East takes his ace and hasn't another spade to lead. Then South knocks out West's king of diamonds and still has the spades under full control.

Quota to Hear Young Musician

Members and guests of Quota Club, women's service organization, will have a dinner meeting Monday evening at the Lafayette Hotel. Entertainment will be by Dennis Trembly, junior at Millikan High and recipient of Quota's scholarship to go toward his expenses as he joins a group of music students, organized by USC Arts Foundation.

Dennis, who plays double bass, will join other young people under auspices of the foundation, to take part in the Southwest Wales musical festival at Easter. Later the group will tour England before returning home.

'Unsinkable Molly Brown

By ELISE EMERY

"I knew the real Molly Brown!

"Red-haired, blue-eyed she was, with a temperament to match. A vivacious extrovert, so gracious and charming that everyone who knew her liked her."

Duke Melody dropped in at rehearsal of Long Beach Civic Light Opera's production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" Friday.

He chatted with blue-eyed red-bewigged Jacqueline McFadden, who plays Molly Brown in Meredith Willson's rollicking musical.

"But the real Molly Brown never lived to see the day she was cute and pretty as you are" Melody told Miss McFadden.

Duke Melody—that's his real name—is a pianist now appearing at the Lafayette Hotel. When he heard that "Molly Brown" will open Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium, he said, "Why that's the musical comedy about my country!"

MELODY LIVED for some years in Denver and collected the colorful folklore of early mining days in Colorado. He first saw Molly Brown in 1918 when he was four years old and he knew her until her death in 1932. He began earning money playing piano when he was 9; as a youth he often played in orchestras and combos for Molly Brown's parties.

"Molly earned her title of 'Unsinkable' by her heroic action when the Titanic sank in 1912. She kept a lifeboat full of people alive. That took real bravery—more than just being a nice kid."

Melody noted that the story of Willson's musical follows the flamboyant facts of Molly's life. Born in 1873 during a hurricane in Hannibal, Mo., she vowed as an illiterate girl to become rich and famous. She made her way to Leadville, Colo., and a few weeks later married Leadville Johnny Brown, who became the richest miner in the state.

BUT MOLLY was determined to be recognized by the Denver socialites who scorned her and her epic struggles to be accepted make for a story and musical score of high comedy, romance and poignancy.

Other principals in the CLO production are Kenneth Jones as Johnny, Marvin Cloyd as Prince DeLong, Bette Arntzen as Princess DeLong and Ross Lynn Tepper as Mrs. McGlone. Hal Lowe, Matt Bond, Drew Eshelman, Fred Shaw, Anthony Powers, dancers and singers complete the cast.

Staff for this first Long Beach production of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" includes James Brittain, general director; Jack Kroesen, musical director; Betty Kimber, costume director; James Boyd, assistant director; George Jack, choreographer, and Cliff Nelson, lighting director.

The show will play Thursday, Friday, Feb. 1, 2, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

Tickets are on sale at Long Beach Civic Light Opera headquarters, 518 E. Fourth St.

ROYALTY in Europe, led by Princess DeLong as played by Bette Arntzen, and Prince DeLong, enacted by Marvin Cloyd, warmly accept Molly who becomes favorite of international set.

Violinist Welcomed to L.B.

By RACHEL MORTON
L.P.T. Music Critic

Long Beach has recently added to its list of illustrious personages living here a violinist who has had an enviable background. She is Vera Barstow, with whom I had a stimulating visit the other day.

Although born in Ohio, Miss Barstow grew up in Pittsburgh, Pa., where her father was a maker of violins and her mother an excellent pianist.

Major and Minor Notes

"They both wanted me to become an artist," she related, "so I began lessons on the violin at the age of 9 with the concert master of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra. His name was Von Kunitz and he was my only teacher."

When she was 19 years old, she went with her teacher and 10 other pupils to his native city of Vienna where she lived for two years in the old hunting lodge of Marie Theresa. She remembers that the great chandelier in the drawing room held 300 candles. A frequent visitor to the lodge was the famous writer, Mary Roberts Rinehart, and in one of her books she tells of these visits.

• • • •

OPPORTUNITIES to hear great music were privileges enjoyed in the beautiful city and Miss Barstow had the honor of appearing as soloist with the Vienna Ton Kunstler Orchestra. She also played in Berlin with the Philharmonic Orchestra under Kunwald.

These and other successful appearances abroad provided Miss Barstow with a manager in New York City when she returned and she toured the whole country concertizing and appearing with all the large orchestras under such conductors as Karl Muck and Stokowski. She remembered with great pleasure a concert program she shared with the famous lieder singer, Elena Gerhardt.

• • • •

AFTER AN appearance at the Hollywood Bowl with conductor Eugene Goosens, Miss Barstow decided to remain in California where she began her teaching career, and where she has had many appearances at the Bowl and at Philharmonic Auditorium with the Los Angeles Philharmonic. She taught at USC for nearly 20 years, a position she held until two years ago when she retired.

Many famous violinists have learned from her. Among them: Stanley Plummer and our own talented Akira Endo who has studied with Vera Barstow ever since he came to America from Japan 10 years ago. Many of her students now hold important places in symphony orchestras and in teaching positions. They are scattered all over the country, she says.

Today she has a studio in Long Beach which once belonged to the well-known piano teacher, Marguerite Nelson, and she revels in her pupils.

Welcome to our midst, Vera Barstow. Your rich musical background will be a great asset in our cultural development.

Contemporary Chilean Paintings on Display

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The visit of "Contemporary Chilean Painting" has been extended until Friday at the Art Gallery, Long Beach State College, 6101 East Seventh St. The gallery will be open today from 2 until 5 p.m. and during the week from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Forty-four works by 24 painters were selected from the collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York City and the Museum of Contemporary Art in Chile. They are representative of the best work being done by artists in Chile today. Of the painters, Matta is best known as he was part of the group in New York in the early '40s, from which came the leading work of the next two decades.

• • • •

MATTA, himself, is a surrealist; his two large paintings have pearly grey, misty backgrounds with brightly-colored events taking place. In one, automated weapons are firing violently at a swarm of brilliant insect-types. The other, "Dawn", has in the foreground a transparent green dome with many other events and forces whirling about.

Other works run the gamut from the primitively-conceived "National Holiday" by Fortuno San Martin to the ultra-sophistication and elegance of "Breakfast" by Thomas Dasham.

• • • •

RECOGNIZABLE influences indicate a strong orientation to Europe and New York; there is none of the rapturous landscape color of California painting, nor the trend toward drawing forms in black and white, so prevalent here.

All the artists eschew conventions: technique, color, content, and subject matter are but means of experimentation to discover some new way to find meanings in the contemporary world.

This show is a first tangible result of a cultural exchange plan between Chile and California. It stimulates a taste for more.

'Mike Fink' Premiere Feb. 28, 29

Long Beach City College music, drama and dance departments will combine talents to present the world premiere of "Mike Fink," an American folk-opera by Long Beach composer Morris Hutchins Ruger, Feb. 28 and 29 in the LBCC auditorium.

A member of the City College staff for the past two years, Ruger is internationally known for previous operas on American themes such as his "Gettysburg" and "The Scarlet Letter."

The libretto of "Mike Fink" is by Edmund Penney of Los Angeles, based on exploits of a boisterous Mississippi River keelboatman, who was a contemporary of Davy Crockett.

• • • •

PRINCIPAL roles in the pioneer LBCC production will be sung by Cliff Robertson, baritone; Betty Jané Olsson, soprano; Ray Vaughan, tenor; and Olive Chorley, contralto.

The production will be under the general direction of David Emmes, drama instructor. Assisting will be Wayne B. Gard, vocal director; Judith Aston, dance director; J. L. White, staging and set design; and Akira Endo, orchestra conductor.

COMEDY AT COMMUNITY

"What the heck did Ibsen's Nora expect to find outside her doll's house?" demands Ralph Richmond in the role of frustrated movie star addressing Sue Sage as fiancee of a psychoanalyst. Scene is from "Oh Men, Oh Women," comedy playing at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. The play, madcap spoofing of psychological problems of men and women, will run Thursdays, Fridays Saturdays, through Feb. 29.

MMA Exhibits to Be Seen in Area

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Two exhibits from New York's Museum of Modern Art will be shown in the Southland during February.

Prints by Walter Sickert (1860-1952); Felix Vallotton, whose woodcuts depict Parisian life and manners in the 1890s; and Paul Signac (1863-1935) will be on display at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., Feb. 8 through 29.

"U.S. Government Art Projects" may be seen at Pomona College Feb. 7 through 28. Paintings, sculptures, drawings and prints by 28 artists make up the exhibit.

These are works commissioned by the government to give employment to American artists and craftsmen during the 1930s. These projects are credited with encouraging and stimulating interest in the arts which has led to today's emphasis on creative fields.

• • • •

A LONG BEACH and a Seal Beach artist have made early entry applications for the All-California Art Show to be held in conjunction with the National Orange Show in San Bernardino March 12 to 22.

Grace Dimmick, 477 E. Adair St., will enter a modern water color, "Copenhagen Courtyard." Robin Metze, 206 11th St., Seal Beach, will submit an oil painting, "Sun on a Dark Day."

• • • •

BEGINNING Monday and continuing each Monday thereafter, Long Beach artist Ben Messick will conduct life art classes from 7 to 10 p.m. at Saylor's Art Center and Gallery, 414 E. Fourth St.

Messick, winner of many art awards, is widely known as a lecturer, teacher and painter. He is a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts in England.

• • • •

GALLERIES of Otis Art Institute, 2401 Wilshire Blvd., were completely renovated before the opening Thursday of the First Biennial Invitational Drawing Exhibition. The show will hang through March 8. Hours are 12:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, closed Mondays.

• • • •

PAINTINGS by G. Ray Kerciu which stirred a storm of controversy in Mississippi and became a topic of national interest will be exhibited at Comara Gallery, 8473 Melrose Place, Los Angeles, from Monday to Feb. 15.

Kerciu's one-man show in the art gallery of the University of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss., in April, 1963, roused statewide outrage which led to charges of desecration of the Confederate flag and obscenity. At the time, the artist was an assistant professor of art at the university.

He was arrested and it was not until summer of 1963 that charges over "them damn pictures" were dropped and the paintings were exhibited at the Martha Jackson Gallery in New York.

Kerciu is now a professor of art at Orange County State College in Fullerton.

After the Los Angeles exhibit, the paintings will go to New York for a major showing.

Black Is Council President

Frederick Black, director of Long Beach Museum of Art, was installed president of Long Beach Arts Council at a dinner Saturday in Lafayette Hotel. He succeeds Wallace Arntzen, who had served two one-year terms.

Other new officers are Marvin Cloyd, first vice president; Mrs. Herman H. Ridder, second vice president; Blanche Collins, secretary; and Clarence Knox, treasurer.

Members of the nominating committee included James Herley, Laura Killingsworth, Fred Ohlendorf, Sue McDonald and Dr. David Sievers.

Symphony to Play Romantic Program

"Each orchestra has a personality of its own, developed over a long period of time and arrived at by a combination of the personalities of the individual players and their instruments.

"Most musicians give their instruments names. One musician I know calls his cello 'That clumsy beast.' Another has named his clarinet 'Pedro.' Orchestration is the art of combining the sounds of the various instruments."

Dr. Bertram C. McGarrity, professor of music at Long Beach State College Tuesday morning previewed the All-Orchestral Concert which Long Beach Symphony Orchestra will play tonight at 8 o'clock in Long Beach City College Auditorium.

The well-attended preview salon in Pacific Coast Club was sponsored by the Symphony Guild and Junior League.

• • • •

"THE CONCERT program is entirely in the romantic tradition," Dr. McGarrity said.

"Overture to 'Der Freischutz' by Von Weber and 'Unfinished Symphony' by Schubert were written for the smaller, earlier orchestras.

"Von Weber, first of a long line of romantic composers, based his opera on the story of a marksman who always hit his target because he had magic bullets. The overture opening is calm, warm, relaxed; its end is a brilliant outburst by the entire orchestra.

• • • •

"SCHUBERT'S familiar 'Unfinished Symphony' is so called because it has only two movements but from an esthetic standpoint it is complete.

"Strauss, in Death and Transfiguration and Holst in The Planets wrote for the large romantic orchestra in action. Their compositions draw from a larger palette of colors.

"In the Strauss work, a dying man recalls his boyhood and youth; he dies; bells toll and his soul is transfigured.

"Holst was interested in English folk music, the vigor of country life and healthy animal spirits.

"SUBTITLES for The Planets' are Mars, Bringer of Wars; Venus, Bringer of Peace; Mercury, Winged Messenger; and Jupiter, Bringer of Jollity."

Dr. McGarrity played taped excerpts to illustrate his discussion.

Tickets for tonight's concert will be on sale at the box office before the performance.—ELISE EMERY

'Ports of Call' Concert Slated

Long Zeach Civic Chorus, sponsored by the Recreation Department, is rehearsing its next concert, "Ports of Call," tentatively scheduled for March 13 in the Concert Hall.

The program will include folk songs and dances from European countries. Colorful costumes and extra numbers by the Youth Talent Showcase will enhance the performance.

Auditions for singers will be held Monday and Feb. 3 at 7 p.m. in the band room at Millikan High School. Frank Ahrold is choral conductor.

Cooks With Bavarian Flair

Chef of the Week

Perry D. Griffith

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

With deference to former "Chef," Bill Nott, today's Chef of the Week is NOT cooking this fish. Perry D. Griffith (photog) is, instead giving a recipe for Weiner Schnitzel, a favorite of the exchange student living with them, Bernard Kulla of Bavaria.

Kulla is a senior at Wilson High. The Griffiths have three sons of their own, Tom, 17, Bill, 14, and Jim, 8.

From the Hoosier State, Perry was born in North Vernon. He remained there through the sixth grade when the family moved to Croydon, Ind., just across the Mississippi from Louisville, Ky. Graduating from Croydon High School, he immediately crossed the river and joined the Associated Press Wire Photo Service.

• • • •

THAT IT was a real break for Griffith is beside the point, for he was a natural for the job. He not only had the aptitude and talent, but the thorough training, as well. His brother was a portrait painter and photographer, and they had worked closely together through the years.

Griffith was again fortunate in World War II. He was not assigned to KP duty, but as an aerial photographer aboard the USS Yorktown. It is now based at Long Beach.

Later, aboard the USS Randolph, he covered every battle in the Pacific Theater from the Marcus Islands raids, the first on Japan, until the one on Tokyo proper, four years later. His nearest miss came when a Japanese Kamikaze made a direct hit on the Randolph's photo headquarters. Perry had just gone forward a few minutes before.

• • • •

ANOTHER quirk of fate happened aboard the Randolph, too. Griffith was chief photographer with Cmdr. Charles Crommelin. On one particular flight when Perry was not along, Crommelin was hit so badly that he was temporarily blinded. He flew back 100 miles, however, and made a successful instrument landing aboard ship. He was hospitalized for the next six months, but was told he would fly again.

Griffith was eventually returned to the States and sent to San Francisco for reassignment. His commanding officer was none other than Cmdr. Crommelin. Crommelin did fly again but was later killed on Okinawa.

The Griffiths share their talents. She's Alice, but known professionally as "Suzy," fashion illustrator and ad-plans layout gal. In fact, Perry received much of his formal college education on weekends at Miami U, Oxford, Ind., courting "Suzy."

He has been in business in Long Beach as a commercial photographer since 1940.

• • • •

PRESIDENT of the Advertising Club of Long Beach, Perry is a member of the Downtown Lions Club, Long Beach Casting Club and the Gem and Mineral Society. He is past president of the Professional Photographers Association of Long Beach, and a member of the Professional Photographers Association of America. He is actively interested in the Downtown Long Beach Associates, the Chamber of Commerce and in the Convention Bureau.

As a family they camp—search for rocks and turn them into gems, i.e., cuff links, buttons, pins, ear rings, etc. His mosiac work is second to none as are his plaques and wood working ventures.

In fact, it is a unique policy that each member of the family bring some hobby or work of art to the dinner table. It not only enhances the dinner discussion, but is educational as well. As a result of such discussions, Bernard received his first "A" at Wilson High on "My Favorite Hobby."

• • • •

THOUGH an enthusiastic fisherman, Griffith has never been known to win the jackpot. And then, he went on the Lions Club charter trip and caught a yellowtail. But there lies the tale—he became the only casualty on the trip. Having actually won, he snoozed through the entire jackpot ceremony. He just didn't appear to declare his fish.

Our "Chef" never relaxes without a paint brush, some rocks or mosaic work before him. He's a stickler for getting one job done before starting another, also.

Here's the recipe for Weiner Schnitzel.

WIENER SCHNITZEL
By Bernard Kulla

4 slices boneless veal or pork cutlet
3 tblsp. flour
1 egg
1 cup bread crumbs
Shortening
Salt and pepper to taste
Lemon slices
Parsley

Pound cutlets to tenderize them. Salt and pepper to taste. Beat egg, adding small amount of milk if desired. Mix flour thoroughly with egg. Dip cutlets into egg mixture, then into bread crumbs. Brown in minimum amount of melted fat over low heat, 15 minutes on each side. Schnitzel must be served dry and crisp. Garnish with lemon sections and parsley. Bundles of parsley may be fried in fat until crisp to garnish. Serve on hot platter.

Salvation Army Auxiliary Installs

Mrs. Theron Freeze will take office as president of Long Beach Women's Auxiliary of the Salvation Army Friday noon in League House, 394 Roswell Ave.

The installation luncheon will mark the third birthday of the auxiliary and the culmination of two years of leadership under Mrs. Dean Gilmore.

Others taking office will be Mmes. Robert Cox, A. K. Jewett, Frank Salter, Mills S. Hodge, and George H. Seufert.

• • • •

COMMITTEE chairmen for the next year will include Mmes. Robert Greenberg, Russell Johnson, John Dykstra, Ernest Malizia, Gerald Mills and Robert Driscoll.

Mrs. Harold Barry, wife of divisional commander of SA in Southern California, will be installing officer. Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, wife of the local commanding officer, will report on past Christmas projects.

Mrs. Theron Freeze

Mrs. Glenn Gilmore will be soloist and members of the board will be hostesses.

What's on the Menu?

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of Jan. 27-31:

MONDAY: Hot dog, buttered green beans, spicy applesauce, carrot sticks and milk.

TUESDAY: Pizza, green salad, fruit cup supreme, coconut cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Creole noodles, buttered spinach, peach half, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, buttered peas, fruit gelatin, ½ toasted cheese sandwich and milk.

FRIDAY: Baked fish, whole kernel corn, strawberry sauce, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch, 30 cents. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY: Italian spaghetti, buttered whole kernel corn, creamy coleslaw, hot buttered French bread and milk.

TUESDAY: Barbecued beef on bun, buttered green beans, applesauce, coconut cookie and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Pizza, garden salad, strawberry sauce, oatmeal cookie and milk.

THURSDAY: Diced turkey in gravy on mashed potatoes, buttered spinach, fruit cup supreme, toasted cheese special and milk.

FRIDAY: Macaroni and cheese or chop suey on rice, buttered peas, fruit gelatin, whole wheat bread and butter and milk.

Seminar Planned on Foster Homes

Los Cerritos District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, will sponsor a seminar on foster home care from 8:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in Downey Woman's Clubhouse, 9313 Paramount Blvd.

S. F. Mulrys to Reside in Long Beach

A Long Beach home awaits newly married Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Francis Mulry who followed their Saturday nuptials with a Northern California honeymoon trip.

Setting for the vow exchange witnessed by 200 guests was St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The former JoAnn Redford, the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vetra Redford of Lakewood. She wore a full length gown of satin with French lace bordering the train and jeweled lace bodice. Her shoulder length veil was held by satin flowers and she carried a cascade of white carnations and yellow roses surrounding a white orchid.

• • • •

PRECEDING her to the altar were Mrs. Guy Liford, maid of honor, and Diane Page and Nancy Mulry, bridesmaids.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Mulry, 1605 E. First St., was served by Robert Montenegro, best man, and Richard Antekeier and Carl Nagengast, ushers.

The new Mrs. Mulry was graduated from Lakewood High School and her husband from St. Anthony's. Both attended Long Beach City College.

DGs Make Plans

Plans for a children's Easter party and a May luncheon-bridge were begun when South Bay Alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma met at the Manhattan Beach home of Mrs. A. R. Hummel. Presiding was Mrs. Murray Helm.

Southland

The flash of a skate, the slash of a stick and the puck flies toward the goal at a speed of 90 miles per hour—unless the Los Angeles Blades' Con Madigan can get there in time to foil this scoring attempt by Denver's Bruce Draper (No. 15). This fast, aggressive action shown on Southland's cover today is typical of professional ice hockey, the only minor league sport tolerated by this big league area. Southland explores the possibilities of completing our sports spectrum with a major league hockey franchise as Rich Roberts rounds up "The Case for Big Time Ice Hockey" on Page 7.

THIS WEEK

Leap Year is with us again, reviving the ages-old debate over whether it is or isn't the decorous thing to do for the young lady to pop the question. Views on both sides, by both the guys and the dolls differ. Southland readers who would like to know what some of the glamour gals have to say on the subject will do well to take a look at Hoyt McAfee's "How to Beguile That Certain Man," an entertaining article in next week's Southland.

5 Years to Stardom

Now an established star in films, Elke Sommer has zoomed to fame and fortune in five years.

LESS THAN five years ago, Elke Sommer was an unknown, working in London as a mother's helper in order to learn English and enter the diplomatic service as an interpreter.

Today, Miss Sommer, at 22, one of Europe's most glamorous film stars, has made her Hollywood debut opposite Paul Newman in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Prize," screen version of the Irving Wallace best-seller.

Elke's father, a clergyman, died when she was 14. An only child, she was forced to leave school to help support herself and her mother. She was catapulted into her first film role during a vacation in Italy when she won a dancing contest which brought her to the attention of an Italian producer.

IN HER SECOND Italian film, Miss Sommer was directed by Vittorio de Sica. Within five months she spoke fluent Italian and today is an accomplished linguist, speaking English, French, Spanish and Italian in addition to her native German.

The actress owns a beautiful estate, complete with park and lake, on the outskirts of Nuremberg, Germany, keeps an apartment in Paris, and leases a rambling modern house in California.

On top of that, Miss Sommer owns some beautiful statistics: 36-22-36.

Married? Not yet.

"There's plenty of time," she explains. "Career first, husband and family next."

He Rides High When He Rolls

By Helen L. Gillum

GONE ARE the faithful horse and buggy, the horse car and the Model T Ford. And all for the common good, no doubt. But should there be anyone who bemoans the passing of the "good old days" and their ancient modes of transportation, let him try getting somewhere in a hurry on a high-wheeled bicycle like that owned by Mark Hanna of 226 Nevada St.!

Hanna, who practically can't resist "collecting" anything with, on or pertaining to "wheels" of olden times, has an enviable assortment of such items, from carriage lamps and license plates, to old cars and bicycles. He is frequently seen "riding high" on his high-wheeler in the streets of Long Beach. But these little jaunts are mainly for pleasure, such as in our Pioneer Days parades or similar events. When he really wants to go where he's going —but fast—he uses one of those modern contraptions of chrome and steel—a sleek automobile of latest make.

BICYCLES date back at least as far as 1790, when crude models were conceived and experimented with in Europe. Most of them were simple wooden frameworks with wooden wheels. Such odd names as "Pedestrian Curricle," "Dandy-Horse," "Pedomotive Carriage," "Boneshaker" and "Dicycle" can only hint at the bewildering construction and appearance of the modern bike's ancestors.

The velocipede—a great improvement over the earlier models — was introduced about 1860. The cycling craze took over with renewed vigor and indoor riding schools, riding clubs and racing became popular. (One school called itself the "Gymnocyclidium.") Special frames and skirt-guards for women enthusiasts were provided. Broken bicycles, broken bones—and probably some broken hearts! — were the results of the "velocipede mania" of the late 1500s, as depicted in Harper's Weekly, Scientific American, and Ladies' Literary Cabinet of New York.

THE HIGH-WHEELER, such as that owned by Hanna, came in about 1865, following the popularity of the velocipede. Hanna's bike is from 1873. It bears no identifying mark, but is thought to be a Columbia, one of the better makes of that time. He obtained it about eight years ago at a movie studio in Hollywood, but there the trail ends. Earlier information is lacking.

Hanna removed the old paint, primed and repainted the metal, and hard-chromed the original nickel. It was also fitted with new metal spokes, and a "Columbia C" automatic kerosene light. In case anyone is wondering, Hanna mounts his high-wheeler by first stepping on a small footrest just above the smaller wheel, and leaping lightly up into the seat.

One major league hasn't come West

The Southland's Case for Big-Time Ice Hockey

In spite of Southern California's sun-tan heritage, ice hockey, with its crashing, smashing, mile-a-minute action, has captured the fans' interest.

By Rich Roberts

SPORTS in Southern California? You name it, we have it, and we have it all big league. Well, almost.

Professional football? The best players in the world performed in the Pro Bowl game two weeks ago . . . and the Rams were showing signs of regaining championship potential.

College football? The USC Trojans were undefeated national champs in 1962 . . . and the Rose Bowl is the classic crockery of the set.

Baseball? Check the World Series pennant flying at Dodger Stadium, the finest ball park anywhere . . . and the only park where every major league team appears regularly.

BASKETBALL? The Lakers dominate the Western Division of the National Basketball Association . . . and the champion Boston Celtics are getting older with every dribble.

Track and field? It's a track nut's Utopia . . . the jumping-off point to the Olympic Games in Tokyo next October, and site of next summer's annual dual meet between the United States and Russia.

Golf? Any pro passing up the Los Angeles Open tournament that teed off the winter tour this month can forget it . . . he'll never catch Arnie and the rest of them now.

Horse racing, auto racing . . . all the great jockeys and thoroughbreds, all the skillful drivers making the list interminable.

SO WHAT'S keeping ice hockey? A fair question, perhaps not so to the Los Angeles Blades, who are putting up a solid fight in the Western Hockey League, but fair enough to the powers that have deprived the Southland of the only big league association it lacks.

The WHL is fast and exciting but, after all, the WHL is a minor league, and it's as anxious to grow up as anybody. Its president, Al Leader of Seattle, dreams that some day his league will be the Western Division of the National Hockey League.

James Piggott, a Saskatchewan construction executive who is co-owner of the Blades, says, "Major league hockey is certain to come here, and it may come so suddenly that some of us will be caught off guard. Of course, the whole league is the ultimate goal, but I think that may take a while. One or two franchises in the West seems more likely at first."

The NHL, however, has moved toward expansion with all the haste of an advancing glacier. As a tight six-team structure—Chicago, New York, Detroit, Boston, Montreal and Toronto—its position is unique.

SOME 98 YEARS after the celebrated discovery at Sutter's Mill, the Rams led the migration of big league sports to the Golden West when their owner, Dan Reeves, found the promise of similar riches too strong to resist. The Dodgers and Lakers followed in due time.

In 1961, Reeves joined with Piggott in bringing the WHL's sagging Victoria, B. C., franchise to L. A., but neither he nor his Canadian partner will be satisfied until they share a big league hockey promotion in the Southland.

But when clubs are selling out their arenas for the season before the season even starts, it's difficult to convince them that they could do better somewhere else.

Besides, they ask, how do they know Southern Californians would support big league hockey?

Because, we reply, Southern Californians are supporting minor league hockey on an impressive scale and have demonstrated ability to back big league sports as no others have.

THE BLADES averaged more than 8,000 people each game last season and set the WHL's one game record

Fred Waring watches rehearsals of a new number for his show.

Fred Waring's Razzle Dazzle Still Scores Mightily After Three Generations

The Traveling Men From Penn

By George Eres

IN THE HEY-HEY day of white flannel trousers and blazered youth a get-up orchestra "stopped the dance" at the University of Michigan.

The youthful orchestra was led by a freshman from Penn State who bid on and got the dance date. Name of the youngster was Fred Waring, a banjo player, who with his brother on piano, another banjo man and drummer had been playing around for pin money. With an augmented outfit he got his first taste of managing and directing a real band.

"I jazzed up and down like crazy in front of the bandstand," recalled Waring. "I was busier than a cheerleader. I guess everyone thought I was leading the band. Actually, the band took its cues from the piano. The baton was just window dressing."

Now, 50 years later, a more subdued Fred Waring who has long since learned to make the baton count, is on his 47th national tour. He'll play about 100 cities in the junket—with an annual layoff at his Palm Springs home where he took it easy until he hit the road again Jan. 3. He'll be in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium Feb. 3.

For three generations, Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians have been musical bywords on the national scene—radio, records, television, college hops and concert tours. Back and forth across the country he has romped with his full entertainment package, combining the two ingredients he has found keeps the fans coming in—musicianship and showmanship.

Showmanship got him his break at the University of Michigan dance and a week's booking that stretched into a month's stay at a Detroit Theater. He didn't return to Penn State although the Waring name has never been disassociated from "collegiate" —he still plays campus dates and somehow the name Waring's Pennsylvanians continues to bring to mind raccoon coats, girls waving pompons, and college life.

Waring got his first taste of leading the band as drum major for the Boy Scout Fife and Drum Corps of Tyrone, Pa., in 1913. He cut down one of his mother's brass-knobbed curtain rods for a baton. Brother Tom picked out music on the black keys of the piano. Fred figured out chords on the banjo. Poley McClintock, a neighbor, played drums—the same Poley still featured with the Pennsylvanians—and a fourth friend supplied second banjo. Together they were known as the "Banjazzatra" band.

"All we had were accompaniment instruments. Something had to carry the melody—so we sang," Waring said. That was perhaps the beginnings of another of the Waring trademarks—choral groups.

Peggy Ann Emerson, Miss Ohio of 1964, lends charm to the show.

The Pennsylvanians went in for razzle-dazzle. The college tie-in offered the motif for the band uniforms—crazy sweaters. On stage, audiences could look for a mild form of hazing of performers—like tossing one of the group up in a blanket. The Pennsylvanians continued to score with the college bit. Their first big record was "Collegiate." They had tie-in appearances with movies about college and made films about college life ("Varsity Show"). It was at Pomona College where "Varsity Show" was shot that Waring met the student director of the college glee club, Robert Shaw, and hired him. Shaw has since become famous in his own right as a choral director. The 15-minute, five nights a week radio show, "Pleasure Time," gave him one of his biggest pushes forward. The college motif was intensified. Waring ran an intercollegiate glee club competition, played college songs on the show and as was the case with so many of the coast-to-coast radio show bands was able to win a following that has stayed with him. Unlike many of the bands that won their fame in the national network radio shows, Waring's continued to stay out front—even without the regular national radio airing.

At 63, Waring, a vigorous handsome man, is nearing his golden anniversary as a conductor. His headquarters still is in Pennsylvania where his home is at Shawnee. He runs his business and educational enterprises from there as well as making it the headquarters for his national tours. The Shawnee Inn, set in the middle of a 27-hole golf course, is the preparation grounds for new ideas. His Waring Music Workshop each summer gives college credit courses to music educators and choral directors. His Shawnee Press publishes arrangements of choral works for schools, colleges, churches and community choral groups. The Waring Music Journal, publication for concert artists, is published in New York.

Many of the Pennsylvanians perform at the Shawnee Inn during the summer months where the new numbers are tried out. Virginia (Mrs. Fred) Waring, decorator and designer, decides on the show costumes. Dancer Nadine Gae, wife of the producer-stage manager, Ray Schroeder, works out the choreography and action for the tour shows. Waring develops the patter that goes on with the featured Pennsylvanians—and nearly all 40 of them get a spot in the shows.

Early each October, the Pennsylvanians go on the road. In theaters and concert halls the curtain goes up to a few bars of his trademark number "Sleep" but that's about all that's settled for certain up to two minutes before curtain time. Like a quarterback with a well-rehearsed team, Waring may, even after the program is announced, switch to audible signals that call for changes as the show progresses.

"The idea is to get spontaneity," says Waring. "Every concert should reflect the relationship between audience and performers. You wouldn't play the same thing for a Detroit audience as for a Long Beach audience any more than you would say the same thing to everyone you meet."

Waring says the question most asked of him is "Are the Pennsylvanians really from Pennsylvania?" Well, they spend most of their time there, so technically they are from Pennsylvania. There's one thing, though, it's not quite clear how come one of the Waring's four children, son Fred Jr., is going to Indiana University instead of Penn.

Jacqueline Mayer, 1963 Miss America; Lette Rehnold, Waring and Betty Ann McCall lift their voices in a specialty number in a Pennsylvanians' show.

Harold Lloyd looks back on

The Golden Age of Comedy

Big Five of Hollywood's Golden Age of Comedy: Top, Harold Lloyd in "Hot Water" and Laurel and Hardy in "Dancing Masters"; (bottom, l-r) Harry Langdon, Buster Keaton; and Charlie Chaplin in "The Gold Rush."

By Harold Lloyd

Copyright by The Associated Press

DURING the past year, I have been having the time of my life introducing my comedies to a brand-new generation. From the Cannes Film Festival to Bangkok, the reception has been simply wonderful—far beyond my fondest dreams.

Everywhere I have shown the films, I have been greeted by that sweetest sound—human laughter. It has been amazing to me that these comedies, some of them 40 years old, can still strike a responsive note of laughter with audiences of all ages in all parts of the world.

During my travels I have been asked a lot of questions about comedy in those days of silent films and early talkies, so I've had to do some thinking about that period in Hollywood history. It has been called the Golden Age of Comedy, and I guess it was. How did it come about?

One reason was that there were schools in which comedians could get their training. First of all, there were vaudeville and burlesque, which spawned many great comedians. Then the studios themselves provided excellent schools.

We had the Sennett School, the Roach School, the Christie School and two or three other studios which would take minor comedians and give them experience and seasoning that could make them stars. So the screen was assured of a steady stream of comedy talent.

THE MOVIES were in their infancy then, and we all were experimenting with the infinite opportunities that the film medium offered for comedy. We were able to do things that simply weren't possible on the stage or in circuses or any other medium.

Out of that era came stars who were popular and revered. Many of those silent comedies are now considered classics.

Four single comedians and one team epitomize what was the best of the golden age of comedy. It might be interesting to analyze their styles as an illustration of the variety of comedy in that era. I place them more or less in order of their advent on the Hollywood scene.

Charlie Chaplin, of course, was one of the world's great pantomimists. He had a tremendous background of training in the English music halls. This gave him a natural bent for timing, for spacing, and an innate knowledge of comedy.

Like all great comedians, he had an instinct for what is right and just how far he could go. He worked on the borderline between comedy and tragedy. Some of his themes could easily have been dramas. But he pushed them over to the side of comedy.

THE APPEAL of his little tramp had the feeling of the downtrodden man, the struggling little fellow whom nobody likes. He was the outsider. That fitted into a lot of other people's lives and gained him immense sympathy.

Charlie also developed many mannerisms that helped make the character popular—the little walk, the tricks with the cane and the derby, his way of going around corners, etc. These things were not only clever and comical, but ingenious in their conception.

He had a fine sense of comedy and surrounded himself with good gag men. He and I worked much the same in that regard. The gag men would come to us and throw their ideas at us and we would separate the wheat from the chaff. We would take their ideas intact or else give them a twist of our own.

HAROLD LLOYD wasn't funny himself, some people say; his material was funny. That's erroneous.

My character was not essentially a funny character, because he looked like anyone else on the street. Like Chaplin, I represented a certain group. In my case it was young people who were working at a certain vocation and always struggling against the bigger guy. He was a boy who, in spite of the odds that were against him, had determination and generally fought his way to the top or somehow got out of the predicament he was in.

In some pictures I would play a normal young man who wasn't funny in himself but could be funny by timing and spacing and in the way he did things.

Unlike Charlie, I played a variety of roles—a doctor, a farmer boy, a hypochondriac, etc. It wasn't how I looked, but how I reacted that made me funny.

BUSTER KEATON had great training in vaudeville with his family's act. He used to roll himself into a ball and his father would throw him all over the stage, even into the orchestra pit. That's how he got his name, Buster. It looked as if he would kill himself, but he was a skilled tumbler. He knew how to break his fall, how to relax and be limp. This knowledge helped all of us, because we took a great number of falls.

Buster, like Charlie, had that sense of timing and spacing that is so important to comedians. He developed the character of the stone face. It was a difficult characterization because you limit yourself to a certain degree if you never smile.

He gave himself a comic appearance, as Charlie did. But by limiting himself to the story expression, he could not have the wide range of pantomime that Charlie had. Still, Buster's body movement was marvelously comic.

Harold Lloyd is keeping Golden Age of film comedy alive for new generation.

HARRY LANGDON was another product of vaudeville. I saw him doing an act called "Johnny's New Car," and I told Hal Roach that he would make a good comic for films. Hal went down to the Orpheum in Los Angeles and saw Harry, and he agreed. But they had a difference of opinion—about $100 worth—and Harry went with another producer and then landed with Sennett.

After a few pictures, Harry came to me and said, "Harold, I don't seem to be scoring." I had seen his comedies and I thought I knew why.

"They're working you too fast," I told him. "They have a habit of doing that at Sennett; they did the same to Chaplin. Slow down, and make them play to you, the way Charlie does; don't play to them."

Harry slowed down and he was much better. But he slowed down a little too much and finally I told him one day: "Harry, I didn't mean for you to drag it!"

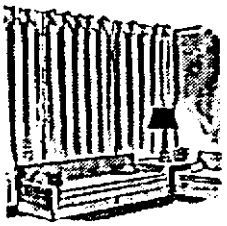

Harry was called the baby-faced comedian. It was an apt description, for his actions were like that of a little boy. He'd start to do something, then he'd change. Indecision was an integral part of his character. Also innocence.

LAUREL AND HARDY started together in silent comedies and reached their greatest success in the talkies.

Laurel came to Roach at a time when I was still associated with Hal. Later he teamed up with Hardy, and [illegible] a perfect [illegible]

Somebody took a starting swipe at the canvas at a recent meeting of the Bellflower Art Association, then two more joined in. At this stage, what does the work need . . .?

All It Needed Was a Hippopotamus!

SOME meetings of the Bellflower Art Association are wilder than others. For a recent shindig, Peter Steyl, the association president, dreamed up an interesting program —members created a joint painting. Each member got as many whacks at the canvas as he wished. Everyone had a grand time—except Steyl. Next time, he plans something a little more decorous.

—BY NANCY VOGEL

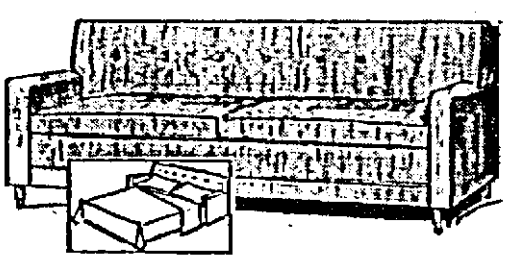

Does he have the answer? While a mystery finger adds a bit, he sneaks a dab for a daub that he thinks it needs.

One gal declared that it needed a minaret; he said, "No, it needs a hippopotamus!" She argued for the minaret, but then decided to concede . . . for a mustache . . . on him!

La Reina Rule

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give genealogy on CALVERT. — E. N., Long Beach.

E. N.: CALVERT was formed from the early English phrase "cealf-hierde" which evolved into "Calf-herd" prior to the present spelling. The Calverts originated in Yorkshire where Johanna Calfhird was a land owner in 1379. George Calvert, born at the family's ancestral home, Kiplin Hall, Yorkshire, in 1580, was created Lord Baltimore in 1625. His sons Cecilius and Leonard founded and settled the state of Maryland. Eleanor Calvert of this family married John Custis in 1744. Part of the Custis estate is now the Arlington National Cemetery at Washington. The Calvert shield is covered with six vertical, alternating gold and black stripes, crossed by a diagonal black and gold band.

DEAR MISS RULE: Mick is our name.—C.M., Long Beach.

C.M.: MICK may be a shortening of the English and Irish surname Micklejohn, meaning "Big John." It can also be an abbreviation of the Slavic-German surname Mickosch, a derivative of Michael. The Mickosch coat-of-arms from Silesia is a shield divided into four sections. The upper left and lower right sections are blue, decorated with three silver fleurs-de-lis. The remaining two sections are red, crossed by three silver horizontal stripes.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please analyze JEFFRIES, JEFFERS, JEFFS.—W.J., G.A., E.J., Long Beach.

JEFFRIES deciphers from old English as "son of Jeffrey." JEFFERS and JEFFS are variations. The source of these names was Geoffroi which in medieval France denoted "divinely peaceful." Ancestors include Roger Jeffray of Yorkshire 1379 and Capt. William Jeffereyes of London who died in 1635. The Jeffries shield has a silver chevron between three silver spearheads on a red backing; that for Jeffs had a gold, "X"—shaped cross on a small red rectangle in the upper left corner of an ermine shield.

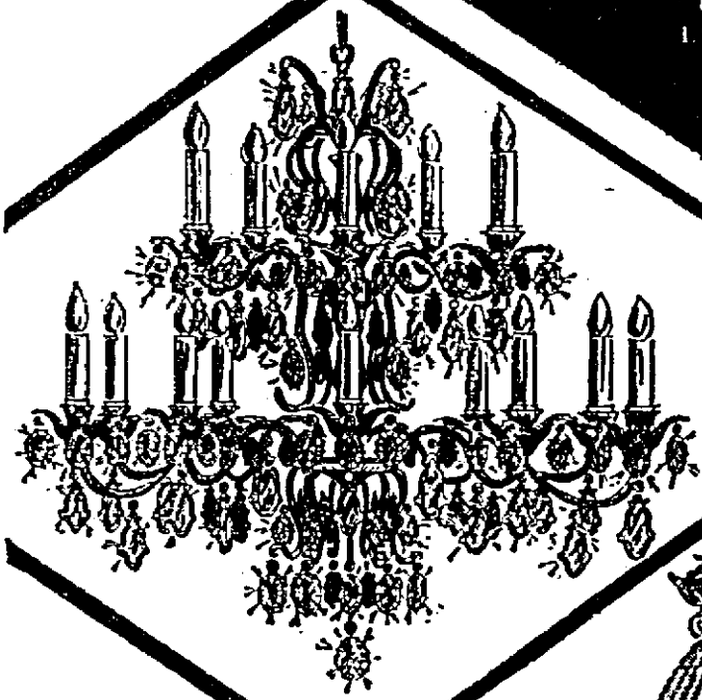

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the background of HUMPHREY, HUMPHREYS and UMPHRES.—J.C., Fullerton; R.J., G.C., Long Beach.

HUMPHREY, meaning "peaceful Hun," was an ancient Teutonic warrior name brought to Britain in the 1100s. UMPHRES and HUMPHREYS represent "son of

Happy Living on a High Hill

Rich appointments add luster to living in the Lawrence De Carlo family's hilltop residence. Left, a view of living room area looking toward dining space.

HIGH ON a hilltop at 1602 Ninth St., San Pedro, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence De Carlo and their five sons live an extremely happy life. Interior designer Charlotte Centoz planned the decorating theme to enhance the architectural structure of the house, at the same time maintaining comfortable, easy-to-live in surroundings.

A distinctive feature of the residence is the fact that nearly all of the walls in the living quarters are Palo Verde stone. Decorating the rooms thus became an interesting challenge since the walls themselves were highly ornamental yet must, of necessity, be softened to lend a homey and warm atmosphere.

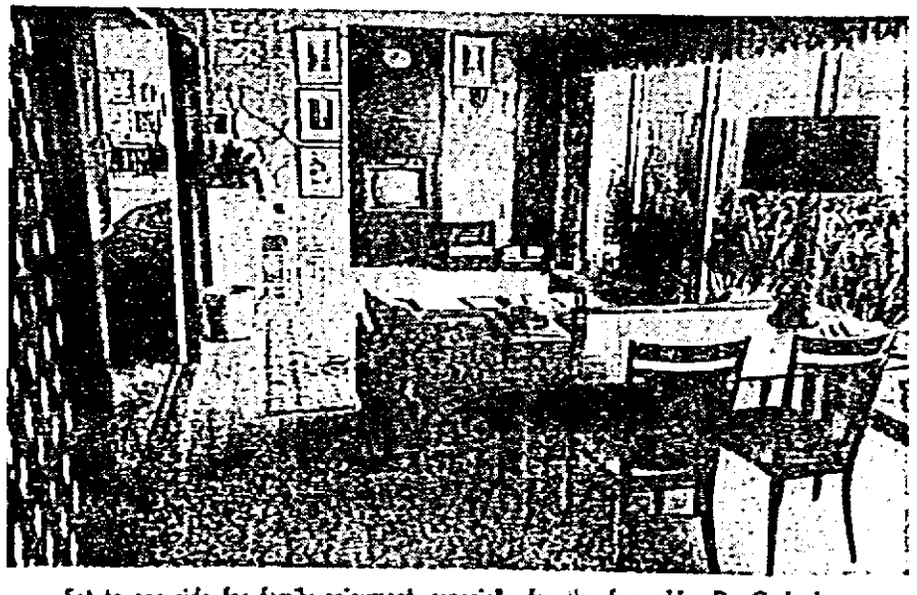

PREDOMINANT colors in the living room are copper and cinnamon shades. The rich carpeting is terra cotta. The long, curved sectional couch is the same shade in velvet, with Siamese silk throw pillows here and there. Twin occasional Louis XVI chairs are white leather. Near a hand blocked linen occasional chair in one corner is a buffet. The lamp at one end of the buffet is a French antique. On the wall behind the buffet are two Spanish mirrors. Off-white drapes in the room are weatherproof, and sunproof.

The decorating theme blends into a Mediterranean decor. In the dining area the walnut furnishings are Viennese. The table can be extended to seat ten guests.

There is a den off the living room with a built-in bar open to both rooms. Moss green leather upholstery is used on the sofa and chairs. A stone fireplace makes the room inviting.

THE BOYS have their own family room, a luxurious and practical combination den (for studying), TV room, music room, and entertaining area. Filigree shutter doors line one wall while the opposite wall is glass, viewing the garden. Red and white are color accents, and this room, also, has a large stone fireplace.

Out-sized, the master bedroom is in Italian style decor with aqua as the predomin-

Set to one side for family enjoyment, especially for the four older De Carlo boys for study, play and entertaining, is this comfortable and functional den-TV room.

The hilltop site commands a vast view of the surrounding countryside. An outside barbecue adjacent to the kitchen and den is a popular entertaining area, especially attractive since it flows out to the top of the hill itself.

There are innumerable outstanding features in this fine home. In the decorating scheme, minute attention to details and accessories such as lamps, bric-a-brac, plants, pictures, and paintings harmonizes the over-all setting. A bouquet on the coffee table consists of yellow silk flowers from Spain. A plant which reaches high on the wall across from the curved couch is in a Louis XVI cane container. The ferns behind the couch are in a Louis XV wrought iron planter. Wall decorations on the Palo Verde rock at one end of the living room were carefully chosen—a collection of John Lincoln original drawings and sketches.

Bedding Plants

Bedding plants can be bought and planted this time of year, when the weather is right — but not while the soil is wet. Among the things you can set out this month are snapdragons, winter stock, calendulas, cinerarias, pansies, violas, godetias. Sometimes your C.A.N. nurseryman will have Schizanthus or Butterfly Flower plants, too.

If they're available, he'll have them and they're worth checking on. When you set out the new new bedding plants, also put out some snail and slug bait so those hungry monsters won't have a feast.

when 13,459 jammed the L.A. Sports Arena to see them play San Francisco a year ago today.

And, although attached to a minor league, the Blades often outdraw the Lakers, members of a major league and tenants of the same arena, on successive dates.

Many Southlanders were born in the Midwest, New England or even Canada, where they played hockey as youngsters, or warmed their hands by a fire beside a frozen pond while the boys slapped away at a tomato can.

The most heavily immigrated state in the Union must hold a hard core of hockey lovers.

REEVES speaks for the rest of the hockey-ignorant populace when he replies to a question, "The fans? Why, they're good fans here, better than I am. I don't know anything about the game. I just know I love it. It's a great game."

What sort of inducement, then, is necessary to jar the fat cats of the NHL off their well-feathered nests?

"Television," Piggott answers. "With TV they won't worry about travel costs, and when the right salesman approaches them with the right sort of proposition they'll see the light."

Piggott's point is that there will be no national market for NHL telecasts until the NHL becomes a true national league of network proportions. From there it can follow the electronic leads of football and baseball to unlimited prosperity.

In its present form, the NHL is limited, if only by the capacity of its arenas. On the other hand, its habitual sellouts around the league makes unlikely a simple franchise shift such as brought out the Rams, Dodgers and Lakers. That leaves only expansion, which brings up the NHL's fear of diluting its caliber of play by allowing new teams to draft off players.

THE BLADES' general manager, Jack Geyer, admits that "there aren't as many hockey players as football, baseball or basketball players, but it's all relative. There are only four professional hockey leagues and only six major league clubs."

Nor would Alf Pike, the Blade coach and a former NHL player himself, expect more than the usual cuts and abrasions in competition with the NHL's established teams.

"The big difference is the super-stars," he says. "Take away two or three certain guys from each of their clubs and we're playing in their league. I don't think there's that much difference between the rest of the players."

"It's certain to come," Piggott repeats, with a distant twinkle in his eye, "and when it does, the impact will be tremendous."

There's a wealth of good eating in this eye-pleasing repast with a South Seas interest—and it is easy to prepare. Condensed green pea consomme, hot and with a touch of white wine is prelude to Chicken Polynesian.

Polynesian Party

By Mildred K. Flanary

HAPPY WAY TO entertain is by having a Polynesian party. The food can be enchanting to the eye, pleasing to the palate, imaginative and with a touch of adventure. It can be easily prepared, also.

The entree for a colorful South Seas dinner can be chicken, sauced with pineapple and cherries and served with rice, textured with almonds. Hot, condensed green pea consomme with a touch of white wine and a sprinkle of coconut harmonizes in a duo-complementary blending of color and flavor.

Archipelago Bisque

1 can (11½ ounces) condensed green pea soup
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed consomme
1½ soup cans water
2 tablespoons white wine
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
Flaked coconut

Blend soups in saucepan. Add water, wine and nutmeg. Heat, stirring now and then. Garnish each serving with coconut. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Recipe of the Week

RHUBARB'S refreshing flavor gets a play in this week's $5 prize recipe submitted by Mrs. D. L. Solomon, 12612 Loraleen St., Garden Grove. The recipe:

Rhubarb Butter Crunch

3 cups diced fresh rhubarb
1 cup white sugar
3 tblesp. flour
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup raw oats
1½ cups flour
½ cup butter
½ cup shortening

Combine rhubarb, white sugar and 3 tablespoons flour and place in baking dish. Combine brown sugar, oats and 1½ cups flour and into this mixture, cut the butter and shortening. Sprinkle over the rhubarb mixture. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

'Society Islands'

Frosty Soup Cup

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 soup can water
1 soup can milk
Chopped chives

Chill soups in refrigerator 3 to 4 hours. Just before serving, mix soups, water and milk in a saucepan or shaker. Pour into large juice or old fashioned glasses; top with chives. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Tahitian Rice

With Almonds

4 cups cooked rice
¼ cup melted butter
½ cup toasted slivered almonds

Gently toss hot fluffy rice with melted butter and almonds. Makes 6 servings.

Chicken Polynesian

2 pounds chicken parts
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon marjoram
Dash pepper
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pineapple chunks
¼ cup maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In skillet, brown chicken in butter; add seasonings. Cover; cook over low heat for 30 minutes or until tender. Add pineapple and cherries; cook uncovered 10 minutes longer. Stir cornstarch, water, and lemon juice until smooth. Push chicken and fruit to one side; gradually stir cornstarch mixture into skillet. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CORNER OF SIXTH

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

Hint on Studying

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: Which is a better investment of time —to read a chapter over and over again, or to write a summary or an outline of it?

ANSWER: Experiments have shown that students who invest the time in making an outline or writing a summary achieve better results than those who re-read.

The summary or outline helps the student to grasp the chapter as a whole, to place the main ideas and the details in proper perspective.

QUESTION: Are students good judges of teaching talent?

ANSWER: It would appear that they are.

A study of answers given by high school students on questionnaires about their teachers revealed that the students valued such traits as: sincere interest in the welfare of students, deep interest in subject matter, high academic standards, personal neatness, dignity, humor, ability to inspire.

These happen to be among the desirable characteristics listed by professional educators.

QUESTION: Do good students and poor students have noticeably different patterns of habit?

ANSWER: Yes.

For example, one research project indicated that poor students are more apt to do the following than are good students:

1. Study in a different place each day.
2. Neglect looking up words in the dictionary.
3. Fail to keep notes.
4. Neglect daily work and hope to catch up at the last minute by cramming.

QUESTION: Should a parent insist that his reluctant child continue lessons on a musical instrument?

ANSWER: No. After the child has given the instrument a fair trial, don't force him to continue against his wishes. To do so will merely create a stronger resentment in him toward music. A child either likes or doesn't like a musical instrument. If he doesn't like it, your insistence can only make him and the world of music miserable.

This slim guide is the reason new Kotams tampon can give more protection, more comfort

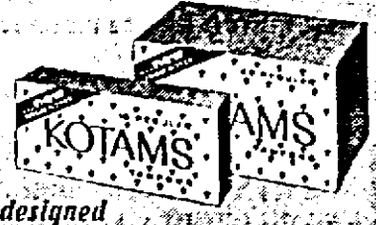

New Kotams is designed with a slim guide that places the tampon exactly where needed to give you the most complete protection possible.

Old-style ways of inserting a tampon can be very haphazard with bulky applicators—or no inserter at all. Protection is often incomplete!

But with new Kotams it's virtually impossible to position this tampon incorrectly. The guide stem has a tapered grip that makes you hold it just the right way for perfect placement. The tampon is angled correctly, directed smoothly to the most comfortable and protective position. The stem then releases.

Deftly compressed, a Kotams tampon expands in use to 4 times its size. Try Regular or Super absorbency... soon.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Fluoride Values Long-Lasting

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

BENEFITS of water fluoridation persist throughout adulthood, three dental scientists report.

The finding stems from a study contrasting the amount and frequency of tooth decay among residents of two Illinois cities—Aurora and Rockford.

In a report in the Journal of the American Dental Association, the researchers disclose that 734 Aurora residents, 20 to 59 years old, experienced far less decay than 815 similarly aged residents of Rockford.

All the Aurora subjects drank naturally fluoridated water continuously from birth till 18 years old. None of the Rockford natives had consumed fluoridated water except during brief visits to fluoridated communities.

Only those persons with at least 10 natural teeth were examined during the survey. About 14 per cent of those over 20 in Rockford were toothless compared with only 2 per cent in Aurora.

THE AGING patient in hospitals and nursing homes should be given a regular daily ration of alcohol, contends Dr. William Dock, professor of medicine at State University of New York.

For the ailing oldster, alcohol makes one's troubles seem much less alarming, Dr. Dock says in a new book, "Alcohol and Civilization."

While development of a carefree attitude in this manner is dangerous for the automobile driver, it "is most helpful for the aging parents of normally ungrateful children, as well as for the man or woman with failing sense organs or failing vital organs, with dying contemporaries and a narrowing circle of friends," Dr. Dock says.

A CONTROVERSIAL method of screening for breast cancer is to get a large-scale trial in New York under a $350,000 grant from the Public Health Service.

About 20,000 women will undergo periodic X-ray examinations of the breasts—a method known as mammography. Thirty thousand women will serve as controls—comparative patients who will not receive the X-ray studies. Participating will be 20 medical groups of the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York. Tested will be women 40 to 64 years old.

The X-ray technique was developed by Dr. Robert L. Egan of Methodist Hospital, Indianapolis.

A LONG-TIME study of patients on a diet low in animal fat supplemented by corn oil shows that, in most, blood cholesterol levels can be held down in persons who have survived a heart attack.

The report is that of Dr. W. C. Watson of Glasgow Royal Infirmary in British Medical Journal.

The regimen is safe, feasible and acceptable to the great majority of patients, Dr. Watson says.

REMOVAL of a normal appendix does not always imply unnecessary surgery, two Australian doctors contend.

Drs. M. O'Rourke and G. W. Milton of Sydney tell of a follow-up study of 127 patients who had undergone appendectomy for what had been diagnosed as appendicitis. After removal, however, tissue studies showed the excised appendices to be normal.

Yet after two to six years, 51 per cent of those who had emergency appendectomies and 59 per cent of those who had elective operations reported no subsequent pain or discomfort. Before surgery, patients had complained of acute or recurrent abdominal pain.

The report is in Australian and New Zealand Journal of Surgery.

Home Workshop

Most of the woodworking is straight cuts and the simplest of wood joining in making this gracious wine chest.

By Bill Meyerriecks

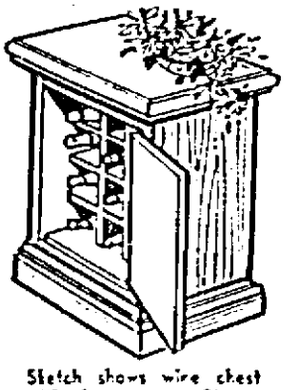

IN KEEPING with the furniture style currently enjoying great popularity—Spanish or Mediterranean look—a wine chest in keeping with this style is Sketchbook's design idea this week. And, if not for a wine chest, it can be used in many other ways.

The wine chest is actually an end table. Its ample top, 15x22 inches, can hold a good-sized lamp and still leaves room for holding various serving items. Beneath the top are 16 pigeon holes caches for holding wine bottles, at room temperature should you be a connoisseur. Or you could just as easily build half that amount of racks and leave the other space for storage of other things. You might not want to build in the pigeon holes at all. Then all you do is disregard the step for this in the Sketchbook plan and figure the space for your own use. You could add shelves, or plan it as a hi-fi cabinet, or special book storage or anything to fit your needs.

DIRECTLY beneath the top is a pull-out shelf that will come in handy regardless of what you use the chest for. It can be a chairside snack bar, a regular jiffy bar to serve refreshments (especially for those looking for compact units in smaller rooms).

The Sketchbook plan shows you all the steps in construction, parts and materials to build it as well as general notes on how to do it. Choose the wood you wish to make it in carefully. This could be the determining factor in how fine a piece of furniture you make. We especially like to see this in walnut. Of course you will be guided by matching your present wood pieces in dining or living room.

TO ORDER, specify Sketchbook Plan S-144 and send name and address and 50 cents to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Sketch shows wine chest with door open. Pigeon holes for bottles shown here might be dispersed with in favor of shelves.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is Fiberglas FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglas FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

CITY OF LONG BEACH

Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc. is a licensed City of Long Beach Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach area.

Cal-Tex has been selected as the exclusive franchised contractor of FLEXON in Southern California. You can obtain free information or have a free home demonstration without obligation. The low cost will surprise you and terms can be arranged to suit your pocket book.

Ben-Gurion's Israel

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

DAVID Ben Gurion led his people's astonishing reclamation of their Biblical homeland by courageous statesmanship and military skill and then, practicing the democracy he preached, retired at the height of his prime minister's power to the Negev Desert to meditate and pen his memoirs.

Certainly nobody can write with more authority of "Israel; Years of Challenge" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $5). Ben-Gurion retraces his role in the struggle for freedom from Britain and recognition by the United Nations, the War of Independence against the invading armies of Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Jordan and Lebanon, and the many other crises, decisions and achievements.

But he foresees "years of challenge" ahead, too, not only in the imperative need to develop the Negev to accommodate Israel's continuing immigration, and in the growing friendship of Israel with Afro-Asian nations, but in the role of his little country in the cold war.

"In the long run, it is the spiritual power that decides; in the kingdom of the spirit not quantity counts, but quality. It is not two or three Great Powers that will mold the world and determine its fate, but the historic needs of all the nations. Once the distinction between the ruling and dominant and the poor and backward nations is expunged, dictatorship will not last long, the danger of war will pass and confinement of peoples and populations against their will in totalitarian countries will cease."

FOR A MAN who has spent most of his 75 years in the make-believe of the stage, George Abbott has authored a surprisingly candid appraisal of himself, his relatives, friends, associates and the celebrities he has known.

From his childhood in Salamanca, N. Y., the son of an alcoholic father and courageous mother, "MISTER ABBOTT" (Random House, $4.95) spans a most remarkable career as actor, author, director, producer and collaborator in 103 plays, including many of Broadway's most memorable successes.

Always the realist, Abbott leaves nothing to the imagination in his autobiography—no inner meanings, no symbolisms. With humor and gusto he x-rays his failures and triumphs; his two years of writing and striving for acting jobs; his first marriage and the disastrous second one; the Long Island social set in which he lived and played; and the big names:

David Belasco, Jed Harris, Harpo Marx, Tallulah Bankhead; Leonard Bernstein, Larry Hart, Alexander Woollcott, Rodgers and Hammerstein, Irving Berlin, Harry Cohn, Jeanne Eagels, Claudette Colbert, and others.

WHEN Meriwether Lewis and William Clark set out from the Mississippi River in 1804 on their exploration mission to the Pacific Ocean for President Thomas Jefferson, they opened up not only a great new American territory, but also an era of giant, rugged pioneers.

Helen Addison Howard deals with "humanized" accounts of these personalities, rather than dates and places, in "NORTHWEST TRAIL BLAZERS" (Caxton, $6). Her story of the Lewis and Clark expedition, for example, is much concerned with Sacagawea, the young Shoshone Indian mother, who was their primary guide, and also all their later lives and deaths.

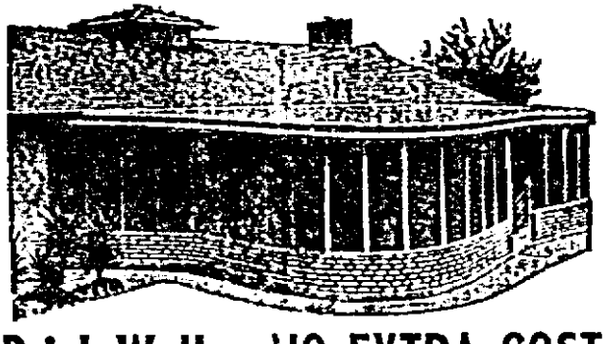

There are chapters on 17 historic pathfinders: traders, missionaries, engineers, Indian chief and Indian agent, merchant, statesmen and tycoons. All contributed some through altruism, some through greed—to the eventful development of the great Northwest.

CAROLINE GLYN

Remember "Three Weeks" and "It," by Elinor Glyn, the naughty books of the 1920s? Elinor's great-granddaughter, Caroline Glyn, 15, is author of a novel, "DONT KNOCK THE CORNERS OFF," about a teen-ager in school (Coward - McCann, $3.95).

Lawn edges can be chemically treated to eliminate laborious care, as before and after photos show.

Chemicals Edge Lawn

FREQUENT chore for every home gardener, keeping lawns neatly trimmed with mechanical edgers, spades and/or lawn shears will become as old-fashioned as chopping kindling for the kitchen stove for those who use E-Z Edge.

E-Z Edge is composed of two chemical herbicides; Simazine for immediate grass removal and Atrazine for long term prevention of plant regrowth. These chemicals are laminated into a water-soluble plastic strip, which, when watered thoroughly, completely disappears releasing the two chemicals. The effectiveness of E-Z Edge, it is asserted, lasts up to four years and costs about two and a half cents a foot.

The dissolved chemicals leave a neat and distinct path of soil four inches wide wherever application is made. They will not affect growth beyond this line. E-Z Edge is available in packages containing 60 feet of tape or on reels with 1,000 feet for commercial users. Vanlor International, P. O. Box 2175, Inglewood, Calif., has complete information.

Museum of Little Ships

— U. S. Navy Photos

Bristling with miniature guns, this movie prop-model of Lord Nelson's flagship is now a naval museum piece.

By Kay Dunn

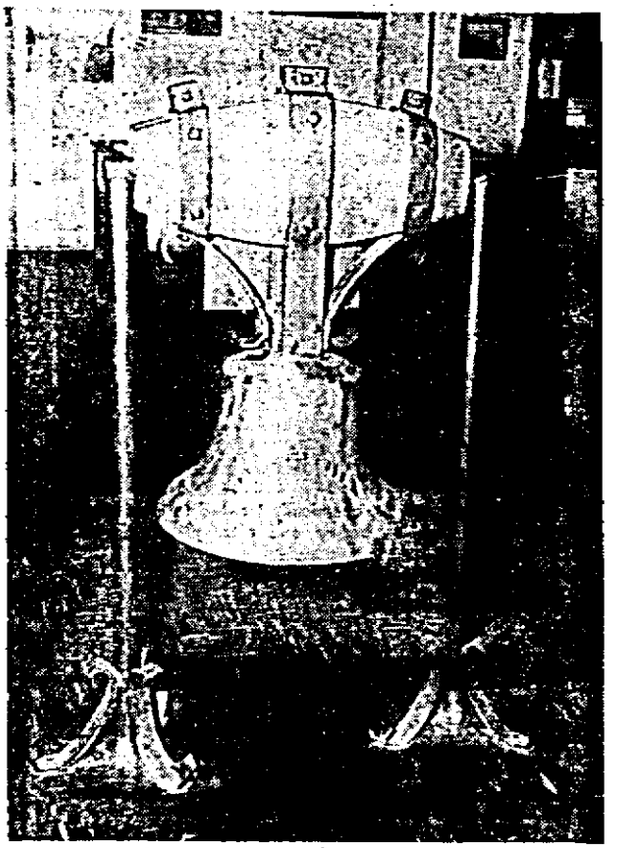

WHAT TO DO with the gift of a handsome model of Lord Nelson's famous flagship, the Victory, measuring 25 feet long, 20 feet high and weighing two tons?

This was the predicament in which the U.S. Naval Training Center in San Diego found itself some years ago when Sir Alexander Korda, film director and producer, presented the model to the Navy. It was a superb model and had been used in the picture, "The Hamilton Woman," the story of Nelson's life. For many years the Victory was shifted uneasily from building to building—an over-sized orphan with an acute housing problem. One day, when Capt. Lawrence Cook, USN, the center's commander, noticed the Victory forlornly hidden away in a dark corner, he got an idea. Why not start a naval museum, where all could see the gallant Victory proudly displaying Lord Nelson's famous signal, "England expects that every man this day will do his duty."

In 1960, the museum was officially launched and the Victory was given a permanent berth. Now in the collection are numerous replicas of famous ships as well as trophies, paintings and historical relics.

ONE OF ITS prized possessions is the ship's bell from the USS Yorktown of 1888. The Yorktown, while on patrol in Latin American waters in 1917, rescued the last survivors of an isolated colony who were marooned on the lonely island, Clipperton, and transported them to safety on the Mexican mainland.

Much smaller than the Victory but still large in their own right are two authentic eight-foot builder's models of the USS San Diego and USS Oklahoma, pre-World War I fighting ships. The sinking of the San Diego was probably Germany's most conspicuous naval success during World War I. While making passage from Portsmouth, N.H., to New York in July 1918, about 10 miles off the Fire Island Lightship, the ship struck a mine and sank within 20 minutes. Later, it was learned that the German submarine U-156 had laid the mine.

One of the museum's prized possessions is the ship's bell from the USS Yorktown, famed vessel of the 1880s.

OFF THE PROW of the Victory to port side is an outstanding display entitled "Remember the Maine!" The intriguing story of the sinking of the USS Maine in Havana Harbor in 1899 is graphically depicted in photographs, newspaper clippings, relics and paintings. This disaster spurred the nation to frenzy and triggered the Spanish-American War.

Representing almost 3,600 hours of painstaking work, a 12-ship collection donated by Edward Face, veteran builder of fishing boats and minesweepers, including such famous ships as Sir Francis Drake's flagship the Golden Hind, the USS Constitution which is better known as Old Ironsides, an old Spanish Galleon and the clipper ship Flying Cloud, is in the museum.

Another group, consisting of 11 different types of ships, was donated by the late Lt. Daniel Sullivan. It begins with an ancient Egyptian galley and is carried through the centuries with a Dutch trading ship, the American continental frigate Raleigh, the USS Kearsarge of the Civil War period and the 1921 schooner Bluenose.

Actual details of the museum's operations are handled by CWO Llew Powers, a dedicated maritime historian. It is open to the public and the log shows more than 144,000 guests have visited the museum since its opening in 1960.

PUERTO RICO

THE FLAVOR of this island is a subject that may come up for poolside discussion only in reference to the taste of the last rum punch.

Few resorts have been so unjustifiably slighted by their patrons over the years, though it was inevitable. The cheapest per-mile air fare from the United States (it costs more to go to Nassau or Miami, each several hundred miles nearer the major northern population centers), a dependable tropical climate that produces enough rainy days a year to count on the fingers of one hand, and luxury hostelries that are lobby and roof garden above most of those in the Caribbean, all have combined to give Puerto Rico a booming reputation as a reliable spot for a winter vacation.

Yet if Puerto Rico were in the Mediterranean instead of the Caribbean, busloads of tourists would ply its highways and cobbled streets with the same application they presently devote to the cocktail lounges and casinos of the hotels.

San Juan is, in many ways, more Spanish than Madrid. And, although Puerto Ricans are proud of their American citizenship, they haven't lost their Latin pride or tried to bury the civilization that Columbus founded. Ponce de Leon spread, and 400 years of ancestors perpetuated.

ON ANY GIVEN night, there is probably more flamenco dancing, guitar playing, and Granada-singing going in the night clubs, more paella and arroz con pollo being eaten, and more Garcias and Lopezes enjoying it all on Cristo Street in Old San Juan than in the cuevas around Madrid's Plaza Mayor.

There are in Spain few more genuine cobbled old quarters with flowered patios, secret courtyards, and wrought-iron balconies than there are among the squares, parks and ancient cathedrals of old San Juan. Most of it has been lovingly preserved and the rest is being devotedly restored.

El Morro fortress was for nearly four centuries the key to the defense of the Spanish Empire in the western hemisphere.

EL MORRO, plus the complexes of San Cristobal and El Canuelo, are today a national historic site, their storerooms, powder magazines, dungeons and courtyards open to the public. They are as well preserved as—and far more elaborate than—many in Europe.

Puerto Rico's charms do not lie exclusively among the fortresses and ancient houses of the old quarter (many of them are now smart shops, art galleries and restaurants) any more than they do among the sleek hotels of Isla Verde and the Condado strip.

Beyong San Juan lies a Connecticut-sized island of almost incredible verdant beauty. Its interior mountains slope in every direction to coastal plains and deep, wide beaches lined by towering palms. In colonial towns and fishing villages a life goes on that is all but oblivious to the sophisticated resort image of San Juan.

Caribbean Way of Life

MAYBE you've dreamed of getting away from the rat race, sailing to some island where office hours can't imprison you, lying contentedly under a coconut tree and eating its fruit while contemplating a dip in the nearby surf.

Maybe you've dreamed of just going to such a place for your next vacation. Or, maybe, not having the means of doing even that, of just reading about such places.

Whichever is your dream, latch onto a copy of "Retiring in the Caribbean" (Doubleday & Co., 575 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y., $4.95). The author, Wesley Edson, has been visiting the West Indies for 35 years. He tells you where you can buy an island if you wish; where you can live on $3,500 a year, including entertainment and wages for a servant. He gives many little-known facts on all the islands of the Caribbean, including living conditions, cost of land, taxes. But there's no dry stuff. You'll enjoy every page and wish there were more!

AGAIN, as in the last four years, Matson Lines will reduce fares for four spring sailings of the liners Mariposa and Monterey to the South Pacific from Los Angeles Harbor.

The savings, amounting to 25 per cent for full cruise passengers, range from $187 to $659, with reduced fares starting at $937 for the full six-week trip.

The Mariposa and Monterey, each 21,000 tons and carrying 365 passengers—all in first-class accommodations—will call at Bora Bora, Tahiti, Rarotonga, New Zealand, Australia, New Caledonia, Fiji, Niuafo'ou ("Tin Can Island"), Samoa and Hawaii.

Sailing dates from Los Angeles Harbor: Monterey, March 19; Mariposa, April 13; Monterey, May 4; Mariposa, May 29.

IF YOU LIKE to take pictures, here's a chance to cash in on your hobby.

Amateur and professional photographers are invited to compete in Riverside County's National Date Festival's first photo contest. Any photographer is eligible to compete.

Entries must be of Festival subjects and taken this year. Black and white (8x10) glossy prints and color transparencies (4x5) will be acceptable.

Entries must be received by Feb. 21. Cash awards of $25, $15 and $10 will be given for first, second and third place in each division, and all pictures submitted will become the property of the Festival. Winners will be announced Feb. 23.

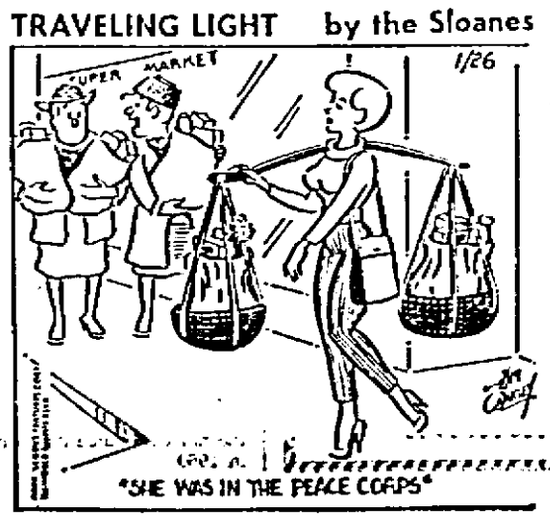

Entry blanks are available from the Publicity Department, National Date Festival, Box 396, Indio.

Festival dates are Feb. 14-23.

The World's Biggest Bargain Basement

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

HONG KONG

MOST travelers readily agree that this crowded, raucus metropolis of 3½ million is Number One in matching their concept of the most Oriental city in the Far East.

You know: Sampans bobbing nervously in the harbor. Cargo junks weaving their way around ferry boats and foreign men o' war. Coolie-drawn rickshaws. Tight little alleyways choked with street vendors, their wares and their victims. Laundry fluttering from bamboo poles above you. Look-alike Chinese lounging everywhere, smoking casually and eyeing you curiously. Streets festooned with signs of red and gold. The discord of a million pounding feet and a dozen languages and dialects. Tall Chinese beauties, their trim legs showing from the slits of their cheongsams. . . .

One of Hong Kong's newest palaces for the tourist is the $15 million Mandarin Hotel, on the busy waterfront.

It's dandy to get the flavor of a great city. But, let's face it, Americans (out of 253,016 visitors in 1962, 90,184 were from the United States) come here to shop.

FOR HONG KONG is the biggest bargain basement on earth.

Shopping is easy if you follow the practices of the pros. If you don't, the suit you buy may not be suitable even for a kimono when you get it home. And the "jade" you bought from that street peddler may not be jade at all.

It's advisable to buy only at reputable stores where prices are still far below what you'd expect to pay. It's a pretty safe bet that the store is a reliable one if it displays a seal of membership in the Hong Kong Tourist Association, and many do. You don't bargain with these merchants as you do at the street stalls. They have one price, and that's it.

THE THING you really watch out for is goods from Communist China, all of which the customs man will take away from you when you reenter the United States. Most Star and Sickle-type goods are now produced in Hong Kong and this makes it doubly hard to know what you're getting.

The answer, of course, is a Comprehensive Certificate of Origin, issued by the Hong Kong Government. All shops approved for the use of this important document are provided with a "registration certificate" which they display. Shop in these stores. Demand a Comprehensive Certificate of Origin with your purchases. If the merchandise does not come from China you'll get one. The certificate costs 5 Hong Kong dollars (less than $1 American), covers up to $1,500 in merchandise from one store, usually requires about 24 hours to obtain. Don't pay for your purchases until they are accompanied by the Certificate.

Comprehensive Certificates of Origin cannot be obtained for antiques of any kind. They are needed for such items as scrolls, paintings, china (except Meissen and Dresden), brocades, carpeting, furniture, ivory, jade and silks.

THE AVERAGE tourist lingers seven days in Hong Kong. Many arrive by cruise ship, but most zoom in on sleek jets such as the DC8s operated by Japan Air Lines. Hotel accommodations, once hard to come by in this overcrowded city, have loosened considerably with the opening of several beautiful new hotels, among them the 27-story, 650-room air-conditioned Mandarin situated on the waterfront in the heart of Hong Kong Island.

You don't have to be a Chinese to get around, but it might help. Of Hong Kong's millions, at least 98 per cent are Chinese. However, 98 per cent of the 98 per cent savvy the Hong Kong dollar.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"Am I correct in Europe that we need not be careful of the drinking water in large cities?"

PEOPLE who live in the capital cities drink the water — Americans, I mean. They all assure me the water is good. (Madrid and Rome residents claim it is excellent.)

Some people have problems anyway when they change water. Mexican friends of mine say they always get sick when they come to New York. So you try the tap water—if it doesn't work for you, switch to bottled water. Fiuggi for Italy; Solares for Spain; Evian for France; and one whose name I've forgotten you'll find all over Portugal. (I always ask the desk when I check in everywhere if the tap water is OK. You'll find many places where they'll say so. But they won't volunteer it unless you ask.)

"What is the best time of year to visit the Scandinavian countries? If we go to Finland, what do you think of a short trip into Russia?"

MAKE THE Scandinavian countries in deepest summer —any other time will freeze your memories. You can make arrangements to go into Russia out of Helsinki. But you ought to get a visa before you leave the U.S. It sometimes takes three weeks.

You can find out quite a bit about this through the Russian travel agency INTOURIST. They have offices at 335 Lexington Ave., New York 36.

"We are interested in staying with families sometimes in these northern countries. How do you go about it?"

DENMARK has a program called "Meet the Danes." I imagine the other countries have something similar. I'd write their national tourist office in New York. (In the phone book.) And the airline SAS should have a lot of information, too.

Actually, you almost always do better asking a national airline than asking a national tourist office. The airlines get on the ball.

"Where can we get reasonably priced rooms in Honolulu at the beach? We would like a kitchenette."

Hawaii Visitors Bureau, Honolulu, Hawaii, has listings like this. You won't get easy prices right on the beach. But you can get them a block or so off the beach and walk over. Reader tells me she got a three-room apartment on Main Street, a block from the beach, at $10.50 per night. (Sorry, she didn't say the exact address.)

"When do you wear formal wear on a cruise ship in the Caribbean?"

GENERAL RULE: Dinner jacket each night except first night out, last night before getting into port. (However, formal clothes are not "must.")

New Anthony "Hida-Sweep" automatic pool cleaner...

CUT POOL CARE 90%! HIDA-SWEEP, NEW ANTHONY ROBOT CLEANER, "HIDES" IN POOL WALL, COMES OUT AND CLEANS WHOLE POOL AUTOMATICALLY...EVERY DAY!

All you have to do is relax. Or even sleep. Each day—or night, at a time you've selected—automatic clock control sends floats and cleaning arms swinging out across the pool like a flotilla of mine sweepers. When jets from high pressure pump have swept settled dirt down the drain, Hida-Sweep swings back into its harbor hidden in the pool wall.

You are always ready for a swimming party. There's nothing to move or remove. Won't get jarred out of adjustment. The cost: much less than pool service, adds about $7 a month to your 10-year pool contract. Call any Anthony showroom for details.

ANTHONY BLUE LAGOON $1690

$22.54 per month, 10 year terms. Pool is 15' x 33', 312 square feet, 70 perimeter feet. 3 to 6 feet deep. Steel reinforced gunite, waterline tile, filter, copper plumbing, pump, motor, steps. Includes standard coping. Deck in picture is slightly higher. Price based on normal access and soil; subject to hillside and higher costs in some areas. "Hida-Sweep," "Antho Pure" and heater not included.

ANTHONY "HIDA-SWEEP" POOL CLEANER PLUS OTHER EXCLUSIVE ACCESSORIES CUT POOL CARE 90%—MAKE ANTHONY YOUR BEST POOL VALUE!

Pool owners can now be more carefree than ever. Exclusive Anthony manufactured accessories take most of the work out of pool care. Besides Hida-Sweep there's Antho-Pure. Dispenses daily; holds up to six months' supply. Anthony automatic, long cycle filter, automatic heater keep water condition always ideal. Exclusive accessories, volume building give Anthony pools extra value.

ANTHONY DELUXE CUSTOM POOLS

Pool above is typical example of dozens of designs and sizes available. Anthony manufactures pre-cast parts, coping, accessories. Factory to you selling keeps prices low.

Anthony has built twice as many pools as any single builder.

For Fun and Toil

By Eleanor Avery Price

FOR FUN, drama and excitement in the dog world, little else surpasses dog sled competition, such as the annual Sled Dog Derby set for Feb. 8 and 9 at Big Bear. The sight of robust sledders working with rugged dogs is exceptionally entertaining.

Canines participating will include Siberian huskies, Alaskan malamutes, akitas and Samoyeds.

The Samoyed originated in the huge tundras stretching from the White Sea to Yenesei River in Siberia as a reindeer herder, hunter and companion as well as sled dog for the nomadic people after whom he was named. Without dog teams, transportation would have been almost impossible. And in extreme cold, Samoyed dogs were taken inside shelters to help provide heat in the small abodes. They were also used as pillows! And their thick undercoat when combed out made excellent chink padding against the raging blizzards.

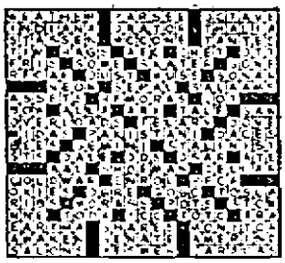

The nomads also used reindeer with sleds, but these animals were not reliable nor did they make comfortable pillows.

HAVING TROUBLE with a fussy feline when it comes to eating? Let Mary Ruth Kieran direct you to exactly the right menu for your kitten, kittling, catten, catta or cat in her gourmet cookbook for mousers. (Lots of cats just catch mice but don't eat them.) The book is For the Love of Cats (Pageant Press, N.Y. 3, $4.95). The names of the dishes are delightfully ridiculous, but the ingredients have been chosen with scientific care. There are other helpful hints included to prevent catastrophies among catophiles. Discussed are newborn kittens, adolescent felines, stray cats and the like.

IT PAYS to keep your pet well fed, and I don't mean overstuffed. Animals can suffer from anemia just as humans can. I have seen cats and dogs that could not stand and that refused to eat because they were so weak from poor diet. And their eyes look dull and the coat lacks luster. An animal that won't eat may accept baby's canned meat on a spoon or by medicine dropper.

ORANGE EMPIRE Dog Club show and obedience trial is scheduled today at National Orange Show Grounds, San Bernardino.

House plants, turned regularly toward the light, will grow evenly, avoid unbalanced look like this specimen.

House Plants Like a Turn Around

By Joe Littlefield

DIEFFENBACHIAS are indoor house plants that make up for lack of flowers, by providing interesting foliage. Dieffenbachia picta variety for instance, with two-tone, green-and-yellow, speckled leaves provides an eye-catcher pattern.

All indoor house plants are sensitive to lack of proper light and tend to lean towards the light forming an unbalanced shape. Wise gardeners realize this and quarter-turn the plants every few days, always in the same direction.

Container plants outdoors on a shaded porch also tend to lean towards the light and should be turned periodically to help them grow evenly all around.

LIVING PLANT Growers, an association of indoor house plant wholesalers, provide healthy plants to the retail nurseries and garden centers, and pass on helpful cultural information.

Some home owners are satisfied with gardens that have only foliage shrubs, no flowers. As soon as those gardens have some flowers or flowering plants, the gardens literally "light up" with color. There's more interest and personality added.

Of all combinations of flowering plants that bloom seasonally each year, the big 3, between them provide color the year round. The camellias, wisely selected for three periods of blooms, supply color from October into April. Roses provide flowers off and on for about eight months of the year. Royal Bird of Paradise blooms from around October into March, unless heavy frosts damage them or slow down their growth.

WISE SELECTION of perennials also will keep a garden in flowers and color the year round. Helleborus orientalis, "lenten rose," blooms for four months continuously, starting in late December or early January.

Saxifrage crassifolia, "bergenia" flowers from winter into spring season. Tulbaghia violacea blossoms from May through October. Dianthus Rose Marie a rose color pink, blooms off and on all year long.

Between all these perennials your garden won't lack for color or cut flowers.

GARDEN CLUBS

Charter memberships are still open in the newly formed Rose Society of Orange County, according to Fowler I. Phipps of Lakewood, rosarian and soil expert, who will be in charge of the program at the organization's next meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Sun Garden School, Trask and Newland Streets, Garden Grove. Anyone interested in rose culture is invited.

Strong interest has been shown in the society, according to George F. Roy, vice president and program chairman, who stated that members to date are from eight Orange County cities and from Long Beach.

Prizes to be awarded at the meeting Tuesday include several Winifred Coulter roses bushes, a hybrid rose developed by John van Barneveld, rosarian and member of the Orange County organization.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week ...You will still find roses and fruit trees and other deciduous plants bare root but time is getting short. As long as the soil isn't too wet, plant.

You should be able to start gladiolus, amaryllis, and cannas now.

Fruit trees can take a dormant spray still as a preventive measure against curly leaf. Ask your C.A.N. nurseryman for the right material and drench the trees.

Keep rotting foliage, scraps of wood or debris of any kind cleared away. They're the happy homes of earwigs, snails, slugs and other garden-lovers you don't want to encourage. Use snail bait now for effective control.

Berries and grapes can be planted now. Berries want perfect drainage but grapes will tolerate a soil that stays moist longer than will the berries.

The Golden Age of Comedy

Another product of the English music halls, Laurel was close to Charlie in his feel for pantomime. He was a great comedian. Hardy was a fine comedian and was just as good in the team. But Laurel could have been great on his own, whereas I don't think Hardy could have reached the same heights alone as he did with the complementary Laurel.

Their appeal was as a couple of struggling characters, kind of in between tramps and working men. They were always buddies, but always had differences that would get them into trouble. One reacted differently from the other one in the same situation.

THEY DEVELOPED many characteristics—the slow burn of Hardy's, the cry that Laurel had, the bickering back and forth. They also worked the borderline between comedy and tragedy, but usually on the broader side.

They were probably the best team we ever had in comedies, and their revival through television has again demonstrated their worth.

Some film historians have claimed that sound killed the Golden Age of Comedy. That is partly true. Sound didn't actually kill our kind of comedy; sound divorced it. Comedy could have gone on and become stronger, because sound was an added element that could have enhanced comedy.

But some technical problems interfered. The sound equipment was rather crude in those days. They were using the stage technique because the actors had to remain close to the microphone, which was often concealed. Most of the early talkies were made on sound stages and there was very little action. When they went outdoors, there were difficulties with extraneous noises, like airplanes.

HUMAN FACTORS played a role, too. Some of us like Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks and myself had been in pictures for a number of years. We took longer to shoot our pictures; we didn't push as hard. Monetary success contributed to a certain lack of drive. Perhaps we didn't have the energy to cope with the challenges of a new medium.

Also, it's true that sound did interfere with some careers. A lot of the boys had voices that didn't fit their characters.

Comedy became a verbal medium, of doing jokes, as opposed to the pantomimic, sight gags. It was cheaper to tell jokes than to go out with the sound equipment and try to do action.

Our comedies had been basically motion pictures. They couldn't have been done on the stage or in any other medium. The new comedies, including the many fine ones that are being done today, could usually be done as stage productions.

I DOUBT that the movies ever could go back to the sight comedy that we did. You don't have gag men. You don't have the schools of vaudeville, burlesque and two reel comedies in which to train comics.

Fortunately, we do have the old films. Nowadays people ask me how it is that my comedies seem to get as big laughs from audiences now as they did when they were first made.

My answer is that comedy that is basic will live on forever. It can't be impaired by sound, color, wide screens or any other development in the film medium.

Our comedies concerned basic human emotions which have existed since man has. Those films will be just as funny a hundred years from now as they are today.

Humphrey." In the late 1200s Peter Umfrey and John Hunfrey, ancestors, lived in Oxfordshire. The Humphrey shield is black, decorated with three silver ostrich feathers. The shield for Humphreys has an ermine cross on a black background.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please inform on DYKE, DYKES.—A.B., Long Beach, B.D., Lakewood.

A.B., B.D.: DYKE and DYKES allude to an English ancestor who lived on or near a dyke or river-embankment that kept water out of lowlying farmland. In 1303 Robert del Dykes lived in Cumberland, north England. Anthony del Dike was a Yorkshireman in 1379. The Dyke and Dykes shield has three black five-leaved rosettes on a gold background.

DEAR MISS RULE: We believe QUETSCHKE will challenge your knowledge and research.—R. G., Garden Grove.

R. G.: QUETSCHKE is German. This surname is a provincial dialect spelling of Zwetschge meaning "prune" or "plum." Quetschke refers to a fortunate forefather who owned orchards of plum trees.

NICK KATSARIS
Back From Asia

MR. AND MRS. Nick Katsaris have discovered first-hand that their restaurant has an international reputation for quality.

During their recent trip to Asia, the owners of Sam's Sea Food restaurant, 16278 Pacific Coast Hwy., Surfside, met numerous Japanese and Chinese business leaders who were familiar with the reputation of this famed Southern California dining establishment. "We have acquaintances who have been there," they informed Nick and his wife, Ruth. "We would love to go there ourselves some day and have one of your dinners."

Mr. and Mrs. Katsaris spent many weeks in the Orient vacationing and buying import articles for the restaurant's gift shop. They visited the Philippines, Hawaii, Japan and Hong Kong, making many new friends en route.

Sam's, open daily and Sunday, is an exceptionally large, luxurious tropical restaurant which has been a landmark on Pacific Coast Highway for many decades. Its sea food menu is perhaps the most varied in California. A few of the entrees available are tender, succulent broiled swordfish with amandine sauce, $2.95; sweet, fresh broiled lobster ($3.95 for half portion); fabulous captain's dinner (lobster, shrimp, scallops, abalone, crab, frog legs, oysters) $5.25; giant shrimp steamed and served in the shell, $3.15; grilled Rocky Mountain rainbow trout, $3.10, and lobster tail-New York steak combination, $5.25. The latter is a popular new item. All include tasty clam chowder, tremendous fresh salad, baked potato, assorted sourdough breads, beverage and dessert.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

If You're Missing 'Boone' Show, You're 'Nuts'

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Actress Bethel Leslie, a permanent cast member of NBC-TV's Tuesday night "The Richard Boone Show," is a critic.

She is not a television critic nor a movie critic nor a book reviewer.

Miss Leslie is an audience critic.

"I think," Miss Leslie said, "people are nuts not to watch it."

The "it" to which she refers is "The Richard Boone Show."

With announcement that "The Richard Boone Show" has not been renewed for next season, viewers have launched a storm of protest.

Another story on the series may be found on Page 11 and viewers' opinions are expressed in the "Pan and Fan" column on Page 7.

From Miss Leslie's point of view, there is no other dramatic show in the same TV league.

* * * *

"I THINK this show presents a challenge to the audience, which it should do," she said. "It makes an audience work.

"I don't think you can watch the show without stopping and thinking about things.

"We're all devoted to making television as good as can be. Our performance level is above and beyond most television shows. That's inevitable because of the level of talent and we work together all the time."

As for that portion of the audience which may be so "nuts" as not to watch the program, Miss Leslie has a few, well-selected unkind words.

* * * *

"I WONDER," she mused, "if television is a thing you turn on and don't really watch or listen to—like radio used to be.

"I've talked to people who do this and they say, 'Well, it's company.'

"I don't think ours is a show you can turn on and forget it's on—which I'm proudest of."

Lest it appear at this point that Miss Leslie is overcritical of the television audience, be informed that she is equally as vehement in her function as another type of critic.

She is her own severest.

"I am never happy with my own performance," she said.

"I'll watch the tape at the studio and say to myself, 'Oh, Bethel! Why?'

"I'll watch it on my TV set at home and say, 'Well I can

REMEMBER RUBY KEELER?

Newport Beach Housewife Makes TV Drama Debut

FOR THE PAST 23 YEARS the only dancing performed by Mrs. John Lowe, Newport Beach housewife, was between the stove and the refrigerator.

It was the type of terpischorean choreography performed by any average housewife with five growing children and a husband to feed.

Then a newspaperman discovered that this average housewife at one time was associated with dancing as strongly as pie with coffee.

In those days she made nine movies and, with just a few exceptions, played the dancing star's stand-in who always went on with the show when the star broke her leg on opening night.

In those days she was known as Ruby Keeler.

The newspaperman, in his story brought back those days. One of those stirred by the memories was comedian Jerry Lewis who had a two-hour television show on ABC-TV.

He contacted Ruby and asked if she would appear on the program. She agreed because she thought it "would be fun."

STANDING IN THE WINGS before she was to go in front of the cameras, Mrs. John Lowe wasn't so sure it was fun returning to Ruby Keeler.

She said to herself:

"Ruby, what the devil are you doing here? You don't need the money."

Once on stage, though, Ruby, making allowances for the 23 intervening years, was her old "42nd Street" self. She brought down the house and the television audience sent more mail in connection with her appearance than for any other star.

On Tuesday, again for "the fun of it," Mrs. John Lowe will appear on television—but not as dancing Ruby.

She has a dramatic role, Peggy Rusher, on "The Greatest Show on Earth," channel 7 at 9 p.m. in COLOR.

"I DID ONLY ONE dramatic role in my entire professional career," said Ruby. "That was in the picture 'Mother Carrie's Chickens' made in the 30s."

Is another phase of her professional career getting started?

Not if she can help it.

"It's very flattering to think that I've been away from show business so long and people still remember me," she said.

"And I don't mind doing a few things in television, but I couldn't think of it as a steady diet."

Ruby was content with her professional "steady diet" as long as she had it, but has no regrets on trading it for domesticity.

"I WAS IN THE BUSINESS long enough to see what goes on and wonder where those people thought they were going.

"There's so much more to life than that.

"With all the wealth and material things, they don't have as much as me hoping to have the house cleaned and the beds made in time to get out on the golf course, then make it home in time to get dinner ready."

A 9-handicap golfer, she's had more time for the game since the children, Peter, 27, Theresa, 20, Christina, 19, Johnny, 18, and Kathleen, 15, have grown.

They are children who are "a little embarrassed but mostly proud" when strangers stop their mother and ask for her autograph.

But the return of Ruby Keeler hasn't altered the relationship of Mrs. John Lowe with her neighbors.

"It makes no difference to them," she said, "and that's the way I like it."

SPECIAL

SOUTHERN BAPTIST HOUR—Dorothy Sands and Elizabeth Lawrence star in an original drama exploring the question of judging the worth of a human life during the twice-yearly series at 2 p.m., ch. 4.

WIZARD OF OZ—The 1939 MGM classic is telecast by CBS for the 6th year as a 2-hour special at 6 p.m., ch. 2, with all but the first 22 min. of the film in color. Judy Garland stars with Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Margaret Hamilton, with songs by Harold Arlen, who'll be the subject of a full-hour filmed profile at this same time two weeks from today. Danny Kaye hosts the film from a leprechaun's perch atop a mushroom, with original musical introductions by jazz flutist Paul Horn.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC—President Lyndon B. Johnson is key speaker at the dedication of the new 10-story white marble building in Washington, D. C. Also seen in the half-hour tapes at 8:30 p.m., ch. 11, are Chief Justice Earl Warren and Secretary of the Interior Stuart Udall.

THE KREMLIN—The story of the Kremlin, seat of Russian authority, is told in its reflection of the five centuries of rulers, from early Moscow Princes to Czar Peter the Great and the present Soviet era. Frank Bourgholtzer is guide for the tour through historic Spasski Gate, seen in color at 10 p.m., ch. 4, in a repeat of the original May 21 and June 4 hours.

The World Is His Bus Stop

JIM McKAY . . . At Innsbruck Olympic Site

Jim McKay commutes around the world as routinely as a Long Beach student taking the bus to high school every day.

As sports commentator for ABC-TV's "Wide World of Sports," he's traveled more than a million miles.

That doesn't include the mileage flown for his job in reporting the 1964 Winter Olympic Games from Innsbruck, Austria, the daily telecasting of which starts 10 p.m. Wednesday on channel 7.

In one eight-day period recently, McKay did a rodeo in Las Vegas, flew to London for the soccer championships, went to Monaco for the Grand Prix of Europe and finished up with a report of a wrestling tournament in Bulgaria.

• • • •

HE ALSO was in Long Beach last year for the telecasting of a championship water-polo match.

Of all the places he has been, Jim prefers Paris.

"If I had a second home," said the Connecticut resident, "It would be in France about 40 miles from Paris."

One reason is the food.

"In France you can walk into any restaurant in the country and get a fine meal."

The food in England, by contrast, lacks imagination, according to McKay. "I've had better kidney pie in the United States."

• • • •

McKAY IS AWARE that many American tourists don't like Paris.

"I don't know why," he said. "Sure, the Parisian people are independent and the cab drivers are nasty.

"But that's the nature of the people, being independent. They just don't feel they have to get on their knees to tourists."

In Russia, McKay was surprised at the number of jokes going around about Khrushchev.

"But they're jokes with lessons, like Confuscius parables," he said.

• • • •

IN HIS travels McKay has come to the conclusion that sports transcend all political feelings.

"If there is some rapport between the East and West, no one will ever be able to really gauge just how important a contribution was made by sports and the cultural exchange."

An ex-Navy lieutenant and a former police reporter, McKay and his wife, Margaret, have two children, Mary, 10, and Sean, 8.

He doesn't want his children worrying about the long distance he travels and the many airplane flights he takes. When he leaves home, he tells them about how many hours or days he'll be gone, not how far he's going.

"I had to get leave-taking matter-of-fact," he said, "just like any other guy going to work."

Matter-of-fact, just like any other guy going to work as to cover the world.

Pan and Fan Mail

The first time we watched the "Richard Boone Show" I said it couldn't last.

Most of the viewing audience hasn't the intelligence to appreciate a truly great show such as this. It takes much less mentality to watch a farce such as the "Beverly Hillbillies" which receive the ratings.

Just whom do they ask to determine the ratings — the same group of people that watch and actually enjoy such nonsense as daytime serials?

Shirley Nelson, Long Beach

My wife and I reserved Tuesday evenings for "The Richard Boone Show." The ability and acting performance of these unknown stars was something we shall always treasure as the first major breakthrough in the "vast wasteland" of TV.

We felt that young people contemplating Hollywood and acting careers would now understand what it really meant to be called an "actor." That they should seek higher goals than to emulate the Elizabeth Taylors, Marlon Brandos and Paul Newmans.

We're sick of watching the rock-and-roll beatniks, the thrill-seeking surfers and free-fall jumpers, drunks, psychotics, neurotics and extremists portrayed on such shows as "The Defenders" and "The Nurses."

Can't the networks show us the Americans we love, respect and adore? Has it disappeared?

Walter Sall, Los Alamitos

The Richard Boone Show is one of my favorite new shows. I can't see why they'd take such a good show off. Once you start watching it, you don't want to miss it.

Jaynie Fernandes, Norwalk

I'll miss it, too.

• • • •

Can you tell us how they got the Chevy in the "Bonanza" commercial on top of that rock formation in Monument Valley?

Is it superimposed photography?

C. Everett, Long Beach

No, it's not superimposed. The automobile, in three sections, was airlifted by helicopter and then assembled on top of the mountain.

• • • •

To those people who enjoyed Joe Pyne so much, he may now be heard on KLAC each evening beginning at 7:30.

This program is more interesting and educational than some of your TV programs.

Perhaps you may be skeptical to notify people of this, but I know a lot of people who do enjoy listening to Mr. Pyne.

Harry E. King, Long Beach

It's no crime.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Bethel Leslie Lauds 'Boone'

see why but I wish I hadn't.'"

* * * *

THERE IS a personal thing about each performance that always bothers the actress although, truth to tell, it has not been specifically remarked upon before by those who have seen her.

"I cannot say 'Hello' without my forehead going up and down," she lamented. "I can't do it in real life, either."

However, it is a very nice forehead. Including its ups and downs, it's not a newcomer to television.

Since 1957, it has accompanied Miss Leslie on such video productions as "Thriller," "Checkmate," "Wagon Train," "Have Gun, Will Travel," Perry Mason," "Ben Casey," "Gunsmoke," "The "Rifleman," "Adventures in Paradise" and "Hong Kong."

* * * *

IT HAS NOT accompanied her in any continuing performance in a situation-comedy. Miss Leslie maintains she has turned down a number of lucrative offers to do situation-comedy.

"I didn't become an actress to go to the studio and wash dishes," she said.

"That's really how I feel about situation-comedy."

What, to date, has been her greatest acting challenge on television?

"My greatest acting challenge," said Miss Leslie as she lit a cigarette, "has been all those impossible parts I had to play before the Boone show."

Boone Show Axed Because 'Experiment was Failure'

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—An NBC-TV vice president says that "The Richard Boone Show," which has been canceled by the network, was axed because it was an experiment that failed.

Mort Werner, vice president in charge of programming for the web, said Boone's series "didn't seem to reach the kind of an area we wanted to reach and I don't mean in terms of audience."

Boone's show, a repertory company of actors presenting a one-hour drama each week, was considered by many viewers to be a step in the direction of better television.

RICHARD BOONE

Boone learned of the show's cancellation from a movie and television trade journal. He was incensed to find out about the action through a news story. Dick felt he should have been informed personally.

NBC Vice President Werner said that he had come to Hollywood from New York to break the bad news to Boone personally but the two men never had a chance to get together until after the story was printed.

"We didn't purposely leak it," Werner said, admitting that some of Boone's anger might have been justified.

But he defended the cancellation, which Boone hopes to reverse through a fan-letter campaign aimed at NBC.

"We decided to go only one year," Werner said. "This was an experiment to see what could be done with a repertory company. I think in the 20 shows that have been done they did a lot of good shows and some that didn't come off.

"MAYBE THE SOURCE of the problems was material. NBC is a network that experiments all the time and this is one of our experiments that didn't work out so well. There is a great hue and cry in television to try something new. We tried something new. Everybody on the show worked real hard, including NBC. We are as sorry as everybody else."

The network's decision means that Boone's show is scheduled to go off the air this September. But it won't go off without a fight.

Boone, who uses such terms as "Madison Ave. jellyfish" in reference to his opponents in this battle, intends to fight on with the aid of loyal fans. He has many for his current series, along with millions who watched him for years on "Have Gun, Will Travel."

He has called for the fans to engulf NBC with letters demanding the show's retention. Dick claims there is no lack of sponsor interest for his series.

Boone faces an uphill fight. Television executives rarely change their mind once a decision is made to cancel a show.

A notable case in point was the series "It's a Man's World." When that show was dumped less than two years ago there was an organized campaign on the part of the producer, actors and others to save its hide. Thousands of letters were said to have been received by network officials. The brass was not impressed and the cancellation stuck.

Werner has not heard the last of Boone and his fans, a fact of which the video executive is well aware.

"The job is not the best one to have if you want to win a popularity contest," he said of his role as vice president in charge of programming.

Businessmen Name Red Skelton 'Best Dressed'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Comedian Red Skelton is the "Best Dressed Man of 1963," according to the consensus of the Downtown Businessmen's Association.

The association presented a plaque to the tall clown citing him as "representing the business or professional man who is well dressed in work, at play or travel."

The award came on the heels of a similar award to fellow comedian Jack Benny from the Men's Apparel Club of California.

Nation's Pay-TV Eyes Focus on California Plan

By RICK DU BROWN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The appeal of baseball may decide whether pay-TV will pay off in a big way soon.

A major experiment involving the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants, hopefully planned for this year, may be the tipoff to the vast national potential.

If it comes, and if it works, the day will certainly be closer when plays, new movies and other events not now available on free television will be on tap in your home.

There have been well-publicized pay-TV experiments before.

A venture in Bartlesville, Okla., flopped. The need was for more varied and better attractions, an official said.

An attempt in Hartford, Conn., is still going, with about 3,400 families participating. A United Press International correspondent reports that "customer reaction has been mixed, but mostly favorable." Hartford has just signed up the Liston-Clay heavyweight championship fight on Feb. 25.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT, started in the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke, reached a maximum of 5,300 homes at one time. The figures is now at about 3,500. A UPI correspondent reports:

"The response of viewers is 'only as good as the shows themselves.' Sports events appear to be the biggest attraction and if a first-run movie gets good reviews and is well accepted by the public, it is popular on telemeter."

Still, none of these three experiments has stirred the excitement of national possibilities as much as the current West Coast plan with its tremendous sports offering, which officials explain is only part of the eventual programming.

And if there is real excitement in the pay-TV camp, it is because of the reputations and big dough associated with the California operation, which is called Subscription Television Inc. (STV).

To start with, both the Dodgers and Giants are stockholders in STV. The key figure here is Dodger owner Walter O'Malley, who has a close, shrewd and loving association with money.

It was he who spurred the baseball move west to the Pacific Coast with an eye on the eventuality of doing what he is trying to do now: operate on a pay-TV basis. In New York, his games were shown free. In Los Angeles and San Francisco the only games fans see free are their team's nine road contests with each other.

SYLVESTER WEAVER

Furthermore, STV's president is Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, who once bossed NBC and has long been respected as one of the truly creative men in television. Among his contributions at NBC-TV were the "Today" and "Tonight" shows. He had a great deal to do with NBC-TV's drive to be the "prestige" network.

In addition, in a business in which reputation swings much weight, there were considerable ripples last fall when it was disclosed that arrangements to form STV were being made by Lear Siegler Inc., an electronics company, and Reuben H. Donnelley Corp., a Dun & Bradstreet subsidiary.

WEAVER, WHOSE ABILITIES as a creator are matched only by his skill as a pitchman, promises many and wondrous results besides sports events from STV. His concept is that of a specialty magazine rack—a bookstore shelf—in which viewers with individual interests would be able to purchase programs and events catering to their tastes. Therefore, he reasons, it would not be necessary to have huge multitudes of viewers to make a program pay off. He would offer three STV channels.

Yet, to many, STV seems bound to stand or fall with the pay-TV appeal of the Dodgers and Giants. Sports is the heart.

The immediate question for STV is whether it can get the Dodger and Giant games into homes by the time it is promised —by mid-summer. A telephone strike delayed the wiring and cabling, some reports saying as much as two months.

Weaver, whose Los Angeles headquarters indicate just how pivotal baseball is, admits to "the usual difficulties" — the financing, the strike, and the like.

"But," he says, "it is still too soon for us to give up" on the original date, which was to be in July. The aim was for about 20,000 homes to be wired by July 1.

ASTHMA & SMOG

Air poisoned by smog, exhaust and pollen aggravates recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma and Hayfever. At the first hint of difficult breathing, wheezing, coughing and mucus congestion from such causes, start taking MENDACO to combat allergy, loosen and help remove choking phlegm, and thus promote freer breathing and more restful sleep. Most druggists keep and recommend MENDACO.

What's My Line?

A 15th Season Where Guesswork Teams with Reason

THE PANELISTS OF "What's My Line?" start the program's 15th season at 10:30 p. m. next Sunday on channel 2. At top is Bennett Cerf. Others (from left) are Arlene Francis, John Daly, host, and Dorothy Kilgallen.

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UPI)—The years marched by—and marched and marched—and so did the jellybean polisher, the mosquito counter, the money burner, the ladybug salesman and the paper-panty maker for lamb chops.

The man who sells life insurance for chickens came and went, and so did the man who plays piano on an airplane, the man who makes false teeth for cows, the man who paints dots on dice, the man who drills holes in bowling balls and the man who sells warships.

There were the mattress tester, pillow stuffer, chicken plucker, egg breaker, salami knotter, mustache-wax wrapper, boxing-glove stuffer, whale counter, beehive inspector, false-teeth modeler, pooltable pocket-crocheter, horse-hat maker, goose caller, spider raiser, tuba tester, chewing-tobacco twister, nose-warmer knitter and the false-eyelash fitter.

And did the occupations stump the panel? Over the span of 15 years, they did two-thirds of the time.

THAT'S THE CONSIDERED estimate of the proprietors of CBS-TV's redoubtable "What's My Line?" Redoubtable? Make it incredible. A week from now, on Sunday, Feb. 2, the show begins its 15th season.

The first panel on Feb. 2, 1950? Might as well flip all the cards, you'll never guess it: former Gov. Harold Hoffman of New Jersey, Dr. Richard Hoffman, the psychiatrist; Louis Untermeyer, the poet and anthologist; Dorothy Kilgallen, the newspaper woman—and the moderator, John Daly. The first mystery guest was Phil Rizzuto (they didn't guess him.)

Arlene Francis became a panelist on the second show; Bennett Cerf went on in 1951. The show started on an alternate-week basis and, in the fall of 1950, went weekly and has stayed in the Sunday night spot.

On the anniversary, the show will have appeared 698 times—bearing in mind that it started on a fortnightly basis and since then has been pre-empted several times by important events.

A MAN WHO HAS LIVED with "What's My Line?" as its director ever since the third show is a big, bluff, humorous former actor named Frank Heller.

"Back in 1950," he said, "all of us were terribly fascinated with the mechanics of TV—the majority of the studio audience didn't have sets at home. What we really needed was the audience's attention to the stage. I took the cameras off the stage—put 'em way back with the longest lenses we could get; we have even longer now.

"I told the cameramen to wear dark suits (they really had begun to enjoy getting so much attention) and to be inconspicuous—so the audience could attend the stage and ignore the technical aspects and become a part of the program itself.

"This was a kind of program that never had been done before on TV—it's one of the few programs that are really indigneous to TV: Ed Sullivan is really a form of vaudeville; others are an extension of the theater.

"ITS SUCCESS? I think one of the factors is that the show hasn't changed a good deal since it began. The public realized instinctively that this is something they can't find elsewhere. People say, there, but for the grace of God, go I. And it gives them a chance to associate with the celebrity.

"We have changed in one way. For a long time we had a regular panel. Then, Fred Allen died, on a Saturday night, March 17, 1956. Since then, we have never permanently filled that chair—as a tribute to Fred. It's a rioting chair, and we try to get people with a light touch to fill it.

"The moderator? I think John Daly is as unique in the business as the game itself was when it started. His skills as a moderator are so great, he's absolutely without peer in this field."

DOES GETTING UP NIGHTS MAKE YOU FEEL OLD

After 35 Common Kidney or Bladder irritations often occur and may make you feel old before your time. Frequent passages both day and night. Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from backaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. Be quick irritation. CYSTEX helps fight bacterial irritations in kidneys and bladder and relieves burning, scanty passages. In such cases,

Repeat Special Tonight on Moscow's Governmental Seat, 'The Kremlin'

Emphasizing the historical rather than the political, "The Kremlin" will be repeated at 10 p.m. today (Sunday) in COLOR on channel 4.

The hour program concentrates on the 65-acre walled "city" within Moscow.

Aired originally on May 21 last year, the program met such popular acclaim that it was repeated two weeks later.

The tour starts with the Grand Palace, moves through government buildings, then into several cathedrals and the many museums.

THE PROGRAM recreates events that took place in the Kremlin, seat of Russian authority, during five centuries.

The Soviet era is illustrated in scenes of Lenin's apartment, the Palace of Congresses, the meeting hall of the Supreme Soviet and the burial places of leaders of the Bolshevik Revolution outside the Kremlin walls.

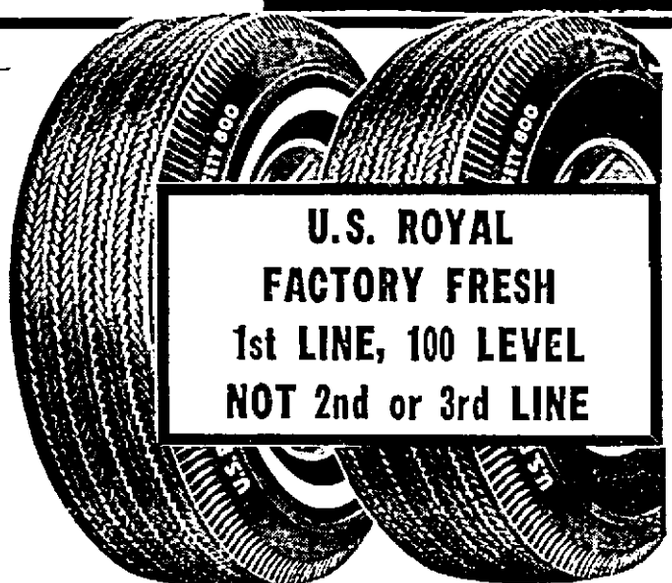

The Moscow fire of 1812 is recreated.

Frank Bourgholtzer, NBC news correspondent, is host for the tour. The guide is Lt. Gen. Andrei Vedenin, commandant of the Kremlin.

'SO LONG, PHILLY'

Clark Sad to Depart City of Brotherly Love

Dick's "American Bandstand" was the only network show (ABC-TV) emanating from the Pennsylvania metropolis.

Clark, who loves the City of Brotherly Love, was loathe to depart, which comes as a shock to his new neighbors in Hollywood. Out here Philadelphia is a favorite topic for jokes.

DICK CLARK

Tinsel Town folk are fond of repeating W. C. Fields' request for his gravestone which he wanted engraved: "All in all, I'd rather be here than in Philadelphia."

They also delight in re-telling the old vaudeville chestnut: "I went to Philadelphia one weekend, but it was closed."

Jibes at Philadelphia water and politics are always good for a laugh—except when they are told to Dick Clark. He likes the water, the politicians, the weather and everything else about Philly.

If he sounds like a demented hometown booster, it should be remembered that the handsome video star lived there only 12 years. He's a native of New York and old enough at 34 to know what he is saying.

IF PHILADELPHIA is so great, why did he emigrate?

"Because there is very little work left in the East," he said. "A man must go where he can make a living. New York is no answer because there is little enough television activity back there."

W. C. Fields said New York is a great place to visit but he wouldn't want to live there.

Clark, who bears a remarkable resemblance to actor James Garner off-screen, is indeed busy in Hollywood. He is play host and emcee for a daily quiz show titled "The Object Is . . ." for ABC.

Though Clark is happy in his work, the palm trees and fat women decked out in garish slacks and sun glasses take some getting used to.

"It's certainly a different way of life," Clark said. "It's nothing like Philadelphia."

W. C. FIELDS said "Hollywood is a great place if you're an orange."

To ease the blow of leaving Philadelphia's water system, Clark has bought a new home in the San Fernando Valley for his wife, Loretta, and their two sons. But real estate prices in California have convinced him even more that Philly is the garden spot of America.

In spite of himself Dick has acquired one Hollywood status symbol, a swimming pool. He's a little self-conscious about it, too.

When he discusses the pool a faraway look comes into his eyes. And it's an even money bet that he is plotting some way to fill the pool with good old Philadelphia water.

Q. I would like to know how many times actress Arlene Dahl has been married and to whom.—Pam Kaufman, Palo Alto, Calif.
A. Three times. Her husbands have been Lex Barker, Fernando Lamas and Christopher Holmes.

Q. Did Sen. Barry Goldwater vote for or against the Peace Corps?—A. Schneider, Las Vegas, Nev.
A. Against.

Q. Is it true that producer Stanley Kramer will never make another picture with Frank Sinatra?—Ellen Pinckney, Charleston, S.C.
A. That's what Kramer says, the result of having worked with Sinatra on Pride and Passion.

Q. When Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain was first married, the people of Kenya gave her as a wedding present a beautiful lodge and 25 acres of surrounding land. Is it true she has now sold the gift since Kenya gained its independence?—George Dana, New York, N.Y.
A. The Queen recently gave the Sagana Lodge and its 25 acres to the government of Kenya as an "uhuru" (freedom) gift.

Q. Who are the richest songwriters in the world?—Alma Shenson, Glencoe, Ill.
A. Three of the richest are Irving Berlin, Richard Rodgers, Cole Porter, all multimillionaires.

Q. Can you tell me if screen star Doris Day refuses to pose for photos with her 21-year-old son because she doesn't want people to know how old she is?—V.T., Rocky Mount, N.C.
A. Miss Day poses with her son infrequently, does not like to publicize the fact that she has passed 40.

Q. Who said: "The old believe everything, the middle-aged suspect everything, the young know everything"?—Ben Norwich, Salem, Ore.
A. Oscar Wilde, British dramatist.

Q. Lee Oswald, who assassinated President Kennedy, and Jack Ruby, who assassinated Oswald—did these two have anything in common? Were they friends?—Fred Willoughby, San Antonio, Tex.
A. They were not friends. What they had in common was a desperate desire for status and grandeur.

Q. How much did Richard Burton pay his first wife so that he could be free to marry Elizabeth Taylor?—Wilma Gordon, Atlantic City, N.J.
A. Approximately $1,500,000, plus a trust fund for their children.

Q. Is it true about writer Henry Miller and actress Zita Rodann?—Charles Edens, Los Angeles, Calif.
A. They date.

Q. I understand that Dinah Shore's husband, Maurice Smith, is the best plasterer in Palm Springs. Can you verify?—M. H., Tucson, Ariz.
A. Maurice Smith is an excellent plasterer and tennis player.

Q. I read recently in a history book that King George V of Great Britain was responsible for protecting Field Marshal Haig, who sent so many British soldiers to their deaths in World War I. Your comment, please.—Francis Corda, Hanover, N.H.
A. For the past 50 years the British royal family has inclined to protect members of the Establishment, no matter how stupid. According to many military authorities, Haig in World War I was guilty of bad judgment, should have been removed.

Q. Is Mickey Rooney broke? — Eleanor Donahue, Miami, Fla.
A. He is financially behind, but so long as he maintains his acting talent, he will never be "broke."

Q. Can you tell me if President Lyndon Johnson is a millionaire?—Dave Rouan, Urbana, Ill.
A. He and his family have assets worth a million or more.

Q. What's happened to Irina Demich, the French model Darryl Zanuck put in The Longest Day? Is she still with him?—Mamie Noonan, Philadelphia, Pa.
A. Yes, he recently cast her in a 20th Century-Fox film in Rome.

I love my hair—shimmery with highlights, innocent of gray streaks

with this new temporary hair coloring and styling lotion all in one!

Helene Curtis Bright Idea doesn't really change your own natural hair color. Just your life.

It brightens hair.

Adds flickering highlights.

Blends gray hair so beautifully you'll never know it was there. (Or, makes gray gloriously gray.)

And it's so easy to use. Sponges on with its own sponge top. No mixing. No dripping. No rinsing. No waiting. No mess!

Comb through. Set.

Comb out fresh, sparkly color and a lively set. Both last until your first shampoo, and then wash away. So the only risk you take is turning into a more beautiful you.

Can you risk it?

$1.50 plus tax. 6 natural shades / 4 glamorous shades to glorify gray

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

Because of volume of mail received, it is impossible for PARADE to answer queries about this column.

THE KENNEDY LEGEND. Like Abraham Lincoln, John F. Kennedy was no legend in his lifetime. In death, however, he has become and will continue to become one of this nation's greatest. Last month more than 20 million copies of his recorded speeches, books and photos were sold in this country. Eventually, publishers say, as many books will be written about him as have been penned on that other Presidential victim of assassination in 1865. Kennedy will probably be remembered best for his youthful and intellectual personality, then for the Peace Corps, the Bay of Pigs, the nuclear test-ban treaty, the courage with which he met the civil rights drive and his acceptance of the economic theory of planned deficit spending.

SWISS TV COMMERCIALS UNDER CONTROL. For years Switzerland fought to keep its TV screens free of commercials. When television was first introduced there several years ago, the Swiss decided to ban all commercials until 1967 or until the country had 180,000 sets. It now has 350,000 sets, 1 for each 14 people, and is ready to permit TV commercials, but only under the following circumstances: no commercials on Sunday; no commercials on weekdays after 8:30 PM; no commercials for liquor, tobacco and installment buying.

NEW PHONE SERVICE. The telephone companies are now selling gift certificates for long distance phone calls. Certificates for $2 and more will be honored by all phone companies in the nation except in Alaska and Hawaii.

DEER HUNTING DANGER. Dr. Arthur Kerkhof, director of the Cardiac Work Evaluation Unit of the Minnesota Heart Association, has discovered that deer hunting imposes heavy and frequently dangerous demands on the hearts of men believed to be in good health. Noting that "cardiac deaths during the deer hunting season occur three times as frequently as accidental deaths," Dr. Kerkhof put 37 men, average age 48, through physical tests simulating deer hunting activities. The major test was dragging a 100-pound sack of sand through loose gravel for 3 minutes as a hunter might drag his deer out of the woods. Four of the 37 men tested, or 11%, showed "significant electrocardiographic abnormalities."

SIX STATES. During 1963 citizens and business concerns in 6 states paid more than half the federal taxes collected in all 50 states. The leaders: (1) New York, $19.1 billion; (2) California, $9.8 billion; (3) Michigan, $8.2 billion; (4) Illinois, $8 billion; (5) Pennsylvania, $6.5 billion; (6) Ohio, $6.1 billion. That's a total of $57.7 billion out of $105.9 billion collected in the entire nation.

FIRE DANGER. According to the National Fire Protection Association, the worst home fires are caused by dirty and defective heating and cooking equipment. Such fires destroy or damage 1,500 homes each week.

SEGREGATION AND TV SPORTS. The TV networks will not telecast segregated football bowl games again. A few weeks ago, when Gillette and Chrysler backed away from sponsoring the Blue-Gray game in Montgomery, Ala., NBC canceled the telecast, paying off the bowl association.

CHARACTERISTIC ACCIDENTS. Older drivers get involved in different types of auto accidents than young and middle-aged drivers. Most common accidents among drivers 50 and older: pulling out improperly from the side of the road; failure to give right of way; inaccurate turning into intersections; ignoring stop signs. According to Dr. Ross McFarland, highway expert at the Harvard School of Public Health, the most important change produced by aging is deterioration of perception.

HEALTH AND LONGEVITY. High in the Indian State of Kashmir, at an altitude of 10,000 feet, live 30,000 Hunza tribesmen, who seem to have discovered the miracle of perfect health. They have an average life span of more than 100 years and suffer no disease, not even an occasional headache. A 10-man research group headed by Prof. Boyer de Belveser of Paris is en route to Kashmir to study the tribe.

LUMINOUS ROADS. The West Germans are experimenting with luminous highways by mixing "aluminum grit" material with asphalt-concrete. The experiments, under way in Düsseldorf and Hamburg, are considered most promising in terms of increasing traffic safety.

WARNING TO DOCTORS. When finished with needles and syringes, please destroy. Police report that narcotics addicts steal these items from trash containers outside doctors' offices. In Los Angeles recently three teenage addicts admitted that they obtained all their needles and syringes in that manner.

ALL THE WAY. Former British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan plans to write his memoirs. Since Macmillan heads the publishing company bearing his name, the book will be about Macmillan, written by Macmillan, published by Macmillan.

DDT INVASION. DDT, the insect killer, has, according to Dr. Luther Terry, Surgeon General of the United States, "invaded the water environment of the world." It has spread over the entire planet and is currently being detected in Japanese fish, Arctic wildlife, India's plants, American rivers. The levels of the insecticide, however, are extremely low and harmless.

WILL SHE FIND LASTING HAPPINESS?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Actress Deborah Kerr with her second husband, writer Peter Viertel: Of this 3½-year-old second marriage Deborah declares, "I want this life of ours to go on forever."

HOLLYWOOD.

At this moment, unfortunately, there are thousands of married men and women throughout the world who would like to shed their mates.

After 5, 10, 15 years of marriage these couples believe that they are mismated and incompatible.

Prisoners of circumstances, they continue to live together for a variety of reasons: religion, children, fear, economics, social appearances, the fact that they are not in love with someone else. But almost always they are nagged by a constant inner turmoil, an omnipresent frustration, an irritating realization that they are unhappy and unrequited, that time for them is running out and that they would probably be happier alone or married to someone else, if only that other he or she would come along.

Frequently "the other man" or "other woman" does arrive on the scene, and then the critical decision to divorce or to remain married must be made.

For a celebrity, divorce generally requires courage, money and a calculated career-risk, especially when the public has previously been lied to.

Take the case of actress Deborah Kerr, 43, who now claims, "I am certainly one of the happiest and luckiest women in the world."

Five years ago, after 2 children and 13 years of what was repeatedly described as "one of the happiest marriages in the entire film colony," this lovely, gentle, auburn haired motion picture star called it quits with her first husband, Tony Bartley, son of Sir Charles and Lady Bartley and one of England's great flying aces in World War II.

The true reason for the divorce was that Deborah had fallen in love with writer Peter Viertel, also married, while both were working in Vienna on an awful film called The Journey.

At this point, rather than continue "to live a lie," the actress decided on a divorce. Like most husbands about to be discarded, Tony Bartley struck back. In a London court he obtained a writ against Viertel accusing the writer of enticement and demanding custody of his two daughters, Melanie and Francesca, both of whom were placed under jurisdiction of the High Court of Chancery.

Viertel quickly denied rumors of a romance with Deborah, described Bartley's allegations as "nonsense and pure malarkey," but then asked his wife, Virginia, in Hollywood for a divorce.

Mrs. Viertel consented and was granted custody of their daughter, Christine. One night, not long after the divorce, she dropped a lighted match on her nightgown. It caught fire, horribly burning more than half her body. On December 14, 1959, Virginia Viertel died of burns in a Hollywood hospital.

Six months later, having obtained a divorce which reputedly cost her a small fortune in community property, Deborah Kerr married Peter Viertel in Klosters, Switzerland, where they now live in a marvelous chalet, enjoying "the best of lives."

Viertel writes books. Deborah acts in motion pictures at $250,000 per film and up. The couple's three daughters attend school in England, spend the holidays and vacations with their parents. When Deborah films on location, as she recently did in Mexico for Night of the Iguana, Viertel goes along, works on his writing while his wife emotes for the cameras. Skiing in Switzerland in winter, mixing with the international crowd, traveling the world—London, Paris, Los Angeles—the rest of the time, earning upwards of $500,000 a year, the Viertels seemingly live an idyllic existence.

I say "seemingly" because no one ever knows the truth about these film people. They dissemble so well. Towards the end of her marriage with Bartley, which she admits was no picnic, Deborah used to write magazine articles on the secret of her happy marriage. Recently I asked her if her second marriage was truly successful. "If you could have anything in the whole world you wanted," I questioned, "what would you ask for?"

Quick as a wink, she answered: "Exactly what I now have, only more of the same. I want this life of ours to go on forever."

I then asked if she thought that divorced persons learned from their previous marital mistakes. "I think I have," she admitted. "I think I'm more tolerant, more understanding. Certainly I'm more mature now in my forties than when I was in my twenties. What a first marriage or any marriage does for you is to provide you with a revealing, intimate relationship in which you present yourself to another person for the first time. You learn a good deal about yourself, how you behave, how you react. And I guess in 13 years I learned some wisdom from previous experience that I've now applied to this marriage.

"The thing to realize about a bad first marriage," she went on, "is that you can't afford to blame your first husband or the external circumstances. One learns by examining oneself. If you're going to make your second marriage a success, you'd better ask yourself where you failed in the first one. Generally, a woman has made an unwise choice of a partner or functioned poorly in relating to him. If she acknowledges that failure, the chances are she will do much better the next time. In my case, I just chose unwisely the first time and much better the second. Some women go through life never learning. They choose badly time after time."

WHY CHOOSE A MOVIE STAR?

Deborah Kerr's current husband, Peter Viertel, 45, is a novelist and screen writer, son of an Austrian playwright. He was born in Europe, raised in Los Angeles, is generally considered a cosmopolitan intellectual, worldly, sagacious and terribly experienced with women. At one time, he and Ava Gardner were an inseparable duo, and, of course, he's spent many years in Hollywood.

In view of Viertel's extensive experience with women in general and actresses in particular, I asked him how he could possibly have chosen a motion picture star for a second wife. He seems too wise for that.

"I wouldn't really call Deborah a motion picture star," he explained. "She's not aggressive. She's not competitive. She's not masculine. More to the point, she's a professional actress. And the best part of the profession is that it's a marvelous profession, the worst part is less than that—like the difference between a gossip columnist in a newspaper and a reporter. Or if your daughter wants to go on the stage, there's a difference between whether she wants to be a stripper or someone like Katherine Cornell.

"Deborah is serene and mature and gracious. I think John Huston described her perfectly when he called her 'one of the world's truly gentle people.'

"The typical Hollywood movie star is not professional. She was originally hired because she was beautiful. With stardom came adulation and work, two departments in which she's insecure. She doesn't know how to handle them. Actresses from the theater—and Deborah is one of them—have had a professional background. Deborah is easy to live with. I understand her pattern, and she understands mine. Deborah is in the movies, but hers is not really a Hollywood background."

Deborah Kerr was born in Scotland in 1921. Her father, a civil engineer who had lost a leg at the Dardanelles in World War I, died of tuberculosis when his daughter was 14. By that time, Deborah was living in London, studying ballet at Sadler's Wells.

A START IN REGENT'S PARK

I realized," she says, "that to become a ballerina I should have started dancing at 2½, so I drifted into acting by way of getting a job at the open air theater in Regent's Park. From there I moved into film work."

During World War II, Deborah, signed to a long-term film contract by producer Gabriel Pascal, developed into one of Britain's leading actresses. In 1945 she was entertaining British troops on the Western front with actor Stewart Granger when he introduced her to Tony Bartley of the RAF, one of the brilliant fighter pilots who had helped save his country in the Battle of Britain.

Bartley took it from there. He courted and pursued the actress, and on November 28, 1945, they were married in London. Not long after, MGM, convinced that Greer Garson was fading rapidly as a box office attraction, brought Deborah Kerr to Hollywood at $2,000 a week. With Deborah came her husband, soon to be hopelessly lost in the Hollywood jungle where he was always known as "Deborah Kerr's husband" and rarely as Tony Bartley. In Hollywood eyes he had no identity of his own.

He and Deborah had two children, but not even they could compensate for the disparity in their parents' positions. The marriage went south and ended in divorce in 1959.

Today, Deborah Kerr's fame does not outshine her second husband's quite so glaringly as it did Bartley's. In Klosters, movie stars are not particularly lionized. Moreover, Deborah's days as a leading lady are coming to a close, so that marriage means more to her now than it ever has before.

"If it were not for the money," she frankly admits, "I'd gladly stay at home and just be a housewife and mother, but who can afford to give up all that money? And really, I've had such an easy job of it. I mean my career. It just sort of happened that I got where I am. I have, I suppose, something, some quality or other, that various people have either seen or needed or wanted at some time on the screen, and it's continued. I think only once in my life did I say, 'I've just got to do something different,' and that's all I said. And I got something different. That was the part in From Here to Eternity. But now they've put me back in the old parts again, the sweet, gracious, matronly, Lillylike character, and I'm not about to rebel.

"You see, I realize that I'm terribly, terribly lucky, certainly luckier than most. I truly don't think I could ask for anything more in what's left of my life. It's a jolly nice position to be in, I'm sure.

"I have so much—husband, career, children, good health. I just hope it can go on a little longer and that I can contribute something to the world we live in. I love this part I've just finished in Iguana because I say one line which is absolutely me. I say, 'nothing human disgusts me unless it is unkind or violent.' And that's a marvelous, marvelous line, and I feel that in saying it and millions of people seeing it, maybe that line will stick in their heads, and I will have contributed one small thought to human betterment."

At 43, Deborah Kerr is batting .500 in marriage and 1.000 in career. Few other motion picture actresses can equal that overall womanly performance, and Deborah Kerr knows it. Her cup runneth over.

this deaf child can hear

LOS ANGELES.

Therapists at Los Angeles' HEAR Foundation recently discovered themselves engaging in a daily struggle with some of the deaf infants with whom they were working. In an unusual experiment, the tots had been fitted with hearing aids. They had always responded happily each morning as the aids hooked them in to the world of sound. Now they began to fuss and cry and yank the wires from their tiny ears. By the time the fourth baby reacted in this manner, the startling explanation dawned on the therapists. The infants didn't need the hearing aids anymore. They could hear without them!

In the remarkable study, HEAR—Hearing Education through Auditory Research Foundation—tested 20 infants afflicted with partial to profound deafness. Each was fitted with two hearing aids, introduced to sounds and encouraged to identify and locate them. Within an average of four months all gave clear indication they had begun to hear normally without the aids, according to Ciwa Griffiths, executive director, and Dr. Harold G. Carter of the Foundation. Only two have since had to resume wearing them. The method was found to be effective only if the infants were no more than eight months old when it was begun.

A tentative theory: Some children may be born with an immaturing hearing mechanism which can be stimulated through amplified sound to complete functional development. But whatever the reason, the finding offers great hope in the world of the deaf. ■

Tiny hearing aid worn by infant in Los Angeles experiment rests in the therapist's hands. Babies in test wear an aid in each ear.

NEW HELP FOR YOUR BUDGET PROBLEMS

by THEODORE IRWIN

Financial Review Clinic members meet informally to give expert advice on the problems of the insolvent.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

A few months ago a hard working machinist and devoted family man woke up to the appalling fact that he was head over heels in debt. Bills had snowballed. Payments were overdue on his car, TV set, encyclopedia, a department store charge account and loans from two finance companies. His child's illness added medical and hospital bills. In all he owed $2,650, about half of his annual take-home pay. Pressure from creditors created such tension at home that his marriage was about to go on the rocks.

Overwhelmed and desperate, the bedeviled machinist (we'll call him Bob Morrow) turned to a unique "debt clinic" set up here in Springfield by the Child and Family Service of Sangamon County. A rundown of his liabilities, expenses, income and assets was presented to a group of volunteer citizens which included financial and legal experts. One suggested consolidating Morrow's debts into one loan from his company's credit union. Another thought he ought to sell his car and rely on a car pool to go to work.

Then a banker came up with what turned out to be the easiest and most practical solution: refinance the mortgage on the Morrow home. Bob had paid off a little over $3,000 on a $10,000 mortgage. By bringing the mortgage back to its original $10,000, he could walk off with $3,000 in cash to pay all his debts. Today, the Morrows are solvent, their marriage secure.

Credit and installment buying is the backbone of U.S. economy. And, properly used, it is a useful tool for getting more of the good things of life. But many Americans simply don't understand how credit works. They overuse or misuse it. Springfield's Financial Review Clinic appears to be the answer to many a family singing the monetary blues. The idea is the brainchild of Mrs. Marilyn G. Brown, the slim, quick minded case supervisor at Child and Family Service, and of a former executive director of that 100 year old agency.

Since Mrs. Brown doesn't pretend to be a financial genius, she decided to recruit experts in the community to serve as advisors. The Clinic, launched last May, is composed of two bankers—Forrest Norris, assistant vice-president in charge of consumer credit, and Peter Bosnack, a loan officer, both with the Illinois National Bank; Mrs. Dorothea McAnulty, an attorney who advises on legal rights, bankruptcy law and the like; and William Wieties, an experienced labor representative from the United Community Services, who knows about union resources.

Serving without pay, the panel meets every few weeks at lunch hour around a square conference table at the UCS building. Over sandwiches and coffee, they listen to a caseworker present only the more acute and baffling predicaments. Questions fly around the table: "Can the wife find a job? . . . What other assets are there? . . . Can they borrow on their insurance?" Usually families concerned do not appear; Marilyn Brown sits in on every one of these discussions in order to describe each case.

SOME ARE CARELESS

Why do families get to the point where they go broke? Members of the Clinic panel agree that there are several major factors.

Some people are careless about credit. They sign blank contracts or neglect to read the fine print.

Emotional spending—i.e., buying when upset to help feel better—and spite spending—buying to punish a spouse after a quarrel—contribute their share to family indebtedness.

Poor planning that allows debts to pile up is also a common pitfall. Once debts accumulate, they often create a vicious circle. Borrowing to cover existing commitments, a family creates new debts on loans and high interest charges.

Who are the debt prone? Certainly they are not confined exclusively to the low-income bracket. "People with substantial incomes can also be addicted to overspending," says Joe M. Jenkins, executive director of Child and Family Service. "I know of one family, for instance, with a $1,200-a-month income that went into bankruptcy."

Couples whose conflicts have led to separation or divorce seem particularly prone to get tied up in financial knots. One attractive, intelligent 36-year-old woman (let's call her Mrs. Dorn), with a 7-year-old daughter, had parted from her husband and was working as an executive secretary in a utility company. Tensions had brought on a stomach ulcer, which meant medical and drug bills. She owed for a washing machine, a life insurance policy, TV repair service, a mail-order course in accounting, a finance company loan and other obligations.

Analyzing her predicament, the Clinic's panel suggested that the husband be approached to raise his monthly stipend, at least temporarily. It also proposed that Mrs. Dorn's minister be asked to appeal to her parents, from whom she was estranged, and explain her acute need and their responsibility. The church credit union granted Mrs. Dorn a loan to tide her over. With moral and financial encouragement on three fronts, Mrs. Dorn's health improved and she could tackle her money problems with a fresh optimism.

Mrs. McAnulty points out that many immature young-marrieds are not equipped to handle their finances. If they come from homes where parents constantly had bill collectors at the door, they are likely to follow the pattern of fiscal irresponsibility.

A RULE OF THUMB

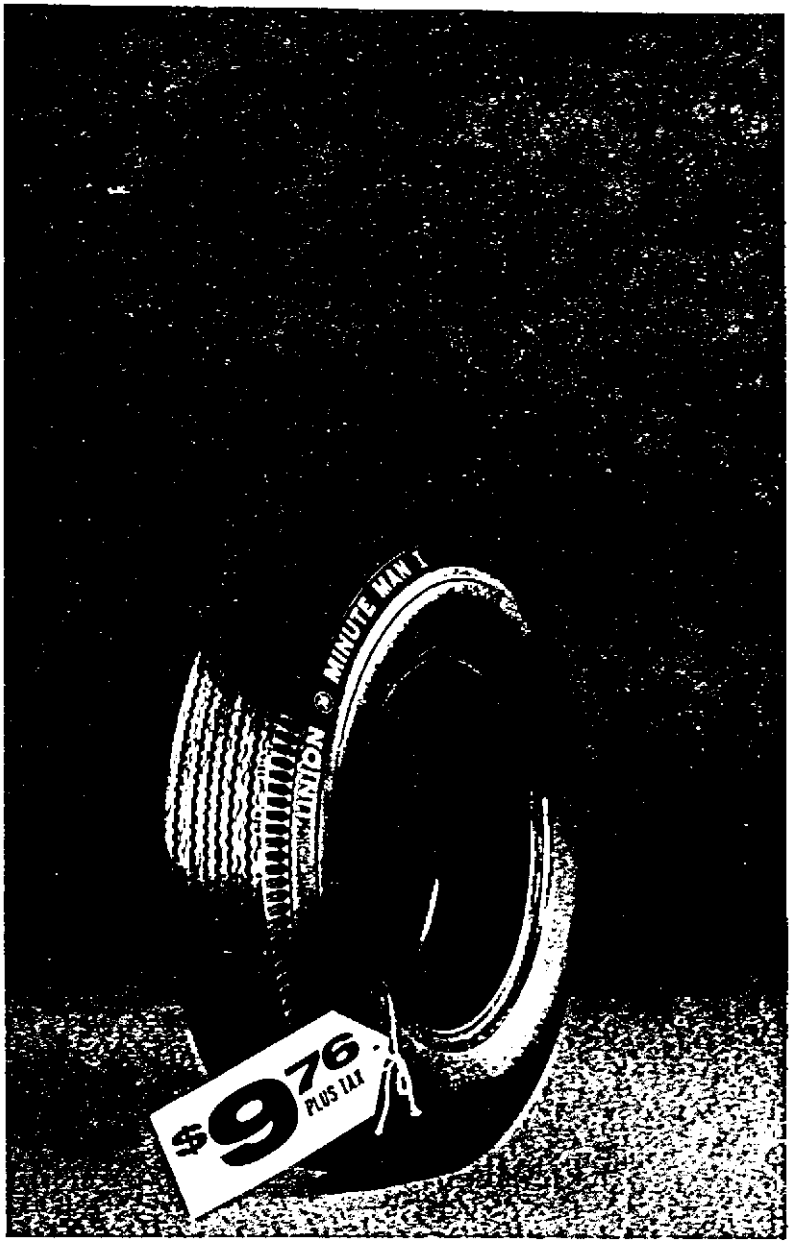

How can you tell if you owe too much? From their combined experience, the Clinic members have evolved a general rule of thumb. You're carrying too much debt, they say, if (a) you have less than $200 in cash to meet emergencies; (b) installment debts total more than one-fifth of your take-home pay; and (c) it will take over a year to pay off present obligations.

To avoid money mishandling and stay solvent, the Clinic offers these sensible tips;

- Be sure to assess your current obligations before you assume any new major debt.
- Talk over each major purchase with your spouse. Unilateral spending frequently leads to overbuying.
- Before signing for a loan or credit contract, obtain a clear-cut statement of actual interest charges and "extras" such as service fees or an insurance tie-in.
- Don't keep borrowing small amounts; they can cost proportionately more.
- Borrowing won't hurt you if you make a cash forecast of your income and expenses, then borrow on a planned, not haphazard, basis.
- If you have charge accounts at more than one store, keep a close check on the total purchases.
- If an emergency or other difficulty interferes with your payments, explain it to the credit manager.

Generally, reputable concerns and banks will cooperate in reasonable arrangements.

Springfield's pioneering Financial Review Clinic is evidently helping to salvage marriages that may have been on the verge of a breakup. Other communities in the nation may do well to adapt the idea as a court of last resort for the insolvent.

New Candied Bread

by Beth Merriman Parade food editor

A "jeweled turban" right out of the Arabian Nights—that's Swami's Turban Bread. This sweet loaf, studded with candied fruit, is perfect when guests come for coffee.

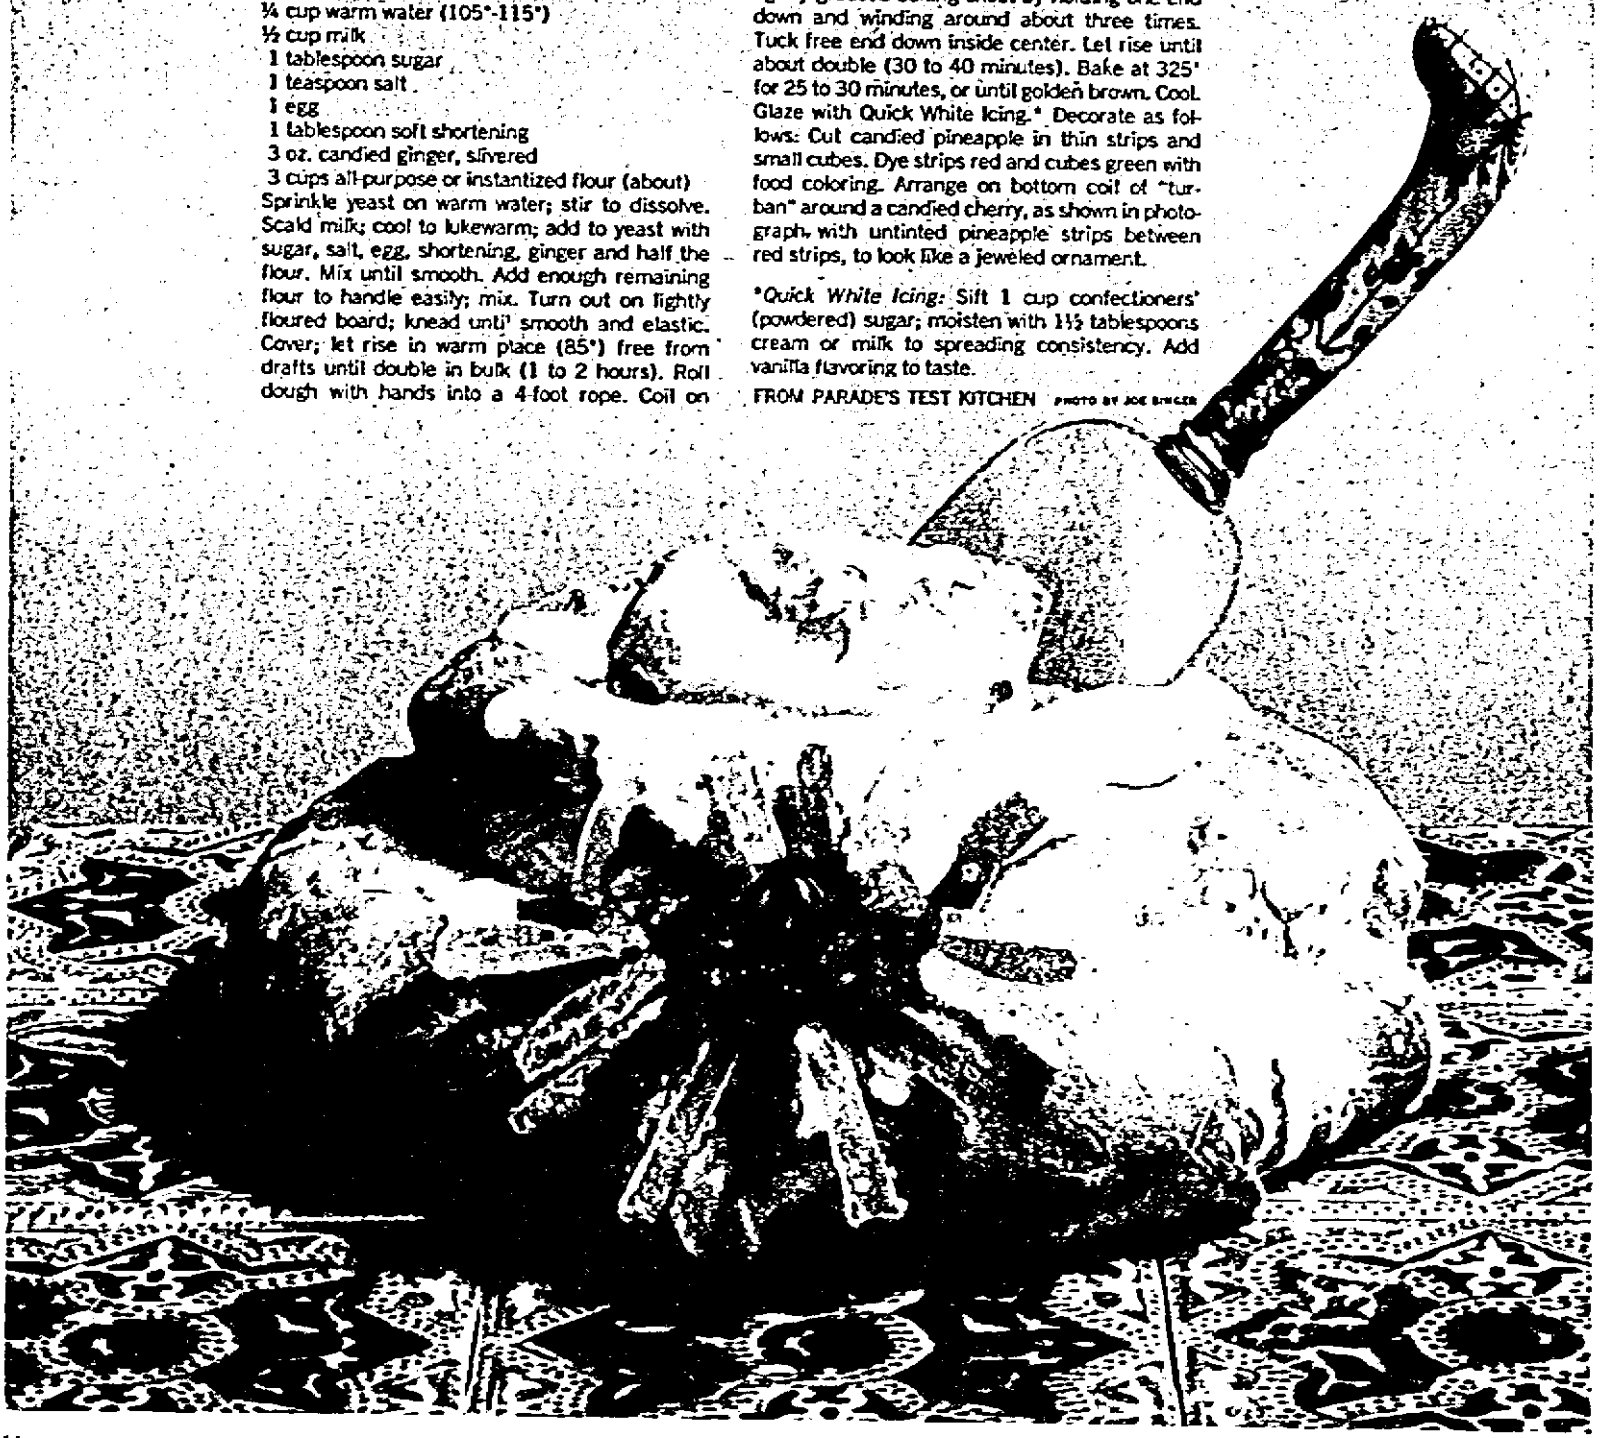

Swami's Turban Bread

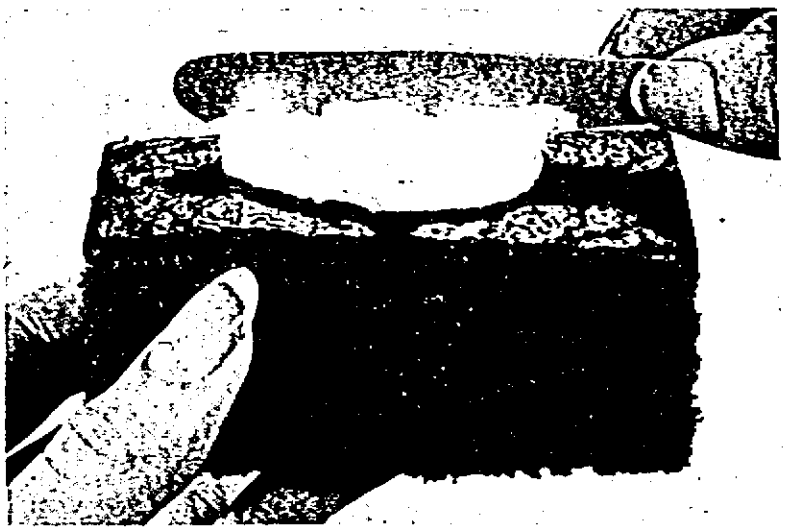

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water (105°-115°)
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon soft shortening
3 oz. candied ginger, slivered
3 cups all-purpose or instantized flour (about)

Sprinkle yeast on warm water; stir to dissolve. Scald milk; cool to lukewarm; add to yeast with sugar, salt, egg, shortening, ginger and half the flour. Mix until smooth. Add enough remaining flour to handle easily; mix. Turn out on lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic. Cover; let rise in warm place (85°) free from drafts until double in bulk (1 to 2 hours). Roll dough with hands into a 4-foot rope. Coil on lightly greased baking sheet by holding one end down and winding around about three times. Tuck free end down inside center. Let rise until about double (30 to 40 minutes). Bake at 325° for 25 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool. Glaze with Quick White Icing.* Decorate as follows: Cut candied pineapple in thin strips and small cubes. Dye strips red and cubes green with food coloring. Arrange on bottom coil of "turban" around a candied cherry, as shown in photograph, with untinted pineapple strips between red strips, to look like a jeweled ornament.

Quick White Icing:* Sift 1 cup confectioners' (powdered) sugar; moisten with 1½ tablespoons cream or milk to spreading consistency. Add vanilla flavoring to taste.

A PARADE QUIZ

WHAT KIND OF PARENT ARE YOU?

by ROBERT WACKER, JR.

What kind of Mom or Dad are you? The kind a kid boasts about to his friends? Or the kind he'll be telling his psychiatrist about in 20 years?

One thing is almost certain: you're not the ogre you occasionally think you are, in the thick silence that follows someone's tearful journey to bed without supper. On the other hand, you don't want to be a patsy. Kids want and need some control.

Take a look at the situations below. If you're a parent, they may be uncomfortably familiar. If you're not a parent, read on anyway and learn what's in store for you. Check the way you would or did handle these crises; then read below to see what the Family Service Association of America, an organization of more than 300 local family counseling agencies, thinks of your solutions.

1. The ads describe this Saturday's offering at the neighborhood movie house as "FRANK!... RAW!... GRIPPING!" —in other words, totally inappropriate for children. But "All the kids are going." Is your 12-year-old?

A. — Yes. Prohibition would make the trash seem more attractive, and a healthy child will be unharmed by it anyway.

B. — No, and that's final.

C. — No. How about a skating party instead, with hot cocoa afterward?

2. There's a shriek from the porch and your 5-year-old comes in with tooth marks on her arm. Her 3-year-old brother stands out there scowling.

A. — You grab his arm and give it a good bite, to show him how it feels.

B. — You give him a scolding and make him stand in the corner.

C. — Put your arms around the little girl to comfort her. Then tell her brother that when he's that angry he shouldn't be playing with other children. Send him off alone for a while.

3. Children pick the darndest times to ask the darndest questions. You're in a crowded elevator with Susie. At one of those moments when everything is quiet, she pipes up loud and clear, "Mama (or Daddy), where did I come from?"

A. — You tell her it's too complicated to explain in a crowded place and that you'll tell her when you get home.

B. — Right then, you explain the human reproductive process to her and everyone else in the car.

C. — You say something like, "God made a little seed in me (or in Mother) and first thing you know, it was you."

4. Things aren't going too well in the fourth grade. Teacher complains that your son is far too casual about his work, often hands in homework unfinished.

A. — You have a long talk with the boy and tell him he'll never get anywhere in this world without work. Make him promise to buckle down.

B. — You change his schedule to establish the principle that homework comes before play. Show some interest in his work; study with him and offer to help him if he needs it.

C. — Promise him a reward if his work improves by the next marking period.

5. Your 7-year-old boy says a bully down the street has been making his life miserable, knocking him down, making off with his toys, etc.

A. — Give your son boxing lessons and let him fight his own battles.

B. — Go see the bully yourself (his parents, too, if you can) and tell him and them you want your son left alone.

C. — Ignore it. Boys will be boys.

6. The children have been strewing dirty clothes, toys and the remains of comic books all over the house. You're fed up. After all, it's their home, too; why should you do all the work?

A. — You set up a program of payments and rewards for such jobs as making beds, picking up litter, taking laundry down to the washing machine.

B. — You insist that they do various jobs, but without payment, as their share in family life.

C. — You threaten to take away certain privileges if they don't shape up.

7. At first, Nancy had some trouble adjusting to first grade, but then suddenly, to hear her tell it, everything became rosy. She has been bringing home stories of leading the class in everything from flashcard drill to squat tag. You check her teacher and all her tales of derring-do change to derring-didn't. She's telling you stories of what she wishes she'd done.

A. — Sit her down quietly and explain the difference between reality and make-believe. Tell her nice people don't make up stories about things they haven't done.

B. — Pay as little attention to the fables as possible, but watch the child like a fond hawk for genuine accomplishments.

C. — Challenge her boasts occasionally, with a smile: "Did you really do all that? It's hard to believe a little girl could do so much." But don't criticize her, and praise when you can.

Here's what experts say you should do about these problems

Now learn what the Family Service Association of America thinks of your answers. The situations and solutions were designed to outline some of the principles of what parent and child have the right to expect from each other. If they don't help your relationship with your children, consult your local Family Service Agency.

1. B. Age 12 is by no means too early for youngsters to learn that the family has certain standards of decency which are enforced without negotiation or wheedling. Explain if you wish, but don't offer bribes or alternative treats. Suppose they turned down that skating party?

2. C. Biting the tot back puts you at his level; scolding will just tighten the knot of anger inside him. Let him alone till he has cooled off, then tell him that biting is wrong. He'll understand, instead of waiting to get even. And his sister needs some love and attention now, too.

3. A. Many people think that once the Dread Topic of sex has been raised, there's no postponing it, or the child will get morbid, distorted notions of its importance. But it is too complicated and personal a subject to explain in a crowd. If the tot attaches any importance to your evasion, she'll remember to ask again when you get home—at which time you give simple, forthright answers.

4. B. The key to this one is showing some interest in the boy's work. A 10-year-old wants to do everything and anything he can with his Mom or Dad, and if you're interested in his homework, he will be, too. Making him "promise to buckle down" is like telling a rabbit to swear off lettuce and will teach him only that promises are made to be broken. Incidentally, are you sure his eyesight and hearing are okay?

5. B. Go see the bully and perhaps his parents. You may or may not change his behavior; but you will show your son he can count on you when he needs help. Ultimately he'll have to settle this, and similar challenges, himself—and with the self-confidence born of your support he can do it. Without that confidence, he may become the kid whose timidity and easy tears invite bullying.

6. B. Neither the carrot nor the stick approach will work for more than a brief time. The reason those kids should help out around the house is because they live there, and work is a normal part of living. You don't have to run the place like a state penitentiary; give them a hand with a chore occasionally. But make it clear that jobs are to be done routinely, without rewards or threats.

7. C. Something is troubling Nancy. You've got to encourage her to tell you what it is. You don't do that by calling her a liar ("Nice people don't make up stories") or ignoring the stories. But if you can make her smile at them a little bit, she may tell you what's really on her mind.

It's the newest! It's the greatest!

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?*

If you take vitamins yet still feel tired—you may need more than vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Your worn-out feeling may be due to pale, iron-poor blood.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because GERITOL contains 7 vitamins and, in addition, supplies the amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! In only one day, GERITOL iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests: Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement.

So when you feel tired, check with your doctor, and if iron-poor blood is your problem, take fast-acting GERITOL every day. You'll feel stronger fast—in just 7 days or your money back from GERITOL.

Due to iron-deficiency.*

75,000 LONELY PEOPLE

Foreign students have been rioting in Moscow. But how are they doing on U.S. campuses? A report on an important issue

by ED KIESTER

A few weeks ago, in a history-making and thoroughly unprecedented outburst, 500 African students rioted in Moscow. Shouting "Stop killing Africans," they raged through Red Square and even tried to storm the Kremlin in protest over the mysterious death of a university student from Ghana.

The incident was the latest in a series of such outbursts behind the Iron Curtain. Last spring, in Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, thousands of foreign students similarly demonstrated against alleged discrimination. Before that, there were riots in Prague.

To Americans, the reaction of these potential national leaders of tomorrow to the stultifying atmosphere of Communism was gratifying. At the same time, however, it raised disturbing questions: How about the 75,000 foreign students in this country? How well are we doing by them? What is our record in this increasingly important area of foreign policy?

PARADE has just spent many months investigating this question and talking to students from all over the world on campuses all over America. The answers are both heartening and disquieting. Many students are doing nicely and have only the finest impressions of America. Others—often for reasons that might readily be remedied—have met only frustration, discrimination, failure, loneliness and despair.

Take the case of the boy on these pages—Sarajudh (Sam) Makpanijvadhana, 22, of Bangkok, Thailand, a premedical student at the University of Pittsburgh. Sam's case typifies both the best and the worst aspects of foreign student programs. On the one hand, Sam attends a university with a highly advanced program to help foreign students—including a full battery of student advisors, hospitality program, orientation and English language courses, foreign student loan fund and even a service to find homes and jobs for students. On the other hand, Sam's life is still a difficult one. He suffers from academic difficulties, financial insecurities, overwork, homesickness and isolation. He has very few American friends, knows little about the country and seldom sees the inside of an American home.

But many other foreign students are worse off. A recent survey of African students in the U.S., conducted for the Institute of International Education by the University of Michigan, showed that academic, financial, social and personal difficulties were rampant. Seven out of ten Africans said they had money troubles. Three out of four were homesick. Half said they were enrolled in courses that hadn't the slightest application to Africa. Another half said they were in over their heads academically. Almost all said they had been racially slighted, but some said discrimination was less than they had expected. One in five students didn't know a single American; two out of three said they could count their American acquaintances on one hand.

LURED BY A SCHOLARSHIP

Individual horror stories, moreover, are legion. At the University of California, PARADE talked to a Kenyan who had run out of funds and nearly starved to death before a local minister rescued him. At the University of Washington, a Nigerian transfer student told how he had been lured to this country by a "scholarship" from a small Southwestern college—only to find that it had none of the engineering courses he had been so glibly promised. At a Midwestern school, officials told PARADE, a homesick Afghan had gone berserk and had to be hospitalized.

However, this does not imply that foreign student policy in the U.S. is a fiasco—far from it. It is generally good—and improving. Moreover, reforms initiated by the State Department and the Institute of International Education, a private organization which is chief clearinghouse for foreign student questions, promise further improvement.

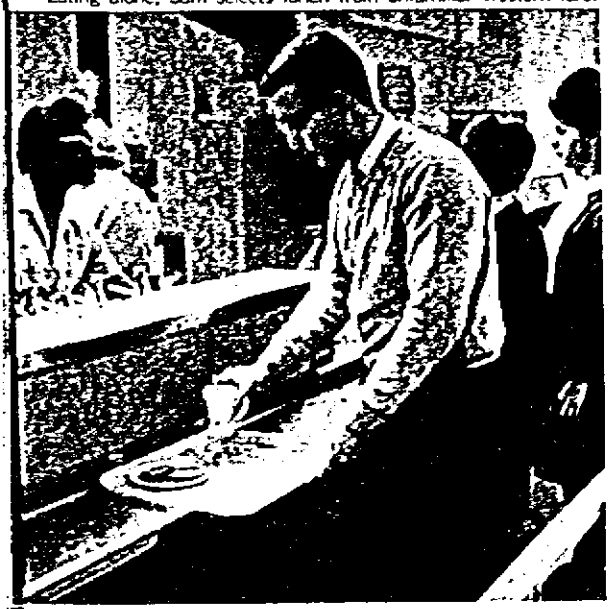

One reason for the foreign student problem is that so many students have come to the U.S. so fast. Twenty-five years ago, a foreigner on an American campus was as rare as water in the Sahara. Today there are more than 75,000 of them. Thirty-seven per cent are from the Far East, 17 per cent from Latin America, nearly 14 per cent from the Middle and Near East, 12 per cent from Europe, 11 per cent from Canada, Mexico and Central America, and nearly 8 per cent from Africa.

Of these students, 11 per cent came here with U.S. government help, 6 per cent with the aid of their own governments. Thirty-nine per cent were financed by U.S. colleges or private organizations, and 41 per cent paid their own way.

It is with these two last groups that the greatest concern lies. Many of the privately financed students turn up with almost no money, scarcely able to speak English let alone follow a college lecture, and not prepared by previous educational background to handle U.S. college life. Nonetheless, colleges often will admit them in spite of these handicaps. Indeed, some colleges have even been known to recruit foreign students who were not qualified.

(In the colleges' behalf, it should be said that often applicants deceive them. It is a common trick for an African to have an educated friend write his letter of application or even take his English qualification test.)

Yet sometimes these students turn out to be educational successes—and good friends of freedom. Sam Makpanijvadhana, for instance, a quiet good humored boy who has always wanted to be a pediatrician, is the eldest son of a Bangkok welding shop proprietor, who saved for years to be able to send his son to the States to study.

Sam arrived in mid-summer 1959 with $2,600 and a detailed plan for his medical education. A Thai educational official had helped him to draw it up. It called for Sam to spend six weeks at American University, Washington, brushing up on English, and then to take a premedical course at UCLA.

It didn't take long to find out how naive this plan was. Although Sam had studied English for six years in secondary school, he couldn't understand classroom conversation at all. The final blow came when he applied for college. He was found deficient in many of the subjects needed.

Sam decided to spend some of his precious money to improve his secondary education. He went to West Nottingham Academy, Colora, Md., to take high school subjects and English. While there, he decided to drop UCLA in favor of Pitt, whose trimester system of year-round operation would let him finish his studies in three years.

At Pitt, however, he had further setbacks. His first year, tuition suddenly increased $5 a credit—and the next year, went up $11 more. The two increases all but wiped out his tiny nest egg. Sam was all ready to transfer to a less expensive school when foreign student advisor Renee Lichenstein arranged a scholarship grant of $250 a trimester.

DOUBLE TIME FOR STUDY

He also had heavy going academically. His average was good (recent average: 3.18 on a 4.0 scale), but he had to study twice as long as his fellow students. Socially, he was a misfit. He never felt discriminated against, but his encounters with American students were stiff and unsatisfying.

Today, some of these problems seem more manageable. Sam's financial difficulties have been somewhat alleviated by his scholarship and by a job which pays him $75 a month. His social life consists of contacts with a few friends. Sam lives alone in a three-room off-campus apartment, where he is visited regularly by a few fellow Thai students and several Americans. He dates occasionally, attends Pitt football games, bowls and goes to the movies every Friday "just to get away from studying."

The result is that he is still somewhat lonely and homesick. "I want to get back to my own country," he says.

Romping with children of a classmate's sister, Sam spends rare evening out in American home.

"Sam's visit here," says Miss Lichenstein, who has grown close to him over three years, "has been good for everyone—for us and for Sam. He typifies the kind of adjustment many foreign students make here—both the favorable side and the unfavorable one. I think he will make good contributions when he goes back home. I think he will take with him favorable thoughts about the U.S."

"All students, not just foreign students, have problems," says Lucius J. Battle, Assistant Secretary of State whose specialty is foreign student exchange programs. "And I think now we may be taking the worst of them in hand."

COUNSELING CENTERS ABROAD

Recently, the State Department began a program to improve screening of foreign applicants abroad. Counseling centers have been set up in overseas consulates and embassies. The Institute of International Education also has set up branch offices in Africa, Latin America and the Far East to better disseminate information about American schools. The government has given IIE a grant to expand its orientation program in the U.S. for students who come here on their own.

Nevertheless, many foreign students spend their entire college careers in the U.S. without knowing one American really well. State Department officials would like to see every college community organize a program to bring foreign students into American homes and to show them how Americans really live. In Burns, Kans., each year, several hundred foreign students are brought to town for a week of life in small town America.

"We need more participation, more involvement on the part of the general public, if we are to win these persons to the free world's side," says Assistant Secretary Battle.

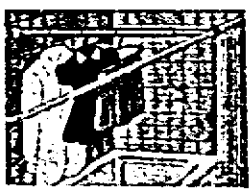

Sam Makpanijvadhana echoes him. "Americans are such friendly people," Sam says. "That is something I will always remember about them."

My Favorite Jokes

by EDDIE HILTON

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddie Hilton, born of well-to-do parents in Indianapolis 30 years ago, attended 13 different prep schools before he was 16. After the prep schools he headed west for the Pasadena Playhouse, then retraced his steps east to Columbia University and the American Theatre Wing. He is one of the most educated comedians in show business. He got his first break at the age of 17 with Henry Morgan in Father of the Bride. For the past 10 years young Hilton has played all over the country in county fairs, one act shows and in such leading night spots as Boston's Monticello, Detroit's Club Alamo, Washington D.C.'s Casino Royal, telling such jokes as these:

A lot of people say that doctors won't make night calls anymore, but that's not true. I know one doctor who calls on his nurse every single night of the week!

It's amazing what can be done with medicine in this modern age. Monkey glands have made my 95-year-old uncle so vigorous we hardly recognize him, but they have also made him more sloppy. Now he leaves banana peels everywhere.

Did you hear about the biologist whose research project was changing the behavior patterns of rodents? Whenever he was questioned about the nature of his work, he replied: "I pull habits out of rats."

My mother was always such an avid collector that my father finally left her, saying, "Who wants to live in a house with a basement filled with avids!"

I feel sorry for the modern suburban housewife. She now has split level headaches.

If you're thinking of moving the family to the suburbs, I want to warn you that you must have a minimum of two cars—even if you don't know how to drive. Imagine how your neighbors would talk if they found out you could afford only one car—and that it was paid for!

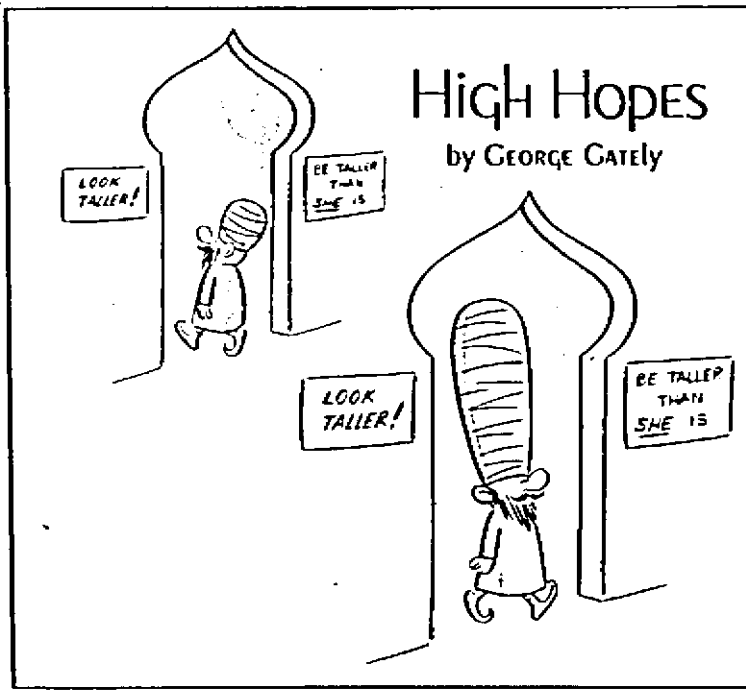

I have discovered a new way to avoid fisticuffs. I calmly say to my assailant: "Would you hit a man wearing contact lenses?" The other day I met someone who would—and did. He was also wearing contact lenses, but I didn't find out how well this guy could really fight until he hit me with his hearing aid!

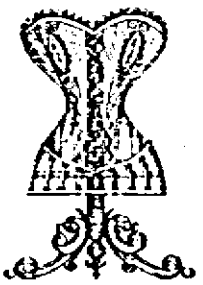

You hear so much these days about school dropouts. Actually, I was one of the first. My teacher took me over to the open window and dropped me right out!

Have you heard the latest definition of Kool-Aid? That's charity for beatniks.

The best advice with which I can leave you is: Keep your chin up! It stops the beer from dribbling on your vest.

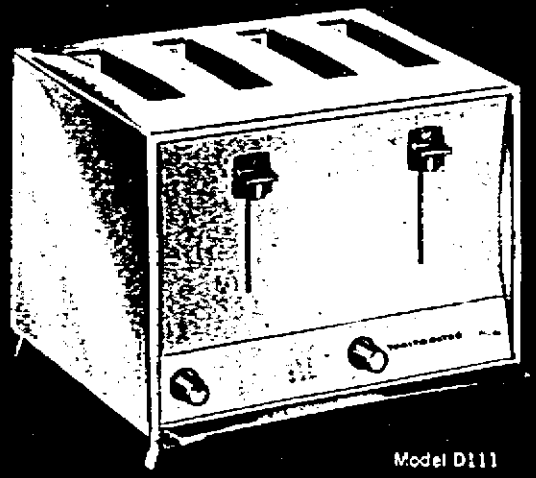

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

■ To increase its sales in January, ordinarily a slow month, a Los Angeles specialty shop recently displayed the following sign on all its girdle counters: LET US TAKE YOU IN SO THAT MEN WILL TAKE YOU OUT. ■

It's a 4-slice toaster . . . or it's a 2-slice! (each 2-slot section can be controlled separately)

Model D111

TOASTMASTER Hostess 4-SLICE TOASTER has king size capacity in little more than 2-slice toaster space. Toasts 1 to 4 slices. Each two toast slots work separately . . . like two toasters in one. And the controls are "up front" where they belong. Durable? They're made by Toastmaster and most everyone knows Toastmaster products last years longer than others. Next time you want to give an enduring gift, give a Toastmaster toaster. And give yourself one. You should have the best, too.

Actress shows "insane happiness" in improvising class.

MAKING FACES

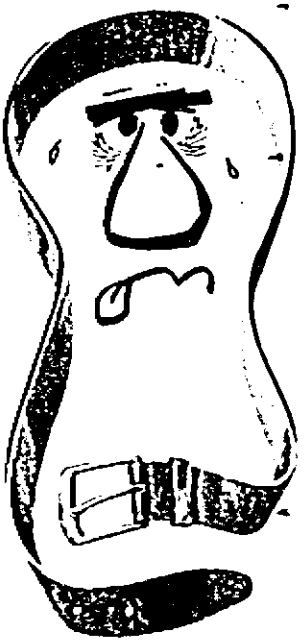

■ Making faces may seem like a child's pastime to you, but to the grimacing people on this page it's serious business. Actors, actresses and entertainers, they're being taught to use their facial muscles to help convey a wide range of emotions. Their instructor, Lionel Shepard, a student of French mime Marcel Marceau, holds classes at the Rodale Theater in New York. He has his students stand before a mirror, then calls out the emotions they are to interpret. "Insane happiness," he will call, and eyes widen, faces light up; "dejection," and jaws droop, lips pout. Watching their own every facial twitch, aspiring players get ready for opening night.

Class makes faces in mirror to strengthen face muscles.

Teacher Shepard does his "sad to verge of tears" look.

From Pillsbury's 15th Bake-Off

New Prize Recipes from all over America to the Bake-Off to you

Meet the Champ! $25,000 "Hungry Boys' Casserole". It calls for Campbell's Pork & Beans

A Bake-Off judge described Mrs. Walilko's unusual winning entry as a hearty, come-back-for-more, family main dish. "Hungry Boys' Casserole" makes good use of masculine favorites like Campbell's Pork & Beans, hamburger, and good hot biscuits made with a special twist.

A talented cook, Mrs. Walilko is also a trained musician, writer of poetry and very active in women's clubs and organizations. The attractive mother of 3 "hungry" boys—and two girls—Mrs. Walilko said she'd use her prize money to "educate my brood."

Nourishing Campbell's Pork & Beans are the "let's-have-more" kind of beans that hungry boys, girls and husbands really enjoy. And Campbell's bright tomato sauce is cooked all through each Tender-Hearted bean for prize-worthy flavor.

Campbell's makes 'em and that makes 'em good.

Hungry Boys' Casserole

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Hamburger 'n beans topped with meat-filled biscuits.

BAKE at 425° for 25 to 30 minutes. SERVES 6 to 8.

1½ pounds ground beef
1 cup sliced celery
½ cup each chopped onion and green pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
½ cup (6-oz. can) tomato paste
½ cup water
1 teaspoon each salt and paprika
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 1-lb. can Campbell's Pork & Beans, undrained
1 1-lb. can chick peas or lima beans, undrained

Biscuits:

1½ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup Land O'Lakes Butter
½ cup milk
4 drops Burnett's Yellow Food Coloring, if desired
½ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
¼ cup blanched slivered almonds

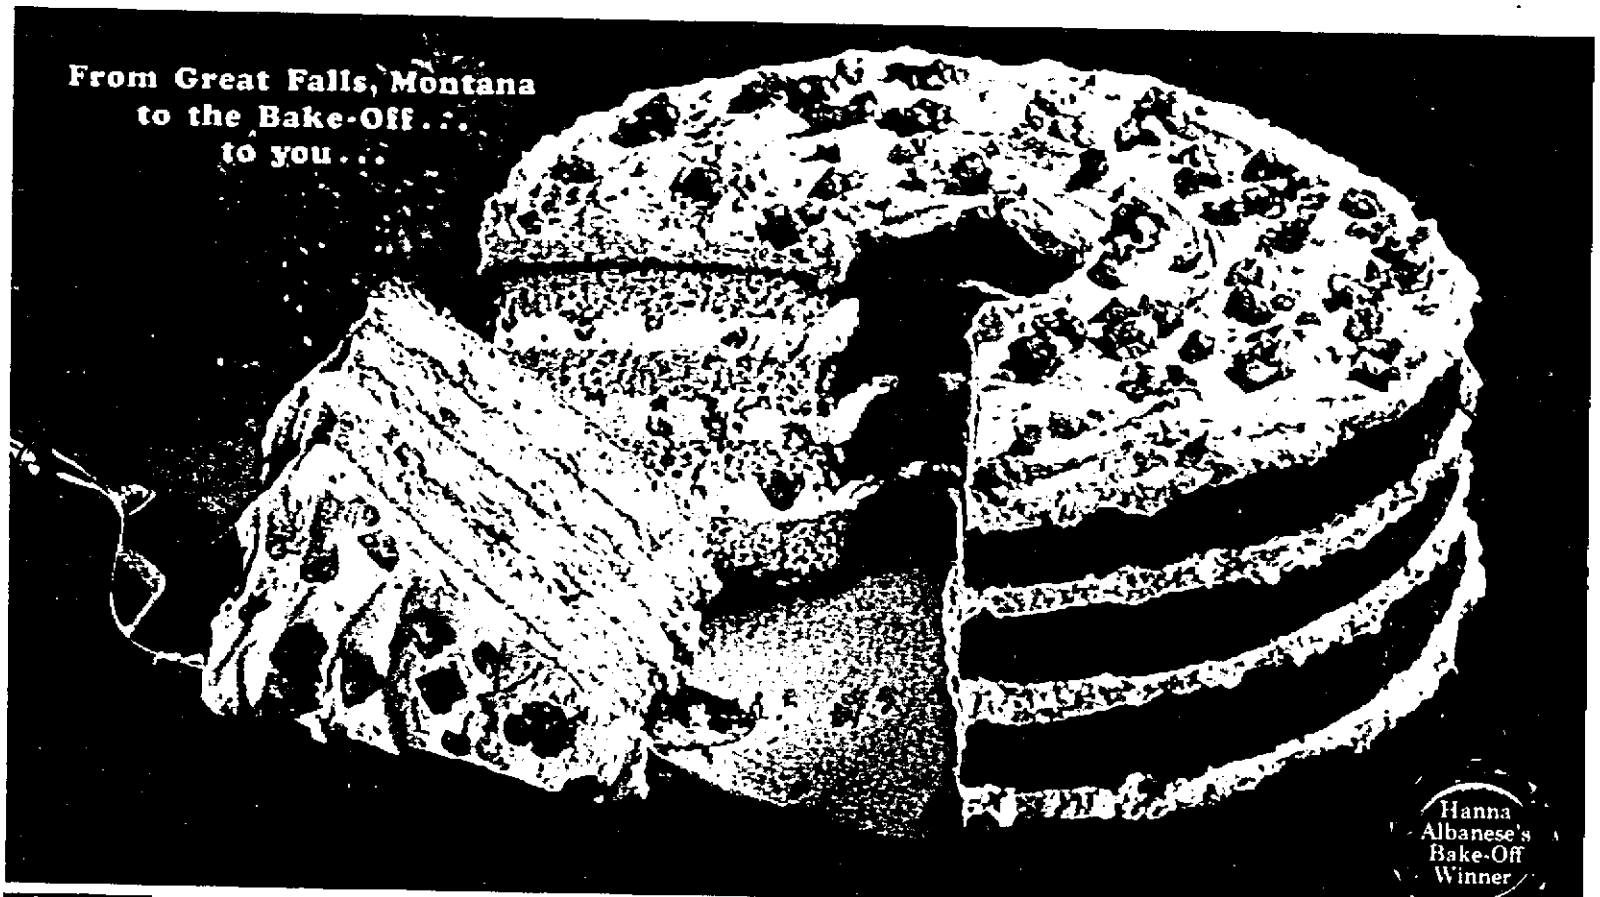

Sauté in skillet beef, celery, onion, green pepper, garlic until vegetables are tender; drain. Add water, tomato paste, salt, paprika and monosodium glutamate. Reserve 1 cup for Biscuits. Add beans and peas. Simmer; prepare Biscuits.

Biscuits: Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in butter until fine. Combine milk and food coloring. Add to flour mixture. Stir until moist. Knead on floured surface 12 times. Roll to a 12x9-inch rectangle.

Combine olives, almonds and reserved meat. Spread over dough. Roll up, starting with 12" side. Cut into 1" pieces. Place meat mixture in 12x8" or 11" round baking dish. Top with biscuits. Bake at 425° for 25 to 30 minutes.

WE'LL BUY THE BEANS for your "Hungry Boys Casserole". Just send your name and address on any Campbell's Pork & Beans label to Beans Offer, Box 61-C, Mt. Vernon, N.Y. We'll send you a coupon good for a one-pound can of Pork & Beans free. Also included Free! Colorful 16-page recipe booklet, "50 Classic Bean Dishes."

Pillsbury's BEST Flour makes a prize cake great!

HANNA ALBANESE, born in Germany, modernized an old family recipe for the Bake-Off. A gala cake, luscious with butter, it's a birthday cake at her house. Try it!

Lemon Butter Layers

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Butter-cream fills and frosts 4 luscious layers!

BAKE at 325° for 55 to 60 minutes.
MAKES 9 or 10-inch tube cake.

2 cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Land O'Lakes Butter
1 teaspoon Burnett's Lemon Extract
1½ cups sugar
6 eggs

Lemon Cream Filling:
1 package (3½ oz.) lemon pie filling mix
⅔ cup sugar
2 cups water
⅓ cup Land O'Lakes Butter

Nut Crunch:
½ cup sugar
¾ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter with lemon extract. Gradually add sugar, creaming well, 5 to 8 minutes. Add eggs, one at a time; beat well after each. Blend in dry ingredients. Turn into 9 or 10-inch tube pan, greased on bottom.

Bake at 325° for 55 to 60 minutes. Do not invert. Cool. Cut cake horizontally to make 4 layers. Stack layers, spreading Filling and sprinkling 2 tablespoons Nut Crunch on each layer and on top.

Lemon Cream Filling: Prepare lemon pie filling using amount of sugar and water given above. Cool to lukewarm. Cream butter. Gradually add pie filling; beat well. Cool.

Nut Crunch: Heat sugar in skillet until sugar melts and is golden. Stir in walnuts. Spread on greased cookie sheet; cool. Crush fine.

Chocolate Celebration Cake. Edna Buckley, Collins, N.Y., created her cake with chocolate pudding mix . . . and chocolate morsels bake on top of each layer. Luscious!

Chocolate Celebration Cake

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

BAKE at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes.
MAKES three 8-inch layers.

2⅓ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 package (1 oz.) chocolate pie filling mix
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
⅔ cup Land O'Lakes Butter
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
3 eggs
1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
½ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts, if desired

Sift flour with pie filling mix, salt and soda into mixing bowl. Add brown sugar, butter and buttermilk. Beat 1½ minutes, using a low speed on mixer. Add eggs and vanilla. Beat 1½ minutes. Turn into three 8-inch round layer pans, greased and floured on bottoms. (Use about 1½ cups batter per pan.) Sprinkle chocolate morsels over layers.

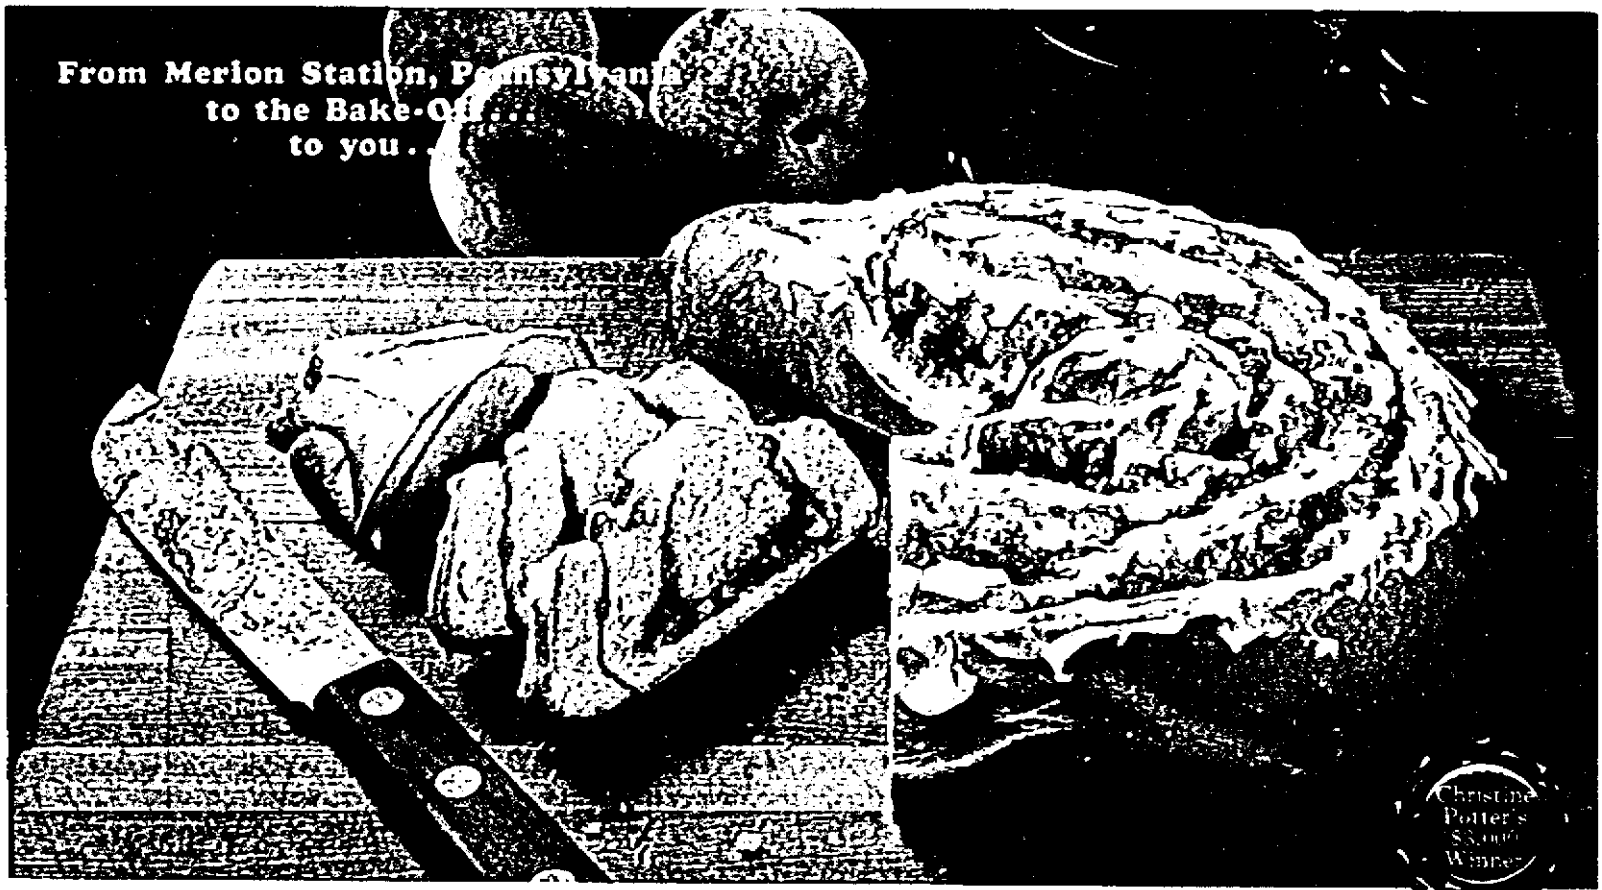

Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool. Frost, stacking layers top-side up. Decorate with walnuts.

Frosting: Melt 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels and ½ cup Land O'Lakes Butter in ⅓ cup milk over low heat. Stir in 1 pound sifted confectioners' sugar. If necessary, thin with a few drops of milk.

Lemon Butter Layers: the cake that's luscious as it looks! A trick to the frosting makes it special, and Pillsbury's BEST Flour makes the cake best. Light, fine, fluffy! See if you don't agree. Both recipes are delicious samples of Bake-Off recipes that come to you all year in sacks of Pillsbury's BEST Flour. And only from Pillsbury!

$3000 Peach Flip Coffee Cake made with Red Star Yeast

CHRISTINE POTTER bakes "for the joy of it." She has a collection of over 1,000 recipes . . . and this prize winner is based on a grand old one from Denmark. Try it!

Peach Flip

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Luscious peach-filled coffee cake.

BAKE at 350° for 20 to 25 minutes. MAKES 2 coffee cakes.

- 2 packets Red Star Special Active Dry Yeast (or 2 cakes Red Star Compressed Yeast)
- ½ cup warm water
- ½ cup and ⅔ cup sugar
- ⅔ cup soft Land O'Lakes Butter
- ½ cup hot scalded milk
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 3 eggs
- 5 to 5½ cups Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 cup (4 oz. can) Diamond Walnuts, chopped
- 1 cup peach or apricot preserves

Soften yeast in water. Combine in mixing bowl ½ cup sugar, ½ cup butter, milk and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Blend in eggs and yeast. Gradually add flour to form a stiff dough.

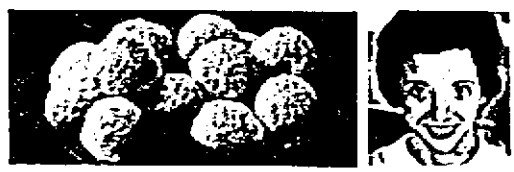

Knead on floured surface until smooth and satiny, 3 to 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl; cover. Let rise in warm place (85° to 90° F.) until light, 1 to 1½ hours.

Combine ⅔ cup sugar, cinnamon and walnuts. Roll out half of dough on lightly floured surface to a 20 x 10-inch rectangle. Spread with 2 tablespoons butter and ½ cup preserves. Sprinkle with half the sugar mixture.

Roll up, starting with 20-inch side. Seal. Place seam-side down on greased cookie sheet, curving ends to make "U" shape. With scissors, make cut down center, ½ of the way through roll, to within 2 inches of ends. Repeat with remaining dough. Let rise in warm place until light, about 30 minutes. Spoon ½ cup preserves in center of each.

Bake at 350° for 20 to 25 minutes. If desired frost with a confectioners' sugar icing.

Cheese Secrets. Ann Gaukel, Mukwonago, Wis., says, "There's nothing left but an empty tray when I serve these at a party." No wonder! Cheese inside delicate yeast rolls!

Cheese Secrets

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

BAKE at 400° for 10 to 12 minutes. MAKES 40 rolls.

- ½ pound Cheddar cheese
- 1 packet Red Star Special Active Dry Yeast (or 1 cake Red Star Compressed Yeast)
- ½ cup warm water
- ½ cup hot scalded milk
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 3 tablespoons Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2½ to 3 cups Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 tablespoon Land O'Lakes Butter, melted
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cut cheese into forty ½-inch cubes. Soften yeast in water. Combine in mixing bowl milk, sugar, 3 tablespoons butter, and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in yeast. Gradually add flour to form a stiff dough.

Knead on floured surface until smooth and satiny, 4 to 6 minutes. Divide into 4 parts. Cut each into 10 pieces. Wrap dough around cheese cube. Seal edges; shape into ball. Place on greased cookie sheets. Cover. Let rise in warm place until light, 45 to 60 minutes.

Bake at 400° for 10 to 12 minutes. Brush with melted butter; dip into Parmesan cheese. Best served warm.

For Dinner Rolls: Cut twenty 1-inch cubes of cheese. Cut each quarter of dough into 5 pieces. Makes 80.

This Red Star recipe won First Senior Division prize in the Grand National—and Peach Flip Coffee Cake will win compliments for you every time you serve it. Make it soon. And be sure to use Red Star Active Dry Yeast, the one ingredient that helps all the others do their best.

Why not let Red Star help you make someone happy tonight?

"Macaroonies"—guaranteed great with Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels

JUDITH CARLSON, 17, learned to cook from her mother. Her prize winning cookies are the delicious result of experimenting in the kitchen . . . one of her favorite hobbies. Judith had a good time at the Bake-Off, and went home to spend her prize money the best way in the world: for her first year at college.

"Macaroonies"

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Crisp macaroons with morsels of chocolate.

BAKE at 325° for 12 to 15 minutes.
MAKES about 3 dozen cookies.

- 2 eggs
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ cup Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 tablespoon Land O'Lakes Butter, melted
- 2 cups flaked coconut
- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla

Beat eggs and salt until foamy. Gradually add sugar; continue beating until thick and ivory colored, 5 to 7 minutes. Fold in flour and butter.

Stir in coconut, chocolate morsels, lemon rind and vanilla. Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls onto Lightly greased and floured cookie sheets.

Bake at 325° for 12 to 15 minutes until delicately browned. Cool 1 minute; remove from cookie sheet.

Butterscotch Pinwheels. Scherrie Pesante, Roswell, New Mexico, is a recipe collector at 15. A grand cook, too!

Butterscotch Pinwheels

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

BAKE at 325° for 8 minutes. MAKES about 5 dozen cookies.

- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 can (15 oz.) sweetened condensed milk
- 1 cup sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- ½ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts

Butterscotch Filling:

- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Butterscotch Morsels
- 2 tablespoons shortening

Melt chocolate and shortening in top of double boiler over boiling water. Remove from heat. Add milk, flour and vanilla. Blend well. Spread in 15x10x1-inch jelly roll pan which has been greased, lined with waxed paper and greased again.

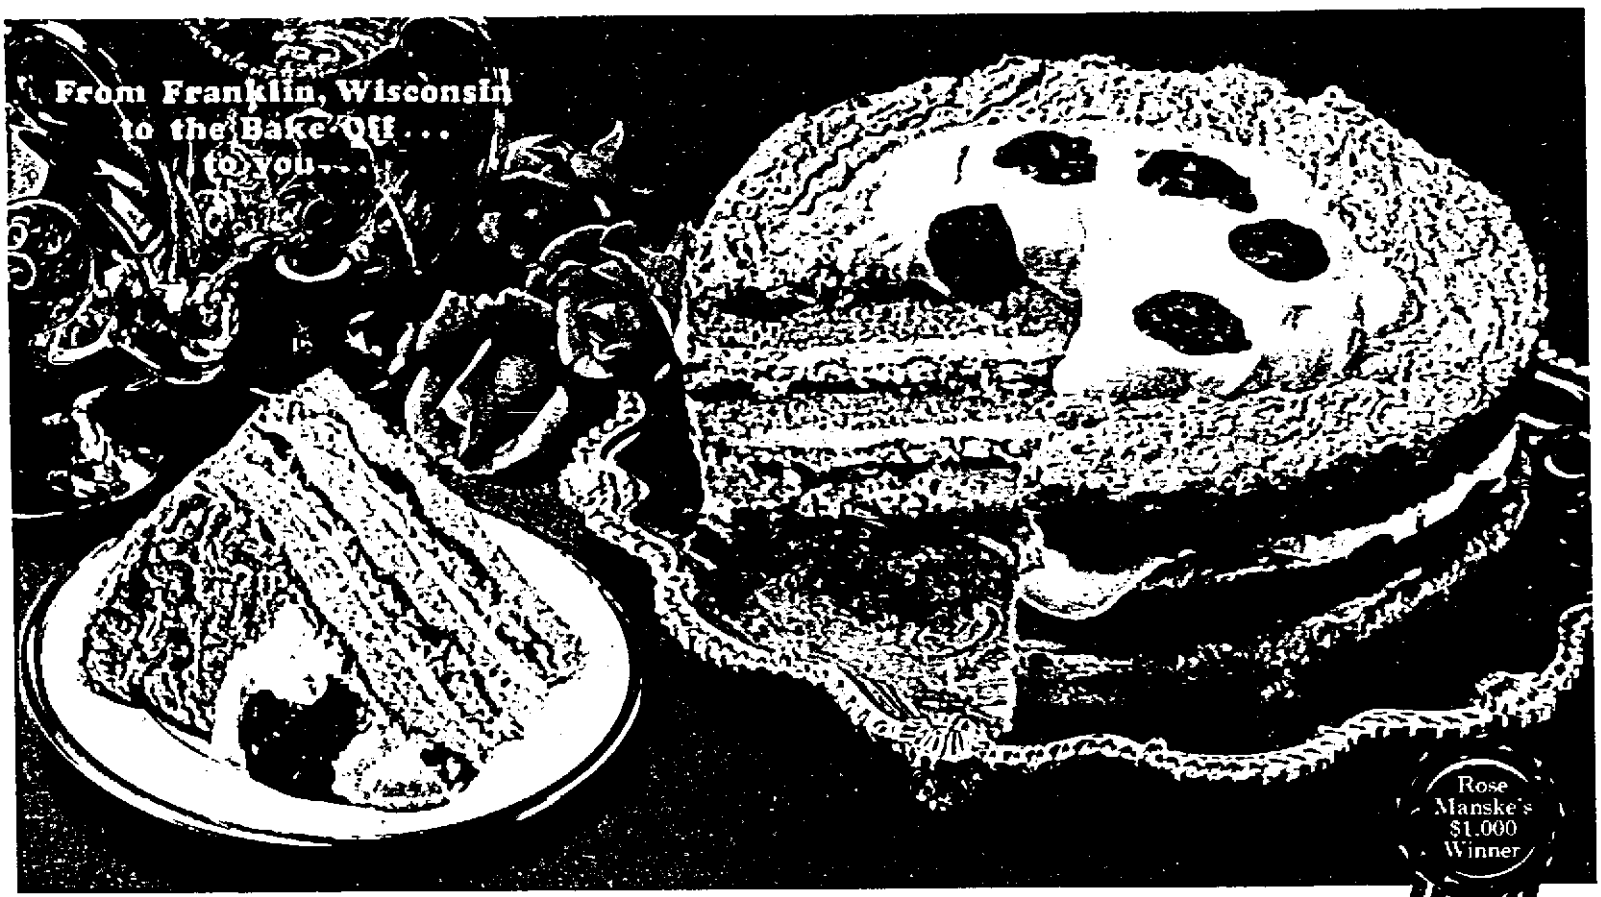

Bake at 325° for 8 minutes. Prepare Filling while baking. Immediately turn out chocolate base onto a towel which has been sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Spread with Filling. Sprinkle with walnuts.

Roll up, starting with 15-inch side. Wrap; chill 6 hours or overnight. Cut into ½-inch slices.

Butterscotch Filling: Melt butterscotch morsels with shortening in top of double boiler over boiling water.

Want to wind up with a winner? Then start with winners! Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels and Butterscotch Morsels. Fabulous—the way they stay whole in baking, then melt in your mouth. "Sunday Torte," made with Burnett's® Vanilla

ROSE MANSKE and her husband Leonard will spend her Bake-Off prize money traveling. If she has a hobby it's baking: "I like to bake," she says. "It's creating."

Sunday Special Torte†

Meringue-on-cake, baked all together!

BAKE at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes. SERVES 10 to 12.

- 1 cup Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1½ cups sugar
- 3 eggs, separated
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 2 teaspoons Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- 2 cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 cup raspberry preserves
- 1½ cups (3½-oz. can) flaked coconut
- 2 cups dairy sour cream

Cream butter. Add ¾ cup sugar; cream well. Blend in yolks, milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt and baking powder; beat well. Stir in flour. Spread in three 9-inch round pans, greased on bottoms.* Spread ½ cup preserves on each layer to within 1 inch of edge.

Beat egg whites and ¼ teaspoon salt until slight mounds form. Gradually add 1 cup sugar; beat well after each addition. Continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold in coconut and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Spread over preserves.

Bake at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes until light golden brown. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pans. Cool completely.

Spread sour cream between layers. If desired, garnish top with sour cream and jam. Chill several hours.

If pan don't have three 9-inch layer pans, hold ⅓ of dough and topping in refrigerator. Bake as soon as pan is available.*

†Both recipes adapted by Ann Pillsbury.

Imperial Crown Cake. Jeanine Gullett, Atlanta, Ga., dreamed up this new cake with butterscotch and chocolate.

Imperial Crown Cake†

BAKE at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes. MAKES two 9" layers.

- ⅔ cup Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
- ⅔ cup Nestlé's Butterscotch Morsels
- ¾ cup water
- 2¾ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 teaspoon each soda and salt
- ½ cup Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1¼ cups sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Melt morsels in water over low heat. Cool.

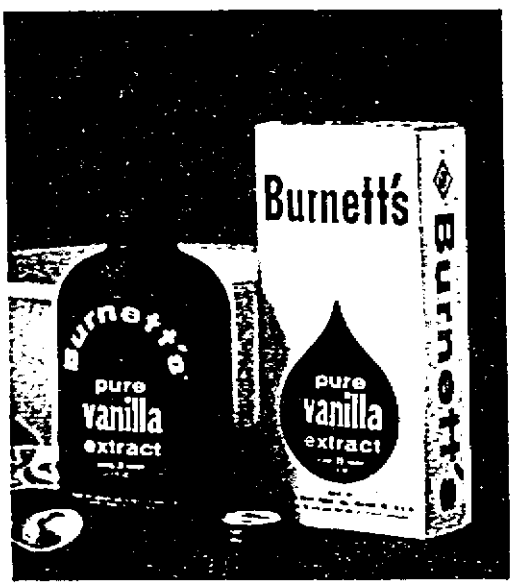

Sift flour with salt and soda. Set aside. Cream butter. Add sugar gradually; cream well. Blend in eggs, beat well after each. Blend in vanilla and morsel mixture. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk. Turn into two 9-inch round pans, greased and floured on bottoms.

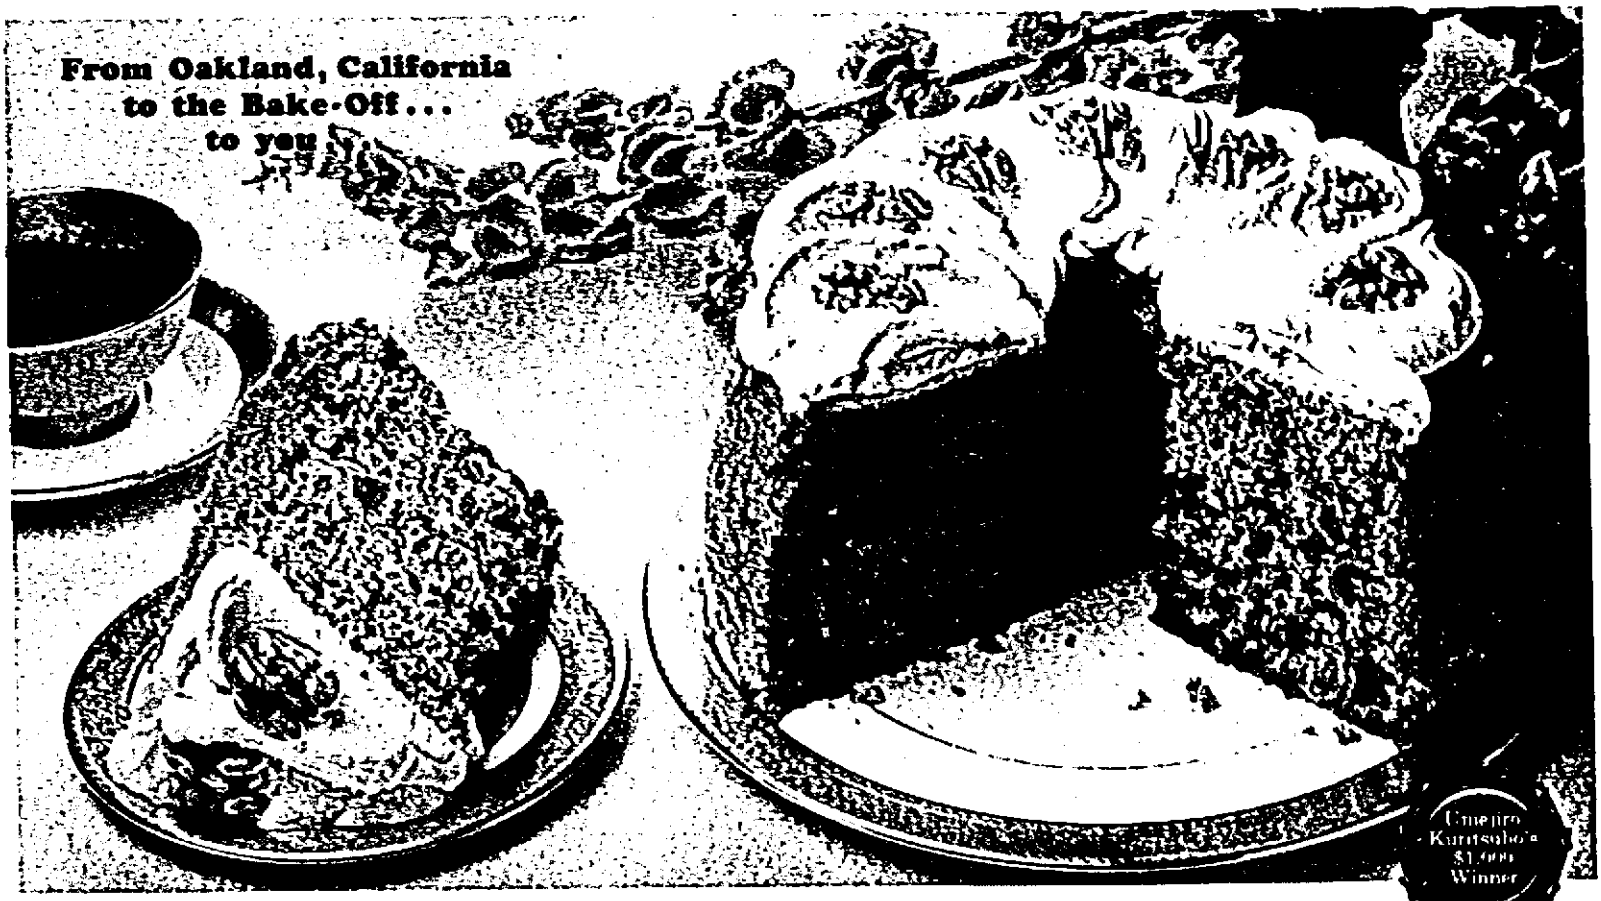

Bake at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool. Frost between layers and on sides. Frost top with Topping.

Sea Foam Frosting: Combine in top of double boiler ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup corn syrup, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons water, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Cook over boiling water, beating constantly with mixer or rotary beater until mixture stands in peaks. Remove from heat. Add ½ teaspoon each Burnett's Vanilla and Burnett's Maple Flavor. Beat well. Reserve 1 cup.

Chocolate Topping: Melt ½ cup each, Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate and Butterscotch Morsels. Cool. Combine with ½ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts and reserved Frosting.

Because you're proud of your baking, depend on Burnett's: the first pure Vanilla made from only choice selected vanilla beans. That's why it was the official Vanilla at The Bake-Off. Whether you're making the luscious, lavish Sunday Torte or the handsome Imperial Crown Cake, do what so many other good cooks do. Reach for Burnett's Pure Vanilla. It's a natural!

Umejiro Kuritsubo's $1,000 Winner

Make his Winning Walnut Glory Cake with prizeworthy Diamond Walnuts

UMEJIRO FRANK KURITSUBO, an animated Japanese gentleman, became a United States citizen in 1960. "It was," he says, "the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me." Another wonderful thing happened when Bake-Off judges awarded him $1,000 for his superb Walnut Cake. The prize money will buy a visit back to Japan after 30 years.

Fudge Nougats. Dagmar Mallinson of Kansas City, Mo. created these no-bake cookies for her two youngsters to eat instead of candy. And candy-like they are, (luscious with walnuts) yet really easier to make. Bake-Off judges awarded them $1,000 in prize money. We think you'll call them prizewinners, too!

Walnut Glory Cake

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Light texture, crunchy with walnuts.

BAKE at 350° for 55 to 65 minutes.
MAKES 10-inch tube cake.

- ½ cup sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 9 eggs, separated
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- 2 cups, finely chopped, Diamond Walnuts

Sift flour with cinnamon and salt. Beat egg whites (1½ cups) in large mixing bowl until soft mounds form. Gradually add ¾ cup sugar. Continue beating until very stiff, straight peaks form. Do not underbeat.

Combine egg yolks, ¾ cup sugar and vanilla in small mixing bowl. Beat until thick and lemon colored. Stir in dry ingredients. Fold batter gently but thoroughly into egg whites using a wire whip or rubber spatula. Fold in walnuts. Turn into ungreased 10-inch tube pan.

Bake at 350° for 55 to 65 minutes. Invert immediately. Cool completely before removing from pan. Frost with a vanilla glaze, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar or serve with whipped cream.

Fudge Nougats

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

MAKES 40 pieces.

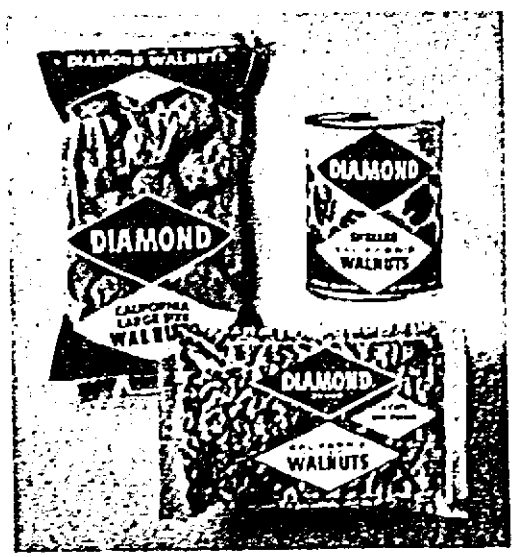

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- ½ cup Land O'Lakes Butter
- 1 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) Nestlé's Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels*
- ½ cup Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
- 1 cup finely crushed graham crackers
- ½ cup chopped Diamond Walnuts
- 1 teaspoon Burnett's Pure Vanilla
- Diamond Walnut halves

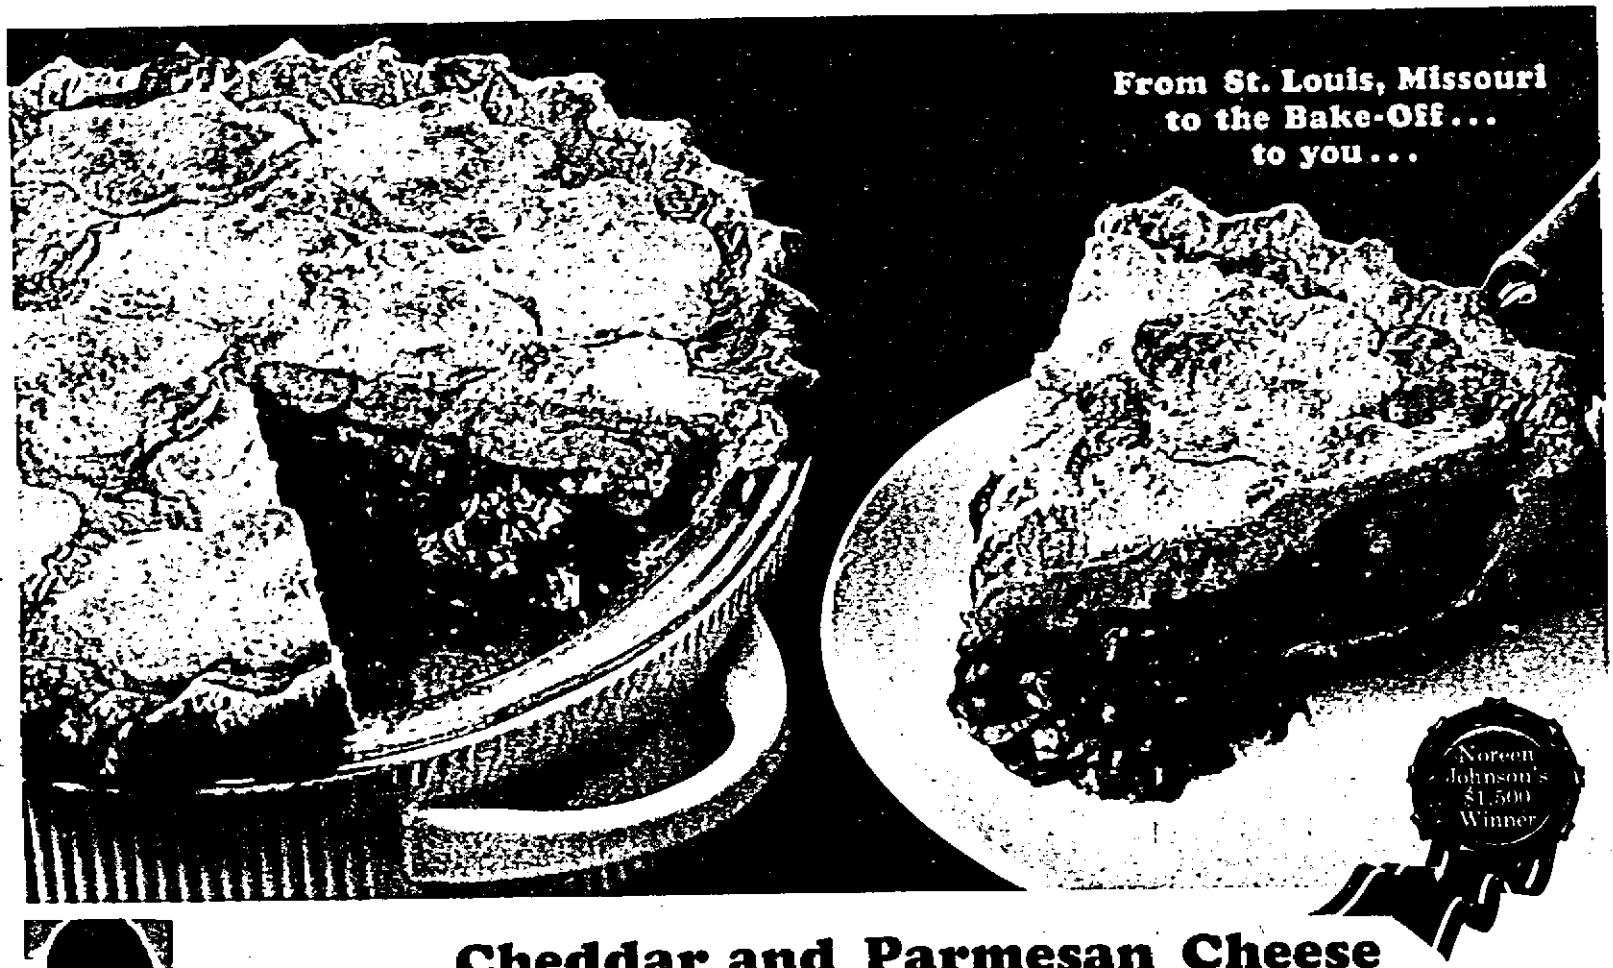

Combine in saucepan sugar, evaporated milk and butter. Bring to a full rolling boil, stirring occasionally. Boil hard 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend in chocolate, flour, graham crackers, walnuts and vanilla; mix well.

Spread in well-buttered 12x8-inch pan. If desired, top with walnut halves, one for each piece. Cool. (For faster setting, place in refrigerator.) Cut into squares.

For a stronger chocolate flavor, increase chocolate morsels to 2 6-oz. pkgs. (2 cups).*

Every Bake-Off winner who used walnuts used Diamonds to be sure of fresh, sweet, crisp walnut kernels. When you make this wonderful Walnut Glory Cake, or any favorite recipe, look for the best California walnuts, Diamonds. The Diamond brand is stamped on every shell in 1 lb. and 2 lb. cellophane bags. Or you can get Diamonds already shelled in handy, recipe-size amounts in vacuum cans or clear, see-through bags.

Cheddar and Parmesan Cheese give Venetian Veal Pie its Prize-Winning Touch

NOREEN JOHNSON, young mother of two, is an artist in her free time, and specializes in gourmet cooking. Her prize money will help furnish a new house.

Venetian Veal Pie

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

Flaky cheese pastry covers veal Italian style.

BAKE at 400° for 30 to 35 minutes.
SERVES 6. (Makes 9-inch pie.)

1½ cups sifted Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon leaf oregano
¼ cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
⅓ cup butter
4 to 5 tablespoons cold water

Meat Filling:
1 pound veal steak, cut in bite-size pieces
⅓ cup Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
⅓ cup butter
2 cups (1-lb. can) tomatoes
1 cup (8-oz. can) tomato sauce
⅓ cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon sweet basil
½ teaspoon each salt, garlic salt and oregano
⅓ teaspoon pepper
4 slices (¼ lb.) Cheddar cheese

Sift flour with garlic salt. Add oregano and grated cheese. Cut in butter until fine. Sprinkle water over mixture, stirring with fork until dough holds together. Roll out ⅔ of dough on floured surface to an 11-inch circle. Fit into pan.

Meat Filling: Coat veal with flour. Brown meat in butter in skillet. Stir in remaining ingredients except Cheddar cheese. Cover; simmer 30 minutes or until meat is tender.

Turn into pastry-lined pan. Top with cheese slices. Roll out remaining dough to ¼-inch. Cut into 2-inch rounds. Place on cheese, overlapping slightly. Flute edge.

Bake at 400° for 30 to 35 minutes until golden brown.

Hot Cheese Pups. Elizabeth Antisdale, 17, tried a new twist on bread baking. Result: the hot cheese sandwich that brought her from Oakland, Calif, to the Bake-Off.

Hot Cheese Pups

Adapted by Ann Pillsbury

FRY at medium heat about 8 minutes. MAKES 16.

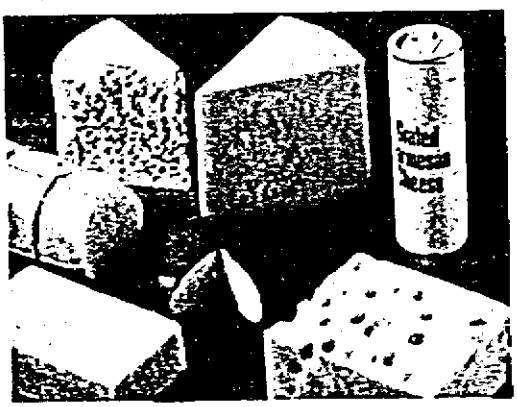

1 packet Red Star Special Active Dry Yeast (or 1 cake Red Star Compressed Yeast)
½ cup warm water
1 cup hot scalded milk
¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1 egg
3½ to 4 cups Pillsbury's BEST All Purpose Flour
1 pound (4 cups) shredded Cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion

Soften yeast in water. Combine in mixing bowl milk, butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Blend in egg and yeast. Gradually add flour to form a stiff dough; beat well after each addition. Cover. Let rise in warm place until light, about 1 hour.

Combine cheese and onion. Roll out dough, half at a time, on floured surface to 14x8-inch rectangle. Cut into 7x2-inch pieces. Place about 3 rounded tablespoonfuls cheese down center of each. Bring edges to center; seal. Seal ends. Place, seam-side down, on cookie sheets. Repeat with remaining dough. Let rise in warm place, 30 minutes.

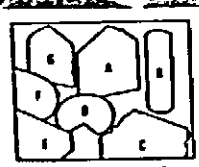

Fry in heavily-buttered skillet on medium heat (325° to 350° F.) about 2 minutes on each side. Turn carefully to brown all sides. Add butter as needed. Serve hot.

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. You may find it hard to believe, BUT this policy—at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

I apply for "Accumulative" Accident Insurance, to become effective day policy is issued and dated. I understand that it takes about 10 days to issue a policy and agree (1) to pay the premium of 50c per month; (2) designate person who collects for my newspaper as my messenger to deliver premium to above office; (3) that policy will automatically expire if I fail to pay premium when due. Insurance does not cover persons who have lost both hands and feet, or the sight of both eyes.

☐ FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY — Send no money. Pay carrier 50c each month at the same time you pay for paper.
